County Board, GCCW At Odds Over Funding

Even after receiving an opinion on the issue from the Maryland Attorney General's office, the Garrett County Board of Commissioners and the Garrett County Commission for Women (GCCW), chaired by Phyllis Trickett, have yet to reach an agreement on whether or not the county board has the authority to fund the women's group.

In an interview this morning, Commissioner John Braskey stated that the GCCW founding legislation implies, but does not specifically state, that the county board can fund the GCCW. He explained that County Attorney Gorman "Mike" Getty has advised the board that the county must receive explicit legislative authorization before it can fund the GCCW.

Trickett has maintained throughout the debate that the county does have the authority to fund the GCCW.

In a recent letter to District IA Delegate George Edwards, Assistant Maryland Attorney General Richard E. Israel stated, "As Garrett County does not have home rule status . . . the board has only those powers which are expressly or impliedly conferred by statute."

Israel went on to re-state comments he made in a similar case involving another county in March of 1994.

"[The board of such a county does] not have the authority to expend public money as they deem appropriate but can only do so as expressly authorized or as impliedly necessary to carry out their express powers," Israel remarked.

"Although the board does not have express power to fund the commission," Israel added, "it has the implied power to expend public funds to carry out the express power of establishing the commission and 'taking any additional action concerning . . . [its] operation.' Ch. 100, Laws of Maryland, 1994."

The GCCW, formed by the commissioners in 1993 and included in the county code book in May of this year, had been funded in the past on a pay-as-you-go basis, with the county board paying the group's bills as they were submitted, Trickett explained in a recent interview. However, this funding was halted by the county in May, she added.

The legislation which formed the GCCW states, in part, "Members [of the GCCW] shall receive no compensation for their services to the commission,

JUST WHO WEARS THE PANTS IN THIS FAMILY? We're pretty sure it is usually the one on the left, but that conclusion is certainly debatable. THE HONORABLE CAT IN THE HAT??? Among those letting his hair(?) down and having a ball at the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department's annual Oktoberfest, held last Thursday evening at the fire hall, was Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer. Those in attendance were treated to live music by the OVFD's Oktoberfest Band, the opportunity for dancing, and plenty of food and beverages.

Mikulski Hears Concerns Of Commissioners

The closing of rural post offices and federal budget cuts were two of the top concerns expressed by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners during a recent meeting with Senator Barbara Mikulski in the Garrett County Courthouse.

Commissioner John Braskey told the senator that his biggest concern is "forthcoming federal cutbacks."

Mikulski replied that "everything is under the gun because of the desire to balance the budget." However, she added that she is calling on President Bill Clinton, Senator Robert Dole, and Representative Newt Gingrich to postpone their tax-cut plans until 1996, explaining that planned tax cuts may hurt programs such as Medicare and result in increased property taxes.

"Why cut medicare for tax breaks," she rhetorically asked during her meeting with the commissioners. She added that she does not want to see Social Security and healthcare programs cut to balance the budget.

The senator added that any future tax cuts should serve to keep the middle class from dropping into the lower class. She noted that currently proposed tax cuts may go to "Wall Street boys

Point System Reviewed For Fire, Rescue, EMS Volunteer Tax Break

Some local fire, rescue, and emergency medical services personnel may soon be eligible for a substantial tax incentive through a new piece of legislation passed by the Maryland General Assembly and signed into law by Governor Parris Glendening earlier this year.

A volunteer who meets the requirements outlined in the new law will be able to deduct $3,000 from his or her federal adjusted gross income on his or her Maryland income tax return.

However, before the new program can be put into effect, the Garrett County Board of Commissioners must approve the point system which will be used to determine which local volunteers are eligible for the tax break.

Pat Bowser of the Garrett County Fire and Rescue Association updated the Garrett County Board of Commissioners on the new legislation this week, and submitted a written copy of the proposed point system to the commissioners for their approval.

After some discussion, the commissioners stated that they will deliver the written plan to Garrett County Attorney Gorman "Mike" Getty for his review before voting on the proposed system.

During her meeting with the commissioners, Bowser explained that because Garrett County does not currently operate a Length of Service Award Program (LOSAP), it is necessary for the county to establish an alternate point system. The proposed point system, which was drafted by a committee of the Maryland State Firemen's Association (MSFA), was designed to apply equitably to large and small counties, Bowser stated in an interview yesterday.

The MSFA system would award points to volunteers for undergoing formal training, participating in drills, sleeping in the station or serving on stand-by, holding an elected position in the company or department, attending meetings, responding to alarms, or performing collateral duties.

This point system would be used to determine whether each volunteer has achieved "active status." For the purposes of the tax incentive program, a volunteer must earn a combined total of at least 50 points in at least two of the above categories to be rated as active.

To receive the tax incentive, a volunteer must 1) be a member of a recognized fire, rescue, or EMS company or department; 2) serve without compensation (except nominal expenses or meals); 3) have maintained active status for at least six of the past 10 years; and 4) qualify for active status during the taxable year.

Man Accused Of Assaulting Wife; Cutting Neighbor

An Oakland man turned himself in to police in Prince George's County Saturday, after allegedly assaulting his wife on Thursday and cutting a neighbor with a knife. Andrew D. Poling, 24, was then charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office with four counts of assault with intent to murder, four counts of assault, four counts of reckless endangerment, one count of battery, and one count of stabbing with intent to maim.

According to the police report, Poling arrived at his home on Bethlehem Road on the evening of Oct. 12 and began to argue with his wife, Ladona R. Poling. A neighbor heard the dispute and entered the home, where Poling was allegedly holding his wife up against a wall against her will. Mrs. Poling freed herself and fled to a neighbor's home, according to the report.

The defendant reportedly had two knives and tried to come after his wife, but was stopped by two neighbors, Earl Dawson and Bruce Miller. Miller wrestled with Poling and was cut on the right hand and arm. Poling then left the scene and was not located until the 14th

A Baltimore man died Sunday from injuries he received after falling approximately 25 feet from a collapsing tree stand. John Wayne Coberly, 52, was pronounced dead at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., several hours after the accident, which took place along Route 42 near Friendsville.

According to a report from the Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP), Coberly and his son were checking the tree stand prior to hunting season. At approximately 2:30 p.m. Sunday, the tree stand collapsed with both men standing on it. Coberly's son sustained minor injuries and was able to contact emergency rescue personnel as well as the NRP.

A Kempton woman was killed Tuesday morning in a two-vehicle collision on Rt. 93, near the Mount Storm (W.Va.) power plant.

Christina Lynne (Schoonmaker) Evans, 30, was pronounced dead at the scene of the 6:45 a.m. accident, according to officials from the Grant County (W.Va.) Sheriff's Department.

Evans was reportedly driving her 1989 Nissan Stanza east on Rt. 93, when her car was struck head-on by an eastbound pickup truck operated by Robert J. McKenzie, New Creek, W.Va. McKenzie's vehicle reportedly crossed the center line, police said. He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted for his injuries. He has since been discharged.

MML Conference Begins Today At Wisp; Glendening, Taylor To Be Guests

The governor of Maryland will make his second visit to Garrett County in less than week as he takes the podium Friday night at the Maryland Municipal League (MML) Conference, being held this weekend at Wisp Resort. The Town of Oakland is hosting the conference, which is bringing approximately 200 city and town leaders from across the state to Wisp today to begin the three-day event. The MML plans to develop the 1996 Legislative Program.

Included on the guest speaker list in addition to Governor Parris Glendening will be the Honorable Casper R. Taylor Jr., speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates. Taylor will be the featured speaker at a luncheon on Friday and Glendening is to deliver a short address at dinner on Friday evening.

The mayors, council members, city managers, and other municipal officials in attendance are expected to discuss a number of issues, including two that have been recommended by the MML Legislative Committee: increased funding or state aid for local police protection, and the issue of unfunded mandates.

In addition to the discussion of legislative priorities, workshops pertaining to municipal government operations will also be offered. Some issues to be covered are to include technology in municipal government, semi-annual payment of property taxes, how to conduct effective meetings, and modern water rate setting practices.

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain Jr. will offering welcoming remarks on Friday along with William Eckman, La Plata mayor; and Garrett County Commissioner John G. Braskey.

The MML is a non-profit, non-partisan association representing 151 city and town governments and four special taxing districts from throughout Maryland. MML works to strengthen the role and capacity of municipal government through a program of services that include legislative representation, research, training, and technical assistance. The league's headquarters are in Annapolis.

Locally, the towns of Accident, Mountain Lake Park, and Oakland will have representation at the conference this weekend.

MSP Recover Stolen Equip., Arrest Made

A Garrett County man was recently arrested and charged by the Maryland State Police with nine counts of theft, after he was found to be in possession of several pieces of heavy equipment, reportedly stolen from Howard and Baltimore counties.

According to Tfc. R.M. Hershberger, Randal Keith Wray, 42, of Potomac Camp Road, was arrested after police recovered a Cat 4x4 backhoe, a Vermeer directional boring machine, a Terramite miniature backhoe, a 1984 International truck, a Gehl skid steer loader, a Mustang power broom, and other small pieces of equipment, from his property. The total value of the items is more than $300,000.

According to the trooper's report, on Oct. 5, a local paving company bought a skid steer loader from Wray. It was learned the loader was stolen when it was taken for service. A further check of the situation revealed the additional equipment, resulting in his arrest.

Wray has since been released on bond.

Edwards Won't Accept Tobacco Lobby Donations

A group of 36 Maryland legislators, including District IA Delegate George Edwards, Grantsville, recently pledged not to accept campaign contributions from tobacco companies or their Annapolis lobbyists.

The legislators signed pledge forms bearing the following statement: "Out of concern and compassion for my constituents, the 20,000 young people in Maryland that begin smoking each year, and the 7,000 Marylanders that needlessly die each year due to tobacco-related discase . . . I hereby pledge to do the following: I will not accept campaign contributions, favors, nor gifts from the tobacco industry and its lobbyists."

The pledges were signed on May 1, World No Tobacco Day, but were only recently released.

"By signing the pledges, legislators signaled that tobacco companies' vice-grip over state politics in Maryland has come to an end," commented a representative of Smoke Free Maryland (SFM), the group which distributed the pledge forms to elected officials.

"These legislators are telling tobacco companies that the Maryland General Assembly is not for sale to the highest bidder," stated SFM President Eric Gally. "No longer can tobacco merchants count on legislators turning a blind eye while they hook our children on nicotine and try to deny non-smokers their rights."

Gally said that legislators had taken a bold step by refusing a large source of campaign funding.

"Politicians rely on campaign funding to sustain their careers," remarked Gally. "Telling these big money donors their money isn't welcome is not a decision to be made lightly. That's why we applaud these people for saying, 'This isn't right and I won't be any part of it.'"

Smoke Free Maryland is comprised of dozens of public health, advocacy, parent, church, and youth groups, an SFM spokesperson stated.

At a recent public ceremony held in honor of the legislators who signed the pledge, speakers included representatives of the Maryland Affiliate of the American Heart Association, the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society, the American Lung Association of Maryland, and the League of Women Voters of Maryland.

According to a spokesperson, the TFC "seeks to reduce the toll of tobacco-related death and disease in Maryland by advocating laws that make it more difficult to sell tobacco to children, increase the state excise tax on tobacco products, and protect the rights of the public to clean indoor air."

LOCAL COAL COMPANIES AWARDED - Two local coal companies, Mettiki and Buffalo coal corporations, were among four Maryland Coal Association companies to receive Governor's Citations for their leadership roles in the state's coal industry. Secretary of State John Willis presented the citations on behalf of Governor Parris Glendenning at the coal association's awards banquet, held recently at Wisp Resort. Shown left to right are awards recipients Scott Rotruck of Anker Energy Corp., Bill Llewellyn of Llewellyn and Associates, Willis, Jim Ashby of Mettiki, and Denny Dolacek of Buffalo Coal. The John Duckworth Coal Company, Frostburg, was presented that evening with the Maryland Department of the Environment Reclamation Award.

Stemple noted that October is "Arts & Humanities Month" in Maryland, with over 300 commemorative events and activities planned throughout the state. It is also during this time that the senate and congress are finalizing the budgets for the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

A newsletter from Maryland Citizens for the Arts states, "Nationwide, hundreds of arts and humanities groups will unite to show America their strength in reaching every citizen and their importance in preserving our cultural heritage for future generations."

BOE To Hold Special Session This Afternoon

The Garrett County Board of Education will meet in special session this afternoon at 4:30 p.m. to discuss Wellness Day activities at Northern High School. Wellness Day is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 25, and is a day of special activities and classes for the students of the school.

According to reports, at least three board members became "concerned" about certain topics that will be offered to the students during the event and asked to have a special meeting to discuss the issue. This is the school's third annual Wellness Day, arranged and planned by students, administration of the school, and parent volunteers.

An array of seminars are available for students to take, and they may choose four seminars. According to reports, some board members are troubled by topics such as astrology, massage therapy, and acupuncture.

"There is a reason why horoscopes appear on comic pages," said Martin Green, principal of Northern. "This is just one of the topics for entertainment - that's all it is. The kids have fun with it."

Green reported that since the special meeting has been called, he has received numerous phone calls in support of the Wellness Day. He also received a letter of support from Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey, who is a member of Northern's School Improvement Team.

"I have heard nothing negative about it," he said. The school has received two Governor's Citations for the Wellness Day event, Green reported. It will be in conjunction with Red Ribbon Week with the main focus being on avoiding drugs and alcohol.

DNR Seeking Help In Finding Forest Arsonists

Ten significant woods fires in western Allegany County and eastern Garrett County this fall have been attributed to arson, according to a recent release from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Forest Service. A rash of arson fires have been under investigation by DNR forest rangers since January, with a reported 44 incidents of fire since that time. The forest service has issued a plea to the public to help apprehend the person or persons responsible for the crimes.

Forestry officials report that they are concerned not only about the loss of the natural resource, but also about the danger to humans and property.

Forest fire arson is a serious crime, the service reported. Starting a forest fire through negligence is a misdemeanor and the responsible person can be fined up to $120 for a first-time offense. Malicious forest fire arson is punishable by a $2,000 fine and/or five years of imprisonment. Responsible persons are also liable to the state and county for the full amount of expenses incurred through fighting and extinguishing the fire.

Any person in the vicinity of the occurring arson fires who has seen anything unusual is urged to contact the DNR forest service at one of the following numbers: 334-3296 or 301-777-2137. Persons may also notify the Maryland Fire Marshal's Office at 800-492-7592, or the Garrett County Crime Solvers at 334-1975.

GCC Seeking Funding For Parking Lot

At the request of Garrett Community College President Dr. Steve Herman, the Garrett County Board of Commissioners have petitioned the Maryland Higher Education Commission for a grant of $79,003 to fund work on parking facilities at the college.

If the grant is awarded, the commissioners will provide matching funds totalling 30 percent of the project cost. On the drawing board at the college are the installation of a new lighting system to illuminate parking areas, the repair of cracks in existing parking lots, the paving of a new section of parking lot, and parking lot striping.

• According to the petition, which was signed by all three commissioners, "The General Assembly of Maryland has enacted various community college construction loan acts that provide state funds to assist the counties . . .

"A petition to participate in the financial assistance provided in the acts must be filed by the county commissioners with the Maryland Higher Education Commission . . .

"The county commissioners of Garrett county shall provide all the remaining funds necessary to complete the described project even if the Board of Public Works approves a grant which is less than the amount requested by this petition."

Following the parade, the public is invited to stop by the fire hall to participate in games, and cake walks, and sample the food that will be available. A 25-inch color TV will be raffled during the evening's activities.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Oakland VFD.

Former Oakland Woman Convicted In District Court Of Theft, Fraud

Among the numerous cases heard in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings was one involving a former Oakland resident who was convicted of two counts of misdemeanor theft, one count of theft scheming, and one count of welfare fraud.

Patricia A. Griffith, who currently lives in Monessan, Pa., pleaded not guilty to the one of the theft charges, and one count of theft scheming, but confessed to the other charge of petty theft, as well as the fraud charge. She was sentenced by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett to a total of six years in the Maryland Department of Corrections, but all of the sentence was suspended except for three and one-half years.

She was also placed on two years of supervised probation upon her release from incarceration. Conditions of her probation state she must attend and successfully complete a General Education Development (GED) course, and submit to evaluation and counseling for psychiatric or psychological treatment.

According to district court records, the first theft occurred on Oct. 27, 1994, when Griffith and an accomplice stole a microwave oven from the home of Betty DeWitt, Swanton, and then tried to sell the oven to Don Nine at Oakland's This 'n That Store. The second theft involved a child support check belonging to Mary Murchino. Griffith reportedly stole the check from Murchino's mailbox, forged her name on the back, and cashed it. The defendant was ordered to make $40 restitution to the victim. Additional charges of forgery of private documents, and uttering were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

In the case involving welfare fraud, district court records, between Aug. 4, and Nov. 30, 1994, Griffith violated welfare regulations by failing to report that she was receiving public assistance benefits from Uniontown, Pa., while still receiving benefits from Garrett County. She reportedly received $1,509 in public assistance, as well as $1,402 in food stamps (for a total of $2,911), for which she was not entitled. An investigation was conducted into the matter after a complaint was filed by the Garrett County Social Services Department in Oakland. Additional charges stemming from this incident included giving a false statement to an official, theft of items valued at more than $300, theft scheming, and one additional count of welfare fraud. None of these charges were prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

The theft scheming conviction resulted from Griffith's unauthorized use of a phone card owned by Vicki Thayer. The card was used between Sept. 27, and Oct. 3, 1994, resulting in $134.39 worth of phone calls. Griffith was also charged with receiving a credit card unlawfully, and using a credit card belonging to another, as well as one count of petty theft. None of these charges were prosecuted by the state's attorney.

One additional charge of petty theft, filed against Griffith, and brought before Judge Burnett in last week's court proceedings, brought a "not guilty" verdict. She had been accused of stealing a set of cymbals, valued at $60, from Matthew Stieringer, Swanton.

In other district court news, a pre-sentence investigation was ordered for a McHenry man who was found guilty on Sept. 25 of one count of uttering a false document, and one count of petty theft. Edward R. Shuttleworth, 30, who pleaded not guilty to the charges, will be sentenced following the completion of the investigation.

Shuttleworth was charged with the offense after he altered the value of a check from 159.95 to $259.95, and then cashed it at Arrowhead Market for the altered amount. The check was later returned to the establishment because of the altered amount, and the charges resulted.

In a separate case, two counts of uttering false documents, filed against Shuttleworth, were placed on the stet docket. These charges also stemmed from the altering of two checks (one from $548.72 to $1,548.72, and one from $88.66 to $388.66). Each of the checks were, however, cashed for the original amounts.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Randy L. Lantz, 38, Oakland, who was convicted of two counts of battery. Two counts of child abuse, however, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

Lantz was charged with the offenses on Sept. 4, after he struck a 16-year-old female, on two separate occasions.

John W. Pilkerton, 20, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of child abuse, and one count of battery, because of insufficient evidence. The charges, filed on Aug. 22, by Crystal Shiflett, Lewisburg, Ohio, involved the reported abuse a 15-month-old child.

One count each of theft of an item valued at more than $300, filed against Stephen T. Keim, 22, and Jeffrey R. Hewitt, 23, both of Morgantown, W.Va., were placed on the stet docket. The charge stemmed from an April 3 incident, when the two were stopped by Maryland State Police for speeding, and subsequently found to be in possession of two tanks containing nitrous oxide, valued at $185 each, that were discovered to be stolen.

Robert P. Thomas, 35, Accident, pleaded guilty to one count of CDS possession. He was handed a 30-day jail term, with all of the sentence suspended except 48 hours. He was also fined $150, and placed on one year of supervised probation. One count of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted. Conditions of his probation state he must complete 50 hours of community service, attend a 26-week alcohol treatment program, and attend addictions counseling. A one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license.

The charge against Thomas stemmed from his May 7 arrest by Maryland State Police, who had initially stopped him on a DWI (driving while intoxicated) charge. A subsequent search of the vehicle revealed a baggie containing marijuana, and a smoking device containing marijuana residue.

Scott D. Magley, 23, Mt. Airy, Ga., was granted probation before judgement on one count of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). He was fined $350, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation for the offense. A charge of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office. Magley had been arrested for the offense on June 29 in the Sang Run area, by DNR Officer K.E. Christensen. A knapsack containing marijuana and drug paraphernalia was located, and the defendant reportedly admitted it belonged to him.

Another Special Meeting...

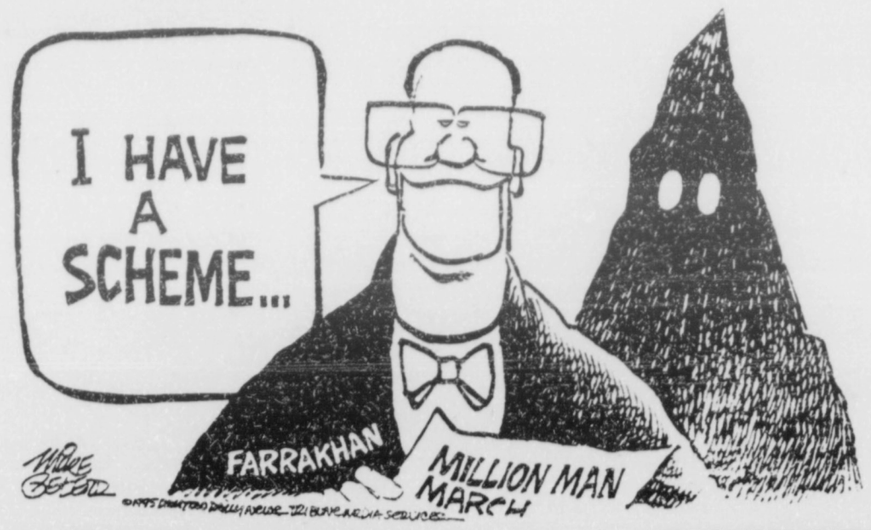
The micro-management and outrageous behavior of certain members of our elected school board continues, as a special meeting of the board (another one) has been called for 4:30 this afternoon to discuss one member's concerns about a Wellness Day program slated to be held at Northern High School next Wednesday. The program, which is in its third year at Northern and has received two governor's citations for excellence, has been a joint effort of students, parents, and school administration through the SIT (school improvement team).

Board member Pat Riley, and apparently at least two others, have called for the meeting because of "discomfort" with several of the seminars/sessions that are to be presented at the event. Riley is apparently insistent that a session on astrology be removed, calling it the product of an occult, and he is evidently uncomfortable with planned presentations on herbs, acupuncture, and adolescent child rearing, for which a young unwed mother is going to tell of the difficulties she faced with this situation.

The words and actions of Riley and, unfortunately, the majority of the members of the present board continue to be destructive. They are suspicious and question, in a most negative way, every action of our educators. Instead of supporting our teachers and administrators, many of whom are outstanding, and giving them deserved credit for their education and experience, they distrust and intimidate them at every turn with their superior, holier-than-thou attitude which, frankly, sickens us. The board members, not one of whom has a degree in education (most have no degree whatsoever), still don't understand their role on the elected board.

In fact, according to the Maryland State Board of Education, it is totally inappropriate for Riley to call such a meeting since Martin Green, principal at Northern, has followed the established policy for such programming at his school. It is the board's job to establish policy; if Riley has a problem with the policy, then it should be addressed directly by the entire board and not via an attack on a particular event that has been planned in accordance with present policy. It is completely out of line for him as an individual board member to single out a specific staff person, in this case Mr. Green, and challenge him on a particular issue or program at his school.

We certainly hope that the citizenry of Garrett County will not allow another election to come and go without making sure there are several competent people on the board of education ballot. The deadline to do so for the 1996 election, at which there will be two at-large seats in the running, is in December of this year, so there is not much time left.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On Friday, October 20, at 7:30 p.m., Southern and Fort Hill will play a football game. Here is an opportunity for the Southern Garrett community to show their support. For one evening, let's put aside politics and the worries of the world and show support like never before for our football team. Let's prove to Cumberland that not only do we have an excellent team, but our community support is unrivaled. When Fort Hill enters Garrett County, let them unmistakenably know they are in Ram country, by showing our school's colors throughout Southern Garrett County. Let's fill Southern's stadium to the absolute capacity.

Go Southern! Beat Fort Hill!

To the Editor:

People attending the Autumn Glory feature parade Saturday got an extra bonus. Soon after 3 p.m. and the end of the parade, a very famous WWII B-24 Liberator bomber flew over the area at a low altitude of 500 feet or less. The aircraft made several passes so that everyone might get a glimpse of it.

After the B-24 moved away on its way to the Morgantown, W.Va., airport, and about 10 minutes later, another famous WWII B-17 Flying Fortress appeared in the sky over Oakland. This aircraft also made quite a few passes at a very low altitude, giving a beautiful view to all.

These two aircraft were the only heavy bombers used during the first part of WWII by the U.S. Army Air Force. The B-29 Super Fortress joined operations during the later part of 1944 and 1945.

How did our little town of Oakland become so lucky to have such beautiful and famous bombers put on such a wonderful show overhead? Most any town or city in the USA would love to be so lucky and fortunate!

Everyone who enjoyed the show as much as I did should give credit to Irving M. Day. Irving is a summer resident of Deep Creek Lake and a former B-24 bombardier during WWII. He was shot down in April 1944 after having flown 23 missions over enemy occupied Europe. Irving and all of his crew members bailed out and were captured by the enemy. He spent the remainder of the war until May 1945 in a German PW camp.

Through his association with the Collings Foundation, he was able to have these planes fly over the Oakland area while so many people were on hand viewing the parade. A very small crew fly and maintain both of these planes. They fly all over the USA for showings and display to the public. Very few cities where they are showing or have shown will be afforded the extra effort of the superb showing put on by these dedicated crew members over our little town of Oakland.

Over 120,000 American AAF crewmen were killed or wounded in raids by these planes with losses on some missions as high as 80 percent. The loss of men and aircraft on many single missions during WWII was greater than the American losses during the entire Desert Storm war.

So thanks to the crewmen of the B-17 "Nine-O-Nine" and the B-24 "All-American" for a wonderful fly-over, even though the weather did not cooperate.

We all owe Irving Day a super big "thank you" for bringing to our area two famous (over 50 years old) war birds, still flying, might never ever happen around here again. Thanks "Irv."

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the three boys who were so kind to help me Friday the 13th in the parking lot at Foodland. They left before I could thank them and I do not know their names.

I went grocery shopping and when I came out I was in a hurry and I put my groceries in the trunk, and set my pocket book on a box also in the trunk. Not realizing my pocket book was there because usually I put it on the front seat while loading my groceries, I accidently shut the lid before I knew what happened.

These boys took the time, and I'm sure they were busy, to help a person in trouble. That's very rare in these times we live in. I want to say Foodland can be proud that they have such boys working for them. It makes a difference where you shop when there is kindness and thoughtfulness to us senior citizens.

Thank you again for going out of your way to help me.

To the Editor:

An article appeared in the September 7 edition of The Republican noting that the county school food service had received national recognition. In this instance, the Garrett County Board of Education adopted the policy for Nutrition Integrity of the Food Service Association.

The focus on improvements to the nutrition in the food service program has been a cumulative effort over the span of the last 10 years by many individuals. As a former member of the Board of Education, I served on various work groups with these individuals. I have seen these people give their time and efforts to provide the interest and momentum that have guided the positive changes to benefit the school children of Garrett County. These individuals, as well as the food service staff and teachers and principals in the school systems, have supported these changes by their work efforts.

The following individuals, as well as Richard Buckingham, the food service cafeteria staff, teachers, and administrators need to be recognized: Debbie Barnard, Hilda Claycomb, Larry Schroyer, Mary Frantz, Hannah Sincell, Charlotte Sebold, Carol Bass, Sharon Teets, Lynn McDaniel, Wendy Friend, Madeline Collins, Francis Kenna-Schenk, Jennifer Thorne, Dorothy Simpson, and Michelle Zolner. I have tried to be inclusive with this list; if I have missed someone, I apologize for the oversight.

Sincerely,
Mikal R. McCartney

To the Editor:

Just in case you citizenry of Garrett County haven't heard yet what your Board of Education is up to this fall, they have decided to rewrite the Garrett County Board of Education Goals. (Only some of these goals are so specific they look like classroom objectives!) You remember how last fall the big brouhaha was over OBE, well this year it appears it might be phonics, and it's being brought to you by all those statistics in California! Yes, it seems that since California has failed to educate their population so abysmally, the nation must change its approach to reading education in order to avoid the same pitfalls. The reason that California has done so horribly is that they don't have an "intense systematic phonics based approach" to teaching reading. Once again, Garrett County is going to fall prey to right extremists who employ sensational scare tactics that only serve to divide our ordinarily gentle and caring community.

Last Tuesday, October 10, a handful of concerned Board employees and individuals exerted enough pressure to have these new goals tabled until the regularly-scheduled November meeting. It is critical that our professionally-trained educators help to create the goals by which they teach, so therefore, it is really important for educators and all concerned individuals to get a copy of the goals, review them, and make your opinions known to the Board members. Equally influential would be your attendance at the monthly Board of Education meetings, scheduled for the second tuesday of every month.

Well, here we go again...

Peace,
Gloria Salazar
Oakland

P.S. Food for thought: Dr. Ryscavage's goals were, of course, not acceptable to all of our Board members.

To the Editor:

Following confirmation by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Division that two sheep were killed by a black bear at the Lee Shillingburg property in southern Garrett County on October 3, DNR with the assistance of Ernest Schrock and his dogs chased the offending black bear sow and her three cubs up a tree. They were sedated. The sow had a prior nuisance history and was euthanized by DNR wildlife personnel.

Patty Manown, of the DNR Public Communications Office said this was consistent with existing policy and remarked, "Handling nuisance bear problems effectively and professionally is an important aspect of Maryland's black bear management program." DNR has held Black Bear Task Force meetings, and a public meeting is planned November 2 before finalizing Black Bear Depredation Policy. The Republican 10-5-95.

On a rainy Saturday night late last month in Conifer, Colo., Karl Mayne shot and killed a 250-pound mother bear and her two cubs that had cowered Jeannie Flavin and her three small children, banging repeatedly on the sliding glass door leading to the living room of their remote hilltop house. Their $150,000 alpaca herd was unscathed, and, as he drove down the dirt road to his own log cabin home, neighbor Mayne saw himself as a hero in a cowboy hat who had helped a neighbor in distress.

Not so. The state wildlife office switchboard in Denver received 250 calls, the largest number on any issue in memory, virtually all criticizing Mr. Mayne's actions. District Attorney Frank Oldham of Jefferson County is considering charges of reckless endangerment and illegal taking of wildlife. Mr. Mayne received so many death threats that he has changed his telephone number. As leader of the Conifer 4-H Club he listed seven sheep, two goats, one pig, one llama, five geese, and 24 chickens killed this summer by bears.

In 1992 Colorado bear lovers flexed their political muscle by obtaining a 2-to-1 approval of a measure that ended Colorado's spring bear hunting season and banned the use of bait or dogs during the 50-day fall hunting season. Encounters with black bears has been so common that the State Wildlife Division adopted a new pink sheet complaint form stamped, "Bear-Human Conflict Form." One report filed read, "Bear tore car apart looking for the remains of toasted cheese sandwich."

To the Editor:

At last, an elected official has found the strength to stand up and demand that the powerful tobacco industry be regulated. For 30 years, this industry has lied about policing itself, acting illegally and unethically, as our families and friends have become addicted to nicotine (many at a very young age), become sick with cancer and heart disease, and die from using its products.

President Clinton recently proposed giving the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulatory authority over tobacco. The key elements of this authority would include:

* Reducing the illegal sale of tobacco to minors by requiring merchants to check for identification and eliminating cigarette vending machines, mail order coupons, free samples, self-service displays, and marketing of "kiddie packs" with fewer than 20 cigarettes;

* Reducing advertising that influences young people to use tobacco products by prohibiting billboards within 1,000 feet of schools and playgrounds, restricting advertising in magazines that minors read, limiting the type of advertisements displayed and banning images such as Joe Camel;

* Ending cigarette brand sponsorship of sporting and cultural events by allowing tobacco companies to sponsor such events only under corporate names, not brand names;

* Prohibiting the distribution of non-tobacco products, such as T-shirts and gym bags, with tobacco product advertising; and

* Initiating a $150 million health education campaign to be funded by the tobacco industry.

In response to the president's proposed regulations to reduce youth smoking, the industry leaders' attack appears to be threefold:

First, they challenge the regulations in court, filing suit to block the FDA from taking action and promising to regulate themselves;

Next, claiming it will be faster than the regulations, they get members of congress to substitute legislation for the proposed regulations--a weak substitute that sounds good, but won't do anything. They will lobby key members of congress and continue their practice of filling candidate coffers with campaign contributions--$16 million over the past decade according to the awareness group in fact;

Finally, they cry that democracy is being undermined and the choices of individual adults are being taken away. As the industry currently spends $6 billion a year on tobacco advertising and promotion targeting our youth, it's as if they have a constitutional right to unlimited profit at the expense of the lives of these children.

For the first time, a sitting U.S. president has identified tobacco industry behavior as a key element in creating adolescent demand for tobacco products and has proposed effective actions for regulating those behaviors. These steps, if implemented and sustained, will go a long way toward helping to stop teenage addiction to tobacco.

Despite all of the health facts, the tobacco industry has been successful in convincing 3,000 teens to start using its products every day. What does this mean in Garrett County? Approximately 25 percent of our county high school students report smoking within the last 30 days. Concerns can be voiced through the White House comment line at 202-456-1111. Help push these FDA regulations through today.

To the Editor:

As a former knee-jerk Democrat who left the Party when the far-Left took it over completely in the mid '70's, I had been at a loss to understand why it, and its elite media groupies, would step off the 1996 presidential election cliff with a loser like Bill Clinton. Now I think I know!

While doing research for a new novel, I read Martin Malia's, The Soviet Tragedy - A History of Socialism in Russia, 1917-1991. From deep within that worthy tome I suddenly realized the answer to the above anomaly has nothing to do with the survival of the Clintons, and everything to do with protecting the matrices of stealth-socialism, and the insatiable Leviathans they have spawned.

Conservatism, though rocked, easily survived Watergate and actually came back stronger because of its open agenda. It is doubtful that in the "Informative Age," an ideology based on stealth and subterfuge, and a 19th century paradigm, can survive a similar catastrophic conclusion to Clintongate.

While Russia suffered a viral strain of revolutionary socialism, as Mr. Malia documents in his book; that even required a new name, communism, 15 years later we embarked down the road of revolutionary socialism with FDR's "New Deal" and then LBJ's "Great Society," from which we are just now, 60-odd years later, in a tenuous state of recovery.

Mr. Malia's preface begins:

For much of its history Communist Russia was perceived by the outside world to be, in Winston Churchill's famous characterization, a "riddle, wrapped in a mystery, inside an enigma." This verdict was later modified by an American ambassador to Moscow to yield the judgement that "Soviet Russia is not a mystery; it is only a secret." With the collapse of 1989-1991, the world that Lenin and Stalin built was no longer even a secret. The intimate record of 74 years of utopian [my emphasis] experimentation is an open book for all to read.

There is no "utopia" on this earth. Marx used the concept as a goal to exhort the masses, and as a substitute for religion; but even he knew it was unattainable. Democrats, with their feel-good, misdirected good intentions have been working diligently for 60 years on an implausibly flawed dream. After horrendous failures, most continue to view socialism as the highest stage of democracy! In league with the elite media, and supported by a duplicitous academia (where all good Lefties go to prosper and die), Democrats in the congress are impervious to facts and have turned into a party of charlatans and demagogic liars, violently reluctant to give up power even though grossly inept in its utilization.

Shifting Gears In October

When the mercury climbed above 90% at our place last week I wondered what the message was. After the hottest summer anybody admitted to remembering, so far we have had as warm a fall as I can ever recall. The first half of October came and went without so much as a teasing frost here. Two years ago we had a killing frost the first day of the month and two more by the middle of the month. In the mountains the temperatures drop lower sooner than they do on the Piedmont plateau, but it has been unseasonably warm by everyone's measure.

Temperatures have been belied by the shortness of the day. Dawn after 7 a.m. and dusk before 7 p.m. signals that, however bright, the seasons have changed. This week we have had cooler weather that reminds us further of the destination in this metamorphosis. We are headed for winter.

I hope I am not too unlike other householders in that I have a long list of things that need doing before temperatures plummet below freezing and the snow flies. There are vehicles that need winterizing, and firewood that needs splitting and stacking. There is yardwork that needs doing, actually more than during the dry parts of summer. The grass is lush and green in a way that it hasn't been since June. Leaves have begun to fall, though without first giving the glorious display we look forward to at this time of year.

There is a garden full of produce to be put by in one form or another. Four different varieties of winter squash need some hardening by the sun while they sit under the protective roof of the porch before being stored under a bed upstairs. Tomatoes have continued to yield nicely, though my thoughts turn now to green tomato relish or some other secondary use for the bountiful remains. Fall kahl crops, beets and turnips are just starting to get really good.

My big job this fall is to paint exterior windows in the old parts of the house. The glass rattles in some of the sashes. The frames have as much bare as painted spots by now. It has been too long since they were last painted, long enough ago that I am embarrassed to commit the figure to print. I have a suitable set of clothes for this work. People often ask me if I have been painting when I wear my old clothes. I am not a skilled painter, which makes me look as if I did that kind of work much more often than I do.

It is not that I mind painting. The work itself is peaceful enough, but it is an easy job to put off. Year yields unto year. Once the peeled paint reaches a certain point it can't really look much worse than it does. What has put the pressure on me this autumn is that I had the old parts of the house stuccoed earlier this year so the unpainted windows stand out. Last fall everything looked like Sam Hill so the windows didn't seem so bad. This year is a different story.

As a result of my current labors the panes of glass may remain in the sash. Who knows? Maybe the winds will be kept out a little more this coming winter than they were last winter. For sure, the house will present a handsomer face to the world for the sake of a little paint.

One casualty of the painting is that I have had to stand in my wife's flower beds. She has had wonderful flowers this year. In a way the flowers make the place look lived in and loved in a way that few others things can achieve. To date, my wife's pleasure in fresh paint has more than covered the sin of downtrodden flowers

We are battening down the hatches. We may have any kind of winter, fierce like that of '93-'94, mild like last winter, or even something in between which we would call normal if it weren't such an unusual event. Fall is here, and winter is coming. On every front we make ourselves and our home ready.

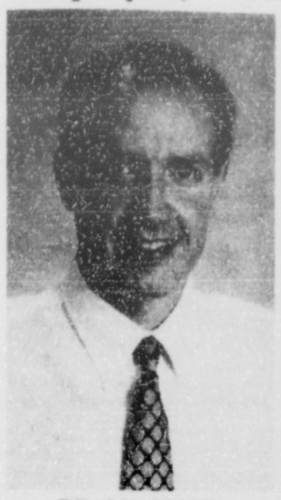
Garrett County BPW Names Employer, Woman Of The Year



DR. J.V. JONES, EMPLOYER OF YEAR

WILMA CALHOUN, WOMAN OF THE YEAR

The Garrett County Business and Professional Women's (BPW) organization has recognized two individuals for their contributions to their community. In honor of National Business Women's Week, Oct. 15-21, the local organization has named its Woman of the Year, Wilma Calhoun, and Employer of the Year, Dr. J.V. Jones, optometrist, of the Oakland Vision Group, Thayer Center, Oakland.

A long-standing member of the Garrett County BPW, Calhoun is being honored today by the club, and will be recognized again on Saturday, Oct. 21, by Governor Parris Glendening in Annapolis. A member of the BPW since 1947, she has served in every office, and on every committee in the organization, including being its president in 1966-67.

Calhoun is the former proprietor of the old Cee Dee Restaurant. She began her days at 5 a.m., serving breakfast, lunch and dinner to many area residents over the years. She now devotes much of her time to BPW projects. She is also involved with the Southern Garrett County Republican's Club, the Heart Fund, Loar Auxiliary, and various other community projects.

Dr. Jones has practiced his profession for 16 years, and offers optical services, including pediatric eye care, low vision rehabilitation, and vision-related learning problems.

He employs eight females in his business, and his only manager is also a woman. He provides opportunities for promotion, and further training, often sending his employees to Chicago or New York at his own expense. Dr. Jones is a graduate of Southern High School, did his undergraduate studies at Johns Hopkins University, and is a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Optometry.

Jones was nominated for the honor by his office manager, Sheila Strawser.

Financial Aid Planning - Parental Assets

The maximum assessment on parental assets is about 6% in the federal formula. What are those assets? You include all cash savings, value of stocks, bonds, mutual funds, real estate you own, as well as the net value of a business or a farm that you have an interest in. The equity in your personal residence, as well as a family farm upon which the family resides is not an accessable asset for federal financal aid. However most colleges and universities that offer aid are not excluding these from assessment when determining institutional aid eligibility. Excluded assets for federal purposes are pension funds, IRA's, TSA's, Keogh's, 401k's, annuities and the value of life insurance policies.

Sen. Mikulski Appears On Local TV Show

During a recent visit to Garrett County, Senator Barbara Mikulski appeared as a guest on "Garrett County Forum," a television program which airs three times each week on SRW cable channel 3.

During the recent episode, Mikulski reportedly discussed the possibility of expanding U.S. Route 219, encouraging business and tourism growth in the county, and the possible local impact of proposed welfare and medicare reform bills.

"Garrett County Forum," which is hosted by Kam and Wayne Gillespie, Deep Creek Lake, has been on the air for three months and will be available to Oakland residents by December, a show spokesperson stated.

Circuit Court Cases Involve Drugs, Alcohol

Charges of illegal drug possession and alcohol-related traffic violations were among those faced by three men in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided over the proceedings.

A 45-year-old Swanton man pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, and the judge accepted the plea. Kenneth T. McConnell Jr. had originally been charged with additional violations, including two counts of marijuana possession and conspiracy, but these charges were not prosecuted by order of the state's attorney.

Thayer ordered a presentence investigation for McConnell and continued bail for the defendant.

The charges were incurred by McConnell following a May 26 police search of his Bittinger Road home. Officers of the drug enforcement division of the Maryland State Police reportedly found an "indoor growing operation" with drying marijuana, grow lights, pipes, other paraphernalia, and a book describing how to grow marijuana, among other items.

An Oakland man pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled dangerous substance and was sentenced to five days in the Garrett County Jail. Terry A. Tasker, 33, was arrested by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy in January for driving while intoxicated. According to the police report, a routine search of the defendant revealed a baggie of marijuana.

The DWI charge against Tasker was not prosecuted by order of the state's attorney.

An Oakland man was fined $500 after pleading guilty to DWI and DUI (driving while under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol). Michael A. Harsh, 29, was also given a 30-day suspended jail sentence and will be on one year of supervised probation.

Harsh was arrested on July 30, 1994, on Dilly Road by a sheriff's deputy.

LOCAL SCHOOLS HONORED BY STATE - Four area schools received state-wide recognition recently at the annual conference of the Maryland Education Coalition. The MEC identified and presented awards to 39 elementary, middle, and high schools making significant progress on state standards as part of the Maryland School Performance Program. Local schools honored were Bloomington School, Northern Middle School, and the Friendsville and Route 40 elementary schools. Several representatives of these schools were able to attend the conference, which was titled Schools of Tomorrow: Creating a Plan for Change. Shown above, left to right, are Rt. 40 Elementary School representatives Robert DeVore, PTA president; Patrick Delaney, principal; and Dorothy Minick, teacher. Above right are Bloomington School teacher Rebecca Shook and Principal Douglas Gaither. Shown below from left are Friendsville representatives Connie Higgins and Debra DeWitt, teachers; Gary Galloway, principal; and Joan Whetsell, teacher. The conference was for families, students, community and business leaders, and educators who wish to create public schools that will be viable and successful well into the 21st century, according to Dr. Brenda McCartney, Garrett County director of elementary education.

North Hagerstown Wins First In SHS Band Contest

Despite cold winds and almost constant rain, eight high school marching groups took part in Southern Garrett Marching Band's Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, held Saturday at the school's athletic field. North Hagerstown High School took top honors with a score of 90.45 in Group IV. The Hagerstown group was also awarded the trophy for the Best Western Maryland Band.

Northern Garrett marched unchallenged in Group I, as did Frankfort High School in Group II. The specialty awards in each group were therefore awarded to the two bands. Northern garnered a score of 73.65, and Frankfort ended with 75.1.

Allegany High School was up against Philip Barbour in Group III, and easily defeated the competition with a score of 86.4 to Philip Barbour's 75.6. Allegany took specialty awards in best band front, percussion, marching & maneuvering, and music, while Philip Barbour received the trophy for best drum major.

Coming in second place in Group IV behind North Hagerstown was Keyser High School with a score of 88.6. Preston High took third with 79.85, followed by the Fort Hill marchers who scored 76.6. Hagerstown was given all specialty awards except for best drum major, which went to Keyser. Keyser's drum major also received the best overall trophy, and North Hagerstown was honored for best overall music.

when he turned himself in to police in Prince George's County, according to the report. He has since been released from jail, according to an office spokesperson.

A 32-year-old man has been arrested and charged with fourth degree sexual offense. Edward R. Martinez, Oakland, is accused of engaging in sexual intercourse with a 15-year-old female on at least three occasions. The victim in the case told officers that there was no violence or force involved in the incidents, and that the two were dating at the time. The offense allegedly took place in August and September.

Officers arrested an Oakland man on several traffic violations. Kenneth W. Hawkins, 28, was seen driving by an officer who knew the defendant to have a revoked license. He was stopped and cited for driving revoked, operating an unregistered and uninsured vehicle, and violated an alcohol restriction.

The arrest took place on Oct. 15 at 4 p.m., according to the report.

Two bench warrants were issued for the arrest of Timothy A. Whitacre, 34, Oakland. He is accused of failing to appear in court.

Michael A. DeWitt, 22, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to appear in court, according to the police report.

James B. Thomas, 24, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant. He is accused of failing to make a court-ordered payment.

Thefts Noted

An Oakland woman reported the apparent theft of a charcoal grill and hamburger, Delmonico steaks, and chicken. Susan Crossland, Oakland, told officers that she noticed that her grill was missing from her porch on Oct. 7, and when she checked the freezer for meat she had stored there, she discovered that it had been stolen as well.

The loss is estimated to be $280. There is a suspect in the case, according to the report.

In a separate incident, an Oakland man reported the theft of a bicycle. Guy D. Joseph told police that his 10-speed black and green bike was stolen from his Rt. 39 residence. It is worth $300, the report indicated.

Parent/Infant Class To Meet

The Garrett County Health Department's monthly parent and infant support class will meet Monday, Oct. 23 from 10 a.m. to noon in the community services building located next to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland.

Woman Convicted

One count of malicious destruction of property, filed against Michael Dever, 23, Oakland, was placed on the stet docket, at the request of the victim, Charles G. Fink. The charge was filed on May 29, after Dever reportedly struck Fink's vehicle during an argument.

DNR CASES

Richard N. Corley, 53, Acme, Pa., pleaded guilty to operating a boat under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, and one count of negligent operation of a motor boat. He was granted probation before judgment for the first offense, and fined $120. The guilty verdict for the second charge resulted in a $70 fine He was also placed on one year of unsupervised probation. The charge stemmed from his Sept. 4 arrest on Deep Creek Lake, by DNR Officer J. Milbourne.

A Columbus, Ohio, man was fined $500 after he was found guilty of fishing without a valid Maryland fishing license.

Convicted of that offense was Murray C. Friedman, 34, who also had one count of giving a false statement to an officer, filed against him, dismissed by the judge.

The charges against Friedman were filed by DNR Officer James Clise after he saw the defendant fishing in the McHenry Cove area of Deep Creek Lake. District court records indicate Friedman showed the officer a 1994 fishing license that was issued to another person. When asked for a '95 license, he claimed he didn't have one, nor did he have any identification. He told the officer he did have a Ohio driver's license, and that his name was "Craig Charles Murray."

When Clise checked through the Department of Motor Vehicles for verification of Friedman's name, the report came back that no such name was on file. The defendant then reportedly told the officer he was traveling with a friend, and did not have a driver's license at all. The officer stated that as he was transporting Friedman across the lake in the police boat, he revealed his real name.

Food For Thought

by
Chef Francesco Pisano
McClive's Restaurant

Who was the first smart host who put halved cherry tomatoes--both red and yellow-- in a bowl, splashed on some basil and oil and named it "salad"? Great idea anyone can try.

Just before roasting chicken, mix together ¼ cup soft butter with a rounded tablespoon of chopped fresh rosemary and 1½ tsp. dijon mustard. Optional: ¼ cup chopped prosciutto. Spread under the skin. Tastes great hot or cold.

On a cooking binge? It's just as easy to double the ingredients and put an extra meal in the freezer for a busy day.

Dips and dunks don't have to be high-fat. Mix a cup of plain, no-fat yogurt with ¼ cup chopped mango chutney and ½ tsp. curry powder. Enjoy it with crisp raw vegetables.

Salsa fans will love a mixture of diced avocado with chopped onion, tomato, cilantro and jalapeno. Lime juice adds bite and keeps the avacado green.

Everyone will love cajun night on Wednesdays at

DNR Announces Trout Stocking

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has announced that nearly 25,000 adult rainbow trout have been stocked into selected trout fishing areas as part of the DNR's fall trout fishing program.

"Maryland provides some of the finest trout fishing on the East Coast," Secretary Griffin said, "and fall is a beautiful time to go fishing."

Stocking by DNR's Freshwater Fisheries Division personnel was completed by Friday, Oct. 13. Nearly 10,000 of these trout weighed about ½ pound each and averaged about 12 inches in length. Trout have been stocked into many of Maryland's larger streams and rivers in addition to many lakes and ponds. These areas will remain open to fishing during the fall trout stocking period. Fishermen are reminded that a trout stamp is required to possess trout caught in Maryland.

Among waterways stocked was the North Branch of the Potomac River in Garrett County, which received at least 500 trout.

This fall stocking will bring the number of trout stocked this year to more than 440,000. DNR's trout stocking program is funded entirely by the sale of freshwater fishing licenses and trout stamps, and federal Sportfish Restoration Program (Wallop-Breaux) funds which are generated by anglers and boaters' tax dollars.

Muzzleloader Season Begins; Deer Kill Limited

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin reminds hunters planning to participate in the early muzzleloader season in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties that only one antlered white-tailed deer may be killed during the season.

During early muzzleloader season, or blackpowder season, which begins today, and runs through Saturday, Oct. 21, in the four-county area, hunters may not kill any antlerless deer.

"To clear any confusion," Griffin said, "it should also be noted that bow hunters can use their bows during muzzleloader season, but must hunt in accordance with all muzzleloader season regulations." Bow hunters must wear blaze orange, and check their deer in.

Last year, Griffin added, several hunters were issued warnings by Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) for either killing an antlerless deer, or killing more than one deer during the early muzzleloader season. Citations issued for violating the bag limit in Western Maryland can carry a fine of up to $500, and NRP officers will seize illegally hunted deer.

Hunters who see illegal hunting activity during deer hunting season are asked to call the "Catch-A-Poacher" hotline at 1-800-628-9944. Callers' identities will remain confidential, Griffin concluded.

Rams Use Strong Second Half To Defeat Lions

Although the score didn't indicate that the Southern High Rams dominated the Tucker County Mountain Lions on the gridiron last Friday evening in Parsons, the statistics revealed that the Rams did maintain control of most of the game and ultimately emerged with a 26-14 victory. It was the sixth straight win in as many starts for the Rams, who will host likewise unbeaten Fort Hill this Friday in what should be one of the best games of the season, and perhaps of the decade.

The Rams amassed a total of 443 yards of rushing, while limiting the Lions to 135 yards in total offense, and just missed on at least two other opportunities for touchdowns because of fumbles, once in the end zone and once on the Lions' nine-yard line. The Rams had three turnovers on four fumbles and had one pass picked off, while Tucker County threw two interceptions.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Rams opened the scoring when quarterback Andy Woods recorded a 17-yard touchdown run. Howard Crosco ran for the conversion to make it 8-0.

Using a run-and-shoot, shotgun offense, the Lions responded with a touchdown later in the quarter, as Billy Shahan hit Daniel Helmick with a nine-yard scoring aerial. The run for the conversion failed, giving the Rams a slim two-point advantage at halftime.

Southern upped its total to 14 in the third period on a four-yard touchdown run by Crosco, but Tucker County tied the score at 14-14 when Shahan scored on a 10-yard run and then passed successfully to Tim Thompkins for the extra two points.

The Rams then won the contest in the fourth period, as Crosco scored on a one-yard carry early in the period and Dave Stephens hauled in a 19-yard touchdown pass from Woods. Both two-point conversion attempts failed.

Crosco led the Rams' rushing attack with 178 yards on 28 carries, Aaron Newcomb carried 19 times for 144 yards, Woods picked up 87 yards on 10 attempts, and Nathan Rickman contributed 35 yards.

The Rams finished with 20 first downs, compared to nine for Tucker County.

"We were disappointed with our lack of execution and our fumbles," Coach Tom Woods said, "but we made some good adjustments at halftime and our kids really played well the second half.

"They actually played very hard the entire game," he said, "and Tucker County probably played as hard against us as any team has all season."

Woods said he and his staff were "real happy" with the running of all of his backs, as well as the play of the offensive line, noting that junior Seth Tressler had an outstanding game on the line.

"Defensively, Mike Flanigan had a very good game at corner," he said, adding that Flanigan, who replaced an injured Ben Getson, had both interceptions for the Southern defense. Getson was sidelined with a mild concussion, but is listed as "probable" for this week.

Woods expects to need each and every player this week when the Rams host Fort Hill, a team he describes as "the best 2A team in the state."

In fact, Woods believes that the 1995 Fort Hill team is even better than last year's Sentinel squad that finished the regular season undefeated and made it all the way to the Maryland 2A championship game.

"They are better on the line of scrimmage this year and they have a lot more diversity," Woods said. "They have three excellent backs to really mix things up and they can throw the ball very well, too."

The backs to whom Woods referred are senior quarterback Brandon Davis (6-4, 175), considered a Division I prospect; sophomore fullback Ricky Jenkins (5-11, 178), and senior tailback Eddie Blizzard (5-11, 177). Other offensive standouts include senior tight end Buddy House (6-2, 222), senior tackle Brian VanMeter (6-1, 248), and senior guard Jason Valentine (6-2, 232).

The Sentinels use multiple sets of the wing-T offense, with fullback Jenkins being the focal point.

"Everything revolves around the fullback," Woods said, "so one of the keys to our success will be to stop him. But Davis is the best pure passer in the area, so we have to be well prepared to defend against the pass as well."

Fort Hill's 6-2 defense is anchored by an outstanding corps of linebackers, with House and senior Beaner McKinley (6-1, 192) being the leaders. The line is spearheaded by senior end Jay Cristofori (5-9, 167) and junior guard Buddy VanMeter (6-1, 182), while the secondary is led by Blizzard and senior Sparky Sharpless (5-9, 167) at the corners.

"Among the things we have to do offensively if we hope to stay in the game are come off the ball hard and make sure we block the linebackers," Woods said. "We also plan to mix up our calls a lot more."

Woods believes that, like Southern, the strength of the Fort Hill team is on the offensive line. "The game will probably be determined along the line," he said.

"They have better team speed and more experience than we do," Wood said, noting that Fort Hill starts eight seniors on offense and nine on defense, while the Rams have only five seniors on each side of the ball.

"This is their year," he said. "But I have never seen our kids so filled with emotion. They have been looking forward to this game for a long time, and hope to prove that a single-A team can defeat the best double-A team in the state. We consider it a real David and Goliath story, which we hope will have the same outcome."

Woods said the biggest crowd ever to witness a football game in Garrett County will be at the Southern field Friday evening, with 3,000 to 5,000 fans expected to attend. The kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

For those unable to attend the game, or not wishing to battle the crowds, the game will also be broadcast live on WKHJ Radio (98.9 FM), with the pre-game show beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Frustrated Huskies Fall To Berkeley Springs, 20-7

After a big opening season win over Keyser, it has been all down hill for the Northern Huskies, with the latest setback being last Friday on the road at Berkeley Springs where the Huskies were handed a 20-7 defeat. It was the fifth loss in a row for Coach Tom Vent and his frustrated squad.

The degree of difficulty in the Huskies' schedule has also been a factor, as three of Northern's losses have been to undefeated teams and Friday's defeat was to a team that is sporting a 6-1 record and enjoying its best season in ages.

All of the points in the contest were recorded in the first half of the game, as Indian quarterback Todd Rothstein capped a drive with a two-yard touchdown on a sneak. Todd Smith booted the extra point to give the Indians a 7-0 lead.

Berkeley doubled its score later in the period when Smith raced nine yards and into the end zone on a reverse, and again kicked the conversion.

Tim Tusing's 11-yard touchdown run later in the second quarter, followed by Zach Leverenz's conversion kick, cut the Indians' lead to 14-7, but the Indians responded with a one-yard touchdown dive on the last play of the first half. The conversion attempt failed and the scoring was concluded, as the second half was all defense.

"We're just not playing well," Coach Vent said. "There's something wrong, and it's driving us crazy trying to figure it out.

"Defensively we really played pretty well," he said, "but on offense we ran the ball 37 times, and 14 of those times was for negative yardage. We're just not blocking."

Vent didn't hesitate to comment on the officiating at Berkeley Springs. "It was atrocious," he said. "We had over 170 yards in penalties called against us. I'm an official myself, so I rarely comment on officiating, but this was just unbelievable. They should let the kids determine the outcome of the game."

There was no box score of statistics made available.

The Huskies will host a team with a losing record this Friday, but it is a team that recorded a huge upset this past week over previously undefeated East Hardy, a team that was ranked number one in the West Virginia single-A standings.

"We seem to always have trouble with Petersburg anyway," Vent said. "Two years ago they knocked us out of the playoffs with a field goal in the mud, and last year they hadn't won a game until they beat us, 14-6."

The athlete on the Vikings' squad who most impresses Vent is senior tailback/linebacker Nick Lahman (6-2, 190), who is the real leader on the team on both sides of the ball. "This kid is a real man," Vent said. "He has tremendous talent and is a real college prospect."

Other offensive leaders are senior fullback Josh Hanna (6-1, 195) and linemen John Rogers (sr., 6-0, 175) and Benji Myers (jr., 5-9, 195).

Defensive standouts include Lahman, who is an All-PVC linebacker, and junior corner Jamie Rickard (5-10, 158).

"They're not as big as we are, but they are quicker than we are," Vent said.

It will be Northern's homecoming game, a situation that Vent said is not always positive. "Sometimes I think homecoming can be a real distraction for the kids," he said.

"We're disappointed since, at the beginning of the season, we really thought we were going to have a good year," Vent continued. "But apparently I'm just not getting through to our players, and I take that personally. I'm still looking for a few of our kids to take charge. We seem to have a lot of riders, but no drivers.

"But we certainly haven't sold out, and we will be ready to play Friday night," Vent said.

On a positive note, Vent said that junior running back Cody Brenneman, who has been sidelined for a few weeks and under the impression he would never be able to play football again because of what was thought to be a serious neck injury, may be back in the line-up this week, pending a physician's report.

Friday's kickoff for the Northern-Petersburg clash is set for 7:30 p.m.

Ram Booters Watch 3-0 Halftime Lead Evaporate

After building a 3-0 lead over the Westmar High School Wildcats Tuesday evening in Oakland, the Southern Rams saw that advantage evaporate in the second half and had to absorb a 5-3 loss to the visitors, which dropped the Rams to 3-7 on the season.

It appeared in the first half that the Wildcats came to Oakland anticipating that it would take only a mediocre effort on their part to put Southern away, but the Rams had another idea and completely dominated the visitors throughout the first half of play.

Kevin Andrews put the first Southern point on the board when he scored off a feed by Dan Nelson just three minutes and 12 seconds into the game.

Kevin's brother, John, doubled the Rams' score at the 30:30 mark off an assist by Meghan Dabney, and Dabney made it 3-0 when she headed in a ball off a crossing pass by Nelson.

The Wildcats re-grouped during halftime and came back a different team, playing with far more poise, proper positioning, and aggressiveness. Eric Johnson started the rally with a score off an assist by John Miller five minutes into the second half.

Just four minutes later, Johnson scored again, this time on a feed by Jeremy Kiddy to make it 3-2.

Kiddy then recorded two straight goals, the tying one off an assist by Johnson and the go-ahead on a feed by Ryan Webb. Travis Love added the insurance goal with about seven minutes remaining in the game.

The teams were tied at halftime in shots on goal, each with 14, but the Wildcats recorded 16 more shots in the second half, compared to only four by the Rams. Andrew Granke had 13 saves in the goal for Southern, while Josh Broadwater was credited with six saves. Westmar held a 6-5 edge in corner kicks.

The win upped the Wildcats' record to 5-4-1. Among Westmar's victories is an upset win over Flintstone, a team that was at the time ranked number one in the area.

The Southern junior varsity hammered the Westmar jayvees in the preliminary match, 7-0. Corey Friend recorded a hat-trick (three goals) for the Rams, while Rick Vecchioni scored two, and Frannie Coviello and Mark Ludwig each netted one.

The Rams will play again this evening when they host Mt. Savage. The junior varsity game will get underway at 6 p.m. and the varsity contest at 7:30 p.m.

Indians Scalp Ram Netters

The Southern girls' volleyball team dropped to 2-9 Monday evening in being defeated by the undefeated Mount Savage Indians, 3-0, in Oakland.

The Rams started strong against the 10-0 Indians, losing the first game by just a 16-14 margin, but were then dominated in the second two games, 15-1, 15-1.

Leading the Indians were Shannon DeHaven and Heather Abucevicz, who recorded 17 and 15 service points, respectively. Lori Evans finished with six points to pace Southern's effort.

The Southern junior varsity was also defeated by the Mount Savage jayvees, 15-11 and 15-3. Amanda King scored nine points for the Indians and Michelle Teter recorded six for the Rams.

The Rams were slated to play at Westmar last night, but results of that match were not received.

Mount Savage Too Tough For Young Huskies

The girls' varsity volleyball team of Northern High School met a buzz saw last night at Mount Savage, as the Huskies were manhandled by the undefeated Indians in three straight games, 15-6, 15-4, and 15-5.

The victory also clinched an unprecedented 21st WMIL championship for the Indians out of the 24 seasons there has been such a title. Coach Joanne Nickel's team is currently 11-0 on the season.

Amy Stafford led the winners with 13 kills, seven blocks, and four aces, while Heather Abucevicz finished with 15 service points. Shelley Emerick had nine assists.

Leslie Buckel paced Northern's scoring effort with five service points.

The Northern junior varsity also kept its record spotless in the second match by handing the Mount Savage jayvees their first loss, 15-10 and 15-5. Amy Hinebaugh led the Huskies with seven points, while Misty Emerick recorded eight for Mount Savage.

The Huskies will host Allegany on Monday.

Fritz Excels In Goal, But Huskies Blanked By Elks

Matt Fritz played an outstanding game in goal for the Northern High Huskies last Friday against the area's second rated team, Salisbury, as he recorded 30 saves on 58 shots on goal by the home-standing Elks, but the Huskies could generate little offense and dropped the match, 3-0.

Jason Benning scored the Elks' first goal in the first quarter off an assist by Jeremy Hoover. He recorded his team's second goal with an unassisted shot in the third quarter.

Hoover added an insurance score 15 seconds into the fourth quarter to secure the win for the Elks, who upped their season mark to 8-2-1 with the win. The loss dropped the Huskies to 0-10.

R.C. Deer, keeper for the Elks, recorded 16 saves.

The Northern junior varsity won the preliminary match, 2-0.

For Reasons

For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God. Romans 3:23

For there is not a just man upon the earth that doeth good, and sinneth not. Ecclesiastes 7:20

For the wages of sin is death: but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Romans 6:23

For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost. Luke 19:10

For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotton Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. John 3:16

For these reasons, Jesus came to save you! What's the reason you don't want to be saved?

Jets Flatten Raiders To Up Record To 6-0

The Oakland Jets topped the Oakland Raiders in Mountaintop Youth Football League action on Sunday, 29-6. The Jets finished the regular season undefeated and will be looking to improve their unbeaten mark to 7-0 when they travel to Parsons Sunday to take on the Vikings in the first round of the League playoffs.

The Jets used a punishing ground attack against the Raiders, as fullback Josh Bosley gained 101 yards on six carries and tailback Jordan Uphold gained 106 yards on only four carries.

The Jets opened the scoring on the second play of the game with Uphold dashing 60 yards to paydirt. Bosley kicked the conversion and the Jets led 8-0. The second possession for the Jets started at the 30-yard line of the Raiders after the Raiders were forced to punt. Bosley scored from five yards out on the fourth play of the drive. Jet quarterback Justin Liller ran for the conversion and the score was 15-0.

On their next possession, the Raiders drove the ball to the 20 yard line of the Jets before Bosley picked off a pass and returned it to the 47-yard line of the Jets. On the first play of the drive, Liller hit Bosley with a 28-yard pass and run. Three plays later, Uphold bolted up the middle of the Raider defense for his second touchdown. Christian Warfield ran for the conversion to make the score 22-0.

The Raiders took possession of the ball to start the second half and mounted an impressive nine-play, 65-yard scoring drive. Williams capped the drive from three yards out. The conversion attempt failed and the Jets were on top 22-6.

The Jets wasted little time in answering the Raiders drive as on the first play from scrimmage, Bosley broke several tackles -- on a 65-yard scoring scamper. A Liller to Jonathan Browning pass was good for the PAT which concluded the scoring.

Both junior varsity squads played in the fourth quarter. The Jet coaching staff praised the defensive efforts of Larry Bernard, Jeremy Hayhurst, Warfield, and Bosley. Andrew Rickman was credited with an interception, as was Bosley. Defensive standouts for the Raiders were Tim Tasker, Williams, and Mike Lantz.

The Jets will open the 1995 playoffs Sunday in Parsons against the Vikings. Game time is 1:30. The Raiders will also travel to Parsons on Sunday to do battle with the Northern Steelers in the 3:30 playoff game. The winners will meet on October 29 in the championship game.

Husky Jayvees Edged By Beall

The Northern High junior varsity rallied, but fell a few points short Tuesday evening in Frostburg and dropped a 14-12 decision to the once-beaten (6-1) Beall jayvees.

Nick Marsh put the Mountaineers on the board first with a seven-yard touchdown run in the first quarter and Mike King passed to Tom Leasure for the conversion, two points which would later prove to be the winning margin.

Jim Green came back for the Huskies to score on a 55-yard run in the third period, but the conversion run was no good.

The Mountaineers scored their final points of the night when Marsh reached the end zone on a three-yard run.

Then Green again broke loose through the Beall defense and raced 60 yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter, but again the conversion attempt failed.

Marsh also had an interception for the Mountaineers.

The Huskies will host Southern next Thursday evening in a 7 p.m. contest.

Steelers Whip Vikings, 26-13

The Northern Steelers recorded a 26-13 win over the Parsons Vikings Sunday afternoon in Mountaintop Youth Football League action on the Southern High School field.

The Steelers built a 26-0 advantage in the first two quarters before the Vikings rallied for the final two touchdowns of the game.

T.J. Snelling put the Steelers on the board in the first quarter with a 75-yard touchdown run. The kick for the conversion points was no good.

P.J. Workman capped a Steeler drive in the second quarter with a one-yard touchdown run and Snelling booted the two-point conversion to put the Northern squad up 14-0.

Snelling made it 20-0 later in the same period with a 55-yard scoring run. The kick failed.

Scoring the Steelers' final points was Adam Brenneman who hauled in a 26-yard TD pass from Brant Green. The kick again failed.

Jim Arnold broke the ice for the Vikings just prior to halftime when he broke loose for a 55-yard scoring jaunt and also ran for the extra point.

Paul Jennings gave the Vikings their second and final touchdown when he scooped up a fumble in the third quarter and raced 37 yards to the end zone. The conversion attempt was no good.

Leading the Steeler defensive unit were Snelling, Workman, Ryan Savage, Keith Artice, and Brandon Wilkins.

The Steelers will face the Oakland Raiders this Sunday at 3:30 p.m. on the Parsons field in the first round of the league playoffs.

Gank Propels SHS Jayvees Over Tucker

A two-touchdown, 160-yard rushing performance by Tommy Gank highlighted a 22-6 victory by the Southern junior varsity over the visiting Tucker County jayvees Tuesday evening.

Gank carried the ball 25 times and scored the first two touchdowns for the Rams, the first on a 20-yard run in the first quarter and the second on a one-yard carry in the second quarter. Brad Zimmerman ran successfully for the two-point conversion after the first touchdown.

Tucker County cut the Rams' lead to 14-6 late in the second quarter when Tyson Shahan picked up a Ram fumble and raced 34 yards to the end zone. The conversion attempt failed.

Southern quarterback Chad Warnick, who recorded 71 yards on only six carries, scored the Rams' final points on a three-yard run. The two-point conversion run was good to conclude the scoring.

Zimmerman finished with 90 yards on nine carries, as he, Gank, and Warnick amassed 321 yards of rushing between them. Pacing the Southern defense were Jason Weaver and John Ayers.

The Southern jayvees, coached by Scott Harvey, will play again next Thursday at Northern, with the kickoff set for 7 p.m.

Ram Freshmen Edged By Lions

A 14-point fourth quarter by the Tucker County freshmen resulted in a 22-16 come-from-behind victory over the Southern High School freshman football team last Thursday evening on the Rams' field.

Southern took an 8-0 lead in the first quarter when Jason Weaver scored on an eight-yard run and also ran successfully for the conversion.

The Lions came back in the second period to knot the score when Derek Simmons hauled in a 40-yard touchdown pass from Jason Hetrick, who also passed to Simmons for the extra two points.

Southern went up 16-8 in the third period when Nick Dolan scored on a two-yard carry and then ran for the two-point conversion, but the Lions put the game away in the final quarter when Hetrick passed to Jimmy Aliff on a 10-yard scoring strike and Lambert broke loose on a 70-yard scoring run late in the game.

Hetrick finished with 109 yards passing by completing nine of 13 passes, while Weaver led the Rams' offense with 76 yards on 20 carries.

The loss dropped the Rams to 1-2 on the season. They will host Allegany on Nov. 2.

SHS Students Take Part In Fitness Test

A total of 122 members of Southern High School's ninth grade health and physical education classes recently participated in a fitness screening organized by the Garrett County Health Department's (GCHD's) community outreach and AmeriCorps offices.

During the event, SHS teachers Fred Gregg, Nan Gangler, and Don Stemple and health department staff members tested students' flexibility, muscular strength and endurance, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness.

Fitness scores for the females tested were average in muscular strength, endurance, and flexibility, but were below average in cardiovascular endurance, commented GCHD health educator Kendra Todd. The females' average body fat percentages were slightly above the recommended range, she added.

Males also tested average for flexibility, but below average for muscular strength and endurance, Todd reported. Their rating for cardiovascular fitness was slightly above average and their body fat percentage was within the recommended range.

"I think a lot of the girls did better than they thought they could," stated Gangler. "They enjoyed seeing the results and have stopped asking me why we have to do exercises and running in class. The answers were the writing on the wall."

"The overall poor showing by our students will only intensify our commitment to teach our classes both why it is important to be physically fit and how to achieve it [fitness]," stated Gregg.

Students will be retested in January to look for improvements.

"We hope that through a combination of health education and physical education, lifestyle habits will improve, bringing fitness test results up," stated Todd.

Additional health education topics being addressed this year in the ninth grade health classes include healthful eating habits; prevention of drug, alcohol, and tobacco use; stress management; disease prevention; and general wellness.

"On the average, students take their overall health and their levels of physical fitness for granted," stated Stemple. "Although we only see these students for one 90-minute period per day, we do have an effect on them during that time. It is our job to make them aware of healthful behaviors and good fitness habits, and influence their desire to continue with these activities once they are away from health and physical education classes."

Meet Garrett County's NEW TEACHERS

PENNY PROUDFOOT

Of the twelve new professional employees hired by the Garrett County Board of Education for the 1995-96 school year, several have been previously employed by the local system. One of these is Penny Proudfoot.

Proudfoot, who has taught special education at both the secondary and elementary levels in Garrett County, is currently assigned to Dennett Road Elementary School where she is providing early childhood special education services and developmental testing for infants, toddlers, and pre-schoolers throughout Garrett County.

A native of Marion County, W.Va., Mrs. Proudfoot currently resides in Oakland with her husband, Mark, and their two sons, Brandon, age nine, and Drew, age five.

Proudfoot earned a bachelor's degree at Fairmont State College, Fairmont, W.Va., with a major in elementary education. She has earned 24 additional credits, many of which relate to her work in the field of special education.

She began her teaching career at North Marion High School in Marion County. She taught there for two years. During her previous employment with the Garrett County Board of Education, Proudfoot taught special education at Southern High School for three years. Following the birth of her son, Brandon, she worked part time for three years teaching special education at Loch Lynn Elementary School.

Having taken several years away from the classroom to raise her family, Proudfoot commented she is looking forward to the different challenges of working with pre-school youngsters and their families.

In addition to her responsibilities at work and at home, Proudfoot serves as a Webelo leader for Den Six of the Cub Scouts, a group which meets at Dennett Road Elementary School. She and her family are members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland.

GCC To Show Local Artist's Oil Portraits

A collection of oil paintings by Angela Maust, Accident, is currently on display at the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery at Garrett Community College.

The exhibit, which will continue through the end of this month, includes 17 portraits, most nearly life-size, of men, women, and children in formal and relaxed settings.

The gallery is open during regular college hours: Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. An artist's reception is slated for Saturday, Oct. 21 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Both the show and the reception are open to the public.

Maust, a third-generation artist, began her education in portraiture with her mother, Edna Bender, and has studied on her own for the past nine years. Maust paints commissioned portraits and her work has been shown at Alexis Lavine's Gallery on the Greene, Cumberland.

Maust's paintings have received many awards, such as first place in a Scottdale, Pa., exhibition and best of show for the past three years at the county-wide IDEA show.

"Angela's portraits are highly realistic likenesses that describe not only the person's physical features, but his or her personality as well," an event spokesperson stated. "She accomplishes this expression in her compositions by carefully planning the values and colors in the setting to enhance those characteristics that are unique and special to the individual."

Church To Hold Revival Services

Special revival services will be held at the Walnut Bottom Assembly of God Church October 27-29 each evening at 7 p.m. and Sunday morning at 11 a.m., with evangelist Madeline Davis, Hancock officiating. All are welcome, according to Rev. Christopher Crawford, pastor.

GCC Foundation Plans Meeting; Notes Activities

The Garrett Community College (GCC) Foundation will meet Monday, Oct. 23, at 5:30 p.m., in the Mettiki Board Room at the college.

Incorporated in 1982, the foundation is a non-profit, volunteer agency designed to raise funds for scholarships, and for support of educational or cultural college activities and projects.

"The GCC Foundation currently administers 63 scholarships," said its president, Ann Smith. "A scholarship committee reviews the applications, and selects recipients from the candidates. Many members of the foundation report that the scholarship committee is their favorite assignment, because of its direct linkage to helping the area's young people."

In a continuing effort to raise funds to help GCC, the foundation hosted its first "Move-Along-A-Thon" in the spring, which brought widespread business and community support, according to Smith. Two full scholarships, awarded to Mandy Stemple of Southern High School, and Alisa Friend of Northern High, and one $500 tuition award, presented to Jennifer Beckman, were created by the proceeds from this event. Plans are currently underway for the 1996 Move-Along-A-Thon.

Another recent GCC Foundation activity was sponsorship of World War II 50th anniversary commemorative activities conducted throughout GCC, and the organization is presently considering projects for sponsorship in 1996. Members have successfully participated in the state-sponsored Maryland Private Donor Incentive Campaign. Completetion of donor pledges and state match funds will provide an endowment fund of more than $500,000.

New members are welcome, and invited to attend the meeting. In addition to Smith, other foundation officers for 1995 are Walter Schoenian, vice president; Colleen Nordeck, treasurer; and Sue Case, secretary. Persons interested in more information may contact Smith at 387-5303.

Lioness Club Raising Funds For Playground

The Grantsville Lioness Club, working to raise money for the Grantsville Park Playground Fund, has reported a successful yard sale/chicken barbecue and has announced the next fund raiser, which will be a "haunted house."

The haunted house event will take place on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 30 and 31. Participants should meet at the Grantsville Park at 7 p.m., where they will be transported via a "haunted hayride" to the "haunted" destination. Seasonal refreshments will be available for purchase at the park. There will be a charge of $2 per person for the tour. All children must be accompanied by an adult.

A spokesperson noted that there will be a "less scary" tour from 7 to 9 p.m. each evening.

"After 8 p.m., only the brave should attend," the spokesperson warned.

All proceeds will benefit the playground fund. The Grantsville Planning Committee is assisting the Lioness Club in the effort.

A yard sale and chicken barbecue event was held on September 28 by the Lioness Club, with nearly $3,000 being raised for the playground fund.

"Two tents and one pavilion were filled to the brim with items donated by the Grantsville community," the spokesperson said. "Almost all the items were sold as were the chicken dinners."

The chicken was donated and prepared by the Grantsville Lions Club. All items that remained after the sale were donated to the Thrift Shop and Goodwill stores in Grantsville. Members of the Lioness Club noted their gratitude to all who helped with the sale as well as to those who donated merchandise.

A benefit auction for the playground fund will be held on Nov. 18 at 7 p.m. in the Grantsville fire hall. Any business or individual interested in donating to the auction should call Linda Towers at 895-5309 or Debbie Klotz at 895-5927. All donations are tax deductible.

Any person or business wishing to donate to the fund may mail checks to Town of Grantsville, P.O. Box 296, Grantsville, MD 21536. The spokesperson noted that December 1 is the target date for the fund drive to be completed. This will allow time for playground equipment selection and ordering. Construction of the playground is to take place in May of next year.

and billionaires who have given up their citizenship to go live in the Bahamas."

Mikulski added that she has supported legislation which would prohibit the federal government from issuing mandates to the states without providing funding to carry out these mandates at local and state levels.

The senator stated that she will also continue to defend the anti-spousal impoverishment law, a piece of legislation which she helped to pass. She explained that this program helps older couples keep their homes and savings when one spouse is admitted to a nursing home. If this program falls to the federal budget axe, Mikulski remarked, a family might have to spend their savings down to $2,500 and put a lean on their house before assistance would be available.

Mikulski suggested other areas in the federal budget that she believes could be cut. She noted that the proposed military budget is $7 billion more than the Pentagon requested. She also stated that she voted for a $3 billion cut in foreign aid.

The senator also stated that she voted for the Senate compromise welfare reform bill, a piece of legislation which she said would provide a safety net for children while encouraging welfare recipients to work. The compromise bill would also limit the length of time during which most persons could continue to receive welfare.

The federal budget is due to be completed by Nov. 15.

In response to a question by Commissioner Wayne Wilt, Mikulski stated that she will look into the issue of the proposed closings of the Bittinger and Deep Park post offices. Wilt and Mikulski agreed that such closings would adversely affect the elderly.

In Loving Memory of Timothy Clark Durst
February 20, 1977 to September 28, 1994

In our hearts you will always stay the way we remember you on a particular day.
In each individual's mind's eye, we all remember you differently, but there is one certain similarity
And that is the joy we each claim that you brought only to me.
The way your gentleness touched our hearts.
The way your laughter lit a spark.
The knowing thought that you had no enemies.
Because they all said he was a friend to me.
From child to elder we will all remember you differently
Yet each had said, "He touched our heart and was a friend to me."
But that will never ease our pain of not having you near, or touching you ever again.
Though when we are watching the sun rise we can still picture the laughter in your eyes.
This is all we have now and we treasure it preciously because you were loved ever so dearly.
And in our mind's eye that's just how you'll stay--when we each are remembering you on a particular day.

AMONG THE DIGNITARIES in the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade and serving as parade marshal was none other than Maryland Governor Parris Glendening, waving to photographer Craig Phillips in the above photo. He was accompanied by his wife, Frances. Other special participants included Autumn Glory Queen Lori Beth Glotfelty and festival princesses, Hillary Garris and Lori Sines, who are pictured above right riding upon the float of American Trust Bank. Miss Maryland Marcia Griffith was also in the parade, as was Stasia Cope, Miss Maryland State Chili Pepper, below left, being escorted by Oakland native Randy Shaffer. Another not-so-pretty character riding in the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival car was the evil witch from the Wizard of Oz, below right, who was kept in check by Glenda, the good witch (Cathy Helbig) and the mayor of Munchkin City (Suzanne Gilbert).

Plans Underway For New Museum In Oakland Area

Members of the Garrett County Historical Society's Museum Committee are currently working on plans for a new museum for the Oakland area. The present museum, located on Center Street, has reached its capacity to keep and display artifacts, and other historical material from the Garrett County area, according to committee member John Grant.

"People are now offering us articles that are relevant to the history of the county, and we have to refuse them," said Beth Friend, museum curator. "There isn't any more room."

A building large enough to accommodate the museum's future needs is a factor being considered by the committee. This includes having space for temporary displays from other groups, including the Maryland Historical Society.

"We are having more and more requests for genealogical information," Grant said. "Beth Friend and others have put together a good genealogical library, but people only have access to it during the summer months when the museum is open. With a new facility, we could have a small library open the entire year, without having the expense of heating an entire building."

The next museum committee meeting will be conducted at the Oakland Town Hall on Monday, Oct. 23, at 7 p.m. The public is welcome to attend.

General Fund Revenues Close To Estimates

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the state's two largest sources of General Fund revenue are producing less than expected, but noted that overall revenues are within four-tenths of one percent of projections. "We are closely monitoring the major state revenues and are re-examining all revenue sources in preparation for the December 12, 1995 meeting at which the Board of Revenue Estimates will provide Governor Glendening with revised projections for the current fiscal year and for the year which begins July 1, 1996," Goldstein said.

The comptroller noted that income tax revenues submitted by employers for their employees were weak during the first month of the fiscal year, but rebounded during September. "It appears that some of the earlier weakness relates to the number of Friday paydays in July, 1995, compared with July, 1994," he said. "As expected, we will continue to see some impact on revenue growth because of the expiration of the 6% tax bracket for high income taxpayers."

Individual and corporation income taxes produced $634.9 million in General Fund revenue for the first two months of fiscal year 1995, about 2.2% less than projected.

Goldstein said sales and use taxes, the state's second largest source of General Fund revenue, produced $326.4 million for the first two months of fiscal year 1996, a growth of only 2.1%, $8.8 million less than expected for the period.

"The bulk of the shortfall in sales and use tax revenue reflects a clear slowdown in the pace of consumer spending," Goldstein said. "We've only seen a 2% increase in the consumer portion of sales tax receipts, which includes apparel, furniture and appliances. In contrast, computer hardware and software and other capital goods should remain fairly strong during fiscal year 1996."

The State Lottery produced $62 million in General Fund revenue during the first two months of fiscal year 1996, about $3 million more than projected. "When these and all other General Fund revenues are totaled, they produced $1.2 billion for the first two months of the current fiscal year, about four-tenths of one percent less than anticipated," he said.

The comptroller noted that the Board of Revenue Estimates, which also includes State Treasurer Lucille Maurer and Budget Secretary Marita Brown, had projected a slowdown in sales tax growth as part of the estimates it presented in December, 1994.

"We continue to meet with outside economic advisors; our Business Advisory Panel, which represents the various economic sectors of the state; and national and regional economic forecasters to determine how Maryland will be affected by the federal budget and tax changes in Washington, D.C." Goldstein said.

Lynn Broderick Appointed Arts Alive Coordinator

Frostburg State University recently announced the hiring of Lynn Broderick as the new coordinator and program officer of its Arts Alive! Consortium, a clearinghouse for cultural events in the tri-state community.

A graduate of University of Nebraska with a master's degree in theatre, Broderick comes to the Western Maryland area from Columbia, where she held a teaching position in the Howard County Public School system for nine years. She also has a rich background as a theatre specialist, writer, and athletic coach in Howard County and Washington, D.C.

According to Broderick, her past experiences will assist her in the Arts Alive! position. "The vibrant arts community (in the D.C. area) fulfilled many of my interests as a performer and educator," she said. "I look forward to sharing those experiences with Western Maryland."

Arts Alive! is funded through a grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission. The consortium includes persons and organized groups that seek to promote and expand access to the visual, performing, and literary arts for the residents and visiting population of this region.

For more information on Arts Alive! persons may contact Ms. Broderick at (301) 687-7492.

HEY, BEAUTIFUL! - Oakland resident Brad Stewart, the winner of the 1995 Maryland's Most Beautiful People Volunteer Award for Garrett County, is pictured above as he waves to spectators along the Autumn Glory Festival parade route. During his years in the county, Stewart has been very active in business and in local organizations. (See story)

"Most Beautiful" Person Has Been Civically Active

Oakland resident Brad Stewart, winner of the 1995 Maryland's Most Beautiful People Volunteer Award for Garrett County, has participated in a long list of community groups and activities, many in leadership roles, during his years in the county.

The sixth member of his family to live in Garrett County, Stewart has owned and operated multiple local businesses over the years, and is currently the proprietor of Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, a business he purchased in 1971.

He has also been a founder, member, and leader of several service, fraternal, and athletic organizations.

A graduate of Southern High School, Stewart served on the first Oakland Civic Center Committee in 1965, and on the second (and last) committee in 1970.

Stewart was a founding board member and the first treasurer of the Oakland Meals-on-Wheels program, former member and past president of the Oakland JayCees, former member and past president of the Oakland Rotary Club, former member and vice-president of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, former member and past president of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Oakland Girls' Softball League and Oakland Senior Girls' Softball League, and a former vice-president, treasurer, player agent, and umpire of the Oakland Little League.

He was also a founding member, coach, and first vice-president of Mtn. Top Youth Soccer League.

Stewart has also served on the Oakland Bicentennial Committee, the board of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, and the board of the Oakland Chapter of the American Red Cross.

He was a founding member and first treasurer of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and served two terms as president of that organization.

During his membership, Stewart served as an emergency medical technician and took part in the first certified respiratory technician (CRT) class offered in the region. He was the first vice-president and a past president of the Region One Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Council. Stewart also served on the Maryland State EMS Council.

Stewart is a past president of the Southern Garrett Athletic Association; a life member and former editor-in-chief of the Garrett County Historical Society; a 25-year member and past secretary of Garrett Lodge 113 Knights of Pythias; and a 24-year member and past master of Oakland Lodge 192, A.F. & A.M.

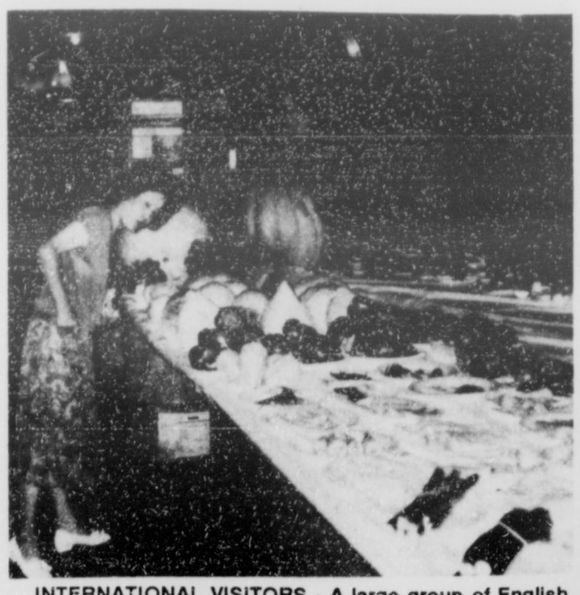
He is a former board member of and CPR instruction trainer for the Western Maryland Chapter of the American Heart Association, a former board member of the Garrett County Social Services Board, a former board member and vice-president of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, a former member and past president of the Garrett County Forestry Board, and a charter member of Oakland Lodge 2481 B.P.O. Elks.

He currently serves on the boards of both Hospice of Garrett County and Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Garrett County.

Stewart will travel to Annapolis on Nov. 1 to attend the Maryland's Most Beautiful award ceremony.

Local runners-up in the award program are Twila Mae and Harold Fike, Avilton, and Jerry Beachy, Grantsville.

The Maryland's Most Beautiful People Volunteer Awards Project was initiated by former Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer as the Maryland, You Are Beautiful Program.



INTERNATIONAL VISITORS - A large group of English language students from Japan recently traveled to Garrett County as part of a sight-seeing trip to the U.S. The tour was hosted by Jennifer Cossette, a Deep Creek Lake native who teaches English in Japan. Pictured above, Fumie Hayashida examines the bounty of vegetables on display at the Garrett County Agricultural Fair. Hayashida later stated that horse back riding at Deep Creek Lake was her favorite part of her trip to the U.S. Pictured at right, Cossette, her father Bill Thoman, and Keiko Hiratsuka pose in front of Muddy Creek Falls at Swallow Falls State Park.

During her visit to Garrett County, Hiratsuka stated that it had been her life-long dream to visit the U.S. See story.

Garrett Native Hosts Japanese Student Group

Deep Creek Lake native Jennifer Cossette, who has taught English in Japan for the past two years, recently lead a group of over 20 of her students on a 10-day tour of Maryland and Washington, D.C.

During the tour, the large group traveled to the Deep Creek Lake home of Cossette's father and stepmother, Sandy and Bill Thoman for a lunch of "U.S.-style" pizza. The Thomans organized the tour through their Cumberland travel agency, Uniglobe Adventures In Travel.

While in Garrett County, the group visited Swallow Falls State Park, attended the Garrett County Fair, and went horseback riding.

After spending the night at Wisp resort, the tourists left the county to continue their excursion, which included stops at Busch Gardens theme park and colonial Williamsburg in Virginia and the Washington Mall and Smithsonian Institute in the nation's capital.

DeWitt Charter Service, Accident, provided bus transportation for the group while in the U.S. Several local businesses also provided services to the tour group.

System Reviewed

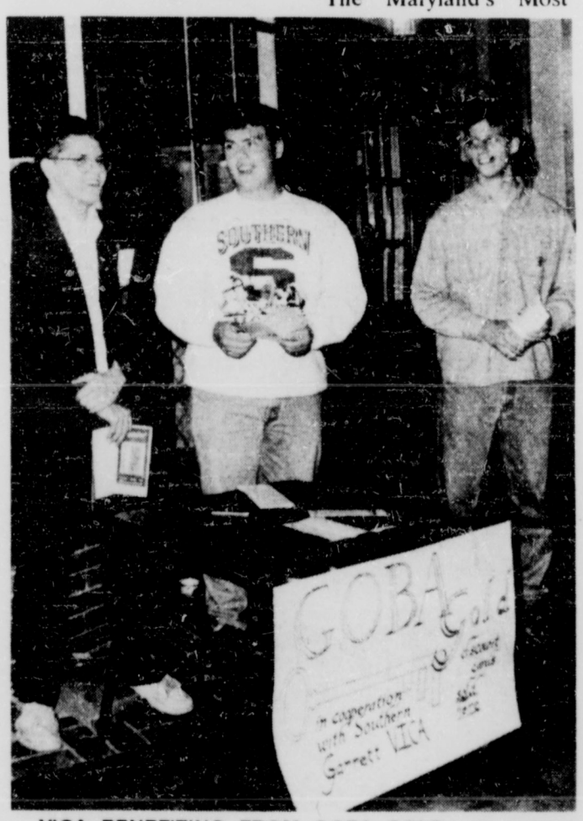
approve the point system, the board of directors of each company or department will be required to research their records for the past 10 years and certify all members who have amassed the proper number of credited years' active service.

Each fire, rescue, or EMS organization is responsible under the law for maintaining a record of points earned by each member during the calendar year. At the end of the taxable year, and no later than Feb. 15 of the following year, the volunteer organization must provide each member with a report of the points he or she has earned in each category for that year.

The MSFA has developed a form to provide uniformity in reporting the points to the members and submitting the information on a tax return.

Individuals earning points in more than one organization may combine their points.

TALL TALE WINNER NAMED - Nancy Feather, Aurora, W.Va., was named the winner of this year's Autumn Glory Tall Tale Liar's Contest, conducted Saturday at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland. Feather, pictured above, right, was presented a $50 savings bond, donated by First United Bank & Trust, from Cyndi Kolbe.



VICA BENEFITING FROM GOBA GOLD - in a fund raising effort and for the promotion of local businesses, the Southern Garrett VICA (Vocational Clubs of America) students are currently selling "GOBA Gold" cards. The purchase of the card entitles the holder to one year of discounts and savings with participating merchants of GOBA, or the Greater Oakland Business Association. The cards sell for $10 each, with $7 going to VICA and the remaining $3 for advertising and promotion costs. Discounts and other values can be realized at over 30 area businesses and restaurants with the use of the GOBA Gold card. Pictured above are VICA students working to sell the cards during the Autumn Glory Festival. Shown left to right are Nicholas James, Jamie Bernard, and Daniel Skipper. VICA will use the funds raised to finance students' trips to regional, state, and national skills contests. VICA was chosen by GOBA as the recipient of the fund raiser in light of the group's notable goals and attitudes toward developing leadership skills. The cards will be valid through October 31, 1996.

MEDICAL ALERT: A few weeks ago, I alerted you to a warning from Dr. C. Everett Koop, former Surgeon General of the United States, and the National Foundation for Infectious Diseases, about the dangers of contracting hepatitis A, a contagious viral infection of the liver for which there is no cure, yet, but which can be treated if caught in time — and for which there is an extremely effective vaccine available.

This week, the NFID has a warning about the hepatitis B virus which can also be deadly. It's spread through blood and bodily fluids and is considered 100 times more contagious than HIV, the virus that causes AIDS. Some 300,000 Americans are infected annually, in most cases, via heterosexual contact with a carrier who may not even know he or she carries the potentially lethal virus. Helping to spread the word about hepatitis B are Dr. Ruth Westheimer, syndicated columnist and author (her latest book is "Sex for Dummies") and Melissa Joan Hart, known as Clarissa on the cable television show, "Clarissa Explains it All." They are reaching out to young people and their parents to let them know about the risks of infection as well as the availability of an effective vaccine. Young people, especially, need to know how easily the virus can be transmitted — and not just through sexual contact or contact with infected blood or body fluids. The virus can be spread through maternal-fetal transmission at birth; sharing toothbrushes or razors; biting, using unsterilized needles for body or ear piercing, tattooing, acupuncture, or injectable drug use, as well as living in close contact with an infected person. (I wouldn't even share a comb. When someone "borrowed" mine once, I let them keep it. One can never know about the condition of someone else's scalp.)

AIDS is caused by a killer virus. So far, there is no vaccine available. Both hepatitis A and B can kill. But there are vaccines and many lives that could be lost, can be saved. Talk to your doctor and encourage your school to run programs teaching children how to avoid risk of infection.

Q. Stamped on the bottom of a saucer I own are the words "Enoch 1784 — Ralph 1750 — Woods — Burslem — England." Could the plate be that old?

A. Members of the Wood family of Burslem, England, were well-known makers of pottery and porcelain for several generations. Family members teamed up at different times, forming their own factories.

There were several Ralphs and Enochs through the years. From 1784 to 1790, cousins Enoch and Ralph Wood were in partnership.

The words "Burslem, England" show that your saucer is a 20th century version of a pottery piece made during the 1780s.

Q. My piano was made by Leonard & Co., Philadelphia. How old is it?

A. Leonard & Co. made pianos in Pennsylvania between 1900 and 1937.

In a recent column, we mentioned coin glass, a pressed-glass pattern made by the Central Glass Co. of Wheeling W.Va. Fostoria Glass Co. made a similar glass in 1958. Coin pieces were made in five colors: ruby, amber, blue, olive green or emerald green. A mold maker from Fostoria Glass sent us more information about the coins pictured.

Four different coins, depicting the Liberty Bell, Colonial man, Liberty torch or eagle, were made with the date 1887, the year Fostoria started. Glass with coins picturing Paul Revere or the Liberty Bell were made for the Avon company. These had the date 1886, the year Avon was founded. Other pieces were made with coins that looked Canadian. It was illegal to copy real coins, so all the designs had "coinlike" designs.

The Imperial Glass Co. later received permission to make a pattern that used real U.S. coin replicas.

The Fostoria coin glass was discontinued in 1982. It is now being made by Dalzell-Viking for Lancaster Colony.

Q. The label on my Windsor-style chairs reads "M. Reischmann and Sons." How old are the chairs?

A. M. Reischmann & Sons Inc. worked in New York City as early as 1852. The company, which manufactured and imported tables and chairs, was still operating in the 1920s but is no longer in business.

THE AH-CHOO SEASON: Working mothers whose children are cared for in daycare centers often find their youngsters coming home with head colds passed on by other children. If you're a parent, here are some DOs and DON'Ts tips from pediatricians on how to make treating a cold easier on you or the caregiver, who should make note of these tips.

1. Do treat only the symptoms your child shows. Don't give your child all-in-one medicines unless the child suffers from all the symptoms for which the medication is designed. Otherwise, give only the medication for the specific symptom or symptoms.

2. Do take your child to the doctor if symptoms persist. Don't insist on an antibiotic; they re not effective against the cold virus.

3. Do use over-the-counter medications only with discretion and with the okay of your doctor. Don't give your child aspirin. (Very important.) And don't give her or him adult medication or someone else's medication.

4. Do increase fluid intake. Don't give your child dairy products unless your doctor says it's okay. Some children find dairy foods harder to digest when they have colds because the stomach also has to digest the mucus draining from head congestion.

5. Do let your child rest and recover with time. Don't send your child to school or daycare if they have a cold or fever.

CONGRATULATIONS to Dr. Mary Beth Leininger of Plymouth, Mich., who is the first woman elected president of the American Veterinary Medical Association in the organization's 132-year history.

I liked Dr. Leininger's description of her medical specialty: "As a veterinarian, I treat families," she sad. "I give them the knowledge of how they can provide the animal that has become part of their family the best, most responsible care." Incidentally, although it's only been relatively recently that women were allowed to be exercise riders at most race courses, most knowledgeable horse folk have known for years that women seem to have a soothing effect on these high-strung animals. One horse owner was quoted as saying, "My daughter cares for our horse as if it were her baby and you never see the boys do that." (No you don't. They'd rather — ahem! — horse around.)

Home Tips

ICE WATER — I defrosted my large upright freezer today and wound up with a double kitchen sink full of ice.

Both my kids wanted to run hot water over it to make it dissolve, but I said, "No, we're conserving water. That would be a real waste!" Then, after hours had passed and the ice was still there, it finally hit me. Why hadn't I just put it in buckets and let it melt down to water the plants or put the frozen ice around the plant base for slow, cool watering?

Fortunately, I still had some ice left, so the idea wasn't a total waste, but I sure wish I had had the foresight to think of it sooner. Denise L., Erie, Pa.

PLASTIC BAGS — I found a good use for those plastic bags with ads and coupons in them that are left on your doorknob.

Whatever I need to take with me to school the next day I put in one of these bags and hang it on the doorknob, on the inside.

In the morning rush, I will not forget it, since it is practically in my hand as I go out. Frieda M., Salem, Ore.

CROSSWORD PUZZLES — My husband and I both enjoy working the crossword puzzle in the newspaper each day.

I solved the problem by placing tracing paper over the puzzle. It's easy to see the numbers and squares through the paper.

I'm usually up first and have the puzzle worked on the tracing paper before he's even awake.

DESPITE THE RAIN on Saturday, food vendors were kept busy by the pre-parade crowd that did not allow the downpour to keep them from enjoying the events of the 28th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. The rain stopped shortly before the Grand Feature Parade and did not resume until the end of that event.

JUST PIPIN' IN THE RAIN before Saturday's big Grand Feature Parade in Oakland were the members of the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums, under the direction of Pipe Major the Hon. Fred A. Thayer. The band also led the parade, for which the rains ceased until the final minutes of the event.

THE SKIES CLEARED just in time Sunday for another successful fly-in at the Greater Gortner Airport south of Oakland. In the above photo, spectators enjoy the air acrobatics of Clancy Speal, Pittsburgh, who was also in the sky above Oakland on Saturday before the Grand Feature Parade of the 28th Annual Autumn Glory Festival.

ing $26.9 million in public school construction, $11.1 million for water quality projects; $39 million for state and local public safety, detention and correctional services projects; $1.8 million for health care facilities; $22.7 million for higher education facilities loans; $5.5 million in general state construction, and the remainder for a variety of state and local cultural and educational projects.

In awarding the Triple A rating, Moody's Investors Service, Inc. cited "Maryland's long record of sound financial management," and noted that issuance of debt has been maintained at manageable levels.

Fitch Investors Service, Inc. said, "Maryland has excellent credit characteristics, with a diversified economic base, conservative policies and a moderate burden of debt relative to resources."

Governor Glendening, Comptroller Goldstein, representatives of the State Treasurers Office and budget department met with the investment community and bond rating agency personnel September 28 in New York City.

During the bond sale, Governor Glendening said, "When we were in New York you could feel the confidence the institutional investors had in Maryland. The citizens can feel confident that we retained the Triple A rating."

Treasurer Maurer said, "This is the lowest bid we've received since March of 1978, and the cost of borrowing is significantly lower than we expected."

Goldstein added, "We're doing what the rating agencies have advised us to do with reserve funds. And we're benefiting from a low inventory of Maryland bonds on the market."

Maryland remains one of only five states in the nation to retain the coveted triple A rating from all of the major bond rating agencies. These 15-year bonds, backed by the full faith and credit of the state, are sold in denominations of $5,000. They are available to the public from brokers and bond dealers.

Maryland last sold general obligation bonds in March, 1995, when $175 million in bonds were sold for a low interest bid of 5.50975%.

Medicaid Waiver Proposal To Be Hearing Topic

A proposal for major changes to Maryland's Medicaid system, drafted by consultants from the University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC) Center for Health Program Development and Management, will be the topic of a public hearing on Monday, Oct. 23, at 7 p.m. at the Allegany County Health Department, Cumberland.

The proposal outlines a suggested plan to move many of Maryland's Medicaid recipients into managed care programs. Interest in the proposal was heightened by looming federal cuts to the Medicaid program. Federal funds account for 50 percent of Maryland's Medicaid budget.

The proposai was presented to Dr. Martin P. Wasserman, secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH), and to members of the Medicaid Waiver committee last week. Wasserman had contracted with UMBC to develop the proposal in response to legislation, passed during the last session of the Maryland General Assembly, which directed Wasserman to seek a waiver from federal government rules that govern the structure of states' Medicaid plans and limit states' flexibility to manage their programs, a DHMH spokesperson explained.

A total of six hearings on the proposal have been scheduled. Following these hearings, Wasserman and his staff will develop their recommendations. State legislators will have to approve the plan before it can be submitted to the federal government.

In addition to the Allegany County hearing next week, additional hearings on the proposal will be held in Salisbury, Rockville, Annapolis, Largo, and Baltimore in following weeks.

Copies of the draft proposal are available from local health departments and on the Internet (http://www.umbc.edu/chpdm).

Maryland Sells $150 Million In Bonds at 4.94%

The Maryland Board of Public Works, consisting of Governor Parris N. Glendeninq, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and state Treasurer Lucille Maurer, sold $150,000,000 in General Obligation Bonds for a low-interest bid of 4.946021% on Wednesday, Oct. 11. The board reviewed four bids. The bonds had been rated "Triple A," the best possible rating, by Moody's Investors Service, Inc., Standard & Poor's Corporation, and Fitch Investors Service, Inc., the three major bond rating agencies.

The winning bid came from a syndicate of firms from across the country led by Goldman, Sachs & Co., and including Merrill Lynch & Co.; Legg Mason Wood Walker, Inc.; NationsBanc Capital Markets, Inc; Carmona, Motley & Co., Inc.; The Chapman Company; Alex. Brown & Sons, Inc.; and First National Bank of Maryland.

Proceeds from the $150 million bond sale will be used to fund a variety of loan authorizations, including

DO YOU NEED A SERVICE CONTRACT?

You've spent considerable time comparison shopping for an electronics item or appliance that will best suit your family's needs. You asked friends for recommendations, checked out consumer publications, tested different products and compared store prices before making a final decision. Then, as the salesperson is ringing up your purchases, she asks a question you hadn't considered: "Do you want to buy a service contract?"

These days, service contracts (or extended warranties) are routinely offered on electronics products and home appliances. Like manufacturers' warranties, service contracts provide repair or maintenance for a specific period of time. But unlike a warranty that comes with the product you purchase, an extended warranty costs extra. It's a kind of "repair insurance" that you buy separately from the product.

Even though a service contract may be represented as offering peace of mind, there are other reasons so many retailers recommend them. According to Consumer Reports, sales of service contracts can generate more profit for the retailer than the merchandise does. That's because less than 20% of consumers who buy service contracts ever use them and retailers incur only four to 15 cents in service costs for every dollar consumers pay for such contracts. An electronics corporation executive put it this way: "Service contracts are added profit. Cost to consumers generally is twice what retailers pay third party contractors for a service policy."

When you buy a service contract, you're assuming your appliance or equipment will break down after your manufacturer's warranty expires, but before the service contract does. However, appliances and electronic equipment that break down usually do so early in their service life, when you're still covered by your manufacturer's warranty.

Service contracts can cost anywhere from $50 to $500. Before you pay for more protection than you need, read the service contract carefully.

Official Cord Of Wood Defined By Ag Secretary

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley reminds all citizens that when they purchase firewood this fall that they make certain that the amount of wood delivered is measured using the term "cord" or a fractional part of a cord. The Maryland Department of Agriculture's Weights and Measures Section regulates the sale of fire wood and according to Maryland law, wood sold for use as fuel can only be advertised, offered for sale, and sold by using cord as the measurement standard.

"Many terms commonly used in selling firewood are meaningless. Such terms as truckload, arm full, face cord, rack, or pile should immediately arouse suspicions of the customer. They are all illegal under Maryland law," Riley said.

A cord, on the other hand, has a precise legal definition. It is the amount of wood that is contained in a space of 128 cubic feet, when the wood is ranked and well stowed. Ranked and well stowed means that the pieces of wood are placed in a line or row, with individual pieces touching and parallel to each other and stacked in a compact manner. Cubic feet is calculated by multiplying the width of the stack by its height by its length.

According to Lou Straub, chief of Weights and Measures, it is important, that when the consumer accepts bulk delivery of firewood, the order comes with a delivery ticket. The law requires that all bulk sales of firewood have a delivery ticket containing the vendor's name and address, a signature of the person who determined the quantity of the wood delivered, and the license number that identifies the vehicle that transported the wood.

"If the seller does not offer a delivery ticket, ask for one. An honest salesman will not object to supplying this information," Straub said.

Straub urges all Marylanders to use caution and common sense in purchasing firewood.

For more information on the sale of firewood in Maryland, persons may contact the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Weights and Measures Section at (410) 841-5790.

SOME DOCTORS AND DENTISTS ARE USING HYPNOSIS

Once hypnosis was only an entertainment medium. But today it is being used medically more and more in the treatment of many conditions. There are actually physicians who are just specializing in the use of hypnosis. It has proven effective in such situations as thumb sucking, nail biting, and excessive drinking. And, recently it was proved to be a valuable aid in treating musculo-skeletal disorders such as bursitis.

Hypnosis for medical conditions should always be in the hands of trained experts. The amateur hypnotist could potentially cause harm, for there is still a great deal to learn about how it actually works and its possible side effects. Do not expose yourself to hypnosis unless your physician advises it.

The Background of Integrity

There are millions of men in this world whose word is trusted – whose handshake is a binding contract – whose integrity others accept without question.

We've come a long way from the days when a strong man and a stout club were the social graces.

And this growth in man's capacity for integrity has paralleled his growth in religious expression.

Of course, the cynics will point to men and nations who still live by the code of the cave man. Must we believe that the clock of progress has turned...is running backward?

The sound, the sensible, the sincere still feel the strength of God's Bible in every handshake. With their children they are finding new spiritual opportunity and hope in the churches they cherish.

Are you with them? Are you, too, pushing forward the frontiers of faith?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT, NO FAVORITES?
October 22, 1995

Background Scripture:
Acts 10:1 - 11:18
Devotional Reading:
Acts 10:9-23

Some of us may not mind so much that God accepts others into his kingdom besides us and our kind, but it is disconcerting to learn that God has no favorites. At least that's what Peter tells us: "Truly I perceive that God shows no partiality, but in every nation any one who fears him and does what is right is acceptable to him" (10:34, 35).

And if you read these same verses in the Jerusalem, Moffat, and New English versions, it seems even clearer: "I now see how true it is that God has no favorites..." (NEB). Well, of course, we all know that, don't we?

But do we really believe it? Isn't favoritism what attracts some to a particular religious group–the opportunity to become God's favorites, to have the inside track, to stand in some special relationship with our creator? On a conscious level we would deny that, but this expectation often shows up in our unconscious attitudes.

"ALL THE PEOPLE"

For Peter this was a shocking discovery. As a Jew, he counted himself as one of God's chosen people. That conviction couldn't help but affect his thinking, as well as most of the first Christians. It was one thing to tolerate Gentiles among the followers of Jesus, but that didn't mean that Peter and the others accepted them as full-fledged disciples.

From our vantage point of time we can see how wrong they were, that the good news of Jesus Christ was not just for the Jews but for all people–just as the angels at his birth had proclaimed, "I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all the people" (Luke 2:10b), and Jesus had commanded after his resurrection, "Go and make disciples of all nations..." (Matt. 28:19).

Yet, we are hardly in a position to condemn them, for Christians since then have hardly compiled a more attractive record. History reminds us of those painful episodes wherein Jews were hated and presecuted as "the killers of Christ." Most of us can remember when churches barred their doors to African Americans and when Protestants and Roman Catholics regarded each other as "the enemy" instead of "brothers and sisters." Of course, some of these prejudices still plague the Church.

ENLIGHTENED?

Today, some are as surprised as Peter was when they find that pastoral gifts fall upon women as well as men. It was only 40 years ago–a long or short period of time depending upon your point of view–that I was ordained. I thought then that I was very enlightened, but I must admit that I never dreamed in those days that there would ever be women clergy. It seemed part of God's great plan to keep that calling as an exclusive enclave for men.

No matter how reluctant Peter was to accept this message from God, we can appreciate what it cost him to acknowledge: "if then God gave the same gift to them as he gave to us..., who was I that I could withstand God?" (11:17). That's what we must realize, too: to exclude other people on the basis that they are different from us, that their ways are strange to us, or that we have always believed that they were in some way inferior to us, means nothing less than withstanding God–a fearful position for any follower of Jesus Christ!

Even Peter's listeners had to acknowledge that: "When they heard this (Peter's testimony) they were silenced. And they glorified God..."

And so may we all.

COVER STORY

Armed and tedious: TV movie rides high horse

BY SUZANNE GILL

Stepfanie Kramer

Anybody who thinks the Crusades are over hasn't been watching TV movies. Monday, Oct. 23, NBC's Deceived by Trust: A Moment of Truth Movie has a point to purvey.

Stepfanie Kramer (NBC's Hunter) and Michael Gross (NBC's Family Ties) return to the network in this cause-of-the-week film as the hero and villain, respectively.

Gordon Powell (Gross), a high-school principal in western Washington state, rules with an iron hand. Threats and intimidation keep students and teachers in line, while currying favor "downtown" brings in up-to-date materials and equipment. Powell rewards himself with sexual escapades that are only another expression of his need to exert power.

Psychologist Sarah Collins (Kramer) gets wind of Powell's dark secret from a student, Cindy Webster (Shannon Fill), who comes to her for help.

Sarah is shocked to hear Powell has tried to seduce Cindy with cash and promises of help with college admissions. She is even more shocked to discover she has few allies in her struggle to bring him to justice.

Eventually Sarah enlists the help of a union attorney (Conor O'Farrell) in her battle. Together they discover Cindy is not the first young woman whose life Powell has damaged.

The issues at stake are important ones, and Deceived by Trust means well. But it has only as many dimensions as the TV screen it airs on. As dramatists have long known, just telling an important story isn't enough.

NBC is proud of its Moment of Truth movie franchise. The dramas are intended to show individuals making hard choices based on moral beliefs.

With disappointing predictability, the forces of good and evil sally forth onto the field of honor in Deceived by Truth. Points are scored after each scene in a relentless buildup to an inevitable climax. The background music, by Stacy Widelitz, is an unfailing source of presentiment.

Kramer represents good with a straight back and unwavering eye. Gross is a suitably oily and malevolent Romeo, but he delivers his threats like a murderer, not an autocrat.

There are no shades of gray in the film. The teleplay, by Jayne Martin and Dan Levine, gives no hint of how the principal's wife and family are affected by his public censure, or why Cindy is involved in a serious auto accident. The latter event simply serves to advance the plot.

Indeed, no one in the movie has more family, friends or motives than absolutely necessary to tell the story: Sarah and her lawyer are conveniently single; the pretty girls Powell targets have no close friends of either gender. And just when she's needed, a crusading journalist rides into frame.

Deceived by Trust ends in an emotional high five between Sarah and her lawyer, a couple of dragonslayers on their way to do lunch. Congratulations to them, and especially to their real-life counterparts.

But their story is more suited to NBC's Dateline than the Monday Night Movie.

CBS to air an episode of Y&R in prime time

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Soap fans who have missed the romance and intrigue of The Young and the Restless – because of daytime work schedules or broken VCRs – are in for a treat. CBS will air an episode of Y&R in prime time on Thursday, Oct. 26.

"It is a regular episode that follows our current story line," says Doug Davidson, who plays Paul. "On this particular show, it is the night before Nick's (Joshua Morrow) trial. He has been falsely accused of shooting Matt."

"Amy (Julianne Morris) ... is the person who shot (Matt). But no one knows this except her and Matt," Davidson continues. "Matt hates Nick and has lied and told the police that Nick was his assailant. He wants Nick to go to jail."

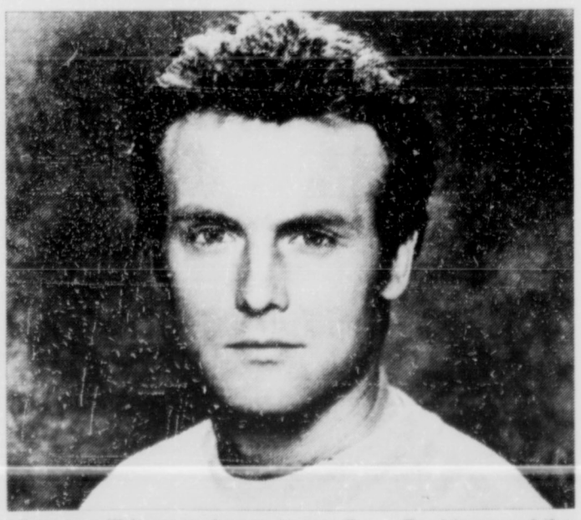
Paul, a detective, was hired by Victor Newman (Eric Braeden) to gather evidence for Nick's case. "Paul is certain Amy has information regarding the shooting," the actor says.

This is not the first time CBS has aired Y&R in the evening. The show pulled in respectable ratings when it aired opposite NCAA basketball in 1994, so the powers-that-be at CBS decided to try it again.

"I think it is a gutsy move for the network to put us opposite something like the World Series," Davidson says. "But if it works, it will be great."

The actor is worried about Y&R being compared to other prime-time shows. "We don't have the budget that most prime-time shows do. In fact, we are not even in the same ballpark," he explains.

After the prime-time episode, viewers must watch Y&R during its regular time slot – or fix those VCRs – to see what happens next.



Viewers will have a chance to see Doug Davidson and the cast of The Young and the Restless during a special prime-time airing of the show Thursday on CBS.

SOAP TALK

Y&R going prime time; fan likes Joe on AW

BY CANDACE HAVENS

When a soap has been No. 1 for the last eight years, its producers don't have too worry much about exposure. But those at The Young and the Restless aren't taking chances.

Y&R fans can catch the show during prime time on Thursday, Oct. 26. The producers say it will be a regular episode following the current story line.

The episode will focus on the eve of Nick's (Joshua Morrow) trial. The Newman family will be trying to help Nick find some evidence to support his case.

Chris and Paul also will be involved in helping their young friends Nick and Sharon.

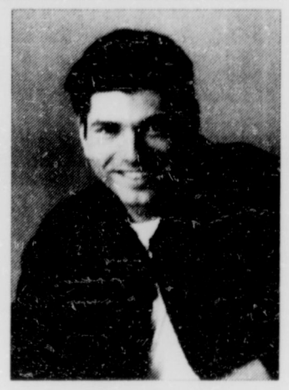
This isn't the first time Y&R has been on during prime time: In March 1994 Y&R had great success with their first prime-time episode. So, why not try it again?

Dear Candace: I'm writing regarding your comments on Another World. I agree with your correspondent that Jake finding Paulina in love with someone else is very good.

I think the actor who plays Joe Carlino (Joseph Barbara) is very talented. He is doing an outstanding job with the role and is a real discovery. Jake really will have to work to get Paulina back, but he may not be able to because the competition is formidable.

What can you tell me about Barbara? What is his acting background? Where does he call home? And who will win Paulina? –Michael Canepa, San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Reader: I always like it when people agree with me. I was worried Barbara wouldn't last very long once Tom Eplin (Jake) returned, but so far so good.



Joseph Barbara

Here is the scoop on your favorite AW actor: Barbara has done some theater and had a featured part in The Cosby Mysteries, but his first major role is playing Joe, on AW.

Barbara is an only child and was born in New Smyrna Beach, Fla. He graduated with a bachelor of science degree in television and film production from Syracuse University.

The actor is single and lives in New York in midtown Manhattan.

He loves oldies music, especially Elvis Presley and Frank Sinatra. In fact, at times Barbara thinks he may have been born in the wrong era. He likes to work out, play the guitar and write country music.

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

A: That is seaQuest 2032, now. Scheider, who has publicly trashed the show, only will return for a half-dozen or so episodes.

Q: Was The Sound of Music made in black-and-white years ago? –C.J., Orangeburg, S.C.

A: By the time the musical hit Broadway in August of 1960, the era of black-and-white screen musicals was long gone.

The familiar 1965 Julie Andrews film is the only movie version of the musical. However, in 1961 a nonmusical German film (in color) called The Trapp Family recounted the essentials of the story, starring Ruth Leuwerik, Hans Holt and Josef Meinrad.

Note: PBS' Great Performances airs an Andrews retrospective Wednesday, Oct. 25 (check local listings).

Q: I was dismayed to see you misspelled the name of Princess Leia (not Leah) in a recent column. More to the point, we know what Parts 1-3 will be about. What about Episodes 7-9? –Matt Wendling, Chagrin Falls, Ohio.

A: YOU were dismayed? Actually, the spelling error was corrected in later editions of this column. I wrote about Parts 1-3 because that was what the reader asked about.

George Lucas isn't commenting publicly about the final trilogy, but since the filmmaker seems to be following the general formula of other epics such as Wagner's Ring operas, it seems logical to speculate the final trilogy will focus on Leia and Han's children, who would inherit the Force and perhaps be mentored by Uncle Luke.

Q: I loved Felix the Cat. Is it on video? I think Robert Crumb was the cartoonist. –J.J., Villa Grove, Ill.

Roy Scheider

A: Proceed with caution, J.J. It sounds like you are looking for Fritz (not Felix) the Cat. It's on video, but I am unable to locate a distributor.

Q: Is Hugh Grant related to Cary Grant? –M.B. Wallingford, Pa.

A: No. Cary's real name was Archibald Leach.

Q: Are Donna, Juliet, Hayley and John Mills related? Also Alan, Diane and Cheryl Ladd? –Sandi C., Livermore, Calif.

A: Donna isn't related to Juliet and Hayley, who are both daughters of Sir John Mills. Cheryl isn't related to Diane but was Alan Ladd's daughter-in-law (according to their respective publicists).

Q: Where can I write to Canadian skaters? –Denna Swan, Saline, Mich.

A: C/o Canadian Figure Skating Association, 1600 James Nesmith Drive, Suite 403, Gloucester, Ont. K1B 5N4.

American Trust Teaching Students About Banking

This school year, 1350 area high school students are learning about credit from the banker's side of the desk with an innovative curriculum supplement that uses interactive video to simulate loan interviews, students role-play the job of a lender, analyzing loan applications, reviewing credit reports, and calculating disposable income.

At the end of the role-play, students compare their decisions with a banker's.

"In this learn-by-doing exercise, young adults teach themselves the value of good credit, how to determine their own capacity to borrow and repay, and what they can do as young adults to build a good credit history," stated Wayne Johnson, educational liaison.

Titled "How To Do Your Banking," the curriculum supplement also allows students to practice checking account management, develop savings strategies, and create personal budgets.

How To Do Your Banking is sponsored as a public service of American Trust Bank to area high schools.

"We feel it is important that young adults have a chance to practice money management in the classroom, where mistakes won't cost real dollars," said Robert R. Wozniewicz, president. "Recent surveys indicate that 80 percent of high school students want instruction in financial matters and that such education is among the top three subjects parents want taught to their children."

"By sponsoring this program we are reaching our young people as they are entering the work force and first needing financial services. If we can raise their level of financial responsibility and help them learn good money habits right from the start, it will pay big dividends for them and the community alike," said Johnson.

American Trust Bank has assets in excess of $385 million and operates 18 offices in Garrett, Allegany, and Mineral counties.

Yoder House Groundbreaking Ceremony Set

A groundbreaking ceremony at the site for the future Yoder House, is scheduled for Oct. 21, at 2 p.m., in Spruce Forest Artisan Village at Penn Alps.

The House of Yoder, Inc., is planning to build a replica of the early home of Yoder immigrants who settled in Berks County, Pa. The purpose of the building is to provide a home for a donated computer with Yoder family genealogy, and scanned photos, according to Kenneth L. Yoder, president of The House of Yoder, Inc. The long range plan includes establishing a research center for Yoder family history worldwide, plan annual meetings relating to history, and possible tours both in the United States, and abroad.

The speaker for the groundbreaking will be Pastor Johnny Crist, a 12th generation Yoder, and pastor of the Atlanta Vineyard Fellowship, Atlanta, Ga. Crist, along with his wife, Anne, and their seven children, live in a restored turn-of-the-century home. His topic for the ceremony will be, "Our Lines Have Fallen in Pleasant Places."

Among the Yoder family memorabilia on display for the day will be Widow Barbara's Bible (her husband died at sea on the voyage to America), a Yoder rocker, and numerous family displays. Descendants are requested to bring additional memorabilia or artifacts to share.

The ground breaking will be done by descendants of the original Yoder immigrants. The public is invited to attend. Questions may be directed to Kenneth L. Yoder, 895-5687, Esther E. Yoder, 895-5471, or to the Spruce Forest office, 895-3332.

First Financial Announces First Quarter Income

First Financial Corporation of Western Maryland, the holding company for First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, has announced consolidated net income of $801,000 or $0.37 per share for the quarter ended September 30, 1995. Net income for the three-month period increased $180,000 or 29%, as compared to net income of $621,000 or $0.28 per share for the quarter ended September 30, 1994. The corporation's annualized return on average assets and return on average equity increased to 0.97% and 8.25%, respectively, for the three months ended September 30, 1995, compared to 0.72% and 6.14%, respectively, for the same period in fiscal 1995.

Patrick J. Coyne, chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer, stated that the Board of Directors was pleased with the improvement in operating results, and noted management's belief that the results should be indicative of the corporation's anticipated financial performance for the remainder of fiscal 1996, excluding consideration of the previously discussed one-time Savings Association Insurance Fund charge, which is anticipated to be assessed against all members of such fund. Coyne also noted that the corporation underwent significant changes during fiscal 1995, and continues to operate in a "back to basics" mode, with intensive programs underway to improve the quality of assets, reduce operating expenses and enhance earnings without impacting customer service. Coyne stated that these ongoing initiatives, implemented by new executive management and the Board of Directors during the second half of fiscal 1995, have positioned the corporation for increased profitability as indicated by the first quarter fiscal 1996 results.

First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland is a federally chartered, FDIC-insured savings bank which conducts its business through 11 offices located within the greater Cumberland area, Hagerstown, Hancock, Frostburg, Oakland, and Westernport.

The Drama Group of the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church will present the drama Pap's Place on the evenings of November 1-4 as a fundraiser for the Cherry Glade Special Programs Committee. The play is written by Paul McCusker of "Adventures in Odyssey" fame and is the story of a family's struggle to deal with the issues of aging and Alzheimer's Disease. Other family issues also surface as the family is forced to deal with the problems of change and personal growth. "Lessons of faith and trust prevail in the midst of family joy and strife," according to a church spokesman.

The cast of seven includes Daniel Beiler as Pap, Chester Yoder as Pap's son Frank, Jencene Tice as Pap's sister-in-law Minnie, Diane Maust as Frank's wife Colleen, Darrin Yoder as Frank's son Greg. Jeff Bender as Minnie's grandson Elliot, and Darwin Bender as Dave (an orderly).

The play is produced by special arrangements with Lillenas Publishing Company and will be presented Nov. 1 and 2 at 7:30 p.m. The performances on Nov. 3 and 4 will be at 8 p.m. preceded by a full course buffet dinner served at 7 p.m. The buffet will include chicken cordon blue, carved roast beef, steamed red potatoes, carrots in dill sauce, steamed vegetables, salad greens, a display of fresh fruit, cream of crab soup, dinner rolls, and a wide variety of desserts. The price for the dinner and program is $15 for adults, $5 for children age 6-12, and free for children 5 and under. Seating for the dinner is limited and reservations must be made by October 29.

Prices for the drama only are $5 adults, $2 for children age 6-12, and free for children 5 and under. Reservations are also recommended for those wanting to attend the drama only.

TO EMPLOYEES & SHAREHOLDERS OF FIRST FINANCIAL CORPORATION

CAN YOU ANSWER THESE QUESTIONS?

- Why does Mr. Coyne want to sell the bank? HINT: In an October 11, 1995 letter to stockholders, Mr. Coyne made his intentions clear that he is going to sell the bank when the "value to a prospective acquiror"... (and his cheap stock options!)... "will become evident."
- How long will someone wait to sell the bank if he gets three times his annual salary plus bonus when the bank is sold? HINT: Not very long, if he's from Johnstown.
- What kind of stock options did you get and what kind of stock options is management giving themselves? HINT: Some stock options are granted based on longevity, loyalty and the individual's contribution to the company, and some stock options are awarded instantly, without the holder having to put up any cash to acquire his stock in the company.
- Who benefits most from having three truly independent, experienced, outside Directors to insure that management grows the bank for everyone's benefit? HINT: Everyone, except if you're from Johnstown.
- Are your employee insurance programs put out for independent bids? HINT: Is any member of the Board of Directors in the Insurance Business?
- Who got new company cars in a year when the bank had record losses? HINT: They also got Country Club memberships.
- Why has management awarded employees a Christmas Bonus in October? HINT: Could they be trying to buy your vote?
- Who thinks you can be fooled? HINT: We think you don't need anymore hints.

Hog Inventory Down 2 Percent

U.S. inventory of all hogs and pigs on September 1, 1995, is estimated at 61.1 million head, two percent below last year but three percent above September 1, 1993.

Breeding inventory, at 7.07 million head, is five percent below last year and one percent below two years ago. Market hog inventory at 54.0 million head, was two percent below a year ago but four percent above September 1, 1993.

The June-August 1995 U.S. pig crop was 25.0 million head, two percent less than last year but four percent above the same period in 1993. Sows farrowing during June-August 1995 totaled 3.01 million, down three percent from last year but one percent above the same period in 1993. Pigs saved per litter were a record high for the quarter, at 8.32 compared to 8.22 during the same period in 1994. Pigs saved per litter, during June-August 1995, by size of operation ranged from 7.20 for those operations with 1-99 head to 8.80 pigs per litter for operations with 2,000 head or more. U.S. hog producers intend to have 3.00 million sows farrow during the September-November period. This is slightly above the actual farrowings during the same period in 1994 and one percent above 1993. Farrowings for December 1995-February 1996 are expected to be up slightly from last year and three percent above two years ago. If realized, this would be the highest December-February sows farrowed since 1980.

THE FIRST ALUMNI FITTING & SHOWING CLASSES were held this year at the Garrett County Fair. Trying to do everything completely opposite from the regular fitting & showing classes, the alumni members competed; current 4-H/FFA members judged; and the alumni, 4-H/FFA members and parents chose a "farm king" to reign over the competition. The classes were determined to be a huge success by all, with 33 alumni taking part in veal, dairy goat, lamb, dairy and beef divisions. George Keller was chosen "farm king," and all members and animals made it back to the barns safe and sound. The photo above shows the lamb class with (left to right) Past Farm Queen Valerie Loughrie Frazee, an alumni of Northern FFA who came to judge the lead contest and graciously agreed to provide some competition in the alumni contest; Ralph Miller, an alumni of Oakland FFA; Garrett County and Maryland Farm Queen Lori Evans; King George Keller; and Champion Darvin Pysell, an alumni of Oakland FFA. Judges for the class were current 4-H members David Butler and Tommy Holler. Lambs were on loan from Arthur and Sara Pysell and Morgan Rodeheaver. Below, Garrett County and Maryland Farm Queen Lori Evans is pictured with Reserve Beef Champion Amy Mosser, an alumni of North Star 4-H; King George; and Grand Champion Showman Leonard Custer, an alumni of Oakland FFA. Steers were on loan from Arthur Pysell and Travis Sines. Beef judges were present 4-H and FFA members Christy Keller and Jamie DeBerry.

Maryland Milk Production Up

Maryland dairy operators produced 107 million pounds of milk during August 1995, up one percent from the same month a year earlier. The number of milk cows increased to 94,000 from the year ago 91,000. The yield per cow for the month of August 1995, at 1.140 pounds, declined almost two percent from a year earlier.

Milk production in the 22 major states during August totaled 11.1 billion pounds, slightly above production in these same states in August 1994. July revised production, at 11.4 billion pounds was one percent more than July 1994. Production per cow in the 22 major states averaged 1,373 pounds for August, four pounds above August 1994.

Maryland's Ag Land Preservation Program Is #1

The August issue of Successful Farming featured an article hailing Maryland's agricultural land preservation program as number one in the nation. Currently some 14 states have some form of agricultural land preservation program.

"In fact, Maryland is the shining star of farmland preservation, with the largest number of farms (805) and acres (117,000) protected. That's twice as many acres as the next closest state, Pennsylvania," the article reported.

MARYLAND FORESTS

by Patrice Jastrzembski

What is the value of a tree? This question, of course, has many different answers.

Trees provide cool shade in the summer and block the wind in the winter. The leaves absorb carbon dioxide and release the oxygen we breath. Throughout the year, trees are an ever-changing source of beauty. Trees are used as homes for wildlife.

Trees also produce many useful items. Humans and animals obtain food in the form of nuts, fruits, leaves, and extracts. Life-saving medicines have been discovered from chemicals contained within tree leaves and bark. Lumber and paper products are milled from the wood of trees. Wood sugars and cellulose fibers, left over from when paper is made, are used in the production of some plastics, deodorants, formaldehyde, and even ice cream and baby foods.

Some of the benefits of trees are obtained while a tree is still alive, growing in the woods. Other items can only be derived after a tree is cut down.

Whether to cut a tree or not is often a great dilemma. Many may ask, "how do trees benefit us the most?"

Fortunately trees are a renewable resource. This means that trees produce new trees. We need not ever run out of trees, or even wipe out certain species, if we plan for the future. After each tree is cut it is essential that we plant a new tree or make sure the situation is right for a new tree to regenerate naturally.

Once the decision to cut a tree is made, the next question is when is the right time to cut. This is where a good forest management plan comes in. A management plan is a study of standing trees and their surroundings and a plan for the future of the site.

Before cutting, a landowner must appraise the present value of the trees and balance this against future potential. The decision to cut may be based on biological or financial reasons.

Biological maturity is one way to determine when to harvest trees. At some point in its life a tree reaches its maximum size. Beyond this point the tree's growth begins to slow and signs of deterioration appear. When this happens the quantity of merchantable wood no longer increases and may even decrease.

Although old, decaying trees are a great source of homes for woodland wildlife, they are not of as much value to the environment as younger trees are. As a tree's health wanes, the tree's ability to produce fruits, nuts and seeds, absorb carbon dioxide and release oxygen into the atmosphere, filter airborne pollutants, and control erosion, also decreases.

Using biological maturity to determine harvest time is perhaps the most ecologically ideal process to use. But landowners often cannot wait for biological maturity. Decisions to cut are often based on financial maturity of a woodlot.

Financial maturity is the point at which the dollar value increase is less than the return if the trees are sold and the cash is invested elsewhere. Financial maturity is influenced by the growth rates and current market values.

Harvests based on financial maturity alone are not bad for the environment if the recommendations of a forest management plan are followed, responsible harvest techniques are employed, and regeneration of the forest is guaranteed.

Forest management is an ever changing science. There are so many choices to be made for each particular situation and point in time. Since trees give us so much, in so many ways, it is true that the question "what is the value of a tree?" has many different answers.

NUTRIENT MANAGEMENT UPDATE

How long has it been since you have had your soil tested? If you cannot remember, it's probably time to have your soil fertility level checked. The Nutrient Management Program is an excellent way to have this done by a trained consultant.

Maryland farmers participating in this program are saving an average of $22 per acre. The first step in nutrient management planning involves pulling soil samples and a manure sample if animals are involved, and filling out data sheets which includes information on your fields, acres, past history, and crops that will be grown. After the results from the soils lab are completed, a plan can be written which will credit your manure as fertilizer (where appropriate) and make recommendations on the amount of lime and fertilizer needed to produce your crop at a realistic yield goal. The only cost involved is $6 per soil sample if analyzed by the University of Maryland. If you have your soil analyzed at another lab, these results can be used. The manure analysis is free.

Also, if you have manure storage, let us know when your manure pits are agitated this fall so we can pull a sample and have it analyzed for nutrient content.

If interested, please contact our office at 334-1990 and speak with our Nutrient Management Consultant, Bill Knepp.

Dairy Industry Launches Major Advertising Campaign

Dairy Ad Campaign

On September 18, the dairy industry launched the largest advertising campaign ever undertaken in support of fluid milk sales.

Led by Dairy Management Inc., the industry will spend more than $100 million over the next 15 months to support national and local advertising on television and radio. The campaign will use $20 million in producer and processor funds in the fourth quarter of 1995 and another $80 million in 1996.

This increased impact level resulted from the decision of the boards of United Dairy Industry Association and the National Dairy Board to adopt the award-winning "Got Milk?" campaign developed by the California Milk Processor Board.

According to Tom Gallagher, DMI chief executive officer, this dollar level is required to make the impact needed to increase total fluid milk sales. "We believe our move toward unity has amassed the resources to do just that," Gallagher said.

The "Got Milk?" campaign, whose commercials first aired in November 1993, has been used extensively in California, Oregon and Washington. For audiences in most other parts of the country, the commercials made a debut this month.

The campaign won the international advertising community's Clio Award for best commercial of 1994, as well as Advertising Age magazine's award for best commercial the last two years in a row. The commercials rate high among consumers for grabbing their attention and staying in their memory.

"This campaign has repositioned milk as a lifestyle item, something you absolutely have to have around," said Bob Garfield, advertising analyst for Advertising Age. "It has entertainment value, and that's had a rub-off effect on milk itself, which is now 'cool' to drink."

According to Gallagher, the campaign provides the dairy industry with a memorable message that remains consistent with DMI's behavior-oriented strategy. "We believe it will take us to our overall goal of one, effective fluid milk advertising message that will lead consumers to drink more milk," he said.

BRING ANNUAL FLOWERS INDOORS FOR WINTER BEAUTY

Flowering annuals that have sent out non-stop blooms all summer can be brought indoors for enjoyment during the winter. Many annuals, including marigolds and coleus, can be rooted from cuttings in vermiculite in five to seven days. Geraniums root easily in moist sand, but the rooting period is longer - up to one month. Ivy geranium tends to root quicker than bush types. Flowers or flower buds, if any, should be pinched off so they will not drain energy from the cutting.

To maintain humidity, cover rooting pots with a clear plastic bag. Leaves should not touch any part of the bag or they may rot. Check the cuttings daily and remove any decaying leaves immediately, otherwise the entire cutting may be lost. Rooting medium should be kept moist, but not soggy. During the rooting period keep the cutting in a well-lit spot, but out of direct sunlight to avoid over heating inside the plastic bag.

Within seven to ten days, the roots will grow about one inch long - ready for transplanting into pots filled with potting soil mix. When potted up, the plants should be protected from direct sunlight for the first two or three days. After that, place them in a bright, south facing window. To produce a bushier plant with more flowering branches, pinch off the tips of the main stems after transplanting.

Healthy flowering plants growing in containers outdoors can be moved indoors for the winter. Cut them back to four to six inches so they can develop side branches. Select plants that have leaves remaining on these short stems. Petunias, geraniums, impatiens, and lantana, among other bedding plants and tender perennials, do well indoors. Coleus, impatiens, and some of the fibrous begonias will grow and bloom if placed in a south-facing window.

One very important precaution to take before moving plants into you home is to check them for insects and diseases. Eliminate pest problems to avoid introducing them to your houseplants.

Feed relocated flowering plants lightly and place them in a well-lit location, such as south or west windows. New leaves will soon emerge and will adapt to indoor conditions. Flowering plants should start blooming again in six to eight weeks. (Modified from Virginia Horticulture fact sheets).

Ulcer Medicine May Help Treat Viral Warts

Warts are caused by a human virus called a papillomavirus (HPV). About 10 percent of the population is affected, with children and young adults most commonly involved. Warts are more common in females than in males. The elderly are rarely affected by warts. Nongenital warts include common, plantar, and flat warts. Common warts develop around the fingernails and on the knees. Plantar warts develop on the bottom of the feet. Flat warts are most commonly observed on the back of the hands or on the neck or face.

Nondrug wart treatment in the physician's office often consists of cryotherapy (wart is frozen with liquid nitrogen and removed) or surgical removal by a laser. Most topical nonprescription medicines for wart removal contain salicyclic acid.

A new approach to wart treatment is with the use of oral medicines that stimulate the immune system. The treatment is called immunotherapy, and the medicine that is receiving a lot of attention cimetidine, a stomach acid blocking drug that has been used to treat gastric ulcers. The theory is that some persons who have warts also have T-cell defects in their immune systems. Supposedly, suppressor T-cells are inhibited by cimetidine. This action of cimetidine may make the immune system stronger.

Local Scouts Attend Camp

Members of the Potomac Council Webelos Scouts, Boy Scouts of America, recently gathered for their annual "Webelos-ree" at Potomac-Garrett State Forest.

A total of 111 Webelos scouts and over 40 leaders participated in the two-day camp. The theme of the camp, Webelos Olympics, was played out through competitions based on knot tying, flag etiquette, first aid, athletics, semaphore, and fire starting. The events were aimed to test not only the scouts' skills, but also their ability to cooperate and work as a team, an event spokesperson explained.

The scouts also assisted the forest rangers construct a nature trail which was initiated as part of an Eagle Scout service project. The weekend also included a large camp-fire meeting which featured songs, cheers, and skits provided by the campers.

The camp was coordinated by scouting volunteers and the park staff. Helping to direct the event were scout leaders Lee Thorne, Rick Kutchman, Larry Bruch, and Carol Perrachio; Forest Ranger Rick Wakefield; and forest naturalist Patty Glotfelty.

Boys in the first through fifth grades can become Cub Scouts. For membership information, interested parents may call the Potomac Council of the Boy Scouts of America at 729-1300.

PUNKIN' CHUCKIN' - Lots of pumpkins became airborne last Sunday as the third annual Pumpkin Chuck at the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area got underway. The Garrett County Amateur Radio Emergency Service (GCARES) took first place in the Autumn Glory contest after tossing their orange gourd a record 352.6 feet. Team Carbo, a new entry this year, placed second with a throw just shy of 147 feet, and the DNR Rangers lobbed their pumpkin to third place with a distance of nearly 144 feet. Plans are already initiated for next year's contest, so prospective entrants are urged to plan their "pumpkin chuckers" early and join in the fun next fall.

Forestry Board Members Hold State Meeting

The Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards met on October 6-7 in Easton. The Forestry Board members toured the new Preston State Nursery on Friday afternoon, and held their business meeting in the new buildings at the nursery. Friday evening the Board members had a program on the history of the Maryland Ranger and his role in forestry from the past to the present.

Trails have been developed to provide a challenging ride through the woodland. The Board members stopped briefly at the Wye Oak, a white oak that is recognized as Maryland's State Tree.

Bartlett Receives '95 Guardian Of Medicare Award

Representative Roscoe Bartlett (R-Sixth District) has been named a recipient of the 1995 Guardian of Medicare Award presented by United Seniors Association, "in recognition of remarkable dedication to maintaining and improving the quality and stability of senior's health care."

The award is presented by the leading organization of senior citizens opposed to high taxes and "Big Government" to those members of congress, "who have worked to preserve, protect, and strengthen the Medicare system. Representative Bartlett's valiant effort to save Medicare from bankruptcy is hereby honored."

USA, Inc. is an organization that has grown in just a few years to a 400,000-member organization of seniors dedicated to the concepts of smaller government, lower taxes, and balanced budgets.

The United Seniors Association's Medicare Reform Plan provides the foundation for the GOP plan now being debated in Congress. The USA, Inc. plan would solve the Medicare funding crisis while improving the benefits available to seniors without forcing working Americans to pay higher taxes, according to a spokesman for the organization.

Guardian Angels To Be Topic Of Inner Peace Talk

KAREN CRAMER

A free presentation about guardian angels, sponsored by the Salisbury, Pa., chapter of the Inner Peace Movement, will be given in Room 314 of the Garrett Community College Continuing Education Building on Friday, Oct. 30. The 45-minute presentation will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will feature national lecturer Karen Cramer.

Firefighters To Be Honored By Poster Contest

Suburban Propane, the nation's third largest provider of propane gas, is sponsoring a poster contest to promote safety and honor firefighters in the communities it serves.

The contest, titled "My Hero," seeks to honor the men and women on fire departments in large and small communities nationwide, according to a company spokesman.

"This is one way Suburban Propane can show its appreciation for those who put their lives on the line to safeguard others," company President Sal Quadrino said in announcing the contest. "In small towns and large, the role of firefighters, many of them volunteers, is vital to the community's safety. We applaud the hard work and dedication of these individuals."

The poster contest, the first of its kind by Suburban Propane, is open to children 5 to 12. Winners will be chosen on local, regional, area, and national levels.

The national winner will receive a $1,000 savings bond and camping equipment. Four winners at the area level will each receive an all-terrain bicycle and safety helmet, while 22 regional winners will receive back packs, lunch packs, and school supplies. A winner will also be chosen at each of the company's 350 local sales and service centers. Each will receive a T-shirt and hat.

Contest submissions must be 11 inches by 17 inches and must be received at the local Suburban Propane location no later than Wednesday, Nov. 29. For more information about the contest, persons may call the local center, listed in the phone book's Yellow Pages under "gas, liquefied" or "gas, propane."

Suburban Propane, headquartered in Whippany, N.J., serves 800,000 residential, commercial, industrial, and agricultural customers through 350 sales and service centers in 44 states coast to coast.

PASTOR APPRECIATION DINNER PLANNED - Local pro-life pastors are invited to be the guests of Allegany and Garrett County chapters of Maryland Right To Life at a Pastor Appreciation Dinner, scheduled for Nov. 10 at Frostburg State University's Lane Center. The dinner will begin at 6 p.m. The guest speaker for the event will be Gianna Jessen, a young woman who survived being born by a saline abortion, according to a chapter spokesperson. Miss Jessen will speak about her life and will sing songs she has written about her experiences. To reserve a dinner spot, pastors must RSVP to 301-689-3756 or 301-729-6040 by Oct. 24. Although some invitations were sent, they did not include a ticket, the spokesperson explained. Area pro-life pastors who did not receive an invitation are still welcome and are asked to RSVP as well. Local Right To Life chapter members are pictured as they prepare for the appreciation dinner. Shown left to right are Jimmy Sell, Maurice Miller, Vicki Thornton, Taune Witmer, Bess Nason, and Kim Warnick.

Insley Named As Nat'l Sales Award Winner

Victoria Insley was recognized as a 1995 National Sales Award winner at the annual convention of The Longaberger Company in Columbus, Ohio. In recognition of annual sales of more than $35,000, Insley, of Oakland, received among other gifts, an exclusive VIP basket. She was recognized as one of only 487 Associates nationwide achieving this level of sales.

The four-day convention, known as The Bee, attracted more than 8,000 attendees who attended several training sessions on a variety of topics ranging from available products to selling techniques. The awards ceremonies, like that conducted for Insley, are an annual highlight for the convention.

The Longaberger Company was founded in 1972 by Dave Longaberger, who began selling the hand-woven, hardwood maple baskets made by his father and his father's father. Today, the company is run by Longaberger and his two daughters, Tami Longaberger, president, and Rachel Longaberger Schmidt, chief operating officer. In addition to their famous Longaberger baskets, the company sells pottery and basket accessories.

Writers Slate Nov. 2 Program To Fight Hunger

It will be a time to "throw the book at hunger" on Thursday, November 2, as local writers and community leaders come together for Share Our Strength's fourth annual Writers Harvest: The National Reading. The event is the country's largest literary benefit to fight hunger.

Area poets Frank Fleckenstein, Keith Schlegel, Maggie Smith, Barbara Angle, James Hadra, and Karen Zealand will join community leaders Frostburg Mayor John Bambacus, Rev. Edward Chapman, and Frostburg State University President Catherine Gira at Frostburg's Main Street Books at 7:30 p.m.

The local group is part of more than 1,000 writers nationwide who will be reading from their works that night at over 300 bookstores and college campuses. Authors, booksellers, college students, and corporations are sharing their strength to help make this the largest Writers Harvest event in history. The local co-sponsors, the Western Maryland Writers' Workshop and Main Street Books, are donating time to organize the November 2 reading and the space in which to hold it. The Tombstone Cafe, Frostburg, is donating refreshments. National sponsorship by American Express enables Share Our Strength to distribute 100 percent of all local donations to the Western Maryland Food Bank.

"People might not realize it, but hunger is a problem in Western Maryland," said Barbara Hurd, director of the Western Maryland Writers' Workshop. "Thanks to the participation of local writers, community leaders and a large, enthusiastic literary audience in this area, we believe the Writers Harvest will bring attention to the hunger problem and help raise vital funds."

According to Bill Shore, founder and executive director of Share Our Strength, the response to this program is promising. "It is encouraging to see that legions of young people are reclaiming the mantle of community activism by getting involved with Writers Harvest," he said. "By organizing or going to a Writers Harvest event, our young people are learning that hunger is still a problem in the United States and that there's something they can do about it. Even something as simple as attending a reading can turn a person into a hunger activist."

Ticket prices for the Writers Harvest are $5 for students and $10 for non-students. Tickets are now available at Main Street Books in Frostburg and will be sold at the door. For more information, persons may call Main Street Books at (301) 689-5605 or Barbara Hurd at (301) 687-4238.

Fire Marshal Receives Arson Prevention Grant

The Office of the State Fire Marshal has been awarded a federal grant from the U.S. Fire Administration (USFA), a division of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). The grant is part, of a new $2 million arson prevention program enacted by Congress during the fall of 1994.

The state of Maryland was one of nine states that received a two-year grant of approximately $200,000.

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele advised the grant funds will be used to improve training of fire and arson investigators, develop a uniform mechanism for reporting arson incidents throughout Maryland by all jurisdictions of the state, and to initiate an arson prevention public fire safety education program.

The grant will also assist the Office of the State Fire Marshal to insure that arson data is forwarded to the National Fire Incident Reporting System (NFIRS) and the National Fire Data Center.

Commenting on the receipt of the funds, Gabriele stated, "I am extremely delighted that Maryland has been recognized by the U.S. Fire Administration and the Federal Emergency Management Agency as a leader in the continuing fight against arson. The Office of the State Fire Marshal will work with all the political subdivisions of the state to insure that a concerted effort is waged against this insidious crime."

Hunter Safety Courses Slated

New Germany State Park will host hunter safety education classes beginning Oct. 31, Nov. 2, and Nov. 4.

Persons interested in participating in a class may reserve a seat by calling the New Germany office at 895-5453. Persons on the reservation list will be contacted as dates for classes are scheduled throughout the year.

Maryland laws require successful completion of a hunter safety education class prior to the initial purchase of a hunting license, an event spokesperson stated.

SHATTERING THE COURSE RECORDS In yesterday's Garrett County Cross County Championships at Broadford Park were Southern High School's Todd Howard and Northern's Rachel Leverenz, pictured above just a few dozen yards from the finish line. Howard, who has led the undefeated Southern boys all season, finished the hilly, 3.1-mile course with a time of 16 minutes, 56 seconds, while Leverenz, a leader on a strong Northern girls' team, finished in 21:22. It was the first time Leverenz had ever run on the Southern course. The Southern High teams won the meet, as the two-time defending state champion Southern boys, coached by Carl Booth, upped their season record to an incredible 58-0. See details on the sports pages.

Alcohol, Speed Said Factors In Fatal Accident

Alcohol and speed were apparently factors in an accident Thursday evening on Interstate 68 that claimed the life of a Grantsville man.

According to a report filed by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater, Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, 26-year-old Robert Michael Martin died when he lost control of his vehicle in the westbound lanes of I-68 near the Casselman River, causing the car to strike a culvert, and overturn several times. Upon impact, Martin was ejected from the vehicle.

Also responding to the 9:55 p.m. accident were volunteers from the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Grantsville fire department.

Martin was born Feb. 22, 1969, in Cumberland, a son of Bonnie Jean (Hanlin) Martin, Grantsville.

He was a 1987 graduate of Northern High School and was employed as a carpenter for Byco Enterprises. He was a member of the Frostburg Church of the Brethren.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by one brother, Joseph Wayne Martin, Grantsville.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, where a service was conducted Monday, Oct. 23, with the Rev. T. William Preston officiating. Interment followed in Frostburg Memorial Park.

FLU SHOTS STILL AVAILABLE - Garrett County Health Department staff recently set up shop in the countycourt house to offer flu shots to county personnel and government officials. County Commissioner Roger Glotfelty, right, received his flu shot from GCHD employee Eric Cvetnick, left. Three more flu clinics remain: at the Oakland American Legion hall on Oct. 27 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., at the Oakland American Legion hall on Nov. 3 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and at the Grantsville Health Center on Nov. 8 from 2 to 5 p.m. Influenza shots are $7 and pneumococcal vaccines are available for a separate cost of $14.

Lake Purchase Bill May Be On Hold Until '97

A draft bill aimed to empower land owners in Garrett County Tax District 18 to purchase the 4,500 Deep Creek Lake-bed and buffer-strip will most likely not be submitted to the Maryland General Assembly until January of 1997.

This statement came from Mike Belmonte, president of the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association (POA), at this week's meeting of the Deep Creek Lake Advisory and Review Committee (DCLARC).

Belmonte said that he and his associates plan to meet next month with representatives of the Pennsylvania Electric Company (Penelec) to discuss the lake purchase proposal. Penelec currently owns the lake bed and strip surrounding the lake.

Belmonte commented that he would like to see the enabling bill introduced during the upcoming session of the General Assembly, slated to begin January 1, 1996, but added that more time may be needed to gain public approval for the plan.

"I've talked to a lot of people with a lot of background, not only down in Annapolis, but in Garrett County - key people in Garrett County - who think it's feasible, it's a good alternative," Belmonte said. "Only it's going to take time to accomplish."

The lake purchase bill would enable Tax District 18 land owners to elect a board of governors which would have the authority to float state-backed bonds to buy the lake-bed and surrounding buffer strip. According to the plan, the Maryland Department of

Parents, Staff Incensed With BOE Members For Questioning NHS Event

With over 100 parents, teachers, and administrators filling the planetarium classroom last Thursday evening, the tension was plainly evident between them and at least three members of the Garrett County Board of Education. The issue at hand was Wellness Day, which was held yesterday at Northern High School under the direction of Principal Martin Green and several parents and student volunteers.

This is the third year for Wellness Day at Northern. It is scheduled to be in conjunction with Red Ribbon Week and the main focus of the event is to offer students alternatives to drugs and alcohol. Over 30 "seminars" were offered to the students yesterday, of which the pupils had preregistered to attend four. Green said the seminars were loosely divided into three groups: anti-drugs and alcohol, fitness, and entertainment.

Invitations to Wellness Day were sent out to special guests about a week before the event, and board member Patrick Riley became concerned about some of the topics included in the seminar list. He expressly objected to astrology, and also voiced his anxiety about acupuncture and massage therapy. He reportedly informed Rodney Durst, board president, about his concerns, as well as Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of schools. Ryscavage directed Riley to talk with Green about the event, and Riley did so via a telephone call.

During that phone call, Riley asked Green if he would consider striking the astrology session, but the principal stated that he would not do that. Green explained to Riley that the seminars were chosen by the school's Wellness Committee, the MSAT, or Maryland Students Assistance Team, as well as by the school improvement team (SIT) and other parents and students. He also explained that all seminar topics passed by his desk and he asked many questions before agreeing to include them. Riley reportedly told him that the board would call a special meeting and have the astrology session stricken. Green stated that this kind of action was not in the board's power, but Riley apparently disagreed.

The special meeting opened with Durst announcing that the session was "not an indictment of Mr. Green or of Wellness Day." He then asked the school principal to describe the event, and Green spoke about the history of Wellness Day.

"We have received two Governor's Citations for our efforts, as well as two Gold Certificates," Green said. "The state has to consider an event to have the highest standard of excellence in order to grant a Gold Certificate." Gesturing to a stack of papers on the board members' table, Green continued: "You have in front of you over 500 signed permission slips from parents who have agreed to allow their children to take part in Wellness Day. We have never been questioned about this event. In fact, we have received nothing but praise

Oakland WWII Veteran Receives Bronze Star For Combat Service

As part of ongoing events across the nation commemorating the 50th anniversary of the conclusion of World War II, U.S. Army veteran Earl H. Shuttleworth, Oakland, was invited to the Pentagon to receive the Bronze Star for his service in the Pacific Theater.

Shuttleworth's unit, nicknamed the Red Arrow Division for the patches they wore on their uniforms, was the first unit to defeat the Japanese in ground combat. The battle took place in New Guinea in 1942.

"I didn't know if we were the first ones or not, but I knew we defeated them," Shuttleworth remarked this week as he recalled the historic skirmish.

The recent pentagon ceremony was scheduled to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the Japanese surrender, which occurred on Sept. 9, 1945. Shuttleworth received the medal from Major General John R. D'Araujo Jr., director of the Army National Guard.

Along with the Bronze Star, Shuttleworth was presented with a painting depicting U.S. Army infantrymen serving in the South Pacific and an awards box displaying his other military medals: the Asiatic Pacific Theater Ribbon, WWII Victory Medal, Good Conduct Medal, American Defense Service Ribbon, Combat Infantryman Badge, and Presidential Unit Citation.

A Garrett County native, Shuttleworth was drafted into the Army National Guard, 32nd Division, while living in Detroit in 1941. His unit soon shipped out to serve in the South Pacific.

During his stint in New Guinea, Shuttleworth's unit was stricken with malaria and were sent to Australia to recuperate.

"Our whole outfit was way below strength," he commented.

After convalescing on the Australian continent, Shuttleworth and his comrades traveled back to New Guinea, and then to the Philippines where he completed his tour of duty.

While serving in the Pacific Theater, Shuttle-

Shuttleworth's army unit was the first to defeat the Japanese military in a land battle. See story.

The Foreigner To Be Presented At GCC Theatre

The Foreigner, a comedy for mature audiences set in a Georgia fishing lodge resort, will be presented by the Garrett Community College Theatre department on November 2, 3, and 4 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Written by Larry Shue, author of the classic comedy The Nerd, the play demonstrates what can happen when a group of devious characters must deal with a stranger who they think knows no English. The conflict occurs when British demolition expert "Foggy" LeSueur, a frequent visitor to the fishing lodge, brings along his shy friend, Charlie, who is overcome with fear at the thought of making conversation with strangers.

Heading the cast are Mike Guthrie as "Foggy" and Richard Hill as Charlie. Peg Janney plays the role of Betty Meeks, owner of the lodge, and Shawn Spiker as the Rev. David Marshall Lee. Other visitors to the lodge are Susan Bell as Cathering Simms, Ryan Anderson as Ellard Simms, and Mike Rexrode as Owen Musser.

The Foreigner is being directed by Jane Avery, with costumes design by Joan Sussman and scenery and lighting design by Ben Sincell. The play is produced by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service, Inc., New York, and funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Tickets will be available at the door. Admission is $5 adults and $2 students.

Money Pyramid Scheme Reported In Garrett County

The Republican office has received several phone calls this week concerning an alleged illegal money pyramid scheme that is reportedly circulating throughout Garrett County.

According to State's Attorney Jim Sherbin, this scheme "falls squarely into the Fraud Pyramid Promotional Scheme." When caught, those involved face a $10,000 fine, or one year in jail. "These schemes sound very good, because people think they are getting something for nothing," Sherbin said, "but eventually someone has to lose."

At least one caller has stated that some law officials are involved in the money pyramid, but the state's attorney maintains that neither he, nor anyone in his office, is involved.

Sherbin further noted his office will not intervene until a complaint is filed by one of the participants. "When that happens," he said, "the law officials have an obligation to initiate an investigation and make arrests."

Sheriff's Office Warns Public Of Telephone Scam

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office has issued a warning concerning a telephone scam currently underway in the local area. According to the report, the caller says he is from the "R.S. Publishers" in Cerritos, Calif., and that the recipient of the call has won a pound of gold.

The caller then tells the recipient that he or she has to send money to a post office box in order to receive the gold.

The local sheriff's office has apparently contacted Cerritos police and discovered that there is no R.S. Publishers. Any person who receives such a call should contact the sheriff's office at 334-1911.

Raccoon Found To Be Rabid

The Garrett County Health Department has reported the year's 15th rabies case. A raccoon was killed by a vaccinated dog on the morning of Oct. 21. The wild animal was later confirmed rabid by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Laboratories.

The incident with the dog occurred at a residence along Route 50 near Gorman. There was no other pet or human exposed to the diseased animal, according to the release from the health department. The dog will receive a rabies booster vaccination and will be under observation for 90 days.

All 15 rabies cases this year have been raccoons. The public is reminded to avoid contact with any wild animal behaving oddly, or any pet that may have come into contact with a possibly diseased animal. All pets should be vaccinated against the disease.

Sheriff Issues Trick-Or-Treat Caution, Advice

"Soon our streets will be scattered with little ghosts, goblins, and witches trick-or-treating this Halloween," said Garrett County Sheriff Randy Sines. To make sure this is an enjoyable and safe Halloween, the sheriff has issued safety tips.

Parents should remember when designing children's costumes that face paint is preferable to masks. Masks should have adequate holes for proper respiration and peripheral vision. All trick-or-treaters should wear some sort of a reflective clothing and should carry a bright orange bag and flashlight or glowstick to make it easier for passing cars to spot them while they walk on the sidewalk. If there is no sidewalk, children should always walk on the left side of the road facing traffic.

Young children should always be accompanied by an adult, Sines said. Either a parent or older child should stay within close range at all times and never let the children go down a street by themselves. Parents should walk with the children to each house and wait in the driveway or by the door until the children return.

Older children should travel in pairs or in groups at all times while trick-or-treating and should never venture down a dark, empty side street. Parents should know the route that their children are following. Children should always walk together to the front door of each house and never run across the street or across the yard, and dark, unlighted houses should be avoided.

"Tell your children to save all their candy until they get home," Sines advised. All candy should be closely inspected, and unwrapped or suspicious-looking candy should be thrown away.

"If your child does get sick, try to determine what he or she has eaten and where it came from. Call your doctor or the hospital emergency room immediately and save all wrappers," the sheriff said.

Persons are also reminded that jack-o'-lanterns or any electrical decorations can be fire hazards, and they should be kept out of reach of small children and away from flammable materials such as draperies, furniture, and paper decorations.

"Halloween is a fun time in Garrett County," Sines said. "Let's make it a safe time as well."

NEW VOTING MACHINES ARRIVE - Two of Garrett County's 20 new voting machines were recently delivered to the offices of the Garrett County Board of Elections. After the election staff becomes fully acquainted with the operation of the new system, public education sessions will be held at post offices, libraries, and club meetings throughout the county. Pictured, Fred Sanders of the election board inserts a mock ballot into one of the new vote counters. One of these counters will be stationed at each polling place on election day. As ballots are inserted into each machine, a running tally is kept in a "memory pack" located in the back of the device. When the polls close, the memory packs from the 20 polls will be delivered to the county courthouse where a computer will tabulate the election results.

Two-Vehicle Mishap Results In DWI Charge

A Friendsville man was charged with DWI following a two-vehicle accident late Saturday evening on U.S. Rt. 40, near the intersection with Rt. 219.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Richard Suter, 43, who was traveling east on Rt. 40, was charged with the offense after his 1991 Toyota truck was struck by a westbound 1982 Plymouth operated by 18-year-old Robert A. Durst, Fort Hill, Pa. Durst was attempting to make a left turn, and traveled into the path of Suter's vehicle, causing a collision, police said.

A passenger in Suter's vehicle, Elizabeth Mae Suter, 34, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she was reportedly treated and released.

Durst was also charged with a traffic violation, following the 10:42 p.m. accident.

TWO INJURED

An Aurora, W.Va., woman and a toddler were injured Tuesday afternoon after the truck they were traveling in along Rt. 219 South ran off the road and overturned.

Rebecca L. Michaels, 26, and 1-year-old Amber R. Watts were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 2:15 p.m. accident, where they were reportedly treated and released.

State police said Michaels was operating her 1995 Ford truck north on Rt. 219, near the Monte Vista Road, when the vehicle traveled off the road and onto the shoulder, where it overturned several times.

Two Charged In Apparent Street Fight Monday

Two local men were arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week following an apparent street fight in Oakland. Charged in the incident were Benjamin J. Shaffer, 21, Deer Park, and Charles J. Getson, 20, Mtn. Lake Park.

According to a report, the police responded to the Freeman Ambulance Service parking lot in Oakland and found James R. Freeman lying on the ground, bleeding. He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad and was treated and released, according to the report.

The fight among the individuals also involved Melissa Raines and Margaret Harvey, who were both apparently battered as well. Getson and Shaffer were both charged with assault and battery, two counts of battery, malicious destruction of property, and trespassing.

In other sheriff's office news, a Grantsville man was arrested on one count of theft. Richard L. Thomas, 28, is accused of taking tools belonging to Richard A. Wright. The tools were taken on Aug. 1 and the defendant has apparently failed to return them. A bench warrant was also issued for Thomas for violation of probation.

Bench warrants were issued for the arrests of the following individuals: Donald W. Matthew, 48, Bayard, W.Va., for violation of probation; Sylvia J. Moore, 41, Point Marion, Pa., for failure to appear in court; Donald C. Virts II, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, for failure to appear; and David M. Lebon, 22, Bayard, W.Va. (charge not reported).

Theft Reported

Webster B. Fazenbaker, Grantsville, contacted the sheriff's office about a breaking and entering and theft. Fazenbaker said he and his family left their home on Oct. 17 from 8:30 until 11 p.m. and during that time, someone broke into the house through a basement window.

Stolen from the home was a 30-30 Marlin lever action rifle, valued at $100. The gun was in a closet, according to the report.

Wilt Comments On New County Voting Machines

Following the recent decision by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to purchase new voting machines for the county, Commissioner Wayne Wilt stressed that the new system, priced at $175,000, is needed by the county.

Wilt commented that the old machines are in poor condition and asserted that maintaining the old system would cost more in the long run.

The board voted two-to-one to buy the new system, with Commissioner John Braskey dissenting. At that time, Braskey stated that he was satisfied with the old machines.

During a recent commissioner meeting, Wilt noted that as of this January, a new law will prohibit the county from amending the local voter rolls by removing the names of persons who have not voted in the past five years. If the old voting machine system was kept in use after January, he explained, the county would have to buy a new machine to accommodate each 400 new voters.

Wilt also commented that the county election board has informed him that the old machines are in need of $8,000 to $10,000 in repairs, and that two to three of the old machines are damaged beyond repair. When these machines were purchased by the county in 1977, he added, they were already used.

The county has experienced problems with the old machines during recent election years, Wilt noted.

The purchase price of the new system includes storage and maintenance of the equipment, as well as transportation of the machines to and from the polls on election day, Wilt commented. He added that the supplier will also update the machines to keep them in accordance with state election laws.

Columbia Gas Given Approval To Hike Rates

Columbia Gas of Maryland received approval Friday from the Maryland Public Service Commission for an annual increase in base rates of about $900,000, effective for bills rendered after Oct. 19.

Columbia had requested an increase in base rates of $1.9 million in a filing in March.

Gary J. Robinson, Columbia Gas of Maryland president, said: "The increase will help us continue to provide safe and reliable service to our customers. We make every effort to provide the best quality service at the lowest possible costs."

He said the company had requested the increase to respond to higher operating costs and increased ongoing capital expenses, including the enhancement of its distribution pipeline system primarily in the Cumberland area.

With the increase, the average monthly bill of the typical residential customer using 9,000 cubic feet of gas a month will increase from $54.54 to $56.58 or by 3.7 percent.

Robinson pointed out that, even with the increase, customers will still be paying about 18 percent less than they were paying in 1983.

"Natural gas remains the best energy value available today," he said.

Columbia Gas of Maryland is the third largest natural gas utility in the state, serving more than 31,000 customers in 20 communities -- including Hagerstown and Cumberland --in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Grantsville Man Slightly Injured In Two-Vehicle Mishap

A Grantsville man was slightly injured Thursday afternoon in a two-vehicle accident on Liberty Street, Oakland.

Daniel D. Sarver, 30, was injured after he lost control of the 1975 Dodge pickup truck he was operating, and struck a 1992 Volvo tractor, operated by Roger W. Paugh, 49.

According to a report filed by the Oakland City Police, Sarver was traveling west on Liberty Street, near the Oakland-Rosedale Road, when he lost control of his vehicle on the wet roadway, and skidded into the path of Paugh's tractor.

Southern Garrett Rescue Squad responded to the scene, but Sarver apparently did not require transport to the hospital. Paugh was not injured, police said.

Sarver was charged with speed greater than reasonable, following the 3:48 p.m. accident.

Food For Thought

McClive's Restaurant

Flavor French toast batter with Grand Marnier or orange juice concentrate and a spoonful of grated orange peel. Adds a nice counterpoint to the rich soak of eggs and half-and-half.

Boneless chicken breast halves with the skin left on provide a handy "pocket" to tuck in a flavorful mixture of goat cheese, shallots and parsley. Or a paste of herbs, mustard and olive oil.

Salad Nicoise is just as good warm. Season boiled potatoes and steamed green beans in vinaigrette while you cook the tuna steaks. Serve on salad greens.

Parmesan cheese is a dieter's friend; it's got more taste than calories. One teaspoon has only 8 calories, but it's enough to flavor a whole bowl of steamed vegetables.

Quick and easy trip to the Orient: ¼ cup soy sauce, 1 Tb. each sesame oil and chopped ginger, plus 1 tsp. minced garlic and a pinch of sugar. Marinate fish 10 minutes to two hours.

GCC Trustees Hear FY'95 Audit Report

The Garrett Community College Board of Trustees met recently at the college to hear a Fiscal Year 1995 audit report from the college's accountants, Rodeheaver & Associates, represented by Jim Murray.

The purpose of the audit report, according to Murray, was to express an opinion of the college's financial statements. He used information from FY'94 for comparative purposes, and to inform the board about the college's financial position as of June 30, 1995.

During his report, Murray told the board the college had a net increase of $119,259 in its fund balance for the past fiscal year. That compares favorably to the year before, Murray said, when GCC had a loss of $53,365. This increase includes the total surplus realized from the auxiliary enterprises (bookstore, and cafeteria). Of the total surplus for the year, $114,320 of that is from operations, and the additional $4,939 was attributable to the auxiliary enterprises, according to Murray.

The college's revenues were up approximately 11 percent from the previous year, Murray noted, and the total full-time equivalency (FTE) showed a significant increase (12 percent) from the year before. The total FTE was 750 for FY'95, compared to 668 in FY'94. Because of increased enrollment, and an increased FTE, the college was able to lower the cost of each FTE, from $5,741, to $5,447.

Overall, Murray noted, the audit showed no instances of non-compliance with the laws and regulations of the Government Auditing Standards, and that there were no material weaknesses in the college's internal control structure.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Dr. Stephen Herman, president of the college, introduced Barbara Frey, program coordinator for the New Horizons program, from the college's Department of Continuing Education.

Frey was asked to meet with the board of trustees at least once a year to let the members know what is happening with the New Dimensions program for displaced homemakers, to keep the board up-to-date about possible funding cuts, and what is currently happening with New Horizons grants.

The New Dimensions grant, according to Frey, is funded through the Women's Services Division of the Department of Human Resources. A five-year grant, it is currently in its second year, and is designed to serve persons 30 years of age and older. This grant, Frey said, serves as a "stepping stone" into the program's New Horizons and Caring Connection grants.

Data which was compiled on the entire funding operation of the New Horizons program, now in its 16th year, was presented to the board. It showed the number of clients served, the number of persons who have been enrolled in credit and non-credit courses, the number of FTE's generated, the number who received tuition assistance through the program, and the number who received child care and transportation assistance during the program's existence. The same was shown for the Caring Connection program, which has been in operation for seven years at GCC.

Frey told the trustees that she has, and will continue to attempt to look for funding sources for the program, and appealed to the board to continue funding if grant money fails. "This is an important program that reaches out to people who otherwise wouldn't have the opportunity to secure an education," said Charles "Bus" Bender, chairman of the trustees, "and we'll cross that bridge when we come to it. For now, let's hope you can continue to get adequate funding."

ACADEMIC REPORT

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, told the board the final head count for the semester revealed a new record - 733 students, compared to 712 (a 3 percent increase) enrolled at the same time last year. The full-time equivalency (FTE) generation is 246.27, compared to 246.8 last year (or one-half FTE lower than last year).

FINANCIAL REPORT

"Good enrollment equates to good tuition levels," said Comptroller Michelle Quinn, who told the board of trustees that the "revenue for the year is looking good at this point."

The college is continuing in its favorable cash position, Quinn said, and received a state payment in July, as well as "a lot of up front grant money." In October, the college had high cash disbursements, she noted, as a roofing project was completed, and grant purchases were made.

It was also noted that the college's short-term investment policy, recommended by Quinn, and board members Earl Clark and Charles Bender, was ready to submit to the state. After review by the board of trustees, the policy was approved.

OTHER BUSINESS

Dr. Herman told the board that GCC has been notified that it will receive its next accreditation team visit, possibly in the spring of 1998. Accreditation, according to the president, is a process of self-regulation by which external peers review a higher education institution and make judgmeets standards for reaffirmation of accreditation. mation of accreditation.

The next board meeting is set for Nov. 21.

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

Paving Project Complete - At last, the long awaited Roads Rehabilitation Project is complete. On behalf of the Town of Oakland, I would like to thank all of the residents and travelers in Oakland for their patience and cooperation. Progress does not always come easily.

Leaf Collection - The Oakland Street Department has begun the annual process of leaf collection. Residents are asked to rake their leaves to the curb or sidewalk for pick-up. This process will continue until November 16, 1995. Please do not rake apples and sticks in with your leaves. These items could cause harm to town employees, or damage to the equipment. After Nov. 16th deadline, residents will be required to bag their leaves for pick-up or removal.

Trick-or-Treating - The Town of Oakland, in conjunction with the other towns in the area, will hold Trick-or-Treating on Saturday, October 28, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. This should be limited to children under 13 years of age. If you wish to have Trick-or-Treaters, please have your porch light on during this time.

Cable Upgrade - The Town of Oakland has recently learned that the new cable upgrade will go on line sometime in December. This means that residents of Oakland will have the new channel line-up at that time. The basic service provides 17 channels for a cost of $8.95. The expanded service includes 41 channels (17 from the basic service plus 24 additional channels) and will be $21.90. Residents will still be able to subscribe to premium channels such as HBO, Cinemax, Disney, and others at various additional charges. Residents will receive a notice from Triax in the near future, giving more details.

Bradley Manor becomes "The Glades Development" - At last, the final remains of Bradley Manor are gone forever, and "The Glades Development" will replace it. "The Glades West" is fast becoming the site of a 32-unit townhouse facility, as well as "The Yough West," a 32-unit elderly housing facility. In addition, this area will be the site of the new "Glades Town Park." This park will provide much needed recreation facilities, including but not limited to basketball courts, a volleyball court, a pond for fishing and ice skating, a playground for children, and a walking path for all ages.

DWI/FALSE REPORT ARREST

A Garrett County teenager was arrested Oct. 18, and charged with DWI (driving while intoxicated), and giving a false report to a police officer.

Tfc. E.S. Derham said 18-year-old David Emery Harmon, McHenry, was reportedly involved in a single-vehicle accident near Garrett Hall near the Garrett Community College campus. He had run his vehicle into a field near the residence hall, but initially told the officer someone had stolen it. He later admitted his involvement in the accident, according to a state police spokesperson.

Harmon was also charged with negligent driving, and underage drinking following the 7:30 p.m. mishap.

DWI ARRESTS

Five additional DWI arrests were logged at the local state police barrack during the past week.

Allen C. Hedrick, 42, Parsons, was arrested and charged with DWI on Oct. 17, by Tfc. W. Mowbray.

Charles E. Mann, 45, Hermitage, Tenn., was charged with DWI on Oct. 19, by Tfc. J.K. Moore.

James R. Lauch, 32, Oakland, was arrested on a DWI charge on Oct. 21, by Tfc. P.R. Brown.

Richard Suter, 43, Friendsville, was charged with DWI following a two-vehicle accident, Oct. 21, on U.S. Rt. 40, near the intersection with Rt. 219. (See related report.) The charging officer was Tfc. G.A. Seaman.

Larry Bittinger, 28, Grantsville, was arrested and charged with DWI on Oct. 22, by Tfc. M. Clapper.

Terra Alta Men Charged With Assault, Battery

Two Terra Alta, W.Va., men were arrested Sunday morning and charged by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, with assault and battery charges.

Terry Ricks, 24, was charged with assault, battery, and destruction of property, and Brian Hicks, 18, was charged with assault and battery, after they reportedly attacked Paul Kidwell, Albright, W.Va., with a pool stick, and a wooden board.

State police said Ricks and Hicks were following Kidwell on Rt. 219, in McHenry, and attempted to run him off the road. Both vehicles stopped along the road, and the assault began.

GCSO Charges Two Young Men Following Early Morning Wreck

Two local teenagers were charged for various offenses by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Maryland State Police following a one-vehicle crash at 1:30 Wednesday morning. The driver of the pickup truck was cited for several traffic violations, while a passenger in the vehicle who had been transported to the hospital was arrested for assaulting a police officer.

According to the report, a 17-year-old juvenile was operating a pickup truck southbound on Cranesville Road when he failed to negotiate an intersection with Swallow Falls Road. The truck went off the road and hit an embankment and two trees.

Eric L. DeWitt, 19, was a passenger in the vehicle and sustained minor injuries in the crash. He was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he allegedly became belligerent and combative. A sheriff's deputy and MSP Trooper G.A. Seaman were attempting to subdue the defendant when DeWitt reportedly began to fight with the trooper, verbally threatening his life. He was arrested and charged with assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest, according to the report. The trooper sustained only minor scratches in the scuffle.

The juvenile driver was cited by the sheriff's office for underage drinking, failure to remain at the scene of a bodily injury accident, negligent driving, failure to drive right of center, and speeding.

MSP Probing Reported Thefts

The Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, are currently investigating several reported breaking and enterings, and thefts.

David Thomas, Friendsville, told state police that someone broke into his barn and stole a 1995 Honda 4x4, 400 Foreman, and a Stihl weedeater. The theft occurred on Sunday, Oct. 22.

Tfc. Randy Tarburton is continuing his investigation, and asks anyone with information to call the barrack at 387-1101.

Barry L. Trice, Youngwood, Pa., reported that between Oct. 8 and 20, someone broke into his vacation home on the Oakland-Sang Run Road, and stole 10 bottles of liquor, a six-pack of beer, and a portable fish finder.

Tfc. P.R. Brown is investigating.

The theft of several cassette tapes were reported stolen from a car parked, Oct. 18, at Garrett Community College. Emma Lou Reckart, Cranesville, W.Va., reported to Tfc. E.S. Derham that the culprits damaged the lock on the vehicle's hatch, and removed the tapes.

It's Illegal, Folks...

Our office received some calls this week informing us that there is a money pyramid scheme going on right now in Garrett County, with one caller alleging that at least one local law enforcement officer was among the participants. Evidently it takes $2,000 to "play" and one's $2,000 investment yields a quick $17,000 return. Not bad.

The only problem is, such a scheme is blatantly and totally illegal, as those involved face a maximum fine of $10,000 and up to one year in jail. The reason it is illegal is that simple mathematics dictates that those located at the bottom of the pyramid when the scheme finally breaks get no return on their $2,000 investment; in fact, they lose all of their $2,000.

This issue was selected for this column today primarily to let people know that this is indeed an illegal activity, which may not be known by many who have already participated in it or have been approached about it. "You don't get something for nothing" is one cliche that comes to mind, along with "There's no such thing as a free lunch," "Easy come, easy go (to jail?)," and "A fool and his money are soon parted."

We are particularly concerned about local elderly residents who may be on a fixed income, but are willing to invest their relatively small savings in this scheme. We were told that others, who do not have the money to participate, have been going to local banks and taking out 60- and 90-day notes for the $2,000 ante.

Someone is going to get burned in this, either by losing his money or being arrested for playing, or perhaps both. It's just a matter of time. Let's stop the scheme now by refusing to participate if and when we are propositioned.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Several months ago my wife, son, and I decided we would move to Arizona this fall so that I may attend a tech school. After school, we planned to come back and open a small business for ourselves.

In an attempt to stop our dreams, on Tuesday October 17, 1995, the Garrett Co. Sheriff's Office Narcotic Unit and the Garrett co. Narcotic Task Force entered our home with a search and seizure warrant signed by Judge Ralph Burnett. The warrant was based on what they said was "probable cause." Five police officers and one K-9 searched our home and didn't find anything, no drugs, no drug paraphernalia, nothing at all.

The warrant was based on information given by two "confidential informants" - also known as NARCS - who got themselves in trouble with the law. To lessen the charges against them, or get out of trouble completely, they give the police information about someone else, whether the information is true or not. The police say their informants have been trustworthy and proven reliable. If that's the case, why was nothing found in our home?

We are outraged, angry, and injured by this blatant misuse of taxpayer dollars to fund raids on the homes of innocent people at the direction of criminals. How could this happen? Your home may be next.

As a former resident of Garrett County, I (Doug Ellis) have always known that the Southern Rescue Squad was a first rate organization and we had the opportunity to experience that first hand when we were involved in an automobile accident on Maryland Route 39 after th Autumn Glory parade. The other three people in the car were from Frostburg and Cumberland and were impressed with the care and efficiency of the squad members.

The Southern Rescue Squad arrived on the scene in less than three minutes and took control. A total of eight people were injured and needed treatment before they were transported to the hospital. Within three minutes they had given medical treatment to all of us. When my daughter arrived at the accident site she had an asthmatic attack and also required medical attention.

The Southern Rescue Squad is certainly a great asset to the community and sometimes we tend to forget the long hours they volunteer to the community. We would also like to thank the Oakland Fire Department, the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Emergency Room staff, Dr. Adams, Dr. Domenick, and anyone else whose name we may have inadvertently omitted.

The care and concern that all of these people showed us certainly made a difficult situation bearable. Words cannot express the gratitude we feel for everyone who responded to our needs. We wish everyone the best and we believe a special place in Heaven is waiting for all of these volunteers who so unselfishly give so much of their time to help others.

Sincerely,
Doug Ellis

What is Halloween? Just the most celebrated holiday of the church of Satan! Halloween centers around things that are evil and scary. Many costumes picture evil creatures which are enemies of God our creator. The Bible tells us in Deuteronomy 18:10 through 13 to have nothing to do with such things.

Halloween is a horrible thing for those who are being sacrificed in the name of Satan. Some of those little ones or adults are kidnapped for the purpose of sacrifice while others are born to Satan worshippers for the purpose of being sacrificed.

The devil is very good at making things look wonderful on the outside that are wrong on the inside.

To the Editor:

At the special Board of Education meeting held last Thursday, Mr. Riley, a member of the Board of Education, insisted that astrology is a religion, and as such, should not be given the 40-minute time slot at the Northern Wellness Day (which in the past has received many awards). This is one of 30 offerings voluntarily chosen by student and approved by parents. Mrs. Sebold apparently jumped on the bandwagon and used fear of the Board being sued as a basis for her support of Mr. Riley's view. Not any of the hundreds of people involved in the development of the program or in the signing of the permission slips ever thought of such a connection! As I understand, the curriculum was chosen by students, parents, and administrators. Astrology was chosen under the entertainment section! When asked what he thought of astrology, Mr. Green, the principal of Northern High School, replied that there was a good reason it was on the same page as the "funny papers."

Almost any subject can be turned into a religion if someone is fanatical about it. What logic could Mr. Riley and Mrs. Sebold possibly be following? All I could think was that they were wasting a lot of Mr. Green's time and energy when he could be doing his job, which I might add, he does very well.

I for one will be following very closely what this school board is doing in the future, and I hope other people will do the same. I only hope that the school board will stop making mountains out of molehills and let the teachers and administration do their jobs!.

James Lee Railey Jr.

To the Editor:

I think it was totally inappropriate for Mr. Riley to bring in two pastors to a board meeting under the guise of presenting "information" (the only two people, by the way, who spoke in support of Mr. Riley's and Mrs. Sebold's point of view.) It was obvious after their first couple of sentences that they represented the extreme and were putting forth their religious opinion, not facts. One of the pastors said he thought that he would be talking to just the board and Mr. Green, the principal of Northern High, and that he would rather not speak, but submit his statement in writing. The other pastor stated that he didn't have a lot of time to prepare. So it was quite obvious that Mr. Riley had let them know just what he wanted from them. What he didn't count on was over a hundred other people listening in!

I don't think there was any intention on the part of the audience, made up primarily of very devout Christians and including members of the clergy, who had no problem with the Wellness Curriculum, to be rude in any way. It is extremely difficult, however, for everyone to sit in silence with no reaction whatsoever when such untruths as "massage therapy, acupuncture, and astrology are religious or occult in nature" are spoken, or it is insinuated by someone with obviously no knowledge of Garrett County schools that "this must be why Johnny can't read," (quoting one pastor whom Mr. Riley brought in), and that we don't place tremendous emphasis on academics! For many people there, it was their first brush with this board and I believe they were quite shocked! For those of us who have been attending the meetings regularly, it came as no surprise. All I can say is, keep attending the meetings.

I think it would be very beneficial for the Board of Education to make a public apology to the administration, teachers, parents, and students of Northern High School for insulting their intelligence, wasting their time with such a meeting, and abusing their authority.

Please "stop the insanity" and let the teachers and administration get back to what they are educated to do...teach our children!

Sincerely,
Susan R. Bell

To the Editor:

If Mr. Riley is at all serious in his wish to have parent input, then I hope he got a clear message from the meeting the other afternoon. I think you would have had three times as many parents supporting Mr. Green there if it had not been scheduled for 4:30 when many parents that wanted to be there still had to work.

Mr. Riley came into office with a very false sense of what was going on in Garrett County schools (we don't and never did run abortion clinics out of our schools, as he assumed, we don't and never did give out condoms, we do teach phonics as part of our reading program) and is still insisting on attacking programs without having any idea what they're all about.

I hate to see a school system that has recently made such great improvements in academic and general ratings reach the point of stagnation because of the very narrow-minded viewpoints and personal biases of some of the board members.

To the Editor:

After returning from the "information only" special meeting called by our "elected" Board of Education concerning the Wellness Day at Northern High School, I have to ask: How did these people get elected? I think the voters of the county may have been hoodwinked.

Dr. Ryscavage, school superintendent, and Hannah Sincell, the seemingly lone sane school board member, need to be commended at the highest level for their ability to endure such arrogance.

The top-notch schools and dedicated professional educators in this county are as fine as you will see anywhere. Just who is it that this board thinks it is representing? They seem to have an agenda all their own and they are trying to impose it on our kids.

Citizens should make every effort to attend at least one board meeting and find out first-hand, for yourselves. It will be well worth your time.

I, for one, will be paying close attention to the next election and will encourage every voter I know to help return the Garrett County School Board to respectability.

To the Editor:

Regarding the Board of Education members, I greatly respect the strength of their particular religious faiths. The attempt by some members to impose those viewpoints on our public school system, however, is disastrous. The Garrett County Public School System has made consistent improvement in almost every aspect during the last several years. It is considered one of the best in Maryland, despite the fact we are one of the most poorly funded. We cannot keep moving forward if board members continue to scrutinize every aspect of the system because of their own religious agenda.

Please, BOE members, do not continue to use your elected position to try to divide the county and put fear into the minds of our citizens. Other county school systems may be experiencing certain problems due to weakness in staffing. WE in Garrett County are fortunate to have top-notched administrators and a dedicated teaching staff to ensure our children are receiving the quality public education they deserve.

To the Editor:

We feel that the present Garrett County Board of Education members have done a tremendous job, under intense pressure from all sides. When we cast our vote to elect board members, we expect them to oversee, review, question, and approve/disapprove educational policies that affect our children. We expect them to examine and look into every issue that comes before them.

We feel that the teachers in our county that we are familiar with are excellent, however, we are not comfortable with everything that is put into the curriculum. We would have a real concern if our children were presented seminars on astrology at school. We do agree with last week's letter writer that we live in an "ordinarily gentle and caring community," and this can still be true. There is nothing wrong with asking questions. We don't think the board members would challenge these ideas if they did not feel that the majority of their constituents agreed with them.

Sincerely,
John and Kathy Skipper

To the Editor:

Last week the editorial about our elected school board was somewhat perplexing. The content was the editor's opinion about the elected school boards' "outrageous behavior" in regards to a special meeting concerning a Wellness Day program being presented at Northern High School. If in fact, this meeting was arranged to be held without conforming to standard policy, I agree with the editor that policies should be followed or changed in the appropriate manner. However, the content of the editorial I feel goes much deeper.

The present board was elected by the majority of the people who voted in the last election. Many people support the board members and do not believe that their words or actions are destructive. Questioning the content of a program does not imply that a person is distrusting and not supportive of our educators. It is simply trying to get the facts. However, if board members with conservative values and professed religious beliefs do question the established educational system, this is seen as an attempt to force their religious beliefs into education and not as fact finding.

I believe the current board members are conscientiously trying to review all programs offered to our schools and need to examine the entire content of these programs to determine if it will academically benefit our children. Our current board is capable of evaluating educational programs (with our without a degree in education) and does speak out when they feel the content of a program could be detrimental. They are not willing to blindly accept any program that is presented to them from state or local educators without a complete review.

Garrett County is fortunate to have excellent educators in administration and in the classroom. Our teachers are providing a good education to our children and I believe the board members would agree with this. But, as in any free society, opinions will vary as to which programs are good for educating our children and which are not beneficial. Expressing those opinions from a conservative prospective does not make one incompetent to be a board of education member.

Respectfully,
Mark T. Domenick, M.D.

Re: the Garrett County Board of Education special meeting.

Hearing that Patrick Riley, a board member, threatened Mr. Green, principal of Northern High School, to delete three subjects on the Wellness Day agenda, a special meeting was called to have a vote by the board members to delete these items from the agenda. I attended the meeting because I felt that the board members were way off base and exercising powers they did not have. Mrs. Hannah Sincell said from the beginning of the meeting and then later confirmed by the Superintendent of Schools, Jerome Ryscavage, that they did not have the authority to make this decision.

Mr. Green defended his decision to continue Wellness Day with his agenda. He showed the committee two awards from the governor for the program along with 535 signed approvals (other slips had not yet been returned) from parents out of approximately 600 students.

When confronted with the purpose of the meeting, Rodney Durst, president of the board, lost control and replied, "Sit down and shut up." He seemingly sensed that the numerous parents, teachers, and students in attendance were in support of Mr. Green's program. Later, when Nancy Learey spoke, he again lost control and pointing his finger at her he said, "Majority doesn't rule here."

Pastor Bob Bonser was present as requested by Patrick Riley. Pastor Bonser advocates home schooling for children and his education is in religion. However, Mr. Riley wanted his views on astrology.

The entire discussion originated from the personal religious convictions of Patrick Riley and two other board members. I told Mr. Riley that as an elected official he did not have the privilege of imposing personal convictions on others and that he needed to speak for all of Garrett County and not for just one person (himself). If a poll had been taken of the audience, there would have been 10 to 15 different denominations present.

We do not need narrow-minded people representing our schools in a way that ultimately hinders the learning of our children.

Hannah Sincell, thank you for having the gumption to stand alone.

Mr. Green, keep up the good work; our children deserve it.

A Democrat . . . in Garrett County? Yes, indeed! And for a time, they even published their own newspaper, The Mountain Democrat. We had the good fortune yesterday to review four tattered and yellowed pages from a copy of this now defunct weekly. The brittle artifact, dated OCTGBER [sic] 1, 1925, included several items of interest - some quite odd by today's norms, and some surprisingly familiar.

Democratic readers 70 years ago this month were treated to the following stories:

The Garrett County Fair will be under full headway today and to-morrow [sic]. Do not fail to see the display made by the citizens and their families. Encourage the Fair Association by your attendance. That is the proper thing to do, it is a duty you owe to your family and to your county. [All right, all right, I'm going.]

Six hundred and eighteen cows in Garrett County were tested for tuberculosis during August with but three reactors reported, says County Agent W.C. Jester. All the animals were in heards [sic] previously tested and two of the reactors were small calves that were in a contaminated barn the previous year. [So, you say your calf is a little horse?]

Some traveling photographers visited Oakland this past week and took a number of pictures of business houses and carried out of town several dollars.

Joseph Friend, postmaster at Swanton, who was injured in both eyes . . . at the time of the attempted robbery of the Swanton Post Office, had his right eye removed at the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland. The other eye has practically healed. [This was the biggest post office story in Garrett County until the Elvis stamp.]

The Garrett County farmers last week were cutting corn, digging potatoes, and sowing wheat. They were busy on the job. Country visitors at the county seat were few. A soaking rain is needed all over the county.

The paper also included pertinent national news:

Effie Cherry, member of the famous old-time vaudeville team known as "the Cherry Sisters," and who last year was a candidate for mayor of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is again seeking the nomination. Her platform includes a war on the "shortening wave." She does not believe in the abbreviated hair, dresses, and bathing suits. [Shades of the Southern High dress code?]

NEW YORK - Charged with stuffing Mrs. Sophie Poleski, aged 28, the wife of a close friend, into a blazing furnace in a lower East Side lumber yard, while she was still alive, George Symuk, a giant fireman, was held without bail today on a charge of murder. [And you thought Oktoberfest was uncivilized.]

Dorothy Craig, aged 9 years, died at the office of an Otisville (N.Y.) physician from wounds received when she was attacked by her pet bear. [See, I told you we need bear hunting.]

TRENTON, N.J. - Trenton State Hospital for the Insane is hope of medical world for curing insane.

Grantsville Plaza

The Grantsville Plaza is celebrating its 20th anniversary with renovations to the outside facade and a new main sign.

Current tenants of Grantsville Plaza include: Grantsville Foodland, Ben Franklin, NAPA Auto Parts, Rite Aid, Dollar General, The Furniture Market, Subway, Specht Photography, G & S Insurance Agency, Good Scents, Garrett County Health Department, Cutter's Billiards and the Garrett County Addiction Center. Coming soon are Goodwill Industries and a laundromat.

The popular shopping center attracts thousands of area shoppers--not only from the Grantsville area, but from Somerset County, Pa., and Allegany County, as well. The weekly customer count for the plaza stands at about 20,000.

The plaza is located near the intersection of Route 40 and U.S. Route 219 north, two miles from Grantsville. It has a 90 percent occupancy rate in its 100,000-square foot facility.

Robert Pernell, Deep Creek Lake, was the architect for the project. Plaza developers and owners are Thomas and Patricia Schroyer of Grantsville. Plaza Manager is Pasco Development Corporation. The anchor tenants of the Plaza have been located there between 12 and 15 years, according to Schroyer, and there remains some retail and office space for lease.

Commenting on the Plaza's popularity, Schroyer said, "(It's) Located in a rural area, merchants pay a fraction of the rent compared to what they would in larger shopping centers and malls." Schroyer points out that new projects in the works may allow the plaza to expand even more in the future. A new sewer project in the area is already underway, which Schroyer feels could promote additional business in the area.

Area shoppers are invited in to see Grantsville Plaza's new "facelift" and help the complex celebrate its 20th anniversary.

cerning subject matter for the Wellness Day at Northern Garrett County Senior High School. Those members of the board who were present, with the exception of Hannah Sincell, suffer so intensely from fear, tunnel-vision, religiosity, and righteousness that they are incapable of making unbiased decisions regarding the education of our children.

To be educated is to be led from the darkness; however, the current board members (except Hannah Sincell) are attempting to put our children in a closet, and hand-feed them their infinitesimal view of their minuscule world. We live in a complex world, where many decisions must be made. How will our children learn to make choices and think for themselves if that is a violation of their supposed education?

During the meeting, Mr. Riley introduced an "expert" on religion who tried to explain that acupuncture, massage, and astrology are occult studies. How ludicrous! It would have been humorous, if it didn't involve the education of our children. I know many true Christians who plant their crops in accord with the Zodiac; the American Medical Association endorses massage therapy and acupuncture. Pastor Bosner, the religious "expert," is using the world "occult" as a fear tactic.

I respect all people's rights and convictions. However, this zealousness has no place on the Board of Education, nor does it excuse arrogance and ignorance. Patrick Riley did not act within his realm of power in threatening Mr. Green, principal of Northern High School. I call for a public apology to Mr. Martin Green from Mr. Patrick Riley for his mishandling of this affair. The faculty and administrators of the Garrett County school system perform commendable services. It is time for the Board of Education to make a public commitment to support the teachers and administrators, stop wasting the taxpayers' money, and refrain from advancing their personal fundamentalist religious agendas.

It seems to me that via the above actions, you can wipe the slate clean. Then we can begin again to treat each other (and our children) with respect, dignity, and intelligence. We and our children deserve much better.

Sincerely,
Patrice J. Wells

P.S. I spoke with a parent who had received incorrect information about the Wellness Day program at her church. Please, consider the source when you look for information. If you want information about the schools, ask the school principal. Would you ask for information regarding church services at your school?

To the Editor:

Our vision to maintain a level of excellence in our local, public schools is being abused, beaten, and bullied, by a misinformed, mistrusting, and mistaken elected Board of Education. In general, their fool-hardiness brings embarrassment to our community.

Last school year, we were introduced to the numerous attempts at censorship, the endorsement of abolishing the free/reduced meal program, and the stealth right's rendition of Goals 2000 and OBE. This year, in its seemingly never-ending sightlessness, we are being offered the viewpoint and value system of those who: endorse exclusively a phonetically-based reading system; dismiss wholistic, systemic approaches to problem-resolution; and, revere a coalition's national goal format above those developed by our local educational professionals. The majority of this elected board demonstrates, on a regular basis, disdain for anyone who might have a differing perspective. They incite the emotions of their public by taunting them with their absurdities and outright ignorance.

In a special session of the board of education last Thursday, the audience was provided a superb display of our local buffoonery. Mr. Durst, pounding his fist, raising his voice, and blasting "this is not the Phil Donahue Show," angered the audience by saying it was "his" meeting and telling them to "sit down" and "shut up." And, then, further enlightening the audience with, "the majority doesn't always rule." At best described as being cast in a villainous, kinda father-knows-best, primed with a "it's my way or no way, dammit!" attitude.

In concert, Mr. Riley, a miscast Dudley Dooright, had difficulty recalling the antecedents creating this meeting and seldom answered the questions directed to him. Wearing his customary smirk, his participation in the entire affair was conveniently cloaked in issues of separation of church and state.

Mrs. Sebold, true to her non-committal form, could only focus on the permission slips having been sent home the day before. Well, so what! It was as if her decisions are based before the facts, and when put to test, her wavering begins. It leaves the observer with contemplating the question, "Will the real Charlotte Sebold please stand up?"

This session was yet another wake-up call to the citizens of Garrett County. We can not afford to let our "unawares" get the better of us in this next election. And, more immediately, we may embrace this opportunity to become involved in local, public education.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

After the Special School Board meeting that was held last Thursday, I think the board owes the citizens of Garrett County an apology. They should make a public apology to Mr. Green, principal of Northern High School; make a public affirmation to begin supporting the teachers and administrators, and start following their goals of responsiveness to parents and school autonomy; make a public commitment to taxpayers to stop wasting tax dollars to solve problems that don't exist, to stay within their powers legally, and to begin representing the majority of their constituents.

To the Editor and Citizens of Garrett County:

Due to the intense and personal nature of the allegations leveled against me and certain other members of the Garrett County Board of Education in your editorial column of October 19th, I am compelled to offer this newspaper and the citizens of Garrett County my response.

In regard to the questions I raised about certain seminars to be offered at the Northern High School Wellness Day, I would like to summarize the facts surrounding my inquiry.

First of all, I did not call a special meeting of the Board, but I did concur with Mr. Durst's calling of a meeting. Shortly after our regular meeting of October 10th I received an invitation to the Northern High School Wellness Day. Among a list of seminars from which students could choose to attend during the school day on October 25th were topics such as: How to Cope With Parents, Massage Therapy, Astrology, and Acupuncture. I deemed it to be in the best interest of the public schools of Garrett County to make inquiry into the content of these and other seminars.

I contacted by telephone various Board members to ask if they had further information or any concerns. Mr. Durst and others noted their concerns and a need for more information. Mr. Durst stated that he would consider calling a special meeting. I also contacted Dr. Ryscavage who suggested I call Mr. Green, principal at Northern High School. This I did. Mr. Green explained the intent and content of several of the seminars. The great majority of these sessions will provide the students at Northern High School with important and useful information and I would like to publicly thank all of those persons who have volunteered their time and efforts to make this event possible. During my telephone conversation with Mr. Green I explained that I was still not satisfied with

Miss Byers Is Semi-Finalist In National Writing Campaign

A local student at Dennett Road Elementary School has been named as a semi-finalist in the 1994-1995 Children's Creative Writing Campaign (CCWC), a national program to promote literacy. Brianna Byers, a fifth grader, is one of nearly 16,000 students from 1,304 schools who will be receiving Certificates of Creative Writing Excellence as acknowledgment of their participation in the program. Brianna, the daughter of Zane and Cynthia Byers, is one of 400 students named as semi-finalists in the contest. The semi-finalist choices were based on the originality, creativity, and storytelling structure of the submissions.

While there were no strict guidelines for submission, the stories needed to be original, imaginative, and legible. According to a program spokesperson, every story is read by an entertainment professional and each participant is given an award for his or her writing effort.

Sponsored by the Bonneville Producers Group, Greenlight Communications, Kids for Kids, KSL-TV, Marine Midland Bank, and Turner SuperStation, the CCWC aims 1) to encourage children to write, utilizing both thought and reflection; 2) to make the entertainment industry more aware of what is on children's minds; and 3) to build children's self-esteem by rewarding their creativity and writing efforts. Additional support for the program came from DHD PostImage (Canada), Hollywood for Children, and Teach for America.

"The purpose of the campaign is to instill in children the desire to learn, give them the tools to do so, help them recognize that they can succeed, and provide an enjoyable and creative learning environment," said Meg Hunnewell, founder of the campaign. "The stories submitted are insightful, exciting, and humbling to review. This is truly an instance were every child involved is a winner."

The guardians of the semi-finalists will be asked to sign a release allowing the material to be considered by a panel of accomplished TV and film talent officials for the Finalist and Special Creative Award categories and making the submissions the property of the Children's Creative Writing Campaign.

Each finalists will receive a $100 U.S. Treasury Bond. His or her respective school will receive a matching contribution to the library in the winning child's name. The material will then be considered for adaptation into another medium: print, broadcast, film, or software.

The Special Creative Award Winners who have their stories adapted will receive additional benefits. A television broadcast titled "Other Worlds" is being considered. It would showcase 10 or more of the best stories submitted from the 1994-95 campaign. The winning stories will be animated or read by major entertainment or sports figures.

Finalists and Special Creative Award Winners will be presented awards at the first Hollywood For Children Family Filmfest in New York City. The Filmfest will run from April 8-13, 1996, and will involve all the major studios and special screenings of their new family releases. The awards will be presented at the Kids Film Forum on April 10 at the United Nations.

Established in 1993, the Children's Creative Writing Campaign was initiated by Kids for Kids, Inc., a New York-based media company specializing in developing and producing children's world and family programming and related leisure products.

Schools interested in getting materials on the 1995-96 campaign can write for information at Children's Creative Writing Campaign P.O. Box 999 Cooper Station, New York, NY 10276. This year's submission deadline is December 20.

Two Sentenced In District Court On Prescription Fraud Convictions

Two Pittsburgh men were sentenced in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings, after being found guilty in August of prescription fraud-related offenses.

William C. Nesbitt, 40, convicted of conspiracy by District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett, was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, and co-defendant William A. Wimer, 34, found guilty of fraudulently obtaining a prescription order, received a one-year jail term, with all of his sentence suspended except for 120 days. Nesbitt was fined $350, and Wimer must submit to drug evaluation, testing, and treatment. He is to have no contact with Nesbitt. Additionally, both were placed on two years of supervised probation.

The charges against Nesbitt and Wimer, which had also included obtaining and altering a prescription order, and forging a prescription order, stemmed from a Jan. 14 incident when they attempted to pass a forged prescription at Deep Creek Pharmacy. The pharmacist reportedly became suspicious of the prescription, and believed it to be forged. He then contacted the Maryland State Police's Drug Enforcement Division, who arrested the pair.

Court records indicate the police officers also found four additional forged prescriptions in the defendants' vehicle, and learned that Wimer had the counterfeit prescription orders made by a print shop. He and Nesbitt had obtained more than 60 pills of Vicodin, a prescription pain killer, with the fraudulent scripts.

In other district court news, a Kitzmiller man appeared before Judge Burnett on various Department of Natural Resources (DNR) offenses, stemming from various related incidents. Mark J. Harvey, 31, pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon, one count of hunting turkeys in closed season, one count of spotlighting, and one count of hunting during closed season.

Harvey was handed a two-year sentence for the first offense, but all of that sentence was suspended except for 10 days. He was also fined a total of $2,110 for the combined offenses, and was placed on two years of supervised probation. Additional charges of malicious destruction of property, hunting at night (two counts), hunting during closed season (two counts), hunting deer from an off-road vehicle, hunting on Sunday, and possession of a loaded weapon on an all-terrain vehicle were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney. Conditions of his probation state he must forfeit a .380 semi-automatic handgun, complete 40 hours of community service, and his hunting privileges were suspended for two years.

The charges, filed by Natural Resources Police Officer Guy P. McCartney, stemmed from the officer's undercover investigation of the defendant, over a several-month period.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for a Mtn. Lake Park man who was convicted in district court of resisting arrest.

Dean F. Norton, 33, found guilty of that offense, will be sentenced following the completion of the investigation. Additional charges of disturbing the peace, and being disorderly in a public place, were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney's office.

According to district court records, the charges against the defendant stemmed from a Jan. 28 domestic dispute at his home. Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrived at the residence to find Norton in an intoxicated state. He had kicked a bedroom door off its hinges, and had become irate and belligerent. Later, while Norton's wife, Kathleen M. Norton, was talking to the investigating officer, the defendant approached them and continued his abusive behavior, according to the charging statement. He reportedly told the officer that the argument with his wife would not end when the police left.

Court records indicate Norton refused to go back into the house, and was arrested. When the officer attempted to put handcuffs on him, he tried to escape. He had to be dragged to the police car, and continued to shout threats on the way to the sheriff's office.

Seven out-of-county people appeared before Judge Burnett on drug-related charges. Five of those charged, Jon I. Coe, 23, Baltimore, and Richard T. Broadwater, 23, Kevin M. Bosley, 21, David J. Meese, 20, and Thomas A. Garreis, 21, all of Ellicott City, were not prosecuted on one count each of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), and possession of CDS paraphernalia, beause of the pleas of guilt from the remaining two co-defendants.

According to district court records, Daniel C. Carpenter, 22, Ellicott City, pleaded guilty to one count of possession of CDS paraphernalia, and Kevin A. Davis, 22, also of Ellicott City, entered a plea of guilt for possession of CDS. Carpenter was fined $100, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and was ordered by the court to perform 30 hours of community service. Davis was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $100, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He was also ordered to perform 40 hours of community service.

The charges against the group stemmed from their Jan. 11 arrest by officers from the Maryland State Police's Drug Enforcement Division who were on special assignment at the Wisp Hotel. They reportedly noticed the odor of marijuana coming from the defendants' room, and a subsequent investigation revealed a quantity of marijuana and its related paraphernalia.

A Shinston, W.Va., man pleaded guilty to one count each of attempting to elude a police officer, and driving on a suspended out-of-state license.

Eddie Waller, 37, was fined a total of $300, sentenced to 150 days in jail (suspended), and placed on one year of supervised probation. He must also complete 50 hours of community service, as a condition of his probation. Additional charges of exceeding the maximum speed limit, willfully disobeying the lawful order of a police officer, and driving without a license, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office, and a charge of having a handgun in his vehicle was placed on the stet docket.

Waller had been arrested on the above offenses on July 29, after a Maryland State Police trooper attempted to stop him on a charge of speeding. The defendant reportedly made no attempt to stop his vehicle, and continued to speed down the highway. When the trooper caught up with him, approximately four miles down the road, he noticed Waller trying to change places with his passenger. He initially told the trooper he had left his wallet at home, but a check through the Motor Vehicle Administration revealed Waller had no license. After his arrest, he told the trooper he had a loaded handgun in the trunk of the vehicle.

A guilty verdict on one count of CDS possession was handed to Elizabeth E. Brandau, 33, Baltimore. She was fined $350 for the offense, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. Additional charges of possession of CDS paraphernalia, and exceeding the speed limit were not prosecuted. The charges against her stemmed from her Feb. 1 arrest for speeding by state police. A search of her vehicle had revealed two small plastic bags containing marijuana, a smoking device, and a burned marijuana cigarette.

Odis C. Friend Sr., 61, Friendsville, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of one count of telephone abuse. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on two years of supervised probation. He was also ordered to have no contact with Patty Sines, and continue to take his medication as prescribed. Sines filed a complaint against Friend after he reportedly called her on several occasions, failed to identify himself, and became "agitated, and verbally abusive." Court records indicate he called her three times in one day, and repeatedly shouted and cursed at her.

Michael T. Upole, 25, Oakland, was not prosecuted on two counts of malicious destruction of property, at the request of the complainant, Sherry Upole. The charges stemmed from an incident when the defendant reportedly threw some of his wife's belongings out the door, down the steps, and into the rain.

Kenneth W. Ellis, 36, Louisville, Ky. was granted probation before judgment on a guilty verdict for carrying a loaded weapon in his vehicle. He was fined $100, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation. Conditions of the judge's decision included Ellis's forfeiture of his weapon. The charge was filed against him on July 11, after an officer at the Finzel Scale House, learned Ellis had a loaded .380 semi-automatic handgun, and additional ammunition, in a pouch in his tractor-trailer.

Charles F. Stinson, 40, Oakland, was granted probation before judgment on a charge of battery. He was placed on six months of supervised probation for the offense. Additional charges of trespassing, and being disorderly on private property were not prosecuted because of insufficient evidence. Conditions of his probation state he must refrain from violent contact with Kathleen Meyers, who filed the complaint. Meyers said Stinson entered her home, and refused to leave. He later followed her into the kitchen, grabbed her by the hair, and attempted to kiss her, according to the report. When he again refused to leave, Meyers said she grabbed a knife, and he let her go.

DNR CASES

Corey R. Holloway, 19, Coon Rapids, Minn., and Jerard R. Crowe, 20, David J. Bonney, 20, and Randall E. Babcock, 35, all of Westernport, each paid a $70 district court fine after being found guilty of disorderly conduct. The men were charged with the offense by Ranger John Frank, who confronted the men on Aug. 27, at their Big Run State Park campsite.

A not guilty verdict was handed to Dennis J. Hough, 36, Pittsburgh, who had been charged with towing a skier between sunset, and sunrise on Deep Creek Lake. DNR Officer D.B. Robinson, cited Hough for the offense on July 15, at 8:47 p.m., three minutes after sunset. According to a sunrise/sunset chart included in the court file, sunset that day was at 8:44 p.m.

DWI CASES

Several DWI (driving while intoxicated) and DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) cases were heard in recent district court proceedings.

Roger Dean DeBolt, 31, Pa., pleaded guilty to one count of DUI. He was fined $100, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He also pleaded guilty to one count of exceeding the speed limit, for which he was fined $40. Additional charges of negligent driving, and failure to wear a seatbelt, were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney. Conditions of DeBolt's probation state he must complete 40 hours of community service, attend an eight-week alcohol education program, and a one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. He was arrested for DWI on Aug. 1, by sheriff's deputies.

Alfred Darrell Friend Jr., 38, Md., was found guilty of violation of probation stemming from his DWI conviction. The judge reimposed six months of Friend's incarceration time. His arrest by Maryland State Police was on July 24, 1994.

Troy Allen Ashby, 25, W.Va., pleaded guilty to DUI, and one count of failure to drive right of center. He was fined a total of $168 for the offenses, and handed a 30-day suspended sentence. He was also placed on one year of supervised probation, ordered to complete a 26-week alcohol treatment program, and a one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. Additional charges for not wearing a seatbelt, driving with an expired driver's license, driving on an expired out-of-state driver's license, and driving without a license were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney. Ashby was arrested for DWI on March 24, by the state police.

Donald Francis Byrnes, 62, Md., was convicted of one count of DWI. He was fined $350, sentenced to 30 days in jail (suspended), and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to attend a 26-week alcohol treatment program with the health department, and a one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. Byrnes also pleaded guilty to willfully driving at a slow speed, impeding normal and reasonable traffic movement, for which he paid a $40 fine. One count of violating a license restriction was not prosecuted by the state's attorney. He was charged with DWI on Aug. 25, by state police.

Patricia Ann Herb, 27, Md., pleaded guilty to one count of DWI, and one count of failure to drive right of center. She was fined $150, handed a30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation. She was

USING A STIFF ARM and pushing a pair of Petersburg Vikings out of the way last Friday night was Northern High School's Brian Heslop, who rushed for 101 yards and three touchdowns on the evening, as the Huskies won their Homecoming game, 28-2. Also identifiable in the photo are Huskies Jesse Deniker, #77, and quarterback John Snelling, #32. The Huskies will go after their third win of the campaign this Friday at home against Victor Cullen Academy.

Huskies Get Back On Track; Crush Vikings

After several weeks of frustration and defeat, the Northern High School varsity football team finally got everything clicking Friday night and coasted to a 28-2 Homecoming victory over the Vikings of Petersburg. The win lifted the Huskies' record to 2-5, while the Vikings dropped to the same mark.

The Huskies were well in control of the contest by halftime, as they built a 22-0 lead in the first two quarters of play on a wet, miserable evening.

Brian Heslop, who has been hampered in recent weeks with an ankle injury, was nearly back to his usual form, as he amassed 101 yards on 15 carries for the Huskies, while the stingy Northern defensive unit all but completely stopped the Viking offense, which finished with a total of only 45 yards.

Heslop wasted no time putting points on the board for Northern, as he broke loose for a 45-yard touchdown run in the early moments of the game. He also passed to Nick Mitchell for the two-point conversion.

The Huskies doubled their score later in the same period when Zach Leverenz capped a drive with a 13-yard scoring run and Heslop ran for the two-pointer to make it 16-0.

A two-yard run by Heslop in the second quarter gave the Huskies' their 22-0 halftime lead.

Heslop still wasn't finished, however, as he took the opening kickoff of the second half and raced 80 yards for his third touchdown of the evening. The kick for the extra point was no good.

The rest of the game was all defense, as the only points that were recorded after Heslop's 80-yard run was a safety by Petersburg in the fourth quarter. The points were awarded when a snap to Northern's punter, who was standing in his own end zone, went over the end line.

All of the Vikings' yards were gained on 27 rushes, as they managed an average of only about two yards per carry against the Northern defense. The Huskies kept the Vikings in their own half of the field until late in the game when Coach Tom Vent was playing mostly reserves.

Herman Arndt, Mike Minnick, Brandon Baumgardner, and Bill Spicher led the Northern defensive unit, which recovered a pair of Viking fumbles and picked off one pass. The Northern offense also gave up the ball once on a fumble and once through the air.

"We scored on them real quickly and played very well the whole first half," stated Coach Vent, "and that was really about it.

"Our defense just played a great game, and certainly Brian had a good night for us on offense," he said. "It was nice to get back on track and win our homecoming game."

The Huskies should be the favorite to record win number three this Friday night when they host Victor Cullen, a team that Vent says has "a lot of good athletes and a lot of speed," but does not seem to be playing real well together.

Cullen was soundly defeated by Beall earlier this season, the only common opponent with the Huskies.

"They really look pretty scary on the game films, and we've also seen them live," Vent said. "They have very good speed and some strong backs. But we really can't worry so much about what they can do, but what we need to do.

"We just plan to keep it simple and do the things we do best," he said.

Vent noted that injuries continue to take a toll on the squad, as Cody Brenneman is now definitely out for the season with a neck injury; tight end and defensive end Andy Brenneman is sidelined with a shoulder injury, and lineman Todd Smith is nursing a neck injury and is listed by Vent as "day to day" as to whether or not he will be able to play Friday night.

Calling the signals now for the Huskies is the only sophomore starter on the varsity, John Snelling.

It will be Senior Parent Night at Husky Stadium Friday night, as parents of all senior players and cheerleaders will be recognized prior to the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

The Northern junior varsity will host the Southern jayvees in a 7 p.m. game this evening.

Jets Flatten Vikings, 27-7, In Semifinals

The Oakland Jets crushed the Parsons Vikings in the first round of the Mountaintop Youth Football League on Sunday, 27-7, to earn a spot in the league championship game against the Northern Steelers, slated for this Sunday, Oct. 29, in Oakland.

The running of Jordan Uphold and Josh Bosley again proved to be too much for the Vikings, as Uphold gained 117 yards on 11 carries and Bosley picked up 86 yards on seven carries. Quarterback Justin Liller completed five of seven passes for another 101 yards of offense.

The first Jet points were recorded on a 10-yard touchdown run by Uphold that capped a 10-play drive initiated by a Nathaniel Panther interception. Bosley booted the two-point conversion.

Uphold struck again in the second quarter with a 40-yard scoring run and Liller tossed a successful conversion pass to Christian Warfield to put the Jets up 15-0.

Bosley stopped the next Viking drive with an interception on the Vikings' 44-yard line and, three plays later, Bosley raced 34 yards for a touchdown. The conversion attempt failed, and the Jets held a 21-0 halftime lead.

The final Jet points were recorded in the third quarter with a five-yard touchdown run by Bosley. The drive featured a 25-yard run to the five by Liller.

The Vikings averted a shutout when Jim Arnold scored on a long run in the fourth quarter against the reserve Jet defense. Arnold also ran for the conversion.

The Jet coaching staff noted the outstanding play of Panther, Warfield, and the other members of the defensive line.

The Jets will take a 7-0 record into the title game Sunday against the Northern Steelers.

"Our games over the past few years with the Steelers have been very exciting and we expect this one to be no different," stated Vic Compitello, head coach of the Jets. "They are well coached and are almost all eighth graders. We will have to play well to beat them."

The kickoff on the Southern High field is set for 2 p.m. Sunday.

Steelers Top Raiders, 18-7, In Youth Play

The Northern Steelers concluded their Mountaintop Youth Football League regular season Sunday by recording an 18-7 victory over the Oakland Raiders.

T.J. Snelling scored the only points of the first half, as he broke loose for a 60-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. The conversion attempt was not good and the Steelers held a 6-0 lead at halftime.

The third quarter was also all defense, while the fourth quarter was mostly offense, as the Steelers scored two more touchdowns and the Raiders, one.

Brant Green fired a 34-yard strike to Adam Brenneman, which set up a one-yard scoring run by P.J. Workman to give the Steelers a 12-0 lead.

Ryan Brenneman then scooped up a Raider fumble and ran 40 yards for the Steelers' final touchdown.

The Raiders avoided a shutout when Chris Williams scored on a four-yard run with just moments left in the game. Williams also ran successfully for the extra point.

Brandon Wilkens, Mark Wolf, Keith Artice, Ryan Savage, and Taylor Glotfelty excelled on defense for the Steelers.

The Steelers will meet the Oakland Jets this Sunday, Oct. 29, at 2 p.m. on the Southern High School field in the league championship game. This is the fourth trip to the finals in the last five years for the Steelers, who won the title in 1991 and 1993.

APPARENTLY ELATED at being crowned Northern High School's 1995 Homecoming Queen is Stephannie Friend, daughter of Steve Friend and Wendy Friend, who was so honored Friday night during halftime of the Northern-Petersburg football game. Conducting the coronation was Martin Green, school principal. Crowned Homecoming Princess was Janelle Hordubay, pictured below with Mr. Green and her parents, Elmer and Vicki Hordubay.

OFF AND RUNNING at beautiful Broadford Park are the members of the Southern and Northern high school boys' cross country teams in yesterday's Garrett County Championships. The undefeated Southern boys dominated their race, capturing the first nine individual places and recording a perfect team score of 15, compared to a score of 50 by the Northern boys. The Southern girls were also victorious, edging the Northern girls, 34-24. Both schools will compete next in the 1A Regional Championships, to be held at Brunswick next Thursday. The Southern boys are the statewide favorite to win their third straight state 1A championship.

Howard, Leverenz Set Records In County Meet

Southern's Todd Howard and Northern's Rachel Leverenz both set new course records yesterday afternoon in the Garrett County cross country championships, held at the Southern course at Broadford Park.

The boys' and girls' teams of Southern High School won the event, as Coach Carl Booth's boys' team kept its perfect record for the season intact. The Rams captured all five top places and finished with a perfect score of 15, while the Huskies placed a distant second with 50 team points.

The girls' race was considerably closer, as Southern finished with a score of 24 and Northern recorded 34.

Not only did Howard and Leverenz set course records, but the second two finishers in the girls' race - Southern's Lauren Newcomb and Amy Snyder, who is a freshman - also broke the previous course record, while Mike Bittinger and Casey McBee of Southern also set new sophomore and freshman course records, respectively.

Howard finished the gruelling 3.1-mile course in 16 minutes, 56 seconds, with Nathan McBee placing second in 17:32, Kevin Andrews third, Mike Bittinger fourth, Dan Sincell fifth, and Casey McBee sixth, followed by Adam Chorpenning and Matt Sincell.

The top Northern finisher was Mark Shawley, who finished ninth and was followed by Sean Conroy of Southern.

Leverenz, who was running on the Southern course for the first time, recorded a time of 21:22 and was followed by Newcomb in 21:36 and Snyder in 21:46. All-State runner Kendra Duckworth of Northern finished fourth and was followed by Southern's Meghan Dabney and Andrea Devens, Stacy Dolan of Northern, and Southern's Katelyn McBee and Christy Hoalcraft.

SHS Alumni Baseball Group Seeking Sponsors

The Southern Alumni Baseball Committee is seeking business and civic organization support for the Southern High School baseball team. According to a spokesman for the organization, donations go directly to the baseball program, which needs additional funding. Equipment purchases of balls, bats, uniforms, batting cages, and pitching machines, plus improvements to the field, are the goals of the committee.

Sponsorship costs are $200 the first year and $100 every year thereafter. The sponsor will get a four-foot by eight-foot sign on the outfield fence at the Southern baseball field. In appreciation for this support, the baseball team will do one large community service project a year.

Anyone interested in sponsorship may contact J.R. Cuppett at 334-3100 or Danny Holler at 334-2111, or write to: Southern Alumni Baseball Committee, P.O. Box 63, Oakland, MD 21550.

Rams Lose Defensive Struggle To Fort Hill

What was expected to be one of the biggest games of the season turned out to be a defensive battle in the wind, rain, and mud, as the Southern High Rams saw their unbeaten streak halted at six by the Fort Hill Sentinels, who proved to be the better team Friday night in Oakland and returned to Cumberland with a 22-0 victory. The win stretched Fort Hill's undefeated season to seven games.

Once again the Rams were stung by a breakdown in special teams play, but this time they were unable to rebound after falling behind 7-0 in the first quarter when Ed Blizzard returned a Seth Tressler punt 53 yards for a touchdown.

The weather conditions and a tenacious defensive effort by both teams kept the statistics quite modest on both sides, as the Sentinels finished with just 177 yards in total offense and the Rams recorded 110. Passing was made quite difficult because of the gusty winds, which hurt the Fort Hill offense more than that of Southern; however, the Rams' usually effective perimeter offense was also taken away by the wet conditions and Coach Tom Woods' justifiable fear of fumbles.

The first Sentinel touchdown was scored with 6:08 remaining in the first quarter, and Kevin Tichnell just made the extra-point kick, as the ball struck the right post, but bounced to the left and through the uprights.

Besides the outstanding defensive play of Fort Hill and the miserable weather conditions, the Rams also suffered from terrible field position on offense throughout the first half, as Fort Hill's Beaner KeKinley did an effective job of punting. Southern had to start its first drive on the two and its second one on the six.

The Rams recorded only two first downs in the first half, and made it no further down field than their own 39-yard line. The Sentinels had better field position in the first half, but moved the ball a total of only 64 yards from scrimmage.

An interception of an Andy Woods pass by Jay Cristofori at the Fort Hill 45 initiated the Sentinels' second touchdown drive, which was capped six plays later on a 41-yard touchdown run by Ricky Jenkins, who used second and third effort to get through the Ram secondary after seemingly being stopped. Tichnell again booted the extra point.

The Rams' deepest penetration into Sentinel territory followed Jenkins' touchdown and was aided by clipping and roughing the passer penalties. Southern had a first down on the Fort Hill 25, but picked up only two more yards on the next four plays and turned the ball over on downs.

Having been on the field so much of the game, the Ram defensive unit was showing signs of bending on the ensuing Fort Hill drive, which culminated in a two-yard touchdown run by sophomore fullback Josh Page on a fourth down play. Page had carried the ball seven times on the drive and recorded 69 of the 77 yards.

Tichnell put the final point on the board with his third successful PAT.

Page led the Sentinels in rushing with 96 yards on 13 carries, while Jenkins, also a sophomore, picked up 65 yards on nine carries.

The Rams mounted still one more drive in the final two minutes of the game, as Coach Tom Woods directed his quarterback son, Andy, to go to the shotgun formation. The drive was progressing, but was halted when Seth Tressler's bomb was picked off at the Fort Hill 10 by Blizzard.

Aaron Newcomb paced the Rams' rushing game, as he finished with 43 yards on 16 carries.

"It's a shame the weather didn't cooperate a little better," Coach Woods said. "It really limited both teams. But both teams played exceptionally hard and we are real proud of our kids' effort. We were very happy with our execution on defense. We were disappointed with getting stung once again in a special team situation. We work and work on those problems, and it seems that once we get one thing fixed, something else breaks down.

"We really thought that, while we were still down just 14-0, we were still in the game," Woods said. "A quick score and a successful on-side kick were certainly possible. When we got behind by three scores, we knew that it was over, but we were really pleased that our kids still made such a great effort to score in the last two minutes of the game."

Woods also noted his appreciation to many different people for their support of the Rams during the week preceding the game. "I thank all the 'football mothers' who prepared the pregame spaghetti dinner, our cheerleaders, various clubs, and students who made banners and signs, the Southern band, and all of the local merchants who wished us good luck on their marquis and at their places of business," he said. "It was just a great show of support that meant a lot to our players and our staff."

While a win over Fort Hill would have been great for Ram fans, the defeat by the 2A division Sentinels does little to de-rail the Rams from their ultimate goal of winning a state championship in their division (1A).

"Now our most important game is this Friday night," Woods said, "because we have to win our last three games."

The Rams will be a heavy favorite to rebound this week and record a win over visiting Pocahontas County; however, as always, Woods has some concerns about Friday's opponent.

"They went 5-5 last year and they return eight starters on defense and eight starters on offense, so they certainly have considerable experience," he said.

Pocahontas is currently 4-4 on the year, but has won four of its last five games. They are coming off a 30-17 loss last Friday night to James Monroe High School, a team that is ranked fourth in the state of West Virginia.

Among the outstanding players on the Pocahontas off-balance I-formation offense are junior fullback Jim Holbart (5-11, 215), senior tailback Jason Hicks (5-9, 170), junior tackle Paul Barb (6-2, 240), and senior tight end John Boggs (6-0, 185).

"They are a lot like us in that they are a power-oriented, off-tackle team that relies heavily on their fullback/tailback tandem," Woods said, "and they have a big line that averages about 215 pounds."

The Pocahontas 5-3 defensive unit is anchored by junior tackle Evan Bosley (5-11, 215), defensive end Phil Propst (6-0, 170), senior nose guard Nathan Workman (5-11, 200), and junior safety Mark Buzzard (5-8, 155).

"We have to win in order to have a chance to win the regional championship the following week against Beall," Woods said, "so this game is very important to us for several reasons."

While the Rams have fared well most of the season in terms of a lack of injuries, this week is a different story, as three starters are nursing problems that list them as "possible" at best for this week. They include quarterback Andy Woods, who has an abdominal muscle pull; safety Joel Uphold, who is having back spasms; and Seth Tressler, who has re-injured a groin muscle. In the event that Woods is unable to play, Matt Paugh will be calling the signals and also playing Woods' safety position, while Mike Flanigan will assume Uphold's positions.

Friday night will be Hall of Fame Night at Southern, as several former outstanding Southern football players will be honored and have their names placed on the Hall of Fame display board at the field. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

RUNNING ROOM was hard to find Friday night on the Southern High School athletic field, where it was a defensive battle of the undefeated Southern Rams and Fort Hill Sentinels. The Rams saw their unbeaten streak stopped at six games, as Sentinels recorded a 22-0 victory to up their perfect mark to 7-0. Above, Southern's Howard Crosco carries the ball, while #46 Joel Uphold attempts to make a path for him through the stingy Fort Hill defense. The Rams will play at home again this Friday against Pocahontas County.

Rams Booters Blanked By Savage, Then Tie Aggies

The Southern High School varsity soccer team was blanked last Thursday, 5-0, by visiting Mount Savage, but then battled a strong Flintstone team to a 5-5 tie Tuesday night in the final regular-season match, giving the Rams some needed momentum for next week's 1A playoffs.

The Rams were never really in the game with the Indians of Mount Savage, the same team they must face at 3:30 next Tuesday in Mount Savage in a playoff match.

Seth Bridges scored off a corner kick by Josh Cook just 55 seconds into the game to put Mount Savage (7-5) up 1-0. The Indians doubled their score about four minutes later when Bill O'Neal headed in a throw-in by Mike Brailer.

Most of the rest of the first half was all defense, until Mike Brailer scored an unassisted goal with just 1:35 left before halftime, giving the Indians a 3-0 advantage.

The majority of the second half involved no scoring, but with 9:20 left in the match, O'Neal scored his second goal of the night, again on an assist by Brailer. The final goal was a penalty kick by Brian DeHaven with 6:21 remaining.

The score was not indicative of the Rams' effort, as they were out-shot by only a 27-25 margin and in corner kicks, 5-4. Andrew Granke had seven saves in the first half for the Rams, while Chris Ewing and Justin Helbig each recorded one in the second half. Ken Preston had eight saves for the Indians.

Tuesday night's performance by the Rams was most likely their best of the season, as they battled Flintstone, a team that was ranked number one in the area for about half of this season, to a 5-5 overtime tie.

The Rams built a 3-1 lead, only to see the Indians rally for four straight goals and take a seemingly commanding 5-3 lead with less than 13 minutes to play in regulation time. Yet the Rams rallied, against the wind, for two goals in those final 13 minutes to send the WMIL contest into overtime.

Flintstone's David Stickley put the first point on the board on a direct kick at the 25:18 mark of the first half. The Rams responded with three straight goals, the first off a corner kick by Kevin Andrews at the 22:06 mark, as the ball glanced off a Flintstone defender's head and into the goal. It was to be the first of four goals by Andrews, a senior and team captain.

Steve Goralski followed with a long, powerful blast off a feed from Joe DiSimone less than three minutes later to give the Rams their first lead of the evening. Then Andrews recorded his second goal off a corner kick, with the ball striking the far post and rebounding into the net with 6:53 remaining.

The Aggies responded with a goal less than three minutes later as Tim Shriver sent one unassisted past junior keeper Justin Helbig, making the score 3-2.

It was at the 24:18 mark of the second half that the Aggies knotted the score at 3-3, as Shriver scored his second goal of the night, this time off a feed by Tim Riekie. Just 32 seconds later, Flintstone took its second lead of the night when Lewis Sowers intercepted a Ram pass, dribbled past one defender, and sent the ball into the net unassisted.

Flintstone made it 5-3 at the 12:46 mark on a long, unassisted shot that went just under the crossbar and just over Helbig's outstretched hands.

The Rams did not quit, however, and managed to penetrate the Flintstone defense as well as a strong head wind to tie the score. The first was recorded on a penalty kick after a streaking Joey DiSimone was leveled in the penalty area and Kevin Andrews converted with 9:54 to play.

The tying goal was another shot by Andrews off an assist by Goralski just a minute later that knotted the score at 5-5 with 8:54 to play.

Both overtime periods contained a number of shots on goal, but Helbig and Aggie keeper Nathan Schaidt, along with their fellow defenders, were successful in keeping the ball out of their respective nets through both extra periods.

Also playing outstanding defense for the Rams were Christian Coviello, Steve Pariseau, and Matt Sincell.

The Rams were out-shot by a 45-37 margin, but finished with a 4-3 edge in corner kicks. Helbig had 19 saves for the Rams, while Schaidt was credited with only four, as his teammates excelled in clearing the ball away from their net.

The Rams conclude the regular season with a 3-8-1 record and will get another opportunity to challenge Mount Savage in Tuesday's 1A playoff match, with kickoff slated for 3:30 p.m. Flintstone will host Westmar in its first playoff contest.

Northern Soccer Squad Falls To Westmar And Hyndman

The varsity soccer team of Northern High School concluded its regular season of competition this past week with a pair of defeats: a 3-1 loss to visiting Westmar last Thursday and a 2-0 defeat by host Hyndman on Saturday.

The Huskies (0-12) are still looking for their first win in varsity soccer, and will get at least one more opportunity for that next Tuesday when they host Beall in an opening match of the 1A playoffs.

The Huskies held a brief lead against Westmar (5-5-1) last Thursday when Rachel Leverenz scored an unassisted goal just under nine minutes into the match. However, Westmar's Eric Johnson scored the first of his three goals about six minutes later off a feed by Andy Moorehead. The score was still 1-1 at halftime.

Johnson put the Wildcats ahead for good at the 31:04 mark of the second half with an unassisted goal and then added an insurance score with 13:56 remaining off an assist by Jeremy Kiddy.

The Huskies were outshot by only a 20-18 margin and had no corner kicks, while the Wildcats had just one. Matt Fritz, who leads the area in saves, recorded 17 for the evening, as did Josh Broadwater for Westmar.

The Northern junior varsity team won the preliminary match, 1-0, on a goal by B.J. Lloyd.

In Saturday's match at Hyndman, which was the Hornets' homecoming contest, Craig Shaffer scored an unassisted goal in the first quarter to give the home team all it would need for the win.

Shaffer then assisted on the team's second goal, which was recorded by Mike Ward in the second quarter.

The second half of the match was all defense.

Shots-on-goal, saves, and corner kicks were not reported.

It was the sixth win in 17 matches for Hyndman.

Husky Netters Whip Allegany And Flintstone

The girls' varsity volleyball team upped its season record to 9-4 this past week by recording 3-0 victories over host Allegany on Monday and visiting Flintstone last night.

Michelle Gies and Nikki Elliott led the Huskies against Allegany (5-8) with 11 and 10 points, respectively, as Northern won by scores of 15-6, 15-13, and 15-10. Mindy McCarty paced the Northern attack with four kills, while Lea Stanton added three.

Leading Allegany was Beth Miller, who finished with 10 service points and four kills, while Larisa Yelovich had seven points and Jamie Murray contributed five kills.

The Northern junior varsity kept its record perfect in the second match by ripping the Alco jayvees, 15-3 and 15-5. Brooke Brenneman recorded 14 service points for Northern and Kristin Heslop had 12.

The winning scores last night over the Flintstone Aggies were 15-0, 15-4, and 15-9.

Leslie Buckel led Northern's offensive effort with 15 points, while Stanton recorded nine points, 10 spikes, and six kills. McCarty also had nine service points and Elliott added six spikes and five kills.

Leading the Aggies was Barb Turbin with seven points.

The Northern jayvees stretched their unbeaten record to 13 games by winning the second match, 15-1 and 15-8, behind a 15-point effort by Brooke Brenneman. Heslop had four spikes and two kills, and Kerri Sines finished with three spikes and one kill.

Erika Heavner and Lisa Blubaugh each had four service points for the Flintstone jayvees.

The Huskies will host Southern next Wednesday evening in their final regular season match. It will be Senior Appreciation Night.

Laker Netters Stumble; Record Falls To 20-8

After upping its record to 19-5, the women's volleyball team of Garrett Community College stumbled this week by falling to Delaware Tech and host Anne Arundel CC in a tri-match on Friday, and then losing to host Potomac State College, 3-1, Tuesday evening after defeating the Catamounts on two previous occasions this season.

The Lakers were defeated by Anne Arundel, 3-1, in losing the first two games, 15-13 and 15-6, winning the third, 15-9, and dropping the fourth, 15-4.

Lynn Wiles went 15-for-15 in serves for the Lakers, while Becky DeWitt was 14-for-14 in sets with 29 assists. Nikki Meyers added 12 service points with three aces and also had 11 kills in 39 of 50 attacks. Amanda Tikey recorded 15 kills and was 31-for-33 in attacks and also had seven blocks, while Crystal Wagner recorded 11 points.

The Lakers lost to Delaware Tech, 15-8 and 15-4, with Wiles and DeWitt leading the Lakers in service points with nine and seven, respectively. Tikey had 10 kills.

Delaware went on to rip Anne Arundel, 15-3 and 15-0.

The Lakers did pick up a forfeit win over Chesapeake CC this week after that school dropped its program.

The Lakers were topped by Potomac State Tuesday by scores of 15-8, 12-15, 15-2, and 16-14.

Amanda Simmons led the Catamounts in serving with 19 points, while Erin Hockensmith recorded 13 kills and four blocks. Amanda Taylor and Becky Lewis had 15 and 12 service points, respectively, for Potomac State (12-13).

Wagner led the Lakers' serving with 14 points, including four aces. Lynn Wiles was close behind with 13 points, as was DeWitt with 13. Meyers had 15 kills, Tikey had four kills and a 20-for-30 effort in attacks, and Annetta Yoder added eight points and two kills.

The Lakers, now 20-8, will play their final home match this Sunday against Catonsville CC, with match time set for 2 p.m.

He returned to Fort Benning, Georgia, and for a time helped to put on military exhibitions throughout Maryland. In 1950 he returned to Garrett County, where he currently resides.

According to Shuttleworth's daughter, Oakland resident Patty Croston, D'Araujo stated during the Pentagon ceremony that he had only awarded five Bronze Stars during his 32-year military career.

Family members attending the ceremony, in addition to Croston, were Shuttleworth's son and daughter-in-law, Oakland residents Roger L. and Jean Shuttleworth, along with their daughter Lori, and Croston's daughter Nicole. Roger Shuttleworth currently serves in the military.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information about the theft of several guns and other property.

Sometime on Sept. 16-17, unknown persons broke into a Boiling Springs Road residence and stole two rifles that had been stored in a bedroom. The guns, valued at $800, were recovered on Peach Street in Deer Park some time later.

In the other case, five guns and a VCR were reportedly stolen from a residence located on Rt. 40, west of Keysers Ridge. The theft took place on July 24 between 1 and 3:30 p.m. The total loss in the case is $2,440.

Persons who have information about these or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names, nor do they have to appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Lake Purchase

Natural Resources would continue to manage the lake and the State of Maryland would continue to own the water in the lake. The bonds would be retired with revenue from existing dock fees and a new ad valorem tax on District 18 land owners.

Interest in purchasing the lake was recently aroused after dock permit fees were increased, Belmonte explained. He added that there is concern that the fees will increase again, adversely affecting tourism and other lake-related business.

"I think if we go easy we can accomplish this instead of pushing aggressively," Belmonte remarked. "I think we've got a lot of selling to do. As one guy said to me at lunch the other day, legally, technically, and constitutionally, it's all valid, financially it's valid, but he says you've got a political election to win.

"So I think between now and hopefully January, 1997, we can win that election. I think it's doable," he stated.

However, Belmonte stated that he does not want to discuss monetary figures, including the possible purchase price of the 4,500 lake-bed and buffer, before his November meeting with Penelec.

During this week's DCLARC meeting, Belmonte also offered his opinions on local political support for the lake buy-out plan.

"I don't think [District IA] Delegate George Edwards would introduce that bill into the state legislature unless the Garrett County Board of Commissioners were behind it," Belmonte speculated. "If the commissioners objected, Del. Edwards would not introduce the bill. He hasn't said that to me - that's my personal assessment.

"I don't think the commissioners would be 100 percent on board unless they felt the general public at large was on board," he added.

Belmonte commented that gathering support for the plan in Tax District 18 is quite feasible.

"I think that's a relatively easy selling job. I really do . . . The selling challenge is going to be in convincing Garrett County's general public that this is best for them from a long range standpoint of business development, industrial development, and keeping this place a viable tourist attraction," Belmonte commented, adding that 44 percent of Garrett County's tax revenue comes from Tax District 18.

three of these seminar topics. I told Mr. Green that I would like to see Astrology, Massage Therapy, and Acupuncture stricken from the list of offerings and that the Board may call a special meeting. He informed me that he did not believe the Board of Education had the authority to remove any of these topics. I asked if he could remove any of these topics from the list of offerings and he stated that he could. I then explained that astrology is, in my opinion, a religious belief by which some people guide their life choices and that I was concerned that the presenter may be seeking to promote a religious belief. To this Mr. Green responded that he believed astrology to be for entertainment only and that he may contact the presenter and inquire as to the intent of this topic. A special meeting of the Board was called before I heard from Mr. Green again. A seminar entitled How to Cope with Parents has been removed from the offerings and Mr. Green has indicated that he will see to it that parental permission slips are obtained from every student at Northern High before they can attend any of the Wellness Day seminars. I have also been assured that the content of the seminars will be monitored to ensure appropriateness. I commend Mr. Green for these reasonable and responsible actions.

I apologize that my action to guard the public trust by making inquiry into these seminars was interpreted by some individuals as a personal attack on one of our most dedicated principals and his school administration. That certainly was not my intent! I do not apologize, however, for making inquiry and for my continued opposition to the promotion of astrology in our public schools.

I am deeply committed to promoting academic excellence in the Garrett County Public Schools. During my campaign for Board member I made it clear that I would advance certain principles such as: traditional family values, parental rights, and a greater emphasis on academic basics. These principles and the others I campaigned on I now seek to promote. Yes, I do ask questions of our staff and seek to be well informed before I cast any vote.

The Garrett County Board of Education has many highly skilled and very dedicated employees and I commend them for their commitment to excellence in the Garrett County Public Schools.

Sincerely,
Patrick W. Riley

To the Editor:

As a member of the School Improvement Team of Northern High School, I was both saddened and somewhat insulted by the calling of a special meeting by the Board of Education regarding certain topics for Wellness Day.

I am saddened because of the great deal of time and energy that's being wasted in trying to deal with board members who are taking the most innocent and insignificant items in our schools and making a major issue out of them.

I feel insulted because, although the board tells us they want parent involvement and they want schools to make their own decisions, their interference sends a message that they think we are not intelligent enough to make proper decisions or consider what possible effects certain programs or subjects might have on our students. Not a single person on the planning team, the School Improvement Team, or on the list of 500+ parents returning permission slips had any problem whatsoever with any of the topics offered, nor have they in the last two years of this award-winning program. Some members of the board must have a tremendous ego to think that they know more about what's best for these students than these hundreds of people, most of them very devout Christians by the way, who deal with the students and their problems every day.

As a SIT member, I welcome any questions about anything going on at Northern High School, as I know the administration does. If I can't answer them myself, I'll find someone who can. I do not welcome illegal demands of the threats to our principal, and special meetings that create anger, anxiety, and frustration.

I am making an appeal to the board to please let us move in a positive direction by having a little faith and trust in our decisions.

Thank you,
Madeleine Collins

To the Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for allowing the school system to present a pertinent article on a bi-weekly basis on your editorial page for the past four years. We feel that in your allowing this opportunity we have been able to focus on many pertinent subjects relative to our public schools. We hope that your readership has found them of interest as well as informative.

As you know, we had also used these subjects at the same time with WKHJ Radio on a bi-weekly basis. We will continue with the radio broadcasts every other Saturday, but will be focusing on individual staff members in our school who make a difference for youngsters. As a result, we feel that this type of programming may not be as suitable to the editorial page.

Once again, we want to thank you not only for allowing us this opportunity, but we also want to sincerely thank you for the continued comprehensive coverage afforded our public schools through your newspaper.

Very respectfully,
Jerome J. Ryscavage
Superintendent of Schools

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to a comment made to several Southern High Band Boosters at a recent football game.

I realize that Garrett County is sports oriented and I have no problem with that; my family loves sports also. What I do have a problem with is some people that feel that everything else is beneath them and unimportant.

Any young adult from the age of 14 to 18 who takes part in Southern High's Marching Band takes on a lot of hard work and responsibility. They are very dedicated. They give up their summer to practice in any weather for 10 to 14 hours a day. They don't sleep in, for they start early and finish late, eat packed lunches, suffer sore muscles, sunburn, windburn and bruises. After school starts it's go to school all day, then grab a bite to eat, and practice all evening two to three days a week, just to go home and stay up late to do homework.

How many of our athletes are that dedicated? Could any one of them hold an instrument chest high and march forward, backward, and sideways while holding correct posture for hours over and over again, getting yelled at and told to start over from the beginning?

I know our athletes have sports camps and practices that work them very hard also, and I don't mean to put them down, but our band kids do all of this and more.

They attend football games to give support and raise school spirit only to get home late that night and have to get up early to practice all day and leave for their own competitions and sometimes not get back until 3:00 or 4:00 in the morning. Even our concert band sits in on all of the basketball games to lend their support. You know, I have never seen a sign or banner in the hallways of the school or displayed out in the town of Oakland wishing our band good luck when they compete, go to state championships, or even regionals. And I have yet to see an athlete or coach at the band competitions to cheer their band on.

And now we have this person at a recent game tell us that the band is not a "high school band" because we don't show support for our teams and school, and the school and school board would give us more support if we did!

The person that made that statement obviously does not know the facts and I also feel that the public as a whole probably doesn't realize what being in the band truly means.

The band will have only missed three away games this season, two of which were too far away and we didn't have the funds to send them, and the other we won't send them to because the last time we did windows were broken and things were destroyed.

Our band does participate in a lot of school and community activities that they don't get credit for. So, please, if you ever have the chance to see these kids compete or just talk with them, do so. These young people work very hard and should be recognized for all of their hard work and dedication. Take a look in the band room sometime at all of the plaques and trophies that they have achieved over the years that no one acknowledges or speaks of. Don't you think that these hard-working kids deserve more than just being ignored? These kids go to their competitions wearing their school colors and name proudly. Don't you think that it is time that their school and community starts showing them that they are proud of them also?

Thank you,
Robin Ford

To the Editor:

I want to comment on your editorial of September 28, 1995, entitled "Send Them to Dan ...," which was in response to a flood of identical printed postcards from supporters of the Christian Coalition criticizing your newspaper for "the relentless anti-Christian bias of the news media." I almost had to laugh! can't imagine anyone seriously accusing The Republican of being "anti-Christian!" Not only is your newspaper full of coverage of church activities, but also the very tone and attitude of The Republican demonstrates what we consider to be the best Christian values. So much space is devoted to the "humane things -- notices of birthday parties and card showers for elderly folks; letters of praise for various public personalities; "In Memoriam" poems from bereaved family members; "Thank you" ads from 4-H members to the buyers of their project livestock; a tolerant and generally positive editorial stance. The Republican seems to me truly to be the voice of Garrett County, available to everyone.

I live in Morgantown, W.Va., and am not really one of your "target" readership, and yet in the two years that I have subscribed to The Republican, I have enjoyed it very much and look forward to every issue. I read most of it, and even though I'm not a part of your "neighborhood," I have come to recognize many names and to follow with interest the goings-on in Garrett County. Sometimes I feel as though I really am connected to you folks (beyond the obvious fact that my son and his wife live in Oakland). My next door neighbor, Mr. Upole, has relatives in Garrett County, and indeed I have seen that name often in your paper. My across-the-street neighbor, Mr. Shillingberg, is related to the man who lost several of his sheep to a black bear recently. And, most amazing of all, in last week's issue, as I was idly perusing the list of applications for marriage licenses, I actually saw the name of a member of my graduating class, the "Forty-Niners" of Weston High School in Lewis County! When I was in high school, one of the ongoing fantasies of couples was to "run off to Oakland and get married." At that time I didn't even know where Oakland was, but apparently the romance is still operative --there are lots of West Virginians on that marriage license list every week! And often in the Morgantown Dominion Post, there is a picture on the Weddings/Anniversaries page of a couple celebrating their golden anniversary, who were married in Oakland 50 years ago! (There was one such in last Sunday's paper.)

Anyway, I appreciate your very fine newspaper, which has what I would actually call a "pro-Christian bias." You certainly do not deserve to be tarred with the same brush as Dan Rather and other members of the "eastern liberal media." (Although I don't see anything wrong with being liberal -- my Thesaurus defines "liberal" as "generous, bounteous, tolerant, broad-minded," etc.) So please, just keep on doing what you do so well. I believe that you please most of the people most of the time! Thank you.

DNR Legislative Package Aimed At Increasing Boating Safety

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin announced yesterday that he is proposing a package of legislation and regulations in a continuing effort to reduce the number of personal watercraft (PWC) accidents, injuries, and deaths in Maryland.

The number of PWC in Maryland has more than doubled over the last four years, and the number of accidents, injuries, and citations have grown even faster.

"Virtually all PWC accidents could have been prevented if the operators had been following the rules and regulations," Secretary Griffin said. "The purpose of this new package is to ensure that everyone who operates a personal watercraft knows what those rules are."

The legislative package will propose:

*Requiring all PWC operators, regardless of age, to obtain a PWC certification by completing a take-home test or taking a PWC Safety Course.

*Requiring all Maryland registered PWC to permanently display a decal in plain view of the operator which described Maryland's PWC rules and regulations.

*Requiring all livery operators in the state to be licensed, insured, and have certified guides.

An emergency regulation, followed by legislation will propose:

*Increasing the minimum age to operate a personal watercraft to 16. Until January 1, 1998, youths 14-15 years old will be permitted to operate a personal watercraft if accompanied by a certified operator at least 16 years of age. After the January date, all operators must be at least 16 years of age. The Boating Administration is requesting an emergency regulation to accomplish this effective January 1, 1996.

If enacted, the proposed legislation will take effect July 1, 1996.

"Personal watercraft are not toys, they are high performance vessels capable of operating in excess of 50 miles per hour," Natural Resource Police Superintendent John W. Rhoads noted. "Operating one takes the same level of experience and responsibility as driving a car."

DNR's Boating Administration has provided assistance in the establishment of a PWC Livery Operators Association in Ocean City and has begun a promotional statewide campaign aimed at promoting PWC safety which emphasizes Maryland's rules and regulations for the vessels.

In addition, the Boating Administration's Train the Trainer program provides boating-safety course instructors with hands-on training in the proper use of PWCs. To date more than 75 instructors have participated in this training.

This package of regulations and legislation was developed in cooperation with the Boat Act Advisory Committee and other state boating organizations.

Durst then introduced a guest speaker, Rev. Robert Bonser, who was asked by Durst to speak about astrology and its alleged connection to "the occult." Bonser began to discuss astrology, and the crowd reacted loudly. Wayne Swiger, a parent from McHenry, interrupted the pastor, heatedly accusing him of not being qualified to speak about the issue.

"You're talking religion - you're not qualified to speak about this," Swiger said. Bonser replied that he has college degrees in divinity and has studied numerous religions, and, he said, astrology is a religion. The crowd again reacted stridently, and in a short while, two officers of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office appeared in the back of the room to help keep order.

Bonser again attempted to speak on the issue, and stated that astrology as well as acupuncture, massage, and sports imaging are all connected as a replacement for belief in God. He also described astrology as connected to "fatalism."

The audience members continued to voice opposition to Bonser's presentation, with one parent accusing the pastor of using "ridiculous scare tactics." Durst shouted that the meeting was not "the Phil Donahue Show," and that applause and interruptions were not allowed.

"Next time that happens, just try me," Durst said. "We called this meeting to get information, and that's what Pastor Bonser is here to do. You [the audience] are here as our guests." Bonser stated that he had assumed he would only be speaking to the board members, and did not expect to have to compete with a large crowd.

"But you simply aren't qualified to be speaking about this," Swiger repeated.

The volatile atmosphere did not change as the meeting progressed. Durst stated several times that the meeting was called for board members to simply receive information about Wellness Day activities, but some audience members expressed their concern that the board may try to eliminate some of the planned seminars. Riley stated that he would prefer to have the astrology class removed, but Hannah Sincell, board member, stated that she felt the board did not have the power to do such a thing. She also stated that she thought that there had been no reason to call a special meeting over the issue.

"It is our function to make policy and be sure that it is followed," Sincell said. She then asked Green if he had indeed followed policy, and he stated that he had. "Then that's enough for me," Sincell said.

Riley maintained that acupuncture and massage are religious, and that many people consider astrology to be a religion. He said it concerned him that the students may be misled by the seminars.

"You have the permission slips in front of you - no one has had a problem with the seminars. What makes you of a higher authority than parents?" Green asked.

The majority of audience members were wearing ribbons that stated "I Support Wellness Day," and board member Charlotte Sebold referred to them.

"It hurts me to see people wearing the ribbons - I support Wellness Day, too. We just had some questions about it," she said.

Representatives of two professional associations - the Garrett County Teachers Association (GCTA) and the Association of Administrators and Supervisors - spoke on behalf of Green and the Wellness Day event. Lindsay Stanton of the Administrators and Supervisors said that the group commended Green and the school volunteers for organizing "another excellent day" of Wellness Day activities.

"We support the right of the administration to make school-based decisions and we ask this board to support us," Stanton said.

Irene Sigel of the GCTA stated that the Association "is totally in support of the Northern High School staff."

"We are alarmed at the attempt to delete programs. This event had the approval of parents and staff - no single person should have the right to keep others from learning," Sigel said.

Durst asked Green to discuss some of the seminars under scrutiny, and Green explained that acupuncture was part of a chiropractic seminar being led by Dr. David Bolinger, and that the topic was just to be one of discussion. He said the astrology issue was simply for entertainment, and that the massage class would cover basic massage techniques.

"I want you to know that you are not asking me any questions that I have not already asked [of the event organizers]," Green said. "Massage is a highly regarded treatment for many individuals - I perceive it as an alternative to medicine and as an alternative to drugs. And I would have been glad to have discussed these things with any of you before being called to a special meeting."

Debra Nichols, a wellness coordinator in the county for 15 years, addressed the board members.

"Wellness is a very important topic, and it is my job to inform people. More informed people make more informed choices. Wellness is about wholeness - mental, physical, and emotional. Students need to be informed about issues that they hear about all the time," Nichols said.

Randy Nairn, a Lutheran pastor from Accident, voiced his support of the event.

"I, too, have a master's of divinity degree and other education in family life - I know about the family and I think I know what it means to be a Christian. I'm not concerned at all about these seminars. I support Mr. Green and the parents of these students."

Visibly distressed, Luther Parrack, director of secondary education, spoke out about a general frustration apparently being felt by administrators in the local system.

"I keep detecting a lack of confidence from this board," Parrack said. "I keep feeling that there is a suspicion that we are here to mislead students, to corrupt them, to lead them down some dark pathway. It hurts me to see it, and something must be done about it. I don't know what it is to be, but something must be done." The crowd responded with spirited applause.

Jim Davidson, another local pastor, then stood with an armload of printed material and asked to speak about the seminars in question. He began by stating that these sort of activities take the students away from reading, writing, and arithmetic, and "that is why Johnny can't read." Green was visably irritated by the statement, asserting that academics have always come first at Northern, making it one of the best high schools in the state.

"This is just ridiculous," Green said.

Davidson continued, reaffirming Riley's belief that acupuncture and the other topics are religious in nature.

"Acupuncture disrupts the flow of energy in the body, and redistributing energy throughout the body is Hinduism," Davidson said. "If these things are to be taught, they should be taught in the home."

Board members were asked by several audience members on at least three occasions during the meeting if they were acting on the concern of their constituents, or if they were speaking only for themselves. The question was left unanswered for some time before Sebold said she had "been on the phone all day." Riley, however, stated that he had acted on his own, and that no one had contacted him with concerns about Wellness Day.

"You are acting on your own, yet you are an elected board," said Nancy Learey, a retired school counselor. "You have to remember that you are to represent all the citizens of the county --"

Durst then became enraged, banging his fist on the table, standing, and shouting that "the majority does not always rule."

Riley explained that he had made his personal opinions clear when he ran for office, and he was acting on that platform by questioning the content of the seminars and by wishing to delete the astrology class. He said he was voted into office by persons who agreed with his stance on education, and he felt he was representing them in his actions.

"But where are these constituents?" asked Laura Stutzman, a Mtn. Lake Park parent. "I have been coming to these meetings for months, and all I see are people who disagree with you. You keep referring to this concerned group you represent - they need to show their faces."

"I would like to make a plea with this board," said Madeline Collins, a Northern High parent and member of the SIT. "I ask you to support our system. We have faith in our students, our teachers, and our administrators. You should, too. There is a growing frustration that some of you seem to be putting your own agendas first. You are here to help - not hinder. But that is exactly what you do with this micro-managing and picking apart. We should be home with our kids right now - not here trying to tell you what your role is as a board member."

"I'm not here to break down the public school system," Riley said. "I want to have the best system possible, and I want to hold the system accountable. I feel it is my duty to ask questions when I am concerned."

"This sort of behavior is simply a harassment of these teachers and administrators," said Neil Leverenz, a Northern parent.

Finally one parent asked the board what exactly the next step would be, and if the members planned to try to delete any programs of Wellness Day. Riley asked Ryscavage if they could legally remove any of the classes.

"As the board of education, you are the policy makers for this school system. We are talking about administration employees and the decisions they are making at their own schools. If we feel the administration is acting properly - and in light of the information given by Mr. Green and others about the seminars, it seems to me the substance is appropriate, developed at the school - if we truly believe in site-based management, then it would be inappropriate at this time to attempt to change what has been planned. This is my opinion," Ryscavage said.

"And I agree with the superintendent," Sincell stated.

Wellness Day did indeed proceed as planned yesterday, with Riley, Sebold, Sincell, and Dale Carpenter taking part in some of the activities.

Wellness?

I write to you with a compassion, concern and a loving heart. I am saddened by the subtle or even sometimes blatant attempts to integrate the occult and pagan rituals of the New Age Movement into the community and schools. This has never been more evident than in this year's Wellness Day session proposals. In response to each of the proposals I would like to point out the beliefs and possible underlying goals of their implementation.

Astrology: An ancient art that brings guidance and counsel to mankind based on one's birth date, working in harmony with the sun, moon, planets, and stars.

Tarot Card Reading: It is the tarot which is the witches' most widely used method of divination (aclairvoyance using tool). The art of being aware of facts, objects or situations by psychic means. The card reader must achieve an "altered state" so that superconscious can approach the conscious through the subconscious.

Acupuncture: "Needles to Prick": is in the foreground of the New Age Movement's crusade for holism. Deeply rooted in Taoism, that the primary energy of the universe named the "Chi" can be balanced by changing its flow by needle insertion.

Herbology: The science(?) of healing, using herbal formulas. They theorize that there is no illness that herbs cannot cure. "You will probably discover the "magic" of herbs after you get involved in the gathering, growing, and use of them." It is "more of an art and a tool of divine nature than a science."
From "The way of Herbs" by Michael Tierra

Massage Therapy: AKA Deep Tissue Manipulation, or "Rolfing". It is a "method of manipulating the muscles to align the body's structure with the earth's gravitational field." - The Donning International Encyclopedic Psychic Dictionary. To free negative thoughts from the muscle thus freeing them from the cause of the ailment.

Why are we willing to rely on witchcraft, and occult and selfsecurity when no peace or wellness can be found in them? And if any, it is imperfect and temporary at best.

Those who accept the finished work of Jesus Christ will, upon His return, receive a "New Body"!

PERFECT WELLNESS!!!

Isaiah 53:5: But He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement for our peace was upon Him, and with His stripes we are healed.

Rev. 21:4: And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away.

Pet Care
by Cleo & Brad Conrad

A neighbor of ours recently came to us with what's become a common refrain from her: Can we help her find homes for her cat's kittens? This is probably the third or fourth litter this poor cat has had. Each time, we ask her, why don't you have this animal spayed? It's cruel to let her keep breeding. Also, there's no guarantee that these kittens are going to good homes. Some of them could wind up being destroyed if they have to go to a shelter.

Her response was incredible: "It's not my fault the cat got pregnant. The real-estate agent who's been showing my house let her get out when she was in heat." What's wrong with this picture?

Obviously, this woman has no sense of responsibility. She doesn't do the right thing with her cat, but it's someone else's fault when it gets out and gets pregnant! Frankly, she doesn't deserve to have pets. She's worse than a child.

Remember, the decision to own a pet carries with it the onus of responsibility. If you are unwilling or unable to meet that responsibility, you should not have a pet. They are not toys. They are living, sentient creatures who deserve better than what this woman gives.

Antiques

Electrical kitchen appliances of the past are being repaired and refurbished, and some are even being reproduced for use in today's kitchens. Collectors are looking for the chrome-and-black designs of the 1930s-1970s era.

Toasters, coffee pots, milkshake machines, coffee grinders, mixers and blenders are in demand.

If you buy an old appliance and plan to use it, there are several rules to follow:

* Be sure the electric cord and plug are in good condition. An old appliance can be rewired at a hardware store or kitchenware shop.

* If possible, have the machine tested before you buy it, especially if it is a toaster, waffle iron or any machine that produces heat. The internal heating element might be broken or worn, and that attractive old appliance can be a fire hazard.

* Coffee pots, blenders and other machines holding liquid often have rubber gaskets between the parts that keep the liquid from leaking. The rubber parts harden with time, and may need to be replaced. Sometimes the original manufacturer can furnish a part.

* Old toasters were made only for commercially sliced bread. They did not hold bagels or other thick breads.

* Be cautious when cleaning chrome, which scratches easily. Don't use scouring powder.

Q. My glass dish has the Liberty Bell in the center and the dates "1776-1876." Along the top are the words, "100 years ago." At the bottom are the names of all of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Is it rare?

A. You have a pressed-glass piece called "The Signers Platter." It is most likely the bread tray of the Liberty Bell pattern of dishes. They're not rare, but they are old. The pattern was patented in 1875 by James Gillinder, who owned a glass factory in Philadelphia.

A platter like yours sold for $125 last year.

Home Tips

LARGE APPLIANCE COVER — I have noticed that many people put towels on top of their washer and dryer to keep them dust-free. Since our children are married with homes of their own, I had several twin-size sheets and had no use for them. I cut one in half and it makes a perfect cover for both appliances. Since I used a fitted sheet, it fits over the dials and stays in place. Helen C., Altoona, Pa.

THIN POTHOLDERS — Ever wonder what to do with those too-thin, handmade potholders received as gifts or bought at a local bazaar?

Just put one in each of your nonstick pans to keep them from scratching each other when stored. Wendy V., N. Canton, Ohio

EASY PLACEMENT — Recently, I was putting pictures in a purchased collage — the kind with the spaces already cut out.

I was feeling frustrated because I couldn't keep the picture still while it was centered, but then an idea came to me. I taped the mat to the window (with the good side facing outside). From there I could easily center each picture perfectly by seeing the shadows of the images. It turned out perfectly! Sandra W., Lighthouse Point, Fla.

GETTING AROUND — Two months ago, I fractured a hip bone and have been on crutches since then.

I am 75 years old and have always been a very active person. I found it very frustrating trying to carry anything with both hands devoted to the crutches, so I have found a great carry-all.

I wear my shop carpenter's apron all day. I can carry medicine, canned drinks, the newspaper and books, pens, paper, dog food for my pet and grain for the yard feeder.

I think that when my hip heals, I'll still be putting on my trusty tool apron every day around the house and yard. Sam D., Gardner, Kan.

HELPFUL TOOL — I just moved to a place with a year-round warm climate and unwittingly took my car ice scraper, which I didn't think I would need here.

Am I glad I brought it along! It is just perfect for getting rid of the ice in my standing freezer. Mine happens to have a long handle which will get into the back quite easily.

In fact, when I make a foray north to visit, I'll purchase another just to have it on hand. Gail W., Baton Rouge, La.

Health & Nutrition
by Judith Sheldon

WINTER HAZARD: It's not snow or ice, or skiing or skating. Rather, it's indoor tanning. For some reason, there are still some people who think having a tan makes them look healthy even though they know they are at risk for developing potentially disfiguring, as well as fatal, skin cancers.

Some surveys indicate that people who are prepared to limit their exposure time to the sun — and who wear sunblock, as well — don't feel they run as much risk lying in an indoor tanning bed. Apparently, they believe this is a "controlled" exposure.

Dr. James M. Spencer of the University of Miami and Dr. Rex A. Amonette, of the University of Tennessee in Memphis detailed the short and long-term effects seen among patients who patronize indoor tanning facilities or who use similar lights and equipment in their homes in a study published in the August 1995 issue of the "Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology."

They report that suntanning, and especially indoor tanning, has no health advantages at all, only negative health consequences. These can be either short term — redness, dryness, itching, nausea — or long term, which include wrinkles, sagging, rashes from the interaction of common medications and intense light, photoaging, skin cancers, or even unusual diseases such as polymorphic light eruption (PLE).

What may confuse some people is the use of the term, "non-burning rays," to describe the indoor light tanning sources. However, Spencer and Amonette warn that the UVA wavelengths in these so-called "non-burning rays" actually penetrate more deeply into a skin layer called the dermis, and can cause a decrease in healthy collagen. These are supportive fibers of protein in skin and other connective tissues.

Tanning rays can also damage the elastic fibers in the dermal layer which give the skin its ability to bounce back. Lose that, and you gain sagging skin that wrinkles and stays that way.

GCMH Notes Healthcare Quality Week

Celebrations of National Healthcare Quality Week will take place at health care facilities around the country October 22-28.

"Healthcare reform is a major topic of national discussion right now, and quality week helps us remind everyone how critically important it is to keep the quality in healthcare," said Claire M. Dunn, president of the National Association for Healthcare Quality (NAHQ).

"Healthcare organizations are increasingly embracing continuous quality improvement (CQI) as an essential objective for every level of employee and every physician," stated Bette Welch, director of medical affairs and quality management at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. "This means focusing attention, time and effort to meeting internal and external customer expectations. It also means knowing who our customers are, tuning into their needs and expectations, establishing processes for soliciting customer feedback, monitoring performance and then using this information to execute corrective action."

Welch said that NAHQ sponsors Quality Week to increase public awareness of the important role of quality in health care. The week also celebrates the many accomplishments of healthcare professionals across the country.

To ensure the continued close monitoring of patients, Garrett Memorial has recently integrated its quality assurance/risk management department with its utilization review department to form the medical affairs and quality management department.

According to Welch, the department will now plan, direct, and manage a unified total quality management program which includes utilization management, risk management, JCAHO compliance, quality improvement, and infection control. The department will also be responsible for the coordination of medical state affairs and the recruitment/retention of qualified physicians for the hospital and community.

"I look forward to the department's continued professional growth and development through a team-based approach to quality improvement and resource effectiveness," Welch said.

NAHQ is a not-for-profit professional organization founded in 1976, with 7,000 members who are professionals in the quality improvement, quality assessment, utilization management, and risk management fields.

NAHQ promotes the continuous improvement of quality in healthcare by providing educational and professional development opportunities to quality managers at all levels.

NATIONAL HEALTHCARE QUALITY WEEK was proclaimed locally this week by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners with members of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital staff on hand. The week, proclaimed for Oct. 22-28, is in recognition of healthcare quality professionals' efforts to achieve the highest possible standards of healthcare quality and to improve the system during this time of healthcare reform. "Healthcare organizations are increasingly embracing continuous quality improvement (CQI) as an essential objective for every level of employee and every physician," said Bette Welch, director of medical affairs and quality management at Garrett Memorial. Pictured from left above are: Terry Roberson, department secretary; Lucy Burnett, RN, quality manager; Debbie Gaither, secretary; Mrs. Welch; and Commissioners John Braskey and H. Wayne Wilt. Another staff member not present for the photo was Cicely Harley, RN.

HAPPINESS IS GOOD HEALTH

Little children are always most expressive. When they are happy their laughter and smiles can light up a whole room. But, when they are not feeling well they do not even have to tell you. Their actions will let you know that there is something bothering them.

Keep your children happy by helping to keep them healthy. Regular checkups are a must by your family physician. Very often he will prescribe a daily vitamin to supplement their diet. In our Vitamin Department we carry a complete stock of vitamin products that are specifically prepared for children. They are good-tasting and children enjoy taking them.

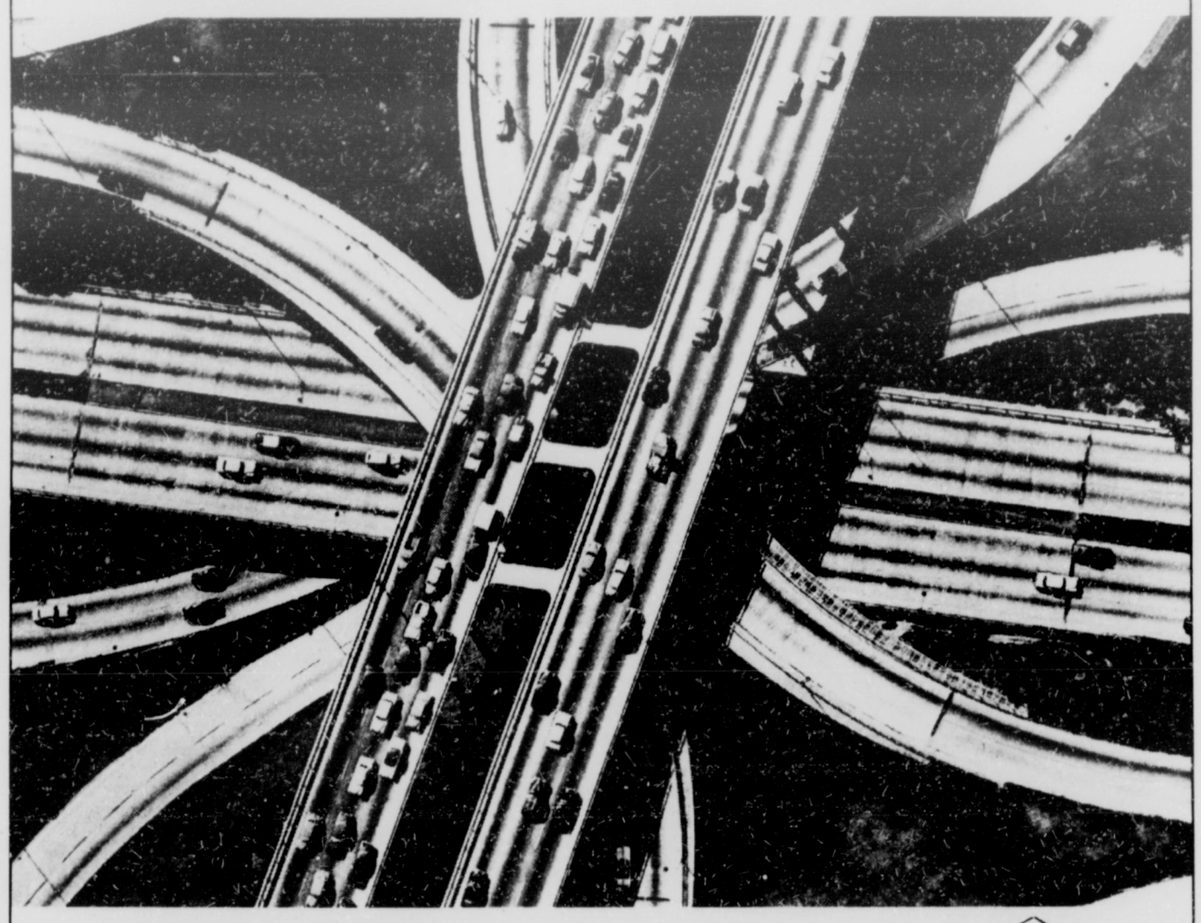
GOING MY WAY?



The clover-leaves are looking more like giant doodles. But can you imagine how long it would take to make a left turn at this intersection the old-fashioned way?

For all we've learned about controlling traffic, there are still areas of life where our differing aims and directions create stress, tension, and sometimes conflict.

Our religious heritage is the key to progress here. From the Golden Rule, the Good Samaritan, the Good Shepherd we gain positive insights, a sense of spiritual direction.

God has provided excellent highways for all who are going His Way.

LETTING THE GLORY OUT

October 29, 1995

Background Scripture:
Acts 11:19-30; 12:24,25

Devotional Reading:
Acts 12:1-11

John Lahr, son of Bert Lahr who is best remembered as the Cowardly Lion in The Wizard of Oz, wrote of the seemingly endless array of obstacles director Victor Fleming faced in producing that movie. "How do you get a rusted Tin Woodsman off his mound of earth and onto the road for a dance? How will the Cowardly Lion wag the tail of his one-hundred pound lion suit? How do you teach 350 Munchkins to sing 'We Welcome You to Muchkin Land,' when only a third of them speak English?" The key, says Lahr, was Fleming's production philosophy: "Don't get excited - obstacles make a better picture."

I have been a long time in beginning to learn that obstacles also make a better life. I confess that I'd rather not have it that way. I would prefer that life be always onward and upward progress steady on a 45-degree angle. I would probably sacrifice a few big victories for a steady procession of little ones.

PAINS AND GAINS

Yet, I have personally experienced that obstacles have often provided me with some of my best opportunities. And what I have regarded initially as defeat has often been seen in retrospect as an opportunity for victory. The problem is that I do not have the divine intelligence and understanding to know what is defeat and what is victory. Some of the biggest gains and growths in my life have come to me in the midst of what seemed like insurmountable obstacles. Sometimes the experiences that have saddened and depressed me most have yielded the greatest growth and understanding.

Unfortunately, at the moment I faced those obstacles, it seemed anything but a time of encouragement or hope. That's the problem confronted by an obstacle we cannot see our situation clearly. Someone once said, "Obstacles are those frightening things you see when you take your eyes off your goal."

This is obvious at least to us in the earliest days of the life of the Church. Stephen was stoned to death and the terrible persecution broke out against the church. A black day for the cause of Christ? Not necessarily. "Now those who were scattered because of the persecution traveled as far as Phoenicia and Cyprus and Antioch (11:10). The persecution actually served a good purpose because it ignited the spread of Christianity from Jerusalem to other cities.

THE CHOICE

But it's not automatic. The persecuted Christians might have decided to cease and desist from practicing their new faith in their places of refuge. If they had done that there would have been no spread of the gospel there. But the refugees chose to seize their opportunities and the gospel prospered as a result. And because news of the growth of the gospel at Antioch got back to Jerusalem, Barnabas was sent there. And Barnabas persuaded Paul to join him thus initiating one of the great missionary movements of Christian history. It is amazing what can happen when we choose to regard our obstacles as opportunities.

But after the good news from Antioch, there was also some bad news. A prophet there by the name of Agabus foretold that there would be a great famine over all the world. Another obstacle-but also another opportunity. "And the disciples determined, every one according to his ability, to send relief to the brethren who lived in Judea..." (11:29). The famine was an obstacle, but it was also an opportunity for the church to experience Christian love and brotherhood.

As Edwin Markham has written: Defeat may serve as well as victory to shake the soul and let the glory out.

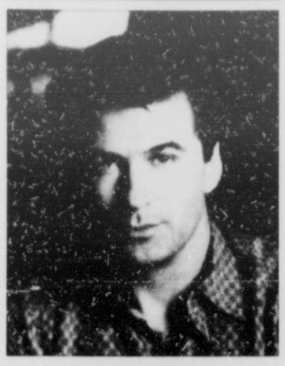
COVER STORY

Streetcar survives clumsy interpretation

BY SUZANNE GILL



Alec Baldwin

Streetcars still run through the arteries of New Orleans. And A Streetcar Named Desire, set in a tawdry quarter of that town, remains an explosive and very American drama.

Jessica Lange and Alec Baldwin re-create their Broadway roles as troubled Blanche Dubois and her brutish brother-in-law, Stanley Kowalski, in a production of the Tennessee Williams play that airs Sunday, Oct. 29, on CBS. John Goodman and Diane Lane co-star.

The production is surprisingly ambivalent: Though it seems to want Blanche to share Stanley's blame, it dispels part of his guilt instead.

When Streetcar debuted on Broadway in 1947, it put the reputations of both Williams and 23-year-old Marlon Brando, as Stanley, on a fast track. Brando and co-stars Kim Hunter and Karl Malden moved on to the 1951 screen version, in which Jessica Tandy was replaced by Vivien Leigh. Williams reworked passages of the play to please movie censors.

The new production returns to the original script. The running time is three hours, and producer-director Glenn Jordan promises commercial breaks will be discreet.

"The play is written in 11 scenes, and the commercials will only be in the scene breaks," Jordan says.

Among the restorations is a speech Blanche makes to suitor Mitch (Goodman) about the disaster of her early marriage to a homosexual.

"When you watch the (1951) movie," Jordan says, "you think the reason he shot himself was because he was lazy." Ironically, the original words have lost some of their power, and today's audience may wonder why such a young man would kill himself.

Lange, who lacks some of the physical characteristics of a definitive Blanche, does use her craft to good effect.

Arriving with a trunk full of silk dresses and costume jewelry, Blanche is the personification of the Old South, mortally wounded by a struggle within. Confused by Stanley's flinteyed Northern realism, she resorts to shopworn charms, while her sister, Stella (Lane), tries to make peace.

Lange's Blanche is mesmerizing but unsubtle. Her soliloquies on life's higher purposes seem hollow, and sympathy she might have gained shifts curiously to cretin Stanley.

"He's constantly reaching out to this woman and saying to her, 'Can we have some conciliation?' in his ham-fisted way," Baldwin says. "I think Stanley is as desperate as Blanche is."

If so, Stanley is a man desperate to regain control of his castle. The rape scene, which should be a convergence of depravities, loses its power, primarily due to the sensitive-guy sensibility Baldwin brings even to this moment, but also because Lange views Blanche as a victim-heroine.

"There's nothing spoiled about Blanche," Lange says. "There's nothing indulgent about her. This is her last chance to find a place to fit in, to find a place to rest.

"I think she's a survivor in spite of herself," she adds of the woman who is taken to an asylum at play's end.

Fortunately it is the lines that speak, rather than the actors who are interpreting them.

Geraldine Santoro became a symbol for the abortion rights movement in 1973 when a picture of her body appeared in Ms. magazine.

Filmmaker Jane Gillooly poses questions about the media's responsibility and the role of symbols like the photo in public debates.

Chocolate sauce was used for blood in the shower scene of Alfred Hitchcock's black-and-white thriller Psycho.

The boot Charlie Chaplin's hapless Little Tramp dined on in his comedy The Gold Rush was made of licorice.

Daphne Zuniga portrays Christopher's associate and Patricia Kalember plays the judge.

The 1964 pilot for The Munsters was made in color. The series was filmed in black and white.

Fox has bit of nostalgia with new seasonal movie

BY AMY HIBBERT

Fox is bringing a bit of nostalgia to the television screen for Halloween.

Following the success of the recent Addams Family movies, Fox is bringing that unusual family from Transylvania back from the world of long-gone television series.

In Here Come the Munsters, premiering Tuesday, Oct. 31, all of the characters from the 1960s show are back. And although played by different actors, the characters still look very much the same – devilish.

"It's the same kind of look, the same kind of costumes and the same kind of character," says Robert Morse, who plays Grandpa Munster in the film. "Actually, (even) the house looks the same. It's amazing ... what Hollywood can do."

Morse is joined by Edward Herrmann, who stars as Herman, and Veronica Hamel, who plays his wife, Lily. Christine Taylor and Matthew Botuchis also star as Marilyn and Eddie.

In the film, the Munsters are run out of Transylvania and move to the United States to live with Marilyn. While adjusting to their new home, they search for Marilyn's missing father who can keep them from being deported.

Here Come the Munsters also features a reunion. Original series stars, Al Lewis (Grandpa), Yvonne DeCarlo (Lily), Pat Priest (Marilyn) and Butch Patrick (Eddie), return to make cameo appearances.

It was a treat for Morse to have these actors in the film.

"I've known Al Lewis for a long time and I have a great respect for him, and he was wonderful in the part," he says. "I was just fortunate enough that I could see him again."

Life not always easy for Phillips of GH

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Take heart, women of the world. There are some wonderful guys around, and Joseph Phillips, who plays Justus on General Hospital, is one of them.

Phillips' life hasn't been an easy one. His was the first black family to move into a southeast Denver community, during a time when racial tension was high. But Phillips and his sisters made the best of it.

Then his mother committed suicide when he was a sophomore in high school, and in 1993 one of his sisters lost her lifelong battle with sickle-cell anemia.

And those are only three of the many life trials Phillips has experienced.

"I have friends who tell me that my life story would be an interesting book or movie, but I don't think people would believe all these things happened to one person," the actor says.

A published writer, Phillips says he might consider writing fiction based on his own life experiences.

He certainly could have been a guest on Geraldo or Jenny Jones a number of times in his life. But he decided long ago to carve his path in the world and move forward.

Phillips' first television role was on Search for Tomorrow as Cruiser McCulla. He later won a role on The Cosby Show as the husband of Lisa Bonet's character.

But Phillips says he feels at home on the set of GH, and he enjoys his character.

"I'm having a great time. I like the people I work with, and

Joseph Phillips

Justus is a great character," the actor says. "I've played a lot of one-dimensional nice guys. Justus is a good guy, but there is a lot more to him. I'm lucky in that Claire Labine, the head writer, creates these wonderful characters."

At home Phillips is an accomplished cook.

"I love to cook. I find it a creative outlet," Phillips says. "If things are tough, I go into the kitchen and create something, and I always end up feeling better."

His wife, Nicole, is appreciative of her husband's culinary talents.

"Nicole is a vegetarian, and I have always cooked down-home kinds of meals that I learned from my mother. So I took some classes so that I could make meals Nicole and I could both enjoy," he says.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Was Jessica Tandy's last movie titled Nobody's Fool with Paul Newman? –Mrs. Helen Chandes, Flint, Mich.

A: While Fool was one of Tandy's final (and finest) films, it was followed by Camilla, a 1994 Canadian-British coproduction in which Tandy's real-life husband, Hume Cronyn, co-starred as her old flame.

Q: Will you please tell my mother she is wrong in her belief Charlie Chase (of Crook & Chase) is the father of "Super Dave" Osborne? –R.R., Perryton, Texas.

A: While he is not related to "Super Dave" Osborne (real name: Bob Einstein), Chase has nicknamed his own 11-year-old son "Super Dave" because the child is "such a little stuntster."

Q: Was the Sept. 22, 1995, episode of The X-Files a new episode or a repeat of one from last season? –S.C.J., N.M..

A: The episode, titled "The Blessing Way," was the season premiere, although it contained flashback material from last season's cliffhanger finale.

Q: Are Forrest and Diane Sawyer of ABC News married or related in any way? –Shirley Benedict, St. Joseph, Mo.

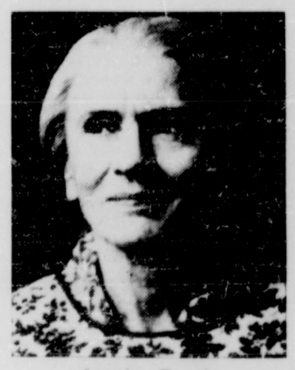
A: Diane is married to director Mike Nichols and is not related to Forrest in any meaningful way.

Q: My neighbor says Patrick Swayze is the son of the late John Cameron Swayze. I say he is not. –A. Calhoun, Buzzards Bay, Mass.

A: And you're right.

Q: Who was the actress who once played Betsy on As the World Turns? Was it Meg Ryan or Daryl Hannah in the role? –Shirley Nelson, Sarasota, Fla.

A: That was Meg Ryan.



Jessica Tandy

Q: What is Robert Goulet doing these days? He played Lancelot in Broadway's Camelot back in 1960. –O.D., Shickshinny, Pa.

A: In recent years Goulet has had a very tidy career touring in bus and truck productions of vintage Broadway musicals – including, coincidentally, Camelot, although these days he plays King Arthur. Most recently, he toured with Paige O'Hara (Beauty and the Beast) in South Pacific.

Q: Is the man who played Mr. Furley on Three's Company the same man who played Barney on The Andy Griffith Show? –Derek Zachry, Silsbee, Texas.

A: Yes, Don Knotts played both roles.

Q: George Clooney and Noah Wyle of ER seem to have become quite close. Is there something going on between these two? –Missy Higgins, Portland, Ore.

A: There is nothing to suggest the two are anything more than very good friends.

SECU Expands LaVale Office

A ribbon-cutting ceremony was held in LaVale recently to celebrate the opening of the newly-expanded LaVale Branch of the State Employees Credit Union of Maryland (SECU), located on 1322 National Highway.

"With a larger facility and staff, we've increased services to meet the needs of our members," remarked LaVale Branch Manager Jack Hughes, adding that the SECU outgrew its original space in Braddock Square. "Our new branch offers four teller stations, a drive-through window, an enclosed automatic teller machine, and several private loan offices."

Founded in Baltimore in 1951, SECU is the largest credit union in Maryland and has 160,000 members. Branches to serve Western Maryland residents were opened in LaVale and Hagerstown in 1986.

SECU's membership includes employees and retirees of the state and special payroll groups, plus full-time students in the University of Maryland system (including Frostburg State University,) Morgan State University, and St. Mary's College. Family members of these persons are also eligible for membership.

Star Watching Field Trip Set For November 18

"The Campfires of the Grandfathers: Divining the Night Sky" is the title of the 6th field trip in the Frostburg State University English Department's Sacred Geography series. The trip will be led by Dr. Era Patnaik, professor of mythology at Frostburg State University, and Jack Slocomb, adjunct faculty at the Appalachian Environmental Laboratory. This excursion is planned for Saturday, Nov. 18, and will focus on the earth-star connection from both the mythological and ecological viewpoints.

The trip will commence with supper at the Penn Alps Restaurant in Grantsville at 6 p.m. At this time, Dr. Barbara Hurd, regionally acclaimed poet and professor of English at FSU, will share original poetry concerned with themes of darkness and light. Following supper, the group will travel to a site on Big Savage Mountain where the night sky will be viewed. During this part of the evening, seasonal constellations and other aspects of the winter sky will be pointed out. Dr. Patnaik will tell stories, legends, and myths of many cultures relating to the heavenly bodies, and Slocomb will comment regarding the ecological implications of these myths.

The cost of the trip is $12. Those interested in attending may register by contacting Dr. Patnaik at 301-689-5187. Participants should bring sleeping bags or blankets and flashlights. Binoculars are not necessary, but might be helpful. Participants under 18 should be accompanied by a responsible adult. Dinner at Penn Alps is not included in the registration fee.

This experience is especially recommended for teachers interested in interdisciplinary projects involving sciences and humanities.

For further information, persons may contact Slocomb at 301-777-8810 or Dr. Patnaik at 301-689-5187.

ALA Announces Christmas Seal Drawing Contest

The American Lung Association is sponsoring a Kids' Drawing Contest with the theme "Feeling Good at the Holidays." The winning entry will be used for the next ALA Christmas Seal.

A winning entry from Maryland submissions and an overall national winner will be chosen. The grand prize is a personal multimedia computer and a color inkjet printer. Individual state winners will receive an electronic sketch pad.

For each entry, the Triaminic Parents Club will contribute $1 to the American Lung Association. There is no participation fee to enter.

The contest is open to children ages 6 to 15. The deadline for entries is March 31, 1996.

Currently, homes across the country are receiving Christmas Seals featuring the winners from the 1994 contest.

Proceeds from the Christmas Seal campaign are the major funding source for the American Lung Association of Maryland's programs and services.

For official rules and an entry form, persons may contact the American Lung Association of Maryland at (800) 586-4872.

"Care" Program Begins At Garrett County Lighthouse

The Board of Directors of Garrett County Lighthouse, Inc., announce the establishment of a "Care" program, to allow businesses and individuals to donate personal care items for the mental health consumers at that facility.

Items including toothpaste, toothbrushes, shaving cream, shavers, perfume, hair brushes, combs, deodorant, and toilet paper are among the personal care products requested.

"Enhancing self esteem is important to good mental health," said a board spokesperson, "and with the rising expense of these needed items, many of the consumers would not be able to purchase them."

A "Care" collection box has been placed in the Lighthouse lobby, for the purpose of receiving donations.

Energy Assistance Applications Now Being Accepted

Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., has announced it has been granted a waiver to begin accepting applications for Energy Assistance as of Oct. 16. This waiver is for Garrett County only.

According to a CAC spokesman, this is later then in previous years because of the expected 24% cut in funding from $20.6 million to approximately $15.5 million. The applications were mailed in late September. Payments are expected to be made on or about December 15, 1995, depending on when federal monies are received by the state of Maryland. These payments will average approximately $199 per household per season, 11% less than last years $226.

Persons who have questions or want to set up an appointment may contact the Community Action Energy Assistance office at (301) 334-9431, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

GCMH Wellness Program Offers "Leaner Weigh"

"The Leaner Weigh" is a new course that will be offered through Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Wellness program for five consecutive Wednesdays beginning November 1.

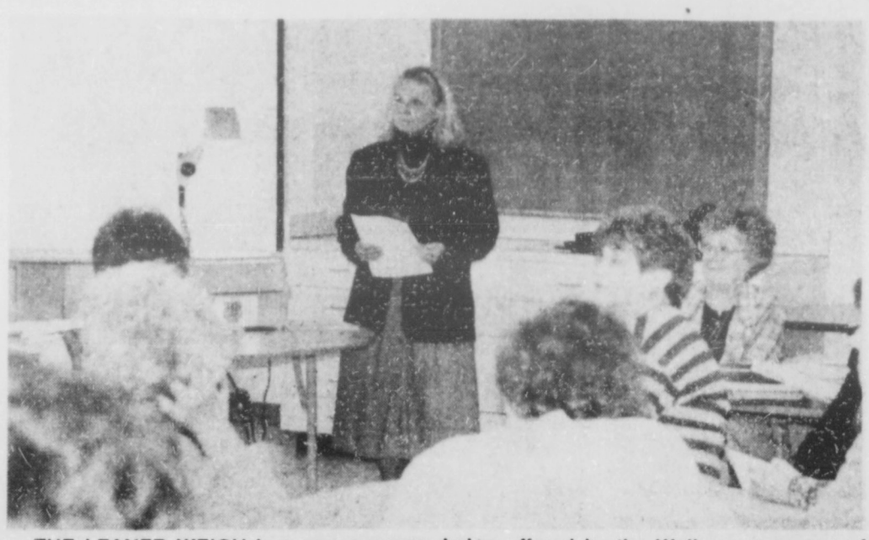
"We're pleased to expand our Wellness programs by adding The Leaner Weigh to our schedule of classes," said Wellness coordinator Debora Nichols. "The Leaner Weigh emphasizes lowfat, high-fiber eating for long-term health, cancer and heart disease risk reduction, weight management, and lifestyle improvement."

The program is for anyone who wants to reduce the risk of developing heart disease, the number one cause of death and certain kinds of cancer -- such as colorectal and breast cancer, which are the two leading cancer killers in the United States today.

"The Leaner Weigh is designed to help individuals avoid those foods that the latest research suggests may contribute to an increased cancer and heart disease risk. At the same time, we'll show participants how to enjoy delicious, nutritious foods that may actually decrease their risk of cancer and heart disease," explained Nichols.

"In addition, participants will learn how to choose foods low in fat and high in fiber -- whether in the supermarket or while dining out. Another benefit of the program is that the delicious 'leaner weigh' of eating may help individuals to lose weight and improve their lifestyle as they reduce certain health risks!" Nichols added.

The Leaner Weigh was developed in conjunction with leading cancer prevention epidemiologists, health educators, and nutritionists nationwide. The five-week course will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. in Garrett Memorial's Community Services Center. For more information or to register for the program, persons may call (301) 334-2155, ext. 408.



THE LEANER WEIGH is a new program being offered by the Wellness program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Through the efforts of the Garrett County Board of Education Wellness Council, teachers and other board of education staff members are currently participating in the course which is being held at Southern Garrett High School. The course is being held, in part, as a result of an interest survey that was conducted by the hospital's Wellness Program for board of education members who indicated weight management and healthy eating as major concerns. The Leaner Weigh course will be available for the general public beginning November 1. Debora Nichols, wellness coordinator at Garrett Memorial, points out that, although the Leaner Weigh classes will be offered for area residents on an ongoing basis, businesses may set up classes targeted specifically for their employees. Wendy Wakefield, RD, director of dietary services at Garrett Memorial, is pictured above discussing healthy eating with class participants.

ARC Approves Building Code Initiative Funds

The Appalachian Regional Commission has approved a grant to provide start-up funding and technical assistance for local government efforts to insure building code enforcement throughout Western Maryland, announced Governor Parris N. Glendening.

In making the announcement, the Governor noted that this project "will provide building code and computer network training to seven jurisdictions in Appalachian Maryland with the new Maryland Building Performance Standards system, a statewide codes database." The jurisdictions benefiting from the assistance will be Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, as well as the cities of Cumberland, Frostburg, Hagerstown, and Williamsport.

According to Patricia Payne, secretary of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, the insurance industry has begun a survey of code enforcement activities throughout the country to help set rates for hazard insurance in each locality. Communities with effective code enforcement will receive favorable underwriting recognition. Secretary Payne states that "the grant will enable local jurisdictions, on a matching basis, to hire and train inspection staff, update or develop local codes, adopt specifications and enforcement procedures, and provide equipment for the statewide computer network."

The ARC Program in Maryland is directed by the Governor's Office and coordinated through the Director of Maryland Office of Planning, Ronald M. Kreitner. Kreitner noted that total project funding is $95,860. The ARC is providing $47,930, with the balance provided by state and local government matching contributions.

The Appalachian Regional Commission consists of all or portions of 13 states including Maryland's three westernmost counties. The ARC was established to assist in the long-term development of the region.

IN OBSERVANCE OF FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, students at the Route 40 Elementary School received a visit by personnel from the Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Company. The firemen visited each classroom, and talked with the children about the importance of fire prevention. Each student was then given a packet of information provided by the fire company. In the above photo, pictured left to right, Tim Clark, Jesse Opel, and Kevin Clark demonstrate how a fireman looks in his protective clothing. Others assisting during the visit, but not pictured, were Dave Wiland, and Nick Wiland.

Autumn Events Slated In Five Local Towns

Community planning groups in Accident, Deer Park, Gorman, Grantsville, and Kitzmiller have slated alcohol- and drug-free events for their communities for the fall season. The events are being funded through mini-grants from the Garrett County Health Department.

ACCIDENT

Accident's planning group will host a costume party on October 31, following the town's trick-or-treat activities. The event is scheduled for 7 to 9 p.m. at the Flowery Vale Senior Center and will include a costume contest, refreshments, and games.

The Accident group will follow-up the October costume party with a hunter's safety course, organized in conjunction with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, in November.

The group's second annual gingerbread project is slated for December. During this event, community members are invited to gather and build their own gingerbread houses with supplies provided by the team. Last year's gingerbread project drew 165 people.

DEER PARK

Deer Park's community planning group will host its second annual Halloween Bash on Saturday, Oct. 28, at the town hall and grounds. The event will begin with a 1:00 p.m. parade, followed by games, food, and other activities.

A nature group for young children meets each Monday night at 6 p.m. at the Deer Park Town Hall. The group discusses the environment and how to preserve it.

Deer Park's team will also host pre-teen dances and video nights the second Saturday of each month beginning in November.

GORMAN

Gorman's community planning group, the "Go-Getters," recently hosted a night of roller skating in LaVale, and will sponsor a series of ceramics classes in November.

For the ceramics course, community members will meet at the White Church Community Building, beginning Friday, Nov. 3, for four consecutive weeks.

Bowling parties are being planned for January.

GRANTSVILLE

Grantsville's group will host a teen Halloween dance on Sunday, Oct. 29, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Grantsville American Legion hall. The dance will include a costume contest, music provided by a disk jockey, and refreshments. Admission to the event is $1.

KITZMILLER

Kitzmiller's community planning group will host ongoing activities through the month of November.

Karate classes in two different skills levels are offered every Monday night from 5 to 7:30 p.m., and gymnastics classes are held Thursday afternoons from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. All sessions are taught by professionals in the Kitzmiller Elementary School cafeteria and are open to community members ages five to 18 for a small fee.

Kitzmiller's team is also planning an alcohol and drug-free New Year's Eve dance.

The five local community planning groups have received grant funds from the health department during the last two years to provide alcohol and drug-free activities in their communities. The source of the money is a local prevention grant organized by Lynn Shiffman, GCHD health educator.

Friendsville residents interested in beginning similar activities in their community are invited attend a public meeting on Oct. 26 at 6:30 p.m. in the Friendsville fire hall.

REALTORS HONORED WITH WHO'S WHO DESIGNATION - Eleven agents with A&A Realty/Better Homes & Gardens have qualified for inclusion in the Better Homes & Gardens Real Estate Service Who's Who 1995-96. "This designation is proof that these top producers possess a strong desire to succeed, sound practice of real estate fundamentals, high professional standards, and a commitment to superior customer service," said Real Estate Service Allen Sabbag. Pictured from left to right, front row, are Lisa Goodfellow, Lisa Gaither, Cindy Evans, and Barbara Pritts; and back row, Ed King, Larry Nesline, Bob Dettinburn, and Kevin Liller. Not pictured are Steve Ritchie, Scindra Rosson, and W.A. "Bill" Franklin.

GCC Will Host Safe Halloween

The Student Center of Garrett Community College will become a "haunted house" on October 31 when the Student Government Association sponsors its third annual Safe Halloween for all area children from 7 to 9 p.m.

Children are to come in costume and bring a non-perishable food item that will then be donated to the House of Hope food bank.

Oakland Pet In Calendar

The calendar, which features the photo of a different kitten for each day of the year, includes a photo of Cruise for May 11.

The calendar, printed in Hong Kong, also depicts cats from throughout the U.S. and other nations.

Pro-Life Dinner, Youth Party Set

The Garrett and Allegany County Chapters of Maryland Right to Life, Inc., will host a pro-life banquet on Friday, Nov. 10, at 6 p.m. at Frostburg State University's Lane Center, Frostburg.

A pizza party for area young people who have completed the True Love Waits biblically-based abstinence course will be held later that evening at 10 p.m. in the Lane Center's Greenhouse Room.

Featured speaker at the banquet and the party will be Gianna Jessen, who reportedly was aborted but survived the procedure. Jessen will speak on the abortion issue and her experiences at the banquet. At the youth party, Jessen will discuss sexual abstinence before marriage.

Local pastors have been sent information about the True Love Waits program, an event spokesperson stated, and the first 200 area young people whose pastors have confirmed their completion of the course and commitment to abstinence will be admitted to the party.

Tickets to the banquet may be purchased at the following local locations: Lamplighter Christian Books, Oakland; Buckel's Market, Grantsville; Memory Shop, Frostburg; and Linda's Hallmark, Keyser, W.Va.

For more information on the banquet, persons may call 729-6040, and for more information about the party, persons may call 689-3756 or 724-4992.

ALAN KEYES MEETS LOCAL RIGHT TO LIFE MEMBERS - GOP presidential hopeful Dr. Alan Keyes was recently offered a ticket to an upcoming pro-life banquet by JoAnn Fletcher, left, chairperson of the Garrett County Chapter of Maryland Right to Life, Inc. The banquet, slated for Nov. 10 at 6 p.m. at Frostburg State University, will feature guest speaker Gianna Jessen, who reportedly survived being aborted. To Fletcher's left is chapter Vice-chairperson Angel Simms.

Scholarships Available To Area Students

A list of several scholarships available to Northern and Southern High School students was recently released by Beverly Serpone of the SHS guidance office.

Students interested in pursuing these scholarships may obtain additional information and applications at the guidance office of either Garrett County high school.

The Coca-Cola Corporation is offering 50 scholarships of $20,000 and 100 scholarships of $4,000 to students of "good character and personal merit" who are also involved in school and community service. The application deadline for this nation-wide competition is Oct. 31.

The Washington Crossing Foundation is offering three scholarships valued at $10,000, $7,500, and $5,000, respectively. The successful applicant must be planning a career in government service and write a one-page essay stating why he or she is planning such a career, including any inspiration which may be derived from the leadership of George Washington in his historic crossing of the Delaware River. Postmark deadline for this scholarship is Jan. 16.

Junior and senior students interested in pursuing a career in engineering may apply for scholarships from the Society of Automotive Engineers. Applicants must have a grade point average of at least 3.5. Also, a 250-word essay and a $5 processing fee must accompany each application. Postmark deadline for this scholarship is Dec. 1.

DeVry Institute of Technology is offering 30 full-tuition scholarships valued at $29,000 and 90 half-tuition scholarships valued at $14,500 for studies in electronics engineering technology, electronics technician training, computer information systems, telecommunications management, business operations, and accounting. Finalists will be selected based on their SAT or ACT scores and academic achievement. The application deadline is March 18, 1996.

The Intel Foundation is sponsoring an essay contest in which one $10,000 and two $2,500 scholarships will be awarded nationwide. The three winners will also receive a personal computer. The 750-word essay should convey the applicant's "vision of the future of American manufacturing." The application deadline is Oct. 31.

The EF Ambassador Scholarships Program will award a 10-day expense-paid international trips to students in grades nine through 12. One winner will be selected from each of the 50 U.S. states. Judging will be based on a written, oral, or visual project conveying how the applicant would like to change the world on a local or global level. Postmark deadline for this contest is Jan. 31, 1996.

The Duracell Corporation and the National Teachers' Association are sponsoring a scholarship competition for students in grades nine through 12. To enter, each applicant must design and build a device powered by Duracell batteries. Winners will receive prizes ranging in value from $200 to $20,000 in savings bonds. The application must be received by the Duracell Corporation by Jan. 12, 1996.

The Cumberland Scottish Rite Foundation will award four two-year scholarships, each paying $1,000 per year. To qualify, students must enroll full-time in a two-year or four-year degree program and be "of sterling character and personal integrity." Not more than four letters of recommendation are required. The application deadline is March 1, 1996.

The Discover Card Corporation is offering 18 scholarships, ranging in value from $2,500 to $25,000, which will be awarded nationwide. Applicants must maintain a grade point average of at least 2.75 and submit an essay. The scholarship can be used at a trade or technical school, a two-year community college, or four-year college.

The Guaranteed Access Grant (GA Grant) is available to students whose families cannot afford to pay any of their college costs.

"If your family income qualifies for the 'free lunch' program, the GA Grant will pay all your education costs at a state university or college," a Garrett County Schools spokesperson stated. "You can go to a private college, but the maximum grant is still based on what it costs to go to a public university."

To qualify for the GA Grant, a student must follow his or her high school's college preparation curriculum or complete an approved technical preparation program; must maintain a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.5; enroll full time in a college, university, or nursing school in Maryland; and complete a GA Grant application and a Free Application for Federal Student Aid during his or her senior year in high school.

"GIFT," Getting Involved for Tomorrow, was the slogan used by employees of Garrett County Memorial Hospital in 1993 when they held a fund drive to alleviate the hospital's parking problems. With pledges payable over a three-year period, employees raised $60,000 to be used towards construction of a new employee parking lot. In recognition of their efforts, a sign has been placed near the entrance of the lot. On hand for the installation of the sign were, left to right, above, Kathy Greaser, director of the GCMH Foundation, and Donna Nordeck, human resources assistant and chairperson of the employee project. "I'm pleased with the installation of this sign. This allows us to publicly recognize the generous support of the members of "GIFT," Nordeck said.

Ad Insert Lists 13,000 Owners Of Unclaimed Funds

"We're placing full-size advertising supplements in newspapers throughout the state to help find more than 13,000 individuals and businesses who are the most recently reported rightful owners of unclaimed funds worth millions of dollars," said Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

The advertising supplement is inserted in today's issue of The Republican.

"If you see your name or the name of someone you know in the ad, please call our unclaimed property office at (410) 225-1700 in the Baltimore area, or toll-free 1-800-782-7383 outside the Baltimore metropolitan area," Goldstein said. "We'll put you in touch with the right people to claim your money."

The comptroller said the names in the current list are mostly reported by insurance companies. The insurance benefits include health insurance benefits which never reached the policy holders, benefits to individuals or estates from life insurance proceeds and benefits from matured endowment policies. Goldstein said These funds have been unclaimed for five years.

The comptroller noted that insurance companies are required to report unclaimed benefits to the Comptroller's Office by April 30 each year. Financial institutions and most other businesses with any type of unclaimed funds must report them by October 31 each year.

Businesses with questions about reporting requirements should call the Unclaimed Property Section at 1-800-782-7383.

The comptroller advertises recently reported names of unclaimed property owners each spring and fall. "Our statewide advertising campaign during the spring this year generated calls and letters from about 9,700 individuals, and generating leads on nearly $1 million in money or valuables," Goldstein said.

Other outreach efforts include computer file matches with the Internal Revenue Service and other government agencies to reach out-of-state owners, as well as the use of computer booths at the state fair, local fairs, trade shows, and shopping malls to allow people to check the unclaimed property files.

"Because of these kinds of outreach efforts, the unclaimed property section of our office returned $8,055,181 in unclaimed funds to 11,936 individuals in calendar year 1994 alone," Goldstein reported. "Among the claims paid in 1994 were two accounts worth $210,368 and $199,768, and the average claim amount was $675.

"Even if you don't see your name in the current ad insert, you can still contact our unclaimed property office because we have records on 238,000 accounts worth more than $68 million," the comptroller said. Maryland law is custodial so unclaimed property may be claimed any time during the individual's lifetime, or by legitimate heirs after the original owner's death.

AIDS: YOUR WORST NIGHTMARE - A billboard aimed to stress the danger of AIDS was recently erected along Md. Route 219 north of Oakland by the Garrett County AIDS Council. The large sign's graphics were designed last year by local artist Laura Stutzman, and billboard space was rented for the sign again this year with funds donated by the Oakland Civic Club. The sign will remain up throughout October, AIDS Awareness Month. The council meets the fourth Thursday of each month at Garrett Community College, and more information about the group is available by calling 334-8111 or 895-3111.

Garrett County Farm Bureau Holds Banquet

Members and guests of the Garrett County Farm Bureau held their 58th annual banquet on Friday, October 20, at the Bittinger Fire Hall. The invocation before the turkey dinner was given by Rev. Ernest Lindner.

Guests were introduced by President Gary Fratz. They included Maryland Farm Queen Lori Evans; State FFA President Laah Broadwater; Stuart Delbrook and Dot Workman from Allegany County Farm Bureau; Jim Simms, Garrett County Extension Agent; Joe Diamond, Maryland Farm Bureau; Maryland Farm Bureau President C. William Knill; and Clayton Arnold, Safemark dealer.

A special presentation was made to Clarence Paugh, who has been a member of the Garrett County Farm Bureau since 1938 and has never missed an annual banquet until this year. He was given a year's membership for 1996.

State Farm Bureau President Knill gave the address, speaking about his trips to Hong Kong, China, Thailand, Argentina, and Chile looking for potential export markets.

One observation he made was, "The Chesapeake Bay is not dirty; there's just not enough fish in it." He made this statement in reference to ponds specifically used for raising fish and turtles in China. The wastes from hog farms are flushed into these ponds.

MARYLAND STATE FARM BUREAU PRESIDENT C. William Knill was the guest speaker last Friday night at the 58th Annual Garrett County Farm Bureau Banquet. Members elected delegates and approved resolutions. See story for more information. Photo by Rebecca DeBerry.

He said that Argentina is competition for American agriculture because they practice "low-tech" farming. They have modern meat packing plants, he said and added that Campbell's soup base comes from Argentina. In Chile, he said that fruits and vegetables are major ag commodities. With 60 inches of rain a year, they utilize irrigation water from the Andes.

He concluded by saying that American agriculture has fallen too much into production. There's not enough effort put into exportation or consumption. There's not enough "roadside markets" and local consumption or markets to allow utilization of local products. Knill also gave a slide presentation from his trips abroad.

Women's Committee Chairperson Kate Fratz reported on a very successful Progressive Farmer Farm Safety Day held July 22 at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, and organizing the Farm Queen Contest for August.

Maryland Farm Queen, Garrett County resident, Lori Evans told the group that Farm Bureau is the most important thing needed by agriculture. She said that she is very surprised and pleased to be state Farm Queen, and that she will still represent Garrett County even though she is Maryland Farm Queen.

Garrett County Farm Bureau Secretary/Treasurer Clark Kolb reported that the dairy booth at the Garrett County Fair did exceptionally well this year, clearing $3,600 and selling 600 gallons of ice cream.

Joe Diamond of Maryland Farm Bureau reviewed some of his experiences while a field rep for Garrett County as he is leaving Maryland Farm Bureau in December and moving to be a field rep in Fayette County, Pennsylvania.

Mikal McCartney, of Garrett Memorial Hospital, spoke about the ACE)Agriculture Care & Education) program at the hospital. It has free or reduced rates for members of working farms and timber operations.

President Gary Fratz encouraged members to increase membership in his closing remarks. "An increase in membership increases legislative power," he said.

The group elected new directors to serve for two years. The Women's Committee elected Anita Brobst for the Friendsville-/McHenry area, replacing Kristen Enlow; Carla Miller for the Accident area, replacing Nancy Doerr; Elsie Green for the Grantsville/-Bittinger area, replacing Eva Yoder; Lorraine Mason for the Oakland/Red House area, replacing Cathy Sanders; and Rebecca DeBerry for the Swanton/Deer Park area, replacing Hazel Broadwater.

Elmer Maust was elected to serve the Accident area, replacing Merle Wilburn; Dorsey R. Guard for the Friendsville/McHenry area, replacing George Fike; Lowell Merrill for the Grantsville/Bittinger area, replacing Walter Schoenian; Brooks Hamilton for the Oakland/Red House area, replacing Randall Steyer; and Arthur Lake was elected for the Swanton/Deer Park area.

Delegates for the State Farm Bureau Convention will be Walter Schoenian, Donald Ringer, Ralph Lichty and Clark Kolb. Kate Fratz will represent the Women's Committee.

Garrett County Farm Bureau members approved four resolutions that will be presented to the Maryland Farm Bureau during the state convention. They are:

1. Be it resolved: That Garrett County Farm Bureau urges that the state Ag Preservation Program be continued and the funds collected from the agricultural transfer tax be used SOLELY for ag preservation.

II. Be it resolved: That Garrett County, Farm Bureau strongly urges that the University of Maryland Extension Service be continued as it is a great help to the farmers.

III. Be it resolved: That Garrett County Farm Bureau recommends that the Department of Natural Resources continue in their efforts toward resolving the problem with black bear in Garrett County.

IV. Be it resolved: That Garrett County Farm Bureau opposes legislation of casino gambling in the state of Maryland.

Market-Basket Survey Finds Increase In Grocery Prices

American consumers paid $1.10 more for a typical market basket of groceries during the third quarter of 1995 than they did during the second quarter, according to the latest nationwide survey of food prices conducted by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

During the third quarter, consumers paid an average of $31.25 for 16 food items. The average for the second quarter of 1995 was $30.15. The third quarter average also is higher compared to a year ago, when it was $30.39.

While prices remained steady or declined for many of the products, sizeable increases in retail pork prices accounted for a good share of this quarter's price rise.

According to AFBF livestock specialist David Miller, higher retail pork prices are directly attributable to higher demand, especially export demand. Also, had the spread between farm and retail pork prices not narrowed considerably in the last six months, retail pork prices would have been even higher, he said.

The largest price increase was for pork chops, which rose 35 cents per pound. Retail bacon prices also increased 26 cents per pound. Other notable increases were for eggs, up 14 cents per dozen; sirloin tip roast, up 13 cents per pound; and mayonnaise, up 13 cents per 32-ounce jar.

The retail prices of whole fryers, breakfast cereal, apples, shortening and bread increased less than 10 cents each.

Price decreases included whole milk, which fell 4 cents per gallon. Ground chuck, potatoes, cooking oil and flour prices dropped less than 5 cents. The price of cheddar cheese remained unchanged.

This latest quarterly price survey was conducted in late-September by volunteer shoppers in 24 states. Since AFBF began tracking market-basket prices seven years ago, the average total price of the 16 items has remained within a narrow range, from a low of $28.50 in the first quarter of 1989 to a high of $31.44 in the third quarter of 1990.

The items in the market basket and the average prices reported in the third quarter survey are: ground chuck, $1.70/pound; sirloin tip roast, $2.76/pound; pork chops, $3.17/pound; bacon, $1.94/pound; whole fryers, 94 cents/pound; eggs, 94 cents/dozen; whole milk, $2.24/gallon; cheddar cheese, $2.89/pound; red delicious apples, 95 cents/pound; potatoes, $1.69/5 pounds; breakfast cereal, $2.53/10-ounce box; flour, $1.19/ 5 pounds; white bread, $1.05/20-ounce loaf; cooking oil, $2.42/32 ounces; shortening, $2.26/32 ounces; mayonnaise, $2.58/32-ounce jar.

GOVERNOR MAKES PROCLAMATION -- Governor Parris N. Glendening proclaimed October 15 - 21 as Forest Products Week in Maryland while visiting Garrett County for the annual Autumn Glory Festival. The proclamation is in recognition of the forest products industry's contributions to the economy and its continued commitment to forestry and conservation standards, to reforestation of harvested land, wildlife habitat and ecosystem diversity. The forest products industry ranks as the fifth largest industry in Maryland, employing 15,432 people. It is the largest industry in western Maryland and the second largest industry, after agriculture, in eastern Maryland, and generates more than one billion dollars in economic benefits to the state. In an average year, 186.5 million board feet of timber are harvested. Annual income to landowners is $27.9 million (assuming $150/thousand board feet). Additionally, the Christmas tree farm industry has more than 350 farms; 210 of these alone generated more than three million dollars in 1990 by harvesting and selling 2,612,477 trees on 6,085 acres. Pictured above, left to right, are: Michael Kozier, chairperson Garrett County Forestry Board; Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey; Governor Glendening; Peter Miller, president of Maryland Forests Association; Garrett County Commissioner Roger Glotfelty; and John Forman, Wood Products, Inc./

Dairy Industry Still Prominent In Maryland

"Even though the dairy industry has had a set-back in this state, seven of Maryland's Piedmont counties have been able to hold their own and show an increase in production," says Dr. John W. Wysong, cooperative Extension agricultural economist with the University of Maryland at College Park.

Those seven counties (Frederick, Washington, Carroll, Baltimore, Harford, Howard and Montgomery) have increased their share of the state's milk production from 80 to 83 percent between 1980 and 1994. Wysong says their continued concentration on milk production is surprising because of conversion of farmland into non-farm areas or non-dairy farms over the past decade and a half.

Even though the share of milk production increased, total milk output declined slightly from 1.147 billion pounds in 1980 to 1.031 billion pounds in 1994. Wysong attributes this decline to the spread of urban prosperity into rural farm areas and the federal dairy herd buy-out program in 1986 and 1987.

Although not considered a Piedmont county, Garrett County has expanded production from 1980 to 1994. That county ranked fourth in total cows and milk production--behind Frederick, Washington and Carroll counties--in 1994. Those top three counties alone produce 65 percent of the milk in Maryland.

The upper Eastern Shore, including Kent, Cecil and Queen Anne's counties, is another significant area of milk production in Maryland. Caroline and Talbot counties have experienced drops in milk output over the last 15 years because of urbanization and the concentration on soybeans, field corn and broiler and egg production.

According to the Middle Atlantic Market Administrator's Bulletin, Maryland has lost 52 dairy farms since July 1994. The remaining farms have increased the state's milk production from 95,351 pounds in July 1994 to 96,580 pounds in July 1995. Pennsylvania ranks ahead of Maryland in the Mid-Atlantic region, producing 333,050 pounds of milk in July.

"Because of the Cooperative Extension Service, the Agricultural Experiment Station and the research and support from the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, dairy farms have been able to compete fairly well and keep the dairy industry prominent in Maryland during the past 15 years," said Wysong. "Gains in milk production and marketing efficiencies have enabled Maryland consumers to attain dairy products at reasonable retail or consumer level prices."

BEEF ROUNDTABLE #TWO

A couple of weeks ago I had an article on the "Pathways to Profit" program, a series of educational beef workshops, announcing Roundtable #Two for November 1, at Frostburg State University from 7:15 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. We have decided to change the format of the program to address beef producer's concerns over the depressed prices that prevail in the beef industry. Through the Interactive Video Network, we will join beef producers from all over the state to collectively overview the situation, share ideas for profitability, and discuss what beef producers can do to improve the market situation.

If you are interested in attending, contact my office at (301) 334-1990 for directions to the meeting place.

WHO SAYS YOU CAN'T GROW SOYBEANS IN GARRETT COUNTY?

Yes, there were some good soybean yields in Garrett County this season. I hear reports of yields between 30 and 36 bushels per acre. That's probably more than the average yield for the state this year. For a couple growers, this is the second year of success.

Now, I am not suggesting that everyone starts growing soybeans. Our short growing season still makes the enterprise risky. However, with the development of earlier maturing soybean varieties, there may be a place for a soybean crop in your program. Since we have completed the alfalfa demonstration crop at GCC, we may take a look at some soybean varieties for the next four to five years.

HE GAVE THE EXPERIENCE ONE THUMB UP.

Garrett County Public Schools
Prepared me to succeed!

"After graduating Southern High, I was well prepared for college. With the solid background I gained in my years with the Garrett County school system I found I could pursue my college studies with confidence.

"I now have four children going through the public schools in Garrett County. They are gaining critical thinking skills and an appreciation for the value of work and effort. They know that if they want good grades they have to work for them.

"My wife is a teacher and I've worked as a volunteer with children in the schools. So we both know first-hand that Garrett County schools are working to prepare our children for success."

Hancock Man Uninjured In Boating Mishap

A Hancock man was reportedly uninjured Sunday afternoon when he was thrown from his boat as it sped across Deep Creek Lake.

Robert Christopher Johnson, 28, was traveling south on the lake in a 1994, 19-foot Bass motor boat, just north of the Rt. 219 bridge, near Lake Shore Drive, when the front of the vessel raised out of the water, and he was thrown out. A passerby apparently heard Johnson's cries for help, and rescued him.

According to Ranger Darryl Riley from the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area, Johnson's boat was traveling at approximately 60 miles per hour at the time of the mishap. The craft ran ashore following the 1:55 p.m. incident, causing severe damage to its prop.

Johnson was cited for not wearing his personal floatation device (PFD). Also responding to the scene were volunteers from the Deep Creek Fire Company, as well as the Maryland State Police.

Advisory Group Gets Update On Tech Prep Prog.

At a meeting of the Advisory Committee for Work Force Preparation held recently at Garrett Community College, members heard about the status of the Tech Prep program that now includes all ninth and tenth grade students in the Garrett County schools. Jim Allen, coordinator of the Tech Prep program, reviewed the accomplishments of the past year and outlined plans for FY '96.

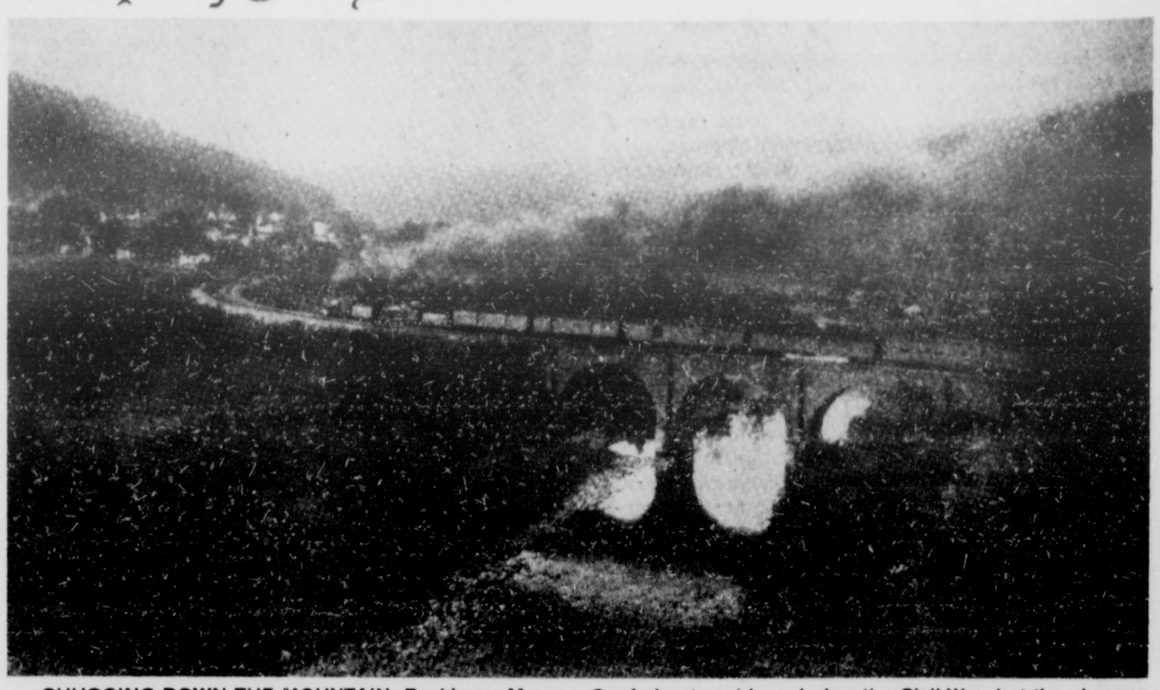
According to Allen, considerable progress has been made toward the goal of blended instruction in the high school curriculum where applied academics content has been implemented in mathematics, communications, and biology, and Principles of Technology is now being taught at both Northern and Southern high schools. The new Child Care program has been added to the curriculum, and articulation agreements have been completed with Garrett Community College in the Agricultural Management, Business Management, and Office Technology programs. Allen also announced that the Career Development model has been completed for kindergarten through grade 12 and two computer stations have been budgeted at each high school for learning support services.

JoAnn Vent, director of Career & Technology Education, reported that Maryland has received a three-year federal grant for School to Work Transition and that Garrett County will apply for the first round of grants to counties so that the program can continue.

Plans outlined for the coming year include continuing implementation of applied academics and articulation agreements, refining the child care program, and funding leadership development through conferences and site visits.

Other members of the committee who attended the meeting were: Wilda Missi, Lillian Mitchell, Luther Parrack, Jeanette Rudy-Fitzwater, Arthur Refosco, Martin Green, Charlotte Sebold, Joan Crawford, Manning Smith, Scott Hollingsworth, and Wendy Wakefield.

Glimpse of The Past . . .



CHUGGING DOWN THE MOUNTAIN, Backbone Mountain, that is, on a regular basis earlier this century were steam locomotives with freight and passenger cars in tow. This particular train had not one, but two, engines performing the work while descending the segment known as 17-Mile Grade. The town of Bloomington is in the background. The stone bridge in the photo was nearly destroyed by Confederate raiders during the Civil War, but the charges they planted either did not explode when detonated, or the perpetrators were driven off before they had an opportunity to detonate them. CELEBRATION OF RECOVERY PLANNED IN TUCKER COUNTY - A stone monument, erected to commemorate the 10th anniversary of recovery following the Nov. 4-5, 1985, flood that devastated 30 counties in West Virginia and caused multi-million dollar damage in Tucker County, will be dedicated on Saturday, Nov. 4. The monument, built by stone mason Glen Miller, who is shown above as he puts on the finishing touches, is located on First Street in Parsons. The three smaller monuments that lead to the large stone "ark" include a poem by Tucker County Poet Laureate Cleta M. Long, explaining the stonework; the list of the five residents who died in the flood; and the donor of the land on which it is built. The main monument features two granite "windows" that read, "Flood stage 13 feet. Crested at 21 feet in Parsons Nov. 5, 1985 at 3:00 a.m." and, "In grateful acknowledgement to all who assisted with the flood recovery." The dedication is set to begin at 3:30 p.m., followed by a service of gratitude at St. John's United Methodist Church at 4 p.m., and a reception in Smith Chapel at St. John's Church at 5 p.m. The public is invited to attend. The Terra Alta Public Library has been the recipient of two monetary donations this month. The Terra Alta Civic Club has given this annual donations of $200, which will be used to purchase new books for the shelves, periodicals or reference material. Student Income - How does it count ?
Student income is based on the calendar year preceding the school year for which aid is being applied for. Fifty percent of after-tax income is added to the student's contribution. There is a $1,750 income protection allowance for a dependent student. This 50% assessment includes not only earned income but also unearned income (interest & dividends). So you see, proper positioning of income earning assets is important in financial aid needs determination.

Kiwanis Members Make Donation To Grant Memorial

Members of the Petersburg Kiwanis Club recently donated $500 to the Grant Memorial Hospital Home Health Department. The money will be used to buy another centrifuge.

"On behalf of the nurses that are working out the field for our home health department, I thank you. This money will purchase our second centrifuge and will save our nurses from having to run blood specimens back to the hospital lab as often each day," said Home Health Nurse Manager Susan Rogers, RN.

The Petersburg Kiwanis Club has been supportive of Grant Memorial Hospital with yearly contributions to its programs, projects, and services.

WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
PRELIMINARY DECISION TO GRANT CATEGORICAL EXCLUSION (CE #068)

Project Name/Number:
Mountain Lake Park Sewer Rehabilitation
C-240731-03L
Project Applicant:
Mayor and Town Council of Mountain Lake Park
Project: Location/County: Mountain Lake Park, Garrett County
Total Project Cost/Loan: $625,000/$200,000

Projection Description: The proposed project consists of improvements to the existing Mountain Lake Park Sewage Collection System. Improvements include the replacement of 17,000 LF of terra cotta line and the rehabilitation/replacement of 39 manholes. These sewer lines are scattered throughout the corporate limits and will be replaced with new PVC lines. This collection system connects to the Trout Run Wastewater Treatment Plant which discharges to the Little Youghiogheny River.

The Town of Mountain Lake Park has applied for financial assistance from the Maryland Department of The Environment's State Revolving Loan Fund for the proposed project as described above. In accordance with requirements for complying with SERP under COMAR 26.03.11 for such assistance, a review has been performed by the Department on the applicant's request for a Categorical Exclusion from a comprehensive environmental review under SERP. The Department has determined that the proposed project qualifies for a Categorical Exclusion pursuant to COMAR 26.03.11.04 because the project constitutes infiltration and inflow corrections (including minor sewer rehabilitation), and resultantaly will not have a significant adverse effect on the environment. This determination is based upon a careful review of the supporting documentation provided by the applicant and other documents available to the Department. In concert with this preliminary determination the Department has also found the project to be consistent with the Maryland Economic Growth, Resource Protection, and Planning Policy in accordance with Executive Order 01.01.1992.27.

As a result of the above determination, the applicant will not need to prepare and/or finalize an Environmental Information Document and the Department is prepared to approved the applicant's request for financial assistance without further environmental review.

Comments supporting or disagreeing with the above preliminary decision may be submitted for consideration by writing to:

Mr. Jag Khuman, Program Manager
Water and Wastewater Engineering Program

Maryland Department of Environment

Baltimore, Maryland 21224

Written comments should be submitted within 20 days from the date of this notice. After the close of this twenty-day (20) open review period, and upon evaluating any written comments received, this Department will make a final decision.

Forest Service Notes Review Of Fire Program

Personnel from the Maryland Forest Service, the Fire Marshal's office, and representatives from the volunteer firemen's associations in the four western counties met on October 3 at Orleans Volunteer Fire Department to review how the forest fire program in the western region works. The purpose of the review was to examine how the program currently functions, and to see if it is fulfilling the needs of the community.

The proposed funding reductions on the federal level and on the state level will impact on the forest fire program, causing further reductions in the program, according to a spokesperson from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Since 1991 the state's role in forest fire prevent has been reduced because of cutbacks in personnel and reductions in funding.

John Riley, DNR state forester, stated that one goal of the fire program review was to strengthen the fire program by getting input from the local firemen's associations as to the direction the Forest Service should take. The emphasis should be to use the monies and resources more effectively to achieve the goals set for the program.

The cooperation between the volunteer firemen's associations and the state is especially important in the western region because of the large amount of forest land as well as the large amount of state-owned land in these counties, the spokesperson said.

Mike Phillipi, president of the Allegany-Garrett Firemen's Association; and Andy Anderson, president of the Garrett Firemen's Association, represented Allegany and Garrett counties at the meeting. Louise Upole, chief ranger, and Ernie Metz, project manager, represented the Forest Service, Garrett Project.

Regular Vehicle Maintenance: Cost-Effective And Convenient

Remember when having your oil changed meant hanging around a room that looked like it was once part of the mechanic's bay? Juggling drop-offs and pick-ups at the repair shop with your family and coworkers? Wondering how to entertain your kids while your vehicle underwent an emission and maintenance inspection? The National Automobile Dealers Association wants consumers to know that regular vehicle maintenance is critical to ensuring safe and environmentally sound driving, and that visiting your dealer for service may offer a pleasant surprise in convenience and comfort.

Nearly half of all dealerships have undergone a major remodeling in the past five years, with the highest priority on revamping the customer areas and upgrading service facilities. with a total of $35 billion invested in real estate, it's no wonder that dealers are making improvements on dealerships that are, on average, 20 years old.

Nearly all dealerships now have a waiting area for service customers. Most provide a television set and have vending machines to make customer's waits more comfortable, and some dealerships even operate cafeterias. Virtually all dealerships provide customers with some transportation services, such as discounted car rentals, free loaner vehicles or shuttle service to customer's offices or nearby shopping malls.

Preventive maintenance is essential to protecting your investment and keeping your vehicle clean-running, fuel-efficient, safe and reliable. The manufacturer's recommended maintenance schedule is the minimum service necessary to protect your rights under the warranty and should be performed as indicated in the owner's manual.

NADA recommends the following tips for better service:

*Read your owner's manual and warranty so you will know what to expect from your car and what your responsibilities are.

*Set priorities for suggested repairs. Not all repairs need immediate attention, and some can be postponed until the next routine maintenance. Experienced technicians can help you determine which problems present risk of injury to you or damage to your vehicle, so you can plan accordingly.

*Discuss special needs in off-peak hours. Early in the morning and closing time are the busiest hours for the service department. A telephone call later in the morning or earlier in the afternoon allows service advisors to give your individual attention.

*Look for service aids and reminders on your vehicle, such as warning lights on the dash for engine oil level, burned-out exterior light and fluid levels.

You can do your part to ensure proper service by alerting your mechanic if your vehicle is frequently subjected to severe driving conditions, as these factors could affect recommended maintenance. Severe driving conditions include a lot of short trips that don't allow the engine to warm up fully, stop-and-go commuting in hot weather, pulling trailers or heavy loads, long periods of inactivity, and environmental factors such as dust, pollution, extreme temperatures and high humidity.

A new vehicle is often the second most expensive consumer purchase, after a home. During National Car Care Month and throughout the year, remember that dealerships are now making it easier and more pleasant to perform regular maintenance that will keep vehicles running at optimum safety, efficiency and reliability.

The National Automobile Dealers Association represents more than 19,000 franchised new-car and truck dealers holding 35,000 separate franchises, domestic and import.

NATIONAL CAR CARE MONTH

It's Important Down the Road

Finding A Good Mechanic Is Important In High-Tech Times

Fall is the perfect time to undo the damage done by summer driving and to get ready for the rigors of winter driving ahead. So it should come as no surprise that October is National Car Care Month.

But given the complexity of today's vehicles, many motorists, including former do-it-yourselfers, are looking for professional technicians as "tune-ups" have become "engine performance diagnoses" and on-board computer systems, electronic climate control, anti-lock brakes, digital dash boards, and other advanced systems grow popular.

The following tips from the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence should make finding a qualified automotive technician easier.

Ask a number of friends or business associates if they can recommend someone; a consensus is usually more reliable than counting solely on one person's judgment.

Be sure to call the local Better Business Bureau or consumer organization and inquire about the reputation of the place of business in question. Look for a relatively neat, well-organized facility with up-to-date equipment and polite service personnel willing to take the time to discuss your repairs. Policies concerning diagnostic fees, labor rates, guarantees, and other policies should be posted.

Check around for an auto technician certified by the non-profit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence. ASE certifies automotive technicians by means of nationally administered tests. Technicians voluntarily take these competency exams in from one to eight automobile specialties, such as Engine Repair or Brakes. There are also exams for medium/heavy truck and collision repair technicians, engine machinists, and parts specialists. Those who pass and fulfill the two-year work experience requirement are awarded ASE credentials attesting their competency. The certified technicians are then eligible to wear the blue and white ASE shoulder insignia.

Not only are these credentials meaningful to the technician, they are reassuring to his employer, and important to you. They are the extra assurance that your technician knows his or her stuff. And, all ASE-certified technicians must recertify every five years in order to remain current with technology and to stay in the program.

Currently, there are about 375,00 ASE-certified technicians across the country. Shops that employ these certified technicians often display the blue and White ASE outdoor sign and post their technicians' credentials in the customer service area.

Officials With the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence remind motorists that their involvement is important, too. Among ASE's recommendations:

*Read your owner's manual.

*Become familiar with the basic components and systems.

*Follow the manufacturers service schedules.

*Make note of noises, unusual odors, changes in performance, and handling.

*When describing your vehicle's problem(s), be concrete, but resist the temptation to diagnose.

*Have small problems repaired before they become major headaches.

*Keep good records.

To help motorists get their vehicles ready for winter, ASE has prepared a brochure, "Don't Get Stuck Out in the Cold." For a free copy, send a self-addressed, stamped, business envelope to: ASE Winter Brochure, Dept. CCC-R95, P.O. Box 347, Herndon, VA 22070.

Prevent Engine "Melt-Down"

Your car's cooling system should have periodic attention to prevent engine "melt-down," reminds the Car Care Council. Internal engine temperatures of up to 5,000 degrees place heavy demands on these components.

Protect your investment by flushing the system, replacing antifreeze-coolant and, with a pressure test, checking the radiator, hose connections and pressure cap.

Car-Care Day Could Be Offered By Local Schools

A Student-run car care event that includes vehicle check lanes, informative exhibits and other activities has enjoyed a successful premier, according to the Car Care Council. Armed with a step-by-step teacher's guide and other materials from the Council, high school educators and students from various classes pool their resources to carry out the program.

The result is a collaborative teaching project that educates teenagers in life skills while motivating motorists of all ages to take care of their cars.

In the pilot program journalism students worked on editorial and advertising while others in distributive education solicited support from local businesses. Many of these students created and manned the consumer education booths on Car Care Day.

Meanwhile, the auto mechanics department assembled the work teams to operate check lanes. Finally, the English communications class compiled the data and wrote articles comparing their county to other Car Care Events nationwide.

Applied communications instructor, Barbara Garnett, was impressed by the effectiveness of on-the-job training. She said her students ... "learned so much about their computers while preparing for the event. It's almost impossible to teach that fast and that thoroughly with traditional teaching methods."

New Cars May Sound Warnings, But Is Anybody Listening?

(CCC) - Recent commercials advertise new cars that appear virtually maintenance free. Many have message centers that warn drivers about everything from an inoperable brake light to low oil level. With these impressive advancements, is the need for regular checks a thing of the past?

"Hardly," says Don Midgley, president of the Car Care Council. "Computerized message centers should help owners maintain safer, more efficient cars. But these warnings are worthless if the motorist ignores them."

Whether or not your vehicle is equipped with all of the bells and whistles that technology has to offer, it is wise to check, or have checked, the following items:

Cooling System—Flush, drain and replace antifreeze. Test, inspect and replace needed parts.

Engine—Diagnostic and tune-up services needed. Oil and filter change (check all fluids).

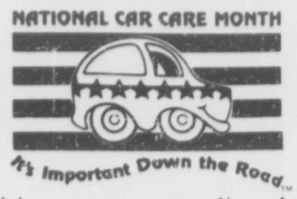
Tires/Wheels/Brakes—Rotate, inspect and balance tires. Check alignment and suspension components. Inspect braking system.

Vision—Replace/aim headlights. Replace worn windshield wiper blades.

"With over 15,000 parts in a vehicle and 8 out of 10 cars needing some type of maintenance, it's amazing that more motorists don't have problems," says Midgley.

Over 2,000 traffic fatalities a year are directly attributed to mechanical failure due to neglect. It only takes one defective tire, or faulty wiper blade to put your car, your billford, and possibly your safety on the line. It may be tough to rush to an automotive technician every time a warning light blinks, but to do otherwise is to play Russian roulette with your car.

For more information on recommended checks and services, send for a free pamphlet, HOW TO FIND YOUR WAY UNDER THE HOOD AND AROUND THE CAR. Send a business-sized, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. UH, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.



Tires Most Ignored Parts Of An Auto

One of the easiest parts of a car to check is the most ignored according to a statistical report from the Car Care Council. Tires topped the list of neglected components during the 1994 National Car Care Month vehicle check campaign. Thirty-one percent of cars had improperly inflated tires or excessively worn tread.

Overall, 87% of cars checked failed the inspection for some kind of maintenance neglect. Nearly one out of five failed the emissions test, an important aspect of the vehicle check campaign. "Excessive hydrocarbons in the exhaust, a sign of poor combustion due to a dirty air filter or worn spark plugs, causes wasted gas and polluted air," says National Car Care Month Executive Director, Donna Wagner.

"We've found an increase in neglect in other areas as well," she says. "Each year, from 1988 through 1994, for example, an average 7% of vehicles failed inspection due to faulty windshield wipers. In 1994 that percentage had increased to 14%."

"Also, 16.2% of vehicles failed due to low or dirty fluids (motor oil, transmission, power steering or brake fluid), up from an average of 15.2% over the previous four years. Twenty percent had one or more lights inoperative.

"Ninety-four percent of vehicles 10 years old or older needed maintenance," concludes Wagner.

Don't "Brake" Down During Winter Months

After a summer of heavy driving, it's important to check your brakes and perform the proper maintenance and care, according to STP Products Inc. Wet roads and fallen leaves that are a part of every autumn can make stopping more difficult at a time when your brakes are most needed: during the "back-to-school" season when there's an influx of school children and vehicles back on the streets.

Look for these signs to detect wear and tear on your brakes:

*The brake pedal needs to be depressed lower than usual in order to engage;

*The brake pedal requires excessive pressure to halt the vehicle;

*The pedal feels soft or falls away under pressure;

*The car grabs or pulls to one side when the brakes are applied.

*Noises like grinding sounds or squeals occur when brakes are applied.

These problems should be checked out as soon as possible by a qualified mechanic.

Association Can Help You Choose the Right Car

The U.S. automotive industry will celebrate its 100th anniversary next year. In a business where technological advances occur at a dizzying pace, there are now more choices -- in styles, models and options -- than Henry Ford or Louis Chevrolet could have ever dreamed of.

Another major change is coming soon to a showroom near you: sales-people who have earned professional certification from the National Automobile Dealers Association (NADA). This elite group has been educated in three areas: ethics and law, customer satisfaction and loyalty, and professional sales practices.

NADA certification guarantees new-car buyers a high standard of service and professionalism in the showroom. When you choose a NADA-certified sales professional, you know that you're buying from someone who has met demanding requirements, like tests that demonstrate a complete understanding of the products they sell, and someone who is committed to upholding a strict code of conduct.

Dealers who employee NADA-certified salespeople report increased sales and higher customer-satisfaction ratings by their manufacturers.

Over the coming months and years, looking for a growing number of "NADA-certified" logos in dealerships and ads. When you see it, you'll know the staff is dedicated to serving your needs -- helping you buy a vehicle that's right for you.

Put Used Oil in Its Place

More than half of all motorists change their own oil, and according to the U.S. EPA, these "do-it-yourselfers" (DIYers) generate more than 200 million gallons of used motor oil annually. Unfortunately, EPA estimates that only about one-third of this oil is properly collected and recycled. Instead, many DIYers simply dump this valuable resource in their backyards or into the sewer drain. As you might guess, this practice is damaging to ground water, streams and rivers.

For example, it only takes one quart of used motor oil to foul 250,000 gallons of drinking water. It also wastes a valuable resource. A local power plant can provide enough energy to run the average household for 24 hours by burning just two gallons of used oil. Used oil can also be re-refined into new lubricating oils. The American Petroleum Institute (API) and its members have set up a used motor oil recycling program designed to provide convenient used-oil collection centers for the public. API's members provide more than 10,000 service stations and quick lubes nationwide for these DIYers to bring their used motor oil for recycling.

API members also have crafted model used-oil collection legislation, which has been adopted by 15 states thus far. Another 14 states currently are reviewing the legislation and considering its adoption. The bill sets up a state used-oil fund to provide grants to local governments that want to set up used-oil collection centers for DIYers. The fund also can be applied to public-education efforts to prevent the improper disposal of used oil. The financing mechanism for the bill is typically a small fee of 2 to 5 cents per quart of motor oil. The API also has prepared a myriad of publications available to assist state and local governments in establishing used-oil collection and recycling programs.

If you are one of the many do-it-yourselfers who change their own oil, please take your used motor oil to a used-oil collection center. Check with your state or local government recycling office for a list of area collection centers, or you can check with area service stations or quick-lube oil-change shops to see if they will accept your used motor oil. If you should desire more information about used motor oil recycling, contact The American Petroleum Institute, Used Motor Oil Program, 1220 L St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20005; (202) 682-8343.

Car care and clean air go hand in hand.

Vehicle Maintenance Helps Keep Air Clean

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Carol M. Browner today endorsed October 1995 as National Car Care Month. The Agency is joining several public and private organizations in an effort to promote consumer awareness of proper vehicle maintenance, which is essential to ensuring clean air for all Americans to breathe.

"The 1990 Amendments to the Clean Air Act introduced cleaner transportation fuels into the market and tightened vehicle inspection and maintenance programs. These are major steps forward in cleaning this nation's air. Wherever I go, people ask what they can do to help improve the environment. One of the easiest ways is to maintain their cars properly so they don't contribute to air pollution," Browner said.

EPA said pollution control measures have drastically reduced emissions per vehicle, though miles traveled in the United States have doubled in the last 20 years. The number of miles driven during this period, two trillion per year, has resulted in higher levels of air pollutants in many parts of the country. Routine preventive maintenance will significantly reduce these emissions levels, avoid vehicle problems and costly repairs and protect public health.

In urban areas, vehicle emissions produce as much as 90 percent of the carbon monoxide, over 30 percent of ozone and 4050 percent of air toxins. Currently, 82 major metropolitan areas where 126 million citizens live fail to comply with the federal ozone air quality standard. Vehicle emissions are also the number one cause of carbon monoxide non-attainment in 37 cities.

These pollutants cause serious health problems. Auto owners can help eliminate air pollution problems with regular tune-ups. Proper maintenance guarantees better performance and a longer life for the vehicle. Car pooling, use of public transportation, walking and biking whenever possible also help clean the air.

Flares Useful During Night, Foul Weather

A breakdown or accident often places a stranded motorist in jeopardy, very vulnerable to being struck by an approaching vehicle. Not surprisingly, the death rate at night is nearly triple that of daylight hours.

Nighttime and inclement weather are double jeopardy for the driver of a disabled car. That's when a driver most needs the protection of good highway safety flares.

Highway safety flares have become standard equipment on police, fire, and road repair vehicles. Many motorists, especially campers who drive or tow recreational vehicles, keep flares on board with other emergency supplies.

"You wouldn't be comfortable knowing there's no spare [tire] in the trunk," commented John Funchion of Standard Fusee Corporation, Easton. "Safety flares should be in the same category. They're a reliable, economical, and safe way to prevent one highway accident from becoming two or more.

"Further, highway safety flares do not depend on outside light sources such as approaching headlights," Funchion added. "Consequently, a driver with poor lighting can see this type of flare where he might not have seen the reflective type."

Their flickering red light, a universally recognized danger signal, is more likely to be seen by an inattentive driver.

Because car trouble often seems to occur at the wrong time of day, in the wrong weather, and at the wrong location, it is reassuring to know these flares are visible in all kinds of weather, day or night. Depending on the type, they'll burn for 15, 20, or 30 minutes.

Flares are available through retailers with a safety or automotive department.

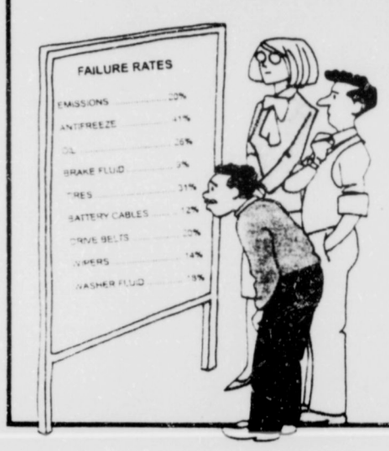
CAN YOUR CAR PASS THE TEST?

DURING NATIONAL CAR CARE MONTH MORE THAN 6,500 MOTORISTS IN 31 CITIES VOLUNTARILY TOOK THEIR VEHICLES THROUGH EMISSIONS/SAFETY CHECK LANES. FOUR OUT OF FIVE CARS WERE FOUND TO HAVE A DISCREPENCY, INDICATING NEED FOR A TUNE-UP, TIRE SERVICE, OIL CHANGE OR OTHER SERVICE.



BEFORE YOUR CAR FAILS THE TEST, LEAVING YOU STRANDED, HAVE IT CHECKED. THEN HAVE NEEDED SERVICES DONE SO YOU CAN DRIVE WITH CONFIDENCE.

Bad Road Conditions Cost Motorists A Bundle Each Year

Motorists pay an extra $19.5 billion per year - or $112.69 per registered driver - in extra vehicle operating costs to drive on substandard roads that need immediate repair, reports a non-profit transportation research group.

"One of the over-looked factors in car care is that road conditions can have a direct impact on your car," said William M. Wilkins, executive director of The Road Information Program (TRIP). "Driving on roads in substandard condition causes excess tire wear, increases fuel consumption, and results in the need for increased routine maintenance."

Wilkins said TRIP's calculation of additional vehicle operating costs is based on the fact that 59% of the nation's roads are substandard, according to Federal Highway Administration data. Nine percent of roads are in poor condition and 50% are in fair condition.

Roads in poor condition are badly cracked, rutted, or broken in many places and usually need to be reconstructed. Roads in fair condition are likely to have cracks or are broken in many places and often need to be resurfaced. These roads also are more likely to develop potholes.

"Driving on roads in deteriorating condition hits motorists in their pocketbooks," Wilkins said. "This is a hidden tax motorists pay because their roads are not being repaired."

Wilkins explained that extra vehicle operating costs are based on a determination by the Congressional Budget Office that the variable costs to operate vehicles is 29% higher on roads in poor condition compared to driving on roads in good condition, and 11% higher on roads in fair condition.

"Reflecting on National Car Care Month, " Wilkins said, "TRIP emphasizes that preventive maintenance of the vehicle as well as the road makes good economic sense. Check tires and wheel alignment, for example, after encountering one of those bone-jarring potholes."

Wilkins said the major reason for deteriorating road conditions is an annual $13 billion shortfall in highway funding needed to maintain current road conditions as well as a $212 billion backlog of unfunded road improvement projects.

Money for highway repairs comes primarily from federal and state gasoline taxes - or user fees - that are paid by motorists at the pump on each gallon of gasoline.

"The concept of user fees is that road repairs are paid for by those who use them," Wilkins said. "Unfortunately, lawmakers have begun to use some gasoline taxes to pay for non-highway projects and that means needed highway repairs are not being made."

Motorists pay 18.4 cents-per-gallon federal gasoline tax, but only 10 cents per gallon now goes into the highway account of the Federal Highway Trust Fund for road and bridge repairs.

"If all the user fees were applied to make needed road repairs, driving would be less costly and safer," Wilkins said.

Free Pamphlet Offers Tips On Cold-Weather Care Of Your Auto

There's no better reminder to have one's car served for winter than the memory of waiting for the tow-truck to arrive on a frigid night. To help motorists avoid this inconvenience and expense Car Care Council offers an informative pamphlet titled, "Are You and Your Care Ready for Winter?"

Throughout the summer your car may have performed at its best, having to tolerate no bitter cold. Driving was easy. Then comes the first cold snap and/or the big blizzard, putting vehicles and their owners to the test.

The pamphlet lists 10 areas of car care that can make a big difference this winter?

1. Electrical System
2. Ignition System
3. Emissions Control System
4. Fuel System
5. Cooling System
6. Under The Car Systems and Components
7. Fluids and Filters
8. Vision and Visibility
9. Paint and Body
10. Your Blizzard Emergency Kit.

Included in the pamphlet is an easy to use list of systems and components that should be checked before winter's first icy blast.

Among the severe weather tips offered by the council:

*A 75 watt light bulb under the hood near the battery can help keep the chill off the battery.

*On cold, windy nights, park with the front of the vehicle away from the wind.

*Check tire pressure. Tires deflate one pound of pressure for every 10 degrees of temperature drop.

*Keep door lock defroster easily accessible; it's useless locked inside an ice-covered car.

*Keep your gas tank over half full for added safety.

For your copy of this pamphlet, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. W, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Prepare Now for Winter Driving

The benefits of getting your vehicle ready for cold weather are twofold: increased peace of mind and increased vehicle life. Indeed, one survey of ASE-certified Master Auto Technicians indicates that consumers could extend the life of their vehicle by 50 percent or more through regular maintenance.

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), the nonprofit organization that administers national certification tests to automotive technicians, offers the following tips to help motorists get ready for winter. Some of the tips are easy; others require a professional technician.

1. The basics — Begin by reading the owner's manual and becoming familiar with the various components and systems. Follow the recommended service schedules.

2. Housekeeping — Wash and wax your vehicle to protect its finish. Inspect lights and bulbs. Replace worn wiper blades, and keep plenty of washer fluid on hand. Carry emergency gear — a shovel, a blanket, etc.

3. Battery — The only accurate way to detect a weak battery is with the professional equipment available at a good repair shop. However, do-it-yourselfers can handle routine care: scraping away corrosion from posts and cable connections, cleaning all surfaces, and retightening connections. Be sure to wear eye protection and gloves.

4. Engine oil — The oil and filter should be changed as specified in your manual.

5. Cooling system — The cooling system should be flushed and refilled about every two years. The level, condition and concentration of the antifreeze should be checked periodically. The tightness and condition of drive belts, clamps and hoses should be checked by a pro. Let the engine cool off before working on the radiator.

6. Engine performance — Problems with rough idling, hard starts, stalling or diminished power should be corrected before cold weather sets in. Describe any changes in performance to a qualified technician. The air, fuel and PCV filters should be replaced as specified.

7. Heater/defroster — To ensure comfort and safety, the heater and defroster must be in good working condition.

8. Tires — Rotate tires about every 5,000 miles. The air pressure should be checked once a month; let the tires "cool down" first. Examine tires for cuts and nicks, uneven wearing, and cupping. Check the spare, too. Note that some of today's body styles and tire packages are not compatible with tire chains.

9. Brakes — Brakes should be inspected as recommended in your manual or sooner if you notice pulsations, grabbing, noises or longer stopping distances.

10. Finding good auto service — Ask friends and associates for recommendations. Contact your local consumer organization regarding reputation, complaints, etc.

Look for orderly conditions, modern equipment, customer-service awards and an attentive staff. Policies regarding diagnostic fees, labor rates and guarantees should be posted.

Look for repair facilities that employ technicians certified by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE). These technicians have taken and passed national competency exams. They wear blue-and-white shoulder insignia and carry pocket credentials listing their areas of technical expertise, while their employers often display the ASE sign.

ASE has prepared a brochure for motorists — "Getting Your Vehicle Ready for Winter." For a free copy, send a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to ASE Winter Brochure, Dept. MCF95, P.O. Box 347, Herndon, VA 22070.

Check That Battery!

Properly maintained vehicles can usually weather winter's chilly temperatures, but special steps are required to protect cars from the season's fiercest arctic blasts, according to the American Automobile Association.

As part of National Car Care Month, AAA is urging motorists to prepare now for the severe cold snaps that strand millions of motorists each winter.

"In 1994, AAA received nearly 27 million calls for emergency road service," said George Giek, managing director of AAA Automotive Services. "Much of that record volume is directly attributable to periods of single-digit and sub-zero temperatures in many parts of the nation."

The best strategy to combat severe winter weather is to make sure your car's battery is in proper working condition. Motorists should check to make sure the cable connections are tight and there is no corrosion on the terminals," said Giek. Also, if the battery fluid level can be checked, make certain the fluid covers the battery plates."

If the engine fails to start, turn on the headlights. If the headlights work, even if they are dim, the battery power may only be low and a jump start may start the engine. If, after several attempts, a jump start does not work, the vehicle may require service by a qualified technician.

If the temperature has been extremely low and the battery is weak, the battery could be frozen. Motorists should not attempt to jump start a frozen battery.

Moisture in the fuel line can sometimes freeze, blocking the flow of fuel and preventing engine start-up. AAA recommends adding a Commercial additive containing isopropyl alcohol to the gas tank when filling up before and during periods of extreme cold weather.

For motorists who live in areas prone to extremely cold temperatures, an engine block heater that warms the engine oil can be installed to help ease cold weather starts. Even something as simple as burning a 100 watt light bulb under the hood can provide warmth to assist in starting the engine.

Severe cold also can strand motorists by causing door locks to freeze. If locks are frozen, AAA recommends motorists try using a hair dryer to heat the lock area. Also, heating the tip of the door key with a match will sometimes be effective. If the lock still does not function, contact your auto club or a certified service facility for assistance.

Basic vehicle maintenance also plays a vital role in cold-weather vehicle performance. In addition to the battery, ignition and engine cooling systems should be inspected and engine oil changed before frigid temperatures hit. Be certain the engine coolant is a 50/50 mix of anti-freeze and water. Motorists who live in areas prone to severe weather may want to change to a winter-grade oil, such as 5W-30, which performs better in cold weather.

AAA is a not-for-profit federation of 119 motor clubs with more than 1,000 offices providing 37 million members in the United States and Canada with travel, insurance, financial and auto related services.

Can You Pass The Test?

A severe winter can be tough on a car. To be prepared for Mother Nature's worst, be aware of your car's needs. In recognition of National Car Care Month (October) we offer a multiple choice quiz on this timely topics:

1. for maximum protection, antifreeze mixture should be:
(a) half antifreeze, half water.
(b) pure antifreeze.
(c) 70% antifreeze, 30% water.

A common cause of damage to an automatic transmission:
(a) Driving to fast in second gear.
(b) Excessively harsh use when stuck on ice or snow.
(c) To much city driving with the shift lever in "LOW."

3. A battery loses some of its power as the temperature drops. 0°F it produces only:
(a) 80% of its original power.
(b) 50% of its original power.
(c) 40% of its original power.

4. When the sun goes down the chances of being involved in a fatal accident increase by:
(a) 100%
(b) 200%
(c) 400%

5. The best grade of oil to use in your car is:
(a) the type recommended in the owner's manual.
(b) the highest viscosity index available.
(c) any oil carrying an API rating.

Has your car had a good"physical" lately?

—Car Care Council

Pamphlet Offers Info On Re-Manufactured Engines

An all-too-common scenario among vehicle owners: your faithful car is making noises and your mechanic says major engine work soon will be needed. Time for a new car or a like-new engine?

The first solution carries an average $20,000+ price tag; the other about one tenth of that.

To provide needed information on this subject, an easy-to-understand brochure now is offered by National Engine Parts Manufacturers Association (NEPMA). The illustrated brochure details the many benefits of re-manufactured engines.

According to W.E. "Bill" Herring, executive director of NEPMA, motorists are often not aware of the option of having their engine rebuilt or replaced with an overhauled unit.

"It's not uncommon for today's cars to reach 100 - 140,000 miles or more. At that point, major engine work may be needed, while the rest of the car is in excellent condition. Now, during National Car Care Month," he explained, "we emphasize the importance of the car owner understanding all his options."

The new NEPMA brochure discusses in detail the costs of having an engine overhauled, including parts, labor, and sales tax considerations. It then contrasts those costs with average new car costs, factoring in finance charges and sales tax, and even lease versus purchase and insurance considerations.

Finally, the brochure includes a diagram of a typical engine and lists the parts that are usually new or re-machined during overhaul, like piston rings, bearings, oil pumps, valves, and camshafts. And it also spells out the related parts that are usually replaced with major engine work, such as spark plugs, filters, and water pumps.

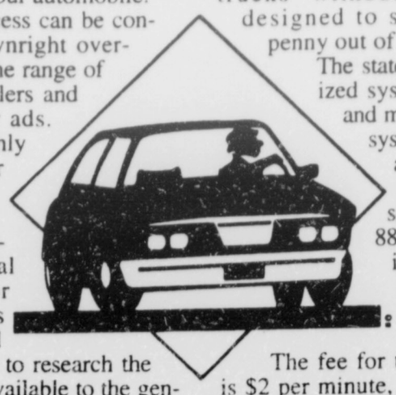
"This brochure is an important tool for the motorist to use when faced with major engine repair," Herring said. "We think the car owner should have the most complete information possible when faced with a major automotive expense. Very often the owner is completely satisfied with his or her current car. An investment of perhaps 10% of the cost of a new car can restore the car's performance to like-new condition, while leaving the rest of the motorist's resources available for other purchases.

"Furthermore, the manufacturers of replacement engine parts often design improvements into their products so that a re-manufactured engine can actually perform better than new. So installers can offer a valuable warranty that will help motorists choose to repair rather than replace their cars."

Individual copies of this brochure are available free upon request. Larger quantities are available at a nominal cost. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. NEPMA, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, Ohio 43452.

Discover the Value of Your Car

Whether you're a backyard mechanic, a serious investor, or simply looking to buy or sell a used car, you are probably also interested in pinpointing the market value of your automobile.



However, this process can be confusing — if not downright overwhelming — given the range of prices quoted by dealers and listed in newspaper ads. Until recently, the only other sources for determining the "book value" of cars often meant the inconvenience of a special trip to a library or bookstore (or perhaps a bank, savings and loan, or credit union) to research the limited information available to the general public.

Fortunately, this is no longer a problem. Now, there is a no-nonsense 900 service that takes the guesswork out of used-car negotiations and is both fast and convenient. Through the use of a touchtone telephone, the Auto Priceline™ quickly provides the high/low values of automobiles and trucks without built-in delays designed to squeeze every last penny out of the caller.

The state-of-the-art computerized system includes options and mileage, and the data is systematically updated to always reflect current regional values. You simply punch in 1-900-884-3300 and follow the instructions to learn wholesale and retail values from 1973 to the present.

The fee for this fingertip service is $2 per minute, and the average call ranges from four to six minutes. It's an investment that could save hundreds of dollars the next time you negotiate the purchase, sale or trade-in of a used vehicle.

RV Tire Safety Guide Available

A new guide containing the latest industry-approved information on the proper care, selection, and use of recreational vehicle (RV) tires is now available free from the Tire Industry Safety Council.

The Recreational Vehicle Tire Care and Safety Guide provides RV consumers with guidelines and benefits of regular tire maintenance to help improve tire durability and performance.

"This updated version also contains a fold-out section to help teach RV owners how to properly weigh their vehicles," commented Council Chairman Thomas E. Cole.

The 20-page booklet includes sections on proper tire inflation and inspection procedures, the dangers of overloading, special safety warnings, tire rotation recommendations, how to extend tire life, how to read a tire side wall, and other useful facts and safety tips.

The booklet was published in time to remind motorists to devote more attention to RV tire maintenance and storage during National Car Care Month, which follows the busy vacation driving season.

To receive a free copy of the guide, persons may send a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to Tire Industry Safety Council, PO Box 3147, Medina, OH, 44258.

The council also offers a Recreational Vehicle Tire Safety Kit which includes a dual-head metal air pressure gauge, a tread depth measurer, eight metal valve caps, and a copy of the Recreational Vehicle Tire Care and Safety Guide enclosed in a plastic pouch. To order a kit, persons may send a check or money order for $14.95 plus $3.50 shipping and handling to the above address.

Investigate Erratic Power Steering

Does your power steering act up when you're maneuvering into a parking space? Is the steering wheel hard to turn? Is there a screeching noise from under the hood as you turn the wheel?

These are classic symptoms of a loose, glazed or worn drive belt. Or your power steering fluid may be low.

Replace a worn belt before it fails completely. If fluid is low, find out why, says the Car Care Council. Fixing a leak may involve nothing more than tightening a hose connection.

Can You Pass?

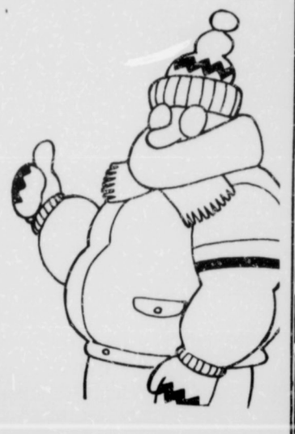
1. (c) is correct. Although a 50/50 mixture will protect to -34°F, the 70% mixture will protect to -85°F. Do not use a stronger solution than that.

2. (b) is correct. Transmission shops report an increase in burned transmission components after a snowstorm due to drivers trying to "rock" out of snow drifts by rapidly shifting from Drive To Reverse. This can cause trouble by overheating the transmission.

3. (c) is correct. Even a strong battery produces only 40% of its power at 0°F, at which time the starter may need twice as much electrical power to start a cold engine.



4. (c) is correct. And the risk increases as driving conditions deteriorate. Driving after dark places extra demands on vehicles and their drivers.

5. (a) is correct. Higher viscosity oil is thicker, which makes the engine harder to turn over in cold weather.

The Car Care Quiz Book, containing 110 multiple choice questions and answers is available from the Car Care Council. In addition the challenging questions each of the 11 chapters includes informative test plus an Auto Fact cartoon.

With a cover price of $7.95, the 91-page publication is offered during National Car Care Month for $5.95 including postage and handling. Send a check or money order to Car Care Council, Dept. BOOK, One Grade Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Get ready for WINTER!

Before the onset of the cold weather, it's a good idea to check a few things on your car.

- Be sure that you replace your antifreeze, to insure that it'll be effective, once winter sets in.
- Look at your tires. They need to be changed if you spot any bald spots, or a loss of pressure.
- Make sure the battery is fully charged. It takes power to run the heat, and you don't want any surprises when the temperature takes a dip.

Let us give your car a thorough checkup, just to be sure nothing gets in your way.

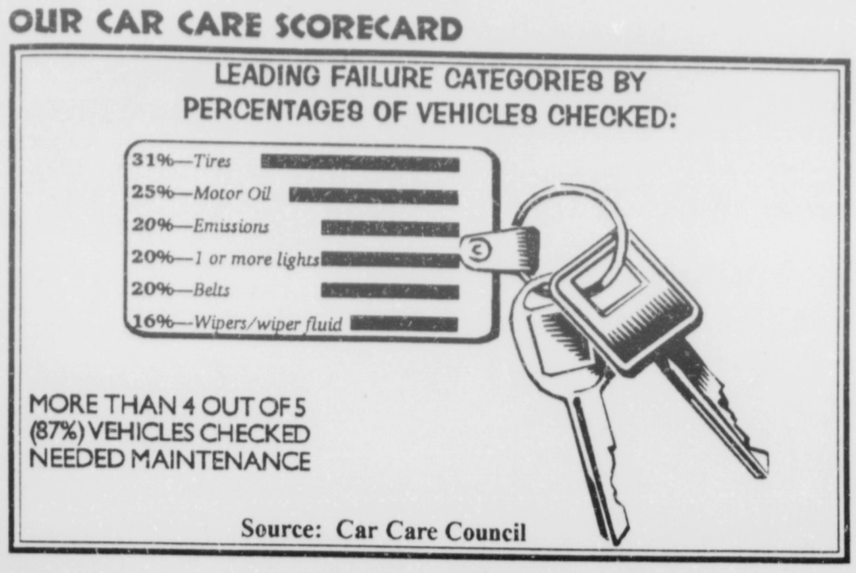
OUR CAR CARE SCORECARD



National Car Care Month Statistics: Nearly 9 Of 10 Need Maintenance

In October thousands of motorists will have their vehicles inspected at check lane locations throughout the USA. It's part of National Car Care Month, a program that receives widespread support from government, consumer groups and automotive industry associations.

The purpose of this annual campaign is to focus public attention on the need for proper vehicle maintenance for a safer and more efficient vehicle with fewer harmful emissions.

The project last year reported that 87% of more than 6,500 vehicles inspected in 31 cities needed maintenance. A closer look at the statistics, tabulated by the Automotive Market Research Council, discloses:

*Among all vehicles inspected, 19% failed the emissions test with one site reporting as many as 48% failed.

*94% of vehicles 10 years old or older needed maintenance. That's the highest percentage in the history of this program.

*Tire inspection found 31% of vehicles failing due to incorrect pressure or worn tread.

*From 1988 through 1993 an average 7% of vehicles failed inspection due to faulty windshield wipers. In 1994 that percentage jumped to 14%.

*16% of vehicles failed due to low or dirty fluids (motor oil, transmission, power steering or brake fluid), an increase of about 20% over the previous 5 year average.

Summing up these statistics -- the 1994 check lanes indicate that four out of five cars are in need of maintenance -- is yours one of them?

For a free brochure listing 14 preventive maintenance checks you can do yourself, send a self addressed, stamped envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. UH, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

What To Expect When Your Car Loses Its Cool

Motorists have enjoyed riding in vehicles cooled by air conditioners (A/C) since the early 1950s and the convenience of having a service facility maintain the system has been available for just as long. However, recently enacted environmental regulations pertaining to the use of the refrigerant R-12 or Freon (as it's known by its trade name) have led to changes that not only determine who can repair the system, but also how the repairs are done.

In the past, anyone could buy R-12 service facilities and individuals. Now under federal regulations, only certified technicians can purchase R-12. To become certified, technicians must pass a test demonstrating their knowledge of R-12 recovery and recycling. These regulations also require shops to recover and recycle R-12 when servicing a vehicle's A/C system, advise consumers of any leaks detected, and in some areas, recover any refrigerant used in testing the system. (In some areas, stringent state laws may override federal laws.)

R-12, which releases chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) that have been linked to ozone depletion, will be phased out of production by the end of 1995. Although R-12 will no longer be produced, this does not mean that R-12 use is prohibited. In fact, manufacturers recommend consumers continue to use R-12 for as long as supplies last because it is cost-effective. How long will the supply last? With stockpiling and recycling efforts, experts predict that supplies should be available for several years.

There are other safe alternatives to R-12 that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has accepted for production and use. One such alternative refrigerant is known as HFC134a. Virtually all vehicles manufactured by the end of 1994 contained A/C systems that use HFC-134a as the refrigerant. Although HFC-134a has been accepted by the EPA, it is anticipated that shops will be required to recover and recycle the refrigerant by the later part of 1995. HFC-134a is also available to consumers who wish to convert to the new refrigerant or whose systems need repair. The procedure used to convert a vehicle's A/C system from R-12 to HFC-134a is known as retrofitting. The retrofitting procedure may involve replacing components on the current A/C system. The EPA estimates the costs of retrofitting to be between $100 and $800, depending on the make, model and age of the vehicle.

The Automotive Service Association (ASA) recommends motorists have their air conditioning systems checked for leaks once a year and have leaks repaired, which may proiong the life of the system. ASA also suggests consumers thoroughly discuss A/C repair options with their service facility.

ASA is the largest non-profit trade association of its kind serving approximately 12,000 automotive service businesses nationwide. ASA members agree to uphold a stringent Code of Ethics and are dedicated to quality service at a fair price. They can be identified by the red, white and blue ASA sign.

Many members also participate in ASA groups that sponsor Car Care Clinics in support of National Car Care Month in October. These events offer consumers a range of opportunities including vehicle maintenance checks by certified technicians.

How Many Fluids?

Car Care Council

(CCC) - How many fluids can be checked on a typical car? Four? Six? Ten? If you guessed ten, you're right. They're found in the:

1. Engine
2. Transmission
3. Braking System
4. Battery
5. Windshield Washers
6. Power Steering
7. Cooling System (Antifreeze)
8. CV Joints/Rear Axle
9. Gas Tank
10. Air Conditioner

All of the above except the CV joints (which should be checked for leakage) and some batteries require periodic checking and "topping off."

Which ones require changing? The engine oil, antifreeze, transmission fluid and the brake fluid.

How many require filter replacement? Generally three: the engine oil, transmission fluid and fuel.

Late model cars are more susceptable to trouble due to contaminated fuel and brake fluid, says the Car Care Council. The tiny orifices in fuel injection and braking systems require that the fluids passing through them be absolutely clean. For the long life and dependability of your vehicle, says the Council, check fluids regularly.

Pagenhardt Is New Garrett County Clerk

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week voted unanimously to hire Oakland resident R. Lamont Pagenhardt as Garrett County Clerk.

Pagenhardt, who recently served as director of human resources and personnel for Allegany County government, will assume his new position on Monday.

"This administrative position, with direction from the board, is responsible for planning, directing, and managing the activities and work of the county commissioners," a county board press release explained.

Until recently, county clerk duties were performed in Garrett County by longtime County Administrator Robert Fousek. However, Fousek recently retired from this position following the conclusion of a lawsuit against the county government.

As clerk, Pagenhardt will also act as a liaison between the commissioners and county agencies and departments, supervise the commissioners' administrative and secretarial staff, and serve as the county board's media envoy. Pagenhardt's salary as clerk has been set at $40,000 per year.

Pagenhardt holds a BA degree in industrial relations from Bridgewater College, Va., and an MBA degree from Frostburg State University. He also brings to the position over 18 years of administrative, financial, and managerial experience in the public and private sectors, the county board reported.

He is a member of the Society of Human Resource Management, the American Management Association, and the Southern and Western Maryland Personnel Managers Association.

Fousek still serves as interim roads director for the county, a position which he has held since 1991. According to Commissioner John Braskey, a search committee will soon present the county board with a list of candidates for the roads position. If one of these candidates is hired by the

As can be seen by the enthusiastic expression on her face, Pegg Janney, right, seems to be getting the point as she plays Betty Meeks, owner of the rustic fishing lodge shown. The set was designed by Ben Sincell. The Foreigner, by Larry Shue, is underway Nov. 2, 3, and 4 at 8 p.m. in the GCC auditorium. Tickets for the show, which is billed as a comedy for mature audiences, are $5 for adults and $2.50 for students, and are available at the door. See review on page A-4.

Woman Seriously Injured When Car Strikes Tree

An Oakland woman was seriously injured early this morning in a single-vehicle accident on Rt. 42, near the Hoyes Road, McHenry.

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, said 29-year-old Rhonda Sines, was operating her 1996 Chevrolet north on Rt. 42, just north of Hoyes Road, when she failed to negotiate a left turn in the road. The vehicle reportedly traveled off the right side of the road, traveled back across Rt. 42, and off the left roadside, where it struck a tree.

Sines reportedly suffered multiple fractures and facial injuries in the 12:28 a.m. accident. She was initially transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by volunteers from the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, and later transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., by WVU HealthNet helicopter. She is currently listed in "serious" condition.

For more than 200 years the Red Cross volunteers have cared for the sick and wounded during wars and disasters. On the lighter side, the Garrett County Chapter of the Red Cross will sponsor a Veterans' Day USO Canteen Party on Saturday, Nov. 11, from 8-11 p.m. at Southern High School, in honor of veterans from all branches of the armed services and others who want to salute the war years and listen to music from the big band era. Local Talent To Perform At Red Cross USO Canteen Party

Local talent is scheduled to perform during the Veterans' Day USO Canteen Party, set for Saturday, Nov. 11, from 8-11 p.m. at Southern High School.

A musical salute to the past will be offered by various local performers including Linda Sharpless, Donna Cook, and Sue Harkins, who will portray the Andrew Sisters. Sharpless and Harkins are both members of the Garrett Choral Society. Sharpless may be remembered for her part as "Addie" in the choral society's production of Oklahoma. Cook, who also has extensive stage experience, performed as the singing nun in the Sound of Music.

Also appearing will be Peg Janny, as she portrays the late Kate Smith. Janny is known to many for her part as the mother in a presentation of the Quilters. She is currently involved with a play set for this weekend at Garrett Community College, titled The Foreigner.

Other music from the war years will be played by Leonard Eiswert, with memorable favorites including 'Til the End of Time, and Vaughn Monroe's hit from the '40s, There I Said It Again. Eiswert has also performed with the choral society in productions of Oliver and South Pacific.

Tom Peterson, who played the lead role in the choral society's production of Music Man, and who is also a member of a local barbershop quartet, will climax the evening's entertainment with his rendition of Lee Greenwood's God Bless the U.S.A. Accompanying the singers will be Susan Peterson, and taps will be played by Joe Ashby.

Visitors to the USO canteen will dance to the music of Glenn Miller, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Harry James, and other big band sounds, provided during the evening by the Dr. John Hawkins Quintet of Keyser, W.Va.

Serving as host for the evening will be Lawrence Cosner, a World War II veteran who served with the 9th Army Air Force. Canteen food will be provided by various Garrett County church groups.

Dress for the evening will be casual, or those attending may wish to come in red, white, and blue attire. Sponsored by the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross, tickets are currently on sale at Naylor's Hardware and Flinns' Family Store, Oakland; Reel Video, Deep Creek Lake; Twila's Restaurant, Friendsville; G.W. Lumber, Accident; or H.H. Hardware, Grantsville.

Despite Funding Cut, GCCW Hopes To Remain Active

A spokesperson for the Garrett County Commission for Women (GCCW) stated this week that the recent decision by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to halt funding for the advocacy group will not deter the GCCW's members from pursuing the construction of a domestic violence shelter in Garrett County.

"The GCCW would like to let local residents know that in spite of the county commissioners' recent decision to deny the GCCW funding, the GCCW will not be deterred in its goal to secure a domestic violence shelter," remarked GCCW Vice-chair Susan Athey-Oxford.

"We will continue in our commitments to the shelter project as well as in our mission. We have the support of the local citizenry, the consumers needing such a service, and local professionals who want access to a shelter for their clientele," Athey-Oxford added.

Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey recently commented that County Attorney Gorman "Mike" Getty has advised the commissioners that they do not have the legal authority to fund the GCCW. However,

Public Meeting On Bear Issues Tonight At NHS

At a public meeting at Northern High School tonight, a Maryland Department of Natural Resources citizens' task force will present its recommendation that the state permit limited black bear hunting.

Doors will open at 6 p.m. for the review of displays and literature, and the meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The committee, which included local and district legislators, agricultural representatives, and other interested parties, was created by the DNR and met for the past three months. The committee will recommend tonight that the DNR maintain its current black bear depredation policy with increased emphasis on education and technical support and advice, establish a black bear damage compensation program to reimburse property owners for bear damage exceeding $200 in value, and allow for bear population reduction by hunting bears in limited areas where the population has exceeded the "cultural carrying capacity," or the number of bears that neighboring humans will tolerate.

Damage caused by bears has increased beyond the tolerance levels of many Garrett County landowners, a DNR spokesperson stated.

SHA Enacts New Weight Limit On Backbone Mtn.

In an effort to help prevent further deaths caused by truck accidents on Maryland Rt. 135, near the Garrett County/Allegany County border, the Maryland State Highway Administration (MSHA), along with the State Police, Garrett County Roads Department, and local communities and industry, have developed a weight restriction on Backbone Mountain.

The recently-enacted ruling, which became effective at midnight Monday, states that vehicles over 26,000 pounds GVW may not descend the mountain road unless the driver is delivering or picking up material. The area covered by the ruling extends from Rt. 38, Kitzmiller Road, along Rt. 135 to Rt. 36, Georges Creek Road, affecting the Bloomington, Luke, and Westernport regions, according to a spokesperson for the MSHA.

The State Police Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division at Finzel, along with state troopers from the McHenry and LaVale barracks began enforcing the ruling on Tuesday.

Backbone Mountain's 9 percent grade extends four miles, from Swanton to Luke, and has been the scene of numerous fatal and serious-injury accidents. The most recent fatality was in August, when a truck loaded with charcoal smashed into a wall at the foot of the mountain. The driver apparently lost control of his rig and could not negotiate a 90-degree turn as he crossed the Savage River bridge.

According to a spokesperson for the Finzel scalehouse on Interstate 68, some truckers use Rt. 135 if they are overweight, and occasionally to make better time to I-68 and the Cumberland area from Oakland. However, a recent study showed that drivers do not save time by traveling Rt. 135, but save as much as 12 minutes by taking U.S. Rt. 219, or other alternate routes to I-68 and then to Cumberland, the spokesperson added.

Trucks that exceed 26,000 pounds on Rt. 135 in the restricted area will be in violation, and drivers will be cited for failing to obey properly placed driving instructions. Currently, the minimum fine for an overweight vehicle on Rt. 135 is $70. Additional weight costs five cents per pound up to 12,000 pounds, and 12 cents per pound above the first 12,000 pounds. Also, drivers charged with violating the signs placed in that area are $65, plus one point against their driving record, according to a spokesperson for the state police.

"There is no easy solution to this situation," said an SHA spokesperson, "but this is certainly a giant stop lin an effort to provide safe highway travel to the citizens using Rt. 135."

Garrett CAC To Take Part In $302 Million Program

The Garrett County Community Action Committee has been selected by the Local Initiatives Support Corporation (LISC) as one of 52 core community development corporations to receive financial and technical assistance as part of a new program aimed to pump $302 million into reviving rural communities in the U.S.

Paul Grogan, president of LISC, the nation's largest urban revitalization support entity, publicly launched the new program, called Rural LISC, yesterday in Washington, D.C.

"The $302 million is a pool of loans and grants that over the next four years will by used by 68 non-profit community developers to increase skills, strengthen management, and develop job generating, affordable housing and essential facilities in 39 states," a CAC spokesperson stated.

The Garrett County CAC is a 30-year-old community development corporation that has helped develop 800 units of housing, constructed nine community facilities, and helped to initiate and fund the county's first economic development efforts, the spokesperson added.

"Just as in urban America, for a number of years rural community development corporations (CDCs) have quietly worked to transform distressed communities," Grogan stated. "For the past 15 years, however, urban CDCs have attracted significant new policy support and capital resources. Rural CDCs have not. The outstanding response of government, philanthropies, and the private sector and the bipartisan support that we have received is a great start and bodes well for the future of the initiative and of rural America."

According to a CAC spokesperson, this is the first time that the banking community, the federal government, and foundations have joined together to attack rural poverty through a large-scale, targeted strategy to build on the strengths of local, self-help organizations.

The new program is based on a two-year analysis conducted by the LISC with input from rural leaders.

The LISC raises approximately $400 million each year from U.S. corporations to help CDCs create housing, industrial and commercial space, and public facilities. Since its inception in 1979, the LISC has raised $1.8 billion and helped in the creation of 57,000 units of housing and 9.6 million square feet of commercial space.

Bowling Couple Found Guilty Of Drug Charges

An Oakland couple whose residence was the target of a major search and seizure action of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office in February were found guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court on several drug charges. Mabel J. (50) and Charles F. Bowling, 47, both waived a jury trial last week and the proceedings were presided over by the Honorable Judge Fred A. Thayer.

The charges against both defendants were possession of cocaine with intent to distribute, possession of cocaine, possession of marijuana, possessing equipment for illegal use, possession of drug paraphernalia, possession of a short-barreled shotgun, and maintaining a common nuisance. Mrs. Bowling was also accused of carrying a firearm while engaged in drug trafficking.

The Bowlings' lawyers made motions for judgements of acquittal on all counts, but the two were only acquitted on the equipment charge. Thayer found the two guilty of all charges except maintaining a common nuisance.

The judge then ordered a pre-sentence investigation and revoked bail for the pair. A sentencing date was not indicated in the court record.

The search and seizure of the Bowlings' Steyer Gorman Road residence took place on Feb. 2. Officers found 5.6 ounces of cocaine, 12.8 grams of marijuana, drug paraphernalia, and over $16,000 in cash.

In another case, an Oakland man was sentenced to jail time in a drug case. James M. Bircher, 28, pleaded guilty in a hearing on Oct. 19 to the charge of possession of marijuana

JOBS PROGRAM KICKED-OFF - Project Independence, a newly redesigned program intended to move citizens from welfare to self-supporting employment, was recently launched by the Private Industry Council of the Western Maryland Consortium (WMC) and the Maryland Department of Social Services (DSS). Representatives of both agencies gathered to update the Garrett County Board of Commissioners on the project this week. Pictured left to right, standing, are Garrett County DSS Director Robert Shaffer, Garrett County DSS Assistant Director Tom Rosser, DSS employees Sharon Teets and Kathryn Ream, Private Industry Council Chairperson Dave Towers, District Administrator Mary Beth Pirolozzi of the office of District I State Senator John Hafer, WMC Supervisor Sue Shockey, and WMC Counselor Robin Witt. Pictured sitting, same order, are Commissioners Roger Glotfelty, Wayne Wilt, and John Braskey.

Jobs Project Aimed To Cut Welfare Rolls

The Private Industry Council of the Western Maryland Consortium (WMC) and the Maryland Department of Social Services (DSS) have kicked off a newly redesigned Project Independence to help welfare recipients obtain self-supporting employment.

According to a local spokesperson, the program "will have a new approach. The emphasis is for 'job ready' participants to go to work. The two agencies will hold a joint job search workshop at the consortium each week, and participants will be required to make numerous job contacts with local employers each week.

To encourage employers to hire local welfare recipients, several incentives will be offered. Employers can earn up to $5,100 in Maryland state tax credits for each Project Independence participant hired, and employers who provide skill training will be reimbursed 50 percent of a participant's initial hourly wage during a specified training period.

Project Independence also includes provisions for job auditioning, in which an aspiring employee will work for free to prove that he or she can succeed in an occupation, and job matching, in which professional job analysts will assist employers in identifying appropriate job candidates.

Representatives of the WMC and DSS are available to visit employers to discuss the details of Project Independence. For more information, persons may call 334-8136.

"Funded under the Job Opportunity and Basic Skills (JOBS) training initiative, Project Independence has provided persons receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) payments with work preparedness skills, job training, and placement opportunities while offering employers job candidates who are job ready, reliable, and trained for specific positions," a WMC spokesperson stated.

William Detweiler, past national commander of the American Legion, will be the guest speaker at the 64th annual membership feed (pig roast) on Friday, Nov. 10, at 6 p.m., sponsored Proctor Kildow Post 71, Memorial Drive, Oakland.

Detweiler, a resident of New Orleans, was elected national commander in September 1994, during the American Legion's 76th Annual National Convention in Minneapolis, Minn. He has been a member of the Ed Brauner Post 307 in New Orleans since 1966, and became its first Vietnam-era commander in 1972.

He served in the U.S. Army Intelligence Corps from 1963-65, and in 1966 was transferred from Active Reserve to Standby Reserve with the rank of captain. His leadership positions in the American Legion include district vice commander, district and department judge advocate, chairman of the National Public Relations Commission, and national vice commander.

In the business world, Detweiler obtained his bachelor's degree in sociology in 1961, and a law degree in 1963 from Loyola University in New Orleans. He became a practicing attorney and has served as the elected constable of the First City Court in New Orleans since 1979.

He is actively involved in the New Orleans community, and is a long-time member of the Louisiana Historical Society. He was the co-chair of Operation Hero's Welcome in New Orleans, which welcomed local veterans returning from the Persian Gulf War. He also chairs the advisory committee for the Agent Orange Family Systems Project.

Detweiler and his wife, Maureen, are the parents of four children.

Other department and district officers are also expected to be in attendance during the pig roast. Admission is by a 1996 paid membership card for members of Proctor Kildow Post 71 only.

MLP Man Charged With Battery, 2nd Degree Rape

A Mountain Lake Park man was arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week on sexual assault charges. Charles L. Spiker, 21, has been accused of battering and/or raping a woman on four occasions.

The victim in the case reported that Spiker assaulted her repeatedly and forced her to have sexual intercourse. Spiker has been charged with three counts of battery and one count of second degree rape, according to the report.

Spiker was released on his own recognizance, according to a sheriff's office spokesperson.

In other police news, an Oakland man was arrested in connection with a case of breaking and entering. Johnny J. Thomas, 34, Oakland, has been charged with breaking and entering a storehouse. The incident allegedly occurred on Oct. 19. Details were not available.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Robert F. Spahr, 51, Terra Alta, W.Va. He is accused of writing a bad check on Aug. 2. Two bench warrants were also issued for his arrest for failure to appear in court.

Several other bench warrants were issued and served this week. Those charged with failing to appear in court were as follows: Franklin T. Walters, 36, Frostburg; David L. Rounds, 44, Oakland; John W. Pilkerton, 20, Oakland; Larry E. Shoemaker, 38, Swanton; Sandra K. Sisler, 25, Oakland; and Howard V. Sisler, 25, Oakland.

Craig S. Schroyer, 24, McHenry, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for violation of probation.

DWI RETRACTION NOTED

A DWI (driving while intoxicated) charge against a Frostburg woman has been recalled by the sheriff's office. Jill A. Bailey, 26, was charged with DWI following a car accident on Sept. 29. However, test results which came to the local office several days ago proved that Bailey was not intoxicated at the time of the accident. Therefore, the DWI charge has not been processed and Bailey is no longer accused of the offense.

Final Events Set For WWII 50th Anniversary

As the year of the 50th anniversary of the final days of World War II comes to a close, several special activities have been planned to honor the local veterans of that war and to perpetuate their legacy.

At the canteen party being planned for November 11 at Southern High School from 8 to 11 p.m., special exhibits of World War II memorabilia will be displayed. Any veterans of that conflict who served in combat or on the home front and who have photos, uniforms, service flags, insignia, medals, etc., that could be displayed that evening are asked to contact Sandi Buckalew, executive director of the American Red Cross, at 387-2570, or Bea Crosco at 334-2147.

Plans are also being made to compile a booklet of remembered experiences from area persons who served in World War II that every interested veteran and local libraries would receive. A special meeting has been set for Monday, November 20, at 1 p.m. in Room 305 of Garrett Community College to discuss this publication and make plans for taping or writing those experiences. All persons interested in contributing their experiences are encouraged to attend this meeting. Those who cannot attend should contact Joan Crawford at 387-3046 to express their interest.

Ms. Crawford, who has volunteered to edit the publication, stressed that no one should be intimidated by the act of writing about their experiences. "People who don't like to write can talk to a tape recorder," she said, "and we'll take it from there. The important thing is to record as many of these experiences as possible as possible for our children and grandchildren and for those not yet born. We need to leave a legacy for future generations."

Accidental Fire Damages House At Deep Creek

A early morning fire caused by discarded fireplace ashes placed on a wooden deck resulted in an estimated $7,500 damage to a one-story frame house along Gravelly Run Road.

College student Shane Myers, who was renting the structure from owner Mark Curl of Anne Arundel County, was asleep when the fire broke out and, according to Deputy State Fire Marshal Steve Wendling was lucky to escape uninjured. Wendling said that the residence was not equipped with a smoke alarm, according to state law, and Myers awoke to the smell of smoke.

"He's really lucky," Wendling said, "since most people are not awakened by the presence of smoke."

Myers called for assistance and attempted to extinguish the fire with buckets of water. Fire fighters found most of the flames in the outside deck area, but there was also damage to an inside wall in the living room.

Wendling said that a visitor to the house had placed ashes from the fireplace in a paper bag and then set the bag on the deck next to the wall of the house. Myers discovered the fire and called for help at 5:17 p.m.

Responding to the scene were volunteer fire fighters from the Deep Creek and Accident VFDs, along with the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at the Bloomington fire hall. Oakland VFD units were also called, but were sent back to their station before arrival.

Wendling said that there is "no excuse" for not having a smoke detector in every house, especially since they are available free of charge from the State Fire Marshal's Office, the Garrett County Health Department, and the State Firemen's Association Ladies Auxiliary. He even offered to help install the detectors for those needing such assistance.

County Agency Heads Provide Oct. Reports

The directors of several Garrett County governmental agencies gathered in the county court house on Tuesday to update the Garrett County Board of Commissioner on their activities for the month of October.

SANITARY DISTRICT

Wendel Beitzel, director of the Garrett County Sanitary District, informed the commissioners that construction work on the Chestnut Ridge sewer extension is progressing well. He added that the project is slated for completion by Dec. 20.

Beitzel also commented that Calvert Excavating, the firm which is installing the Chestnut Ridge sewer collection system, has employed 15 Marylanders, including 10 Garrett County residents, to work on this project. Recently, Commissioner John Braskey drafted a letter to Calvert encouraging the company to hire local persons to work on the new system.

Design work is currently being performed on three other sanitary district projects: the Deer Park sewer system, the Deep Creek Lake septic facility, and improvements to the Kitzmiller water system, Beitzel noted. Ground-breaking for

NHS Band Cleans Up At Two Contests Saturday; SHS Earns Third, Fourth

The Northern Garrett Marching Band had a successful day of competition Saturday as the marchers achieved first place in two shows and brought home several specialty awards. Southern Garrett Band did not end as impressively, but still placed well in its division. Both bands will compete this weekend in the Chapter XII Marching Championships, to be held in Hedgesville, W.Va.

The first competition last Saturday was the Jefferson Marching Classic in Shenandoah Junction, W.Va. Northern was up against two other bands in Group I and took first place easily with a score of 78.35 over the second place score of 70.3 (Petersburg High School). East Hardy came in third with a score of 65.9.

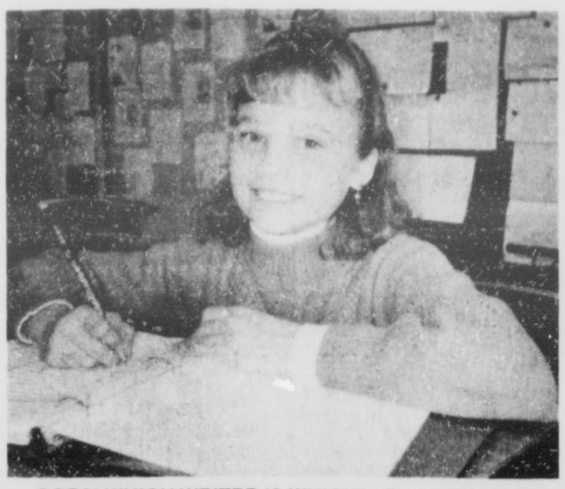
In specialty awards, Northern marchers won for best percussion, field commander, music, and marching and maneuvering.

Southern competed in Group II against five other bands and came in third place with an impressive score of 84.1. Taking first in Group II was Central High, with 91.25 points. In second was South Carroll High with a score of 86.6.

Stiffer competition was met by Northern at the second show of the day, held at Musselman High School in Inwood, W.Va. Six bands were registered in Group I, and Northern came out on top with a score of 76.1. Following closely in second place was Landsdowne High with 75.9 points, followed by North Carroll with a score of 75.35.

Northern was awarded specialty trophies at Musselman for best field commander and best marching and maneuvering.

Southern marchers vied for points against four other bands in Group II and ended up in fourth place. Walkersville took third, edging Southern out by a mere five tenth's of a point. Central took first with a 90.2, and South Carroll came in second, having garnered 87.5 points.



OOPS! WHICH WRITER IS WHICH? - Two young writers in the county recently received recognition for their talents, and because they both are students at Dennett Road Elementary and both are "the girl who won the writing award," we at The Republican managed to get them mixed up and regrettably published the wrong picture with a story last week. Shown at left is Brianna Byers who recently was named as a semi-finalist in the 1995 Children's Creative Writing Campaign, a national contest in which her writing has been picked for further consideration with 400 others out of the 16,000 entries. The story about her achievement was printed last week on page A-7, but a picture of Brittany Naylor, shown at right, was published with Brianna's story. Brittany won an essay contest at Dennett Road sponsored by the Partners of the Maryland Energy and Aging Consortium. The theme of the essay contest was "How I Help My Grandparents Save Energy," and Brittany's took first place in the school. Her essay has since been entered in a statewide contest and three writings will be chosen as the best in Maryland. Brianna is the daughter of Zane and Cynthia Byers, and Brittany is the daughter of Paul and Adele Naylor, all of Oakland. Sorry about the switch, girls!

Western Maryland Planning Funds Approved By Appalachian Council

Governor Parris N. Glendening announced last Thursday the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) approval of a major grant to support the Maryland Office of Planning Consolidated Research and Technical Assistance Program. The ARC grant totals $248,000, and will be matched with $248,000 in state and local funding for a total program cost of $596,000.

"All three Western Maryland counties, as well as 14 municipalities, will directly benefit from these grant funds as they complete and implement diverse planning and development initiatives," said Governor Glendening.

A significant portion of the funds will be used by Western Maryland jurisdictions to finalize work on comprehensive plans and implementation measures to meet the requirements of the State's landmark Economic Growth, Resource Protection and Planning Act. Grant assistance will be provided to the cities of Frostburg, Grantsville, and Clear Spring for the development or updating of local zoning ordinances. For Cumberland, funds are being directed to a strategic planning effort to implement the City's redevelopment goals and objectives. Allegany County will also receive assistance to finalize its Comprehensive Plan, continue development of its Geographic Information System data base, zoning map preparation, and adoption of updated zoning and subdivision regulations.

The City of Hagerstown will examine corridor options for a connector between Pennsylvania Avenue and Marshall Street. Potential traffic impact upon schools, neighborhoods and railroad crossings will be evaluated. Washington County will continue its hydrogeology study. Grant support will also be available to supplement other funds directed to the feasibility and marketing study for public and private development options at Fort Ritchie, which is slated for closure.

A Biotechnology Development initiative to be conducted under the auspices of Frostburg State University has also been funded. A marketing plan will be prepared to attract biotech firms to the region and biotechnology curriculums, laboratories, and training at FSU will be enhanced. The University has also received funds for the final phase of its Comprehensive Arts Strategy project which, among other goals, seeks to incorporate the arts within the region's travel and hospitality industry marketing plans.

Funds are also being provided to the Potomac Highlands Airport Authority for an Airport Terminal Marketing and Advertising Plan, and to the Forum for Rural Maryland to promote Appalachian Maryland's involvement in Maryland's Rural Development Council.

The ARC Program in Maryland is directed by the Governor's Office and coordinated through the Maryland Office of Planning, which also directly administers the Planning and Research Consolidated Technical Assistance Program. This is the fifth year for the program in Maryland.

Upon reviewing this year's approved list, Ronald M. Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning, noted that "the local governments of Western Maryland should be complimented on the over three dozen planning and development technical assistance projects thus far successfully completed and implemented throughout the region."

Reported Thefts Being Probed By Sheriff's Office

Three incidents of theft were reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week and investigations into the crimes are underway.

A Mtn. Lake Park woman reported the apparent theft of her purse. Marietta E. Jordon of H Street told officers that she left her purse on the couch in her home on the morning of Oct. 23. It was under several coats. The home was left unlocked, but a neighbor found the door to be locked later in the day, according to the report. The purse was gone that afternoon.

Ms. Jordon lost several credit cards as well as approximately $1,000 in cash, according to the report. There are no suspects in the case.

Donald L. Nine of the Classie Car Company contacted police on Oct. 27 when he discovered that stereo equipment had been stolen from the business. An American Hi-Fi amplifier valued at $300 and a Blaugh Plunk compact disc player valued at $400 were stolen from the establishment sometime during the morning hours.

According to the report, there is a possible suspect in this case.

Over $200 worth of liquor and beer was reported stolen from the Oak Grove Tavern Sunday. Billy K. Nicholas told officers that an unknown individual broke into the establishment sometime between 2:30 a.m. on Oct. 29 and 8:15 a.m. on Oct. 30. Some damage to the doorway was also reported.

An investigation is continuing.

St. Police Arrest Edgewater Man On DWI, CDS Charges

An Edgewater man was arrested Monday and charged with driving under the influence after he was stopped by a Natural Resources Police (NRP) officer for traveling 85 miles per hour in a 65 mph zone.

According to a report filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Timothy Shawn Wilkinson, 30, was also charged with possession of a PCP, controlled dangerous substance (CDS), and possession of CDS with intent to distribute, following the 5 p.m. traffic stop.

The NRP officer reportedly observed Wilkinson driving at a high rate of speed on Interstate 68, near Hill Top. After he stopped the vehicle, the officer called for state police assistance. A search of the vehicle revealed a large quantity of CDS, and packaging material.

Wilkinson is currently lodged in the Garrett County Jail, where he is being held on $50,000 cash bond.

A warrant was served by the Oakland City Police on Oct. 28, for the arrest of Dennis M. Stump, 28, Oakland. Officer Chris Feller served the warrant on Stump, who was charged with assault, after a domestic dispute on Oct. 27, at the home of Tanya Lee Stump. The victim claimed the accused also tore the wires from her vehicle during the dispute.

Following a brief incarceration in the Garrett County Jail, Stump was released.

It's a Cop-Out...

Reported cases of domestic violence in Garrett County average approximately one per day. Note we used the adjective reported. There are probably three or four times that number since so many victims, for a variety of reasons, fail to report these incidents to law enforcement officials.

With this statistic in mind, we must note our disappointment in the Garrett County Board of Commissioners for deciding not to provide any funding to the Garrett County Commission for Women to help that organization establish a domestic violence shelter in Garrett County. In fact, the commissioners have elected to provide no county funds whatsoever for the continued operation of the Women's Commission.

The commissioners claim that they have no choice in the matter, that their legal counsel has told them that they do not have the authority to allocate monies for such things. We find this extremely puzzling.

The commissioners obviously have the authority to levy taxes and allocate funds to support our local rescue squads and fire departments, the primary function of which are to provide emergency assistance. The rescue squads respond when someone is ill or injured, with the injured sometimes, ironically, being victims of domestic violence. Fire departments are summoned when something is burning that shouldn't be, and lives and property are thus at risk. How is the mission of these organizations so different from that of a domestic violence shelter, which would provide a place to go and similar assistance to the many victims of this brutal abuse?

Somehow we believe this "legal" excuse is a copout by our commissioners, and that surely there is a way for them to acquire, or at least help acquire, some funding for this shelter. The Commission has vowed to go ahead with its goal of establishing a shelter, with or without the help of the county, which is certainly commendable since a minimum of $30,000 will be needed. We hope many will pitch in with donations in order to help them reach this goal.

We pull out all the stops to tend to victims of accidents, illness, and fires, as we should. Why do we, and our elected officials, continue to basically ignore the very real problem of domestic violence and its victims?

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Re: School Board.

Wouldn't we gain more if we supported our school board instead of an act of demolition? How can we possibly ever hope to achieve goals if, upon election, we begin to run down those for whom we just voted. Isn't our American way to allow the voice of the people to prevail? For over 50 years America has been losing every standard our forefathers fought for--isn't it time that the conservatives who were voted in have a chance? (both here and in Washington.) Perhaps we'll have to invoke the "equal space allocation" so both sides can have a fair chance at getting the truth out. It is time to pull together!

Thomas E. Doyle

To the Editor:

I will speak for the only true and living God. He has created all things and hung the earth and planets on nothing. They all obey His command and stay in their places. He has given us a Book of all knowledge and wisdom.

For some 100 years our presidents declared that all law must be in accord with Bible principles. If they were not, they were not law. These are the days this nation was built and blessed. God sets up kingdoms and individuals and tears down kingdoms and individuals.

Our schools taught the Bible and its principles. Now that has been removed. Let us notice the serious problems we are having as a result of our educators' perverting our children. Though the Bible has been removed and ridiculed, they are teaching sex as free love and safe, mind-bending, witchcraft, gay lifestyle as normal and acceptable. God rained fire and brimstone on cities for sodomy.

I am sorry many churches are not aware that our nation is sin-sick. The news media, including our local paper, is aiding and abetting this continued downfall, and patting the Amish people on the back, hoping they won't stand up and oppose it.

You have begun playing politics in an open manner without respect of the principles that made this nation great. We have some leadership in our local school board who are trying to turn our educational system around toward better values again. The years of decline have made it difficult.

Because of the moral decline of the nation, we have uncontrolled crime. Our courts are afraid to deal out justice because of riots and terrorism. The streets of our cities are not safe at night. Alcoholic offenses are at an all-time high. Immorality is condemning the human race. Our schools are not safe places for our children.

Where will we go from here? A one-world government is said to be the answer. That will only worsen all. Think of the increased earthquakes, destructive storms, our failing economy. A world tax is in the think tank. You can be sure God's judgment is inevitable. Judgment shall come as in the days of Noah (Luke 17:26-27). Genesis 6:11-13 states that the earth was filled with violence.

Please get off the backs of our Christian conservative school board members.

Sincerely,
Homer Mellott

Mr. Mellott,

I don't often answer letters to the editor, but in this case I simply can't resist.

How dare you state that our educators, the teachers in Garrett County, are "perverting our children." How dare you write that our teachers are "teaching sex as free love and safe... witchcraft," and that "a gay lifestyle is normal and acceptable." And find me just one teacher in Garrett County who has ridiculed the Bible.

You don't have a clue as to what is being taught in our local schools, Mr. Mellott. Have you visited them lately? Have you bothered to take time to sit in a single local classroom to find out what is being taught?

The magnitude of your misinformation is exceeded only by the level of your arrogance. It is incredible that you have elevated yourself to be a spokesman for "the only true and living God." Again, how dare you.

I will not "get off the backs" of elected officials whom I believe are bringing great harm to our public school system, and who in my opinion are contradicting, not supporting as you claim, the principles that made this nation great.

Finally, Mr. Mellott, the only true and living God will by my judge; not you.

Editor

To the Editor:

Your editorial of two weeks ago was right on target. It appears that a majority of the elected Board wish to micro manage all phases of the public schools.

They attempt to disguise their agenda by proclaiming they have a conservative prospective when in reality it is their personal religious bias that guides their actions. Perhaps they might look up the definition of ethics and integrity.

I find it incredulous that Mr. Riley would assume that because he was elected to the Board that this gave him the authority to ask that a school program be altered to satisfy his individual beliefs.

I have three children who attended the public schools and each was given a foundation for success. I do not believe that a one hour seminar in astrology during those 12 plus years would have permanently scarred their personalities.

Teachers and administrators are employed because of their background and training. Let them do the job they were trained for. For those who are not comfortable with the public schools there are other educational alternatives.

We know that all school personnel receive periodic evaluations, perhaps the time has come to evaluate this Board.

Sincerely,
Lewis Domenick

To the Editor:

I would like to say "thank you" to Pat Riley for the concern shown for our students, regarding certain inappropriate topics that were offered with the Wellness Program. You represent many of the parents and citizens of this county in your concerns, even though we couldn't be at the recent meeting.

I voted for several members of this board to do the job they are doing; some may call it micro-management, while others of us would call it being responsible and using discernment.

Thanks also to Pastor Bonser for attempting to give information exposing astrology. The fact that you were shouted down gives pretty good indication of the "signs of the times" we're living in.

Sincerely,
Becky Mason

To the Editor:

Last Wednesday, Oct. 25, at 5:30 p.m., a meeting of the Zoning Appeals Board of Mtn. Lake Park was held. The meeting was scheduled by the Planning and Zoning Commission to hear two cases, both of which were advertised in The Republican newspaper. The last case to be heard concerned my application to permit Deep Creek Quarry, LLC, to place a limestone stocking business on property owned by Browning's Inc., which is located east of "B" Street near where it intersects with State Route 135.

These meetings are held so that anyone for or against can attend and voice their opinions. The advertisements also states that any persons interested may write in their opinions, should they not be able to attend the meeting. Written responses are read at the meeting and recorded in the minutes. The very large turn-out at this meeting consisted of people opposed to our request. In all, a total of 73 votes against and zero votes in favor. Someone mentioned that the count of votes represented more than the total count of turn-out for people voting in the Mtn. Lake Park municipal elections.

I would like to clarify why we made this request to use this property. It is zoned commercial and can be used as such. However, we thought we had better check with the Planning and Zoning Commission whether or not we could use the property for a commercial limestone business. Doing so, Mr. John Nelson stated that, according to the local zoning laws, this would require a "Special Exception." We paid a fee and applied for a "Special Exception" thus following the legal procedure. There was no other way we could know whether or not such a business could be established at this site.

The meeting was conducted in a very high-plain, business like manner by Cathy Smith, chairperson. Many of those attending have been and are personal friends of mine and my family. We certainly do not want to lose any friends over this issue. As I write this letter, we have not yet received an official answer to our request. Knowing now of the negative response we would not proceed with the project even if the commission or board should approve our request.

This letter is intended to convey to all those who opposed our proposal in person or by letter that we hold no grudges and accept your response. It was the only way we could find out whether or not our property could be used. Our intent was certainly not meant to antagonize or cause any bad feelings to anyone. We would never want to cause the people of Mtn. Lake Park any problems.

An example of our cooperation with Mtn. Lake Park happened a week or so ago. Mr. Kevin Biser, who is in charge of the sewer department, asked if he could relocate some existing sewer line onto property owned by Browning's Inc., the DNR or some other state agency wanted the line moved because it was too close to a small stream. We gave him permission to do so. The completion of "B" Street to Route 135 would not have been possible without the easement granted by our company. We not only allowed the land use involved, but graded and laid the base for the road at a cost of over $100,000 to us. We're glad to be able to help.

View From My Window

The Capital of the World

When the opportunity presented itself to go to New York City on business for a day, I took it. The train station is half an hour from my home, and the train journey two and a half hours. By 10 o'clock I was loose on the streets.

It is 16 years now since I graduated from seminary in New York City, and six years since I last visited there. Walking to my first appointment I was struck by the number of hardware stores there were. To think about it logically, there should be quite a few hardware stores in a city of seven million inhabitants (more than twice as large as Los Angeles, the nation's second largest city).

The point is that, even though we know lots of people piled on top of each other is what makes a city, we forget sometimes that those people really live there and, consequently, may need a pound of nails or a galvanized bucket. All day I kept running into the signs that this city which banners proclaimed "The Capital of the World" is also hometown to several million people, an idea that boggles my mind.

Outside restaurants I saw the same kind of breakfast specials offered that I see at restaurants in smaller places which better fit my idea of a hometown, and often at prices comparable to those of the local family restaurant. In the place where I stopped for breakfast there were two items which seemed very similar, but one was double the price of the other, and had the word "platter" attached to it. I asked the waitress what the difference was. Pointing to the cheaper item, she whispered "You want this one," and smiled just the way a waitress would in any hometown restaurant.

Later in the day I passed an outdoor promotion for a new hair salon. Surrounding the hairdressers and their customers was a high school band in full uniform. I moved up the street without stopping, but a few minutes later I heard the band strike up a congratulatory tune.

The people I met were helpful and friendly, often with a sense of humor. I did encounter a language barrier when I tried to buy some peppermints, but there was no lack of effort on the shopkeeper's part in trying to understand what I wanted, and to find it for me. One of the ways New York City definitely isn't like most hometowns is that you can buy anything there; that is, if you can find it. Every imaginable nation and ethnic group has its outlet in the boulevards and allies of the great city.

My guess is that the "Capital of the World" banners had been hung in honor of the United Nations' 50th anniversary. The location of the U.N. in New York certainly gives the city's promoters a basis to make that kind of claim, less of an exaggeration than that of some southern small town which calls itself "the azalea capital of the world."

New York City can also claim to be the world's capital because it is in so many ways the marketplace for the world. What happens on Wall Street heavily influences the financial destiny of virtually every nation. At the grass roots level the historic role of New York City as the port of entry for immigrants has made it the marketplace of the world at the grass roots level too.

I don't mean to diminish the seriousness of New York's problems. The day I was there the biggest local news story was that the mayor was trying to get organized crime out of the wholesale seafood business. There are the street people (perhaps more than 100,000, enough to make a fair sized city themselves) and the hundreds of daily muggings.

Even in the American hinterland we know about New York's problems. It was wonderful for me to see that great metropolis with new eyes, to see the capital of the world as a hometown kind of place. And what a delightful surprise that was.

A Candy-Coated Pill
by John R. McEwen

For the past several weeks in Garrett County, there has been a raging battle involving the Board of Education. It seems one would have to have one's head buried in the sand to avoid hearing about it. And all the time, Jane Avery and company have been preparing a little show that speaks an enormous message to this type of conflict. What incredible timing! Did Jane know this was going to happen just now? Whether she did or not, her taste in plays is impeccable, and her instinct for what to do with such a gem is right on target.

The Foreigner, written by Larry Shue, is one of the best shows I have seen in Garrett County. Shue's script has a profound statement, but it is so cleverly wrapped in hilarious comedy that one is not cheated of a real evening's entertainment. You will drive home talking about the thematic implications, but with your cheeks sore from laughing.

The play is set in the early 1980's at a small fishing lodge in a lakeside town in the South. As Avery states in the program, the area is so similar to Garrett County that we all can relate to someone who lives there. The story centers around Charlie Baker, a man who is not foreign but terribly shy. His fear of social interaction prompts his friend, S/Sgt. "Froggy" LeSeuer, to tell all the lodge's inhabitants that he doesn't speak any English. As a result of this, he is privy to a lot of conversations the other characters mean only for certain ears to hear. Although Charlie is uncomfortable with this deception at first, it soon proves useful, as he learns much more about these folks than they know about each other or themselves.

Richard Hill's energetic performance in the title role must be commended foremost. Hill's impromptu storytelling (in a mock-foreign language that seems based in the Russo-Germanic family) is absolutely hysterical, with just enough English sprinkled in that we, and his onstage audience, are able to get the general gist. As time goes on, Charlie finds that he can use his feigned ignorance to manipulate people into finding self-esteem, confessing their deepest desires, or even foiling their own evil plans. And, of course, he himself is able to overcome his lifelong shyness.

Hill's performance is complemented perfectly by those of Susan Rushing Bell, who plays wealthy ex-debutante Catherine Simms, and Shawn "Mooney" Spiker, in the role of Catherine's fiance, Rev. David Marshall Lee. Catherine is regretful that her carefree days are over, and in fact, that is the least of her problems. Bell's frustrated wistfulness is just what we have all felt at one time or other, when faced with "real life." She needs someone to talk to since her intended is usually away doing some kind of community service, and Charlie fits the bill perfectly. She can confide about her secret feelings and troubles, and he can't understand a word, right?

Spiker's style as the seemingly-innocuous Lee is extremely real and energetic. His delivery is impeccable, and he seems very comfortable with acting. The suspension of disbelief is not at all difficult with actors like him and Bell.

Supporting cast members Pegg Janney, Ryan J. Anderson, Mike Rexrode, and Mike Guthrie, all do a very good job of giving the flavor of small town life, especially Janney. Her character, lodge owner Betty Meeks, has her own self-discovery moment when she finds that shouting kindly at the "foreigner" results in an incredible ability to make herself understood. Catherine's younger brother Ellard, portrayed by Anderson, is thought to be somewhat dim-witted until he is able to teach Charlie rudimentary English in only a few days. Rexrode's Owen Musser is a crass, uneducated town bully, who doesn't care much for people from other lands. And Guthrie's "Froggy," although not from around town, is Betty's old friend and her only link with the outside world that so fascinates her.

The true genius of playwright Shue occurs in the second act, when we realize how quickly a humorous situation comedy can turn into a disturbing essay on human nature. This is where Bell and Spiker really shine.

The play is not completely without problems. The script drags terribly at the beginning, and this is not helped by Avery's choice to start it off with several minutes of one character doing nothing but listening to the radio. This seemed like a rather pointless time-waster, when directors usually are scrambling to shorten the show. Perhaps this was her way of allowing us to scrutinize Ben Sincell's beautiful, well-decorated set. It has a warm, lived-in feeling, although neither it nor the lighting, costumes, nor make-up posed any difficult design problems. Costumes and make-up were handled by Joan Sussman and David Cartwright, respectively.

Truly, anyone who has any opinion on the recent political brouhaha should not miss this show. We could all learn from it. The program states that it is for mature audiences, though, so get a baby sitter and try to be mature.

County Man Convicted In District Court Of Three Counts Of Forgery

A Garrett County man was sentenced to one year in the Department of Corrections after being found guilty of three counts of forging private documents. That sentence was pronounced by Judge Ralph M. Burnett in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Wayne K. Meyer, 33, who is currently lodged in the Washington County Detention Center in Hagerstown, was initially sentenced to five years in jail, but four years of that sentence was suspended. He was also ordered to make $5,550 restitution to Miners and Merchants Bank, and was placed on two years of supervised probation upon his release from incarceration. Additional charges, including three counts of uttering false documents, and one count of petty theft, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney. The one year sentence will begin with the completion of Meyer's current jail term.

Two of the forgery charges against the defendant were filed after he stole a series of checks that belonged to Black Bear Rentals, Canaan Valley, W.Va., forged another person's name to those checks, and cashed them (one for $1,800, and one for $1,750). On Feb. 3, he reportedly made a $159.85 payment at First United Bank & Trust in Oakland, then deposited $340 into his checking account, and cashed the remainder of the check for $1,300.15. On Feb. 4, he entered the bank again, made the same payment and deposit, and cashed the remainder of the second check for $1,250.15.

The third forgery charge stemmed from a March 21 incident when Meyer used a check stolen from Donna R. and Casey W. Fridley, Bayard, W.Va., and purchased stereo equipment, valued at $125.99 from Treasure Island.

In other district court news, a pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Burnett for a McHenry man found guilty in last week's proceedings of petty theft.

Bjorn P. Shogren, 31, who admitted to the theft, will be sentenced following the completion of the investigation. Other charges filed against the defendant, including two counts of felony theft, one additional charge of petty theft, one count of theft scheming, and one count of second degree burglary were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

The charges against Shogren were filed on April 15, by the Maryland State Police, who investigated incidents that occurred at The Silkscreener, located in the McHenry Plaza. According to district court records, the owner of the establishment, Bill Cummings, reported to the state police that two thefts occurred at the store, involving the removal of $424 and $325 in cash from under the counter, and each time the culprit used keys to enter the store. When the defendant, a former employee at The Silkscreener, was questioned about the thefts, he denied having keys. When interviewed again later, he admitted to having keys to the store, and had not returned them when he quit working there, because he used them to enter the building to use Cummings' equipment for his own business. This was done, Shogren admitted, without the owner's permission.

The defendant admitted to taking small amounts of money on different occasions, and admitted to taking approximately one gallon of paint (one cup at a time) over a period of time, to use in his business. He also admitted to taking the video tape, "Dune," which was found at his home.

Dennis M. Stump, 28, Mtn. Lake Park, was not prosecuted on three counts of battery because the victim, Tanya Lee Stump, refused to testify. District court records indicate that on July 16, the defendant threw the victim to the floor during a domestic dispute, and then dragged her to the bedroom, put a pillow over her face, and threatened to kill her. At one point, he also told her he would break her arm. Mrs. Stump also stated that as she attempted to leave, the defendant grabbed her by the neck and arm, and threw her onto a loveseat. He then threw her out the door.

A charge of malicious destruction of property and one count of disturbing the peace, filed against Charles R. Housley Jr., 21, Mtn. Lake Park, were placed on the stet docket. The charges stemmed from an April 13 incident, investigated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, when he reportedly sprayed a fire extinguisher on the first and second-floor landings in an apartment building in Mtn. Lake Park.

Carolyn S. Smith, 44, Deer Park, was not prosecuted on one count of violating a protection order. The charge was filed on July 18, after she failed to comply with the relief granted in an ex-parte ruling that ordered her to refrain from entering the residence of Richard Smith.

Emile H. Dolegal, 20, Bethesda, pleaded guilty to one count of possession of CDS paraphernalia. He was fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation for the offense. An additional charge of possession of CDS was not prosecuted by the state's attorney. Conditions of his probation state he must complete 30 hours of community service. Dolegal was charged with the offense on April 22, after a Maryland State Police trooper stopped his vehicle for displaying tinted windows. Upon contact with the driver, the trooper noticed an odor of suspected marijuana, and a search was initiated. He reportedly found marijuana and a smoking device in the defendant's shirt pocket, resulting in the arrest.

William P. Clemons, 35, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of being disorderly on private property, and one count of assault. The complaint was filed on July 15, by Norma J. Clemons. She stated the defendant, in an intoxicated state, attacked her verbally, telling her was going to kill her.

READY FOR A PARADE, along with about 600 others, were the mummers pictured above, as they awaited the arrival of the members of the Southern Garrett Band, directed by Rick Clever, pictured right, who were to lead the parade. All participants were treated to a bag of "goodies" donated by various Oakland merchants. Scores of prizes, ranging from two-liter bottles of soft drinks to a $50 savings bond, were presented to those judged funniest, scariest, most original, and various other descriptions. Various games, including the annual cake walk, were held at the Oakland fire hall following the parade, with the Oakland VFD receiving the proceeds. The entire event was once again sponsored and coordinated by the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club. "We thank everyone who participated in the event in any way," stated Mike McHenry, club president.

In a cross complaint filed by William Clemons, Norma Clemons, 37, was not prosecuted on one count of battery. The victim claimed his wife struck him twice in the face during the altercation between the two.

During a sentence revision hearing for Rick A. Bittinger, 20, Salisbury, Pa., the judge suspended the defendant's sentence except for time already served. Bittinger had been sentenced in July to 18 months in jail after he was convicted of two counts of theft, and four counts of malicious destruction of property, after he destroyed windows in several vehicles and houses in the Grantsville area.

A charge of violation of probation, filed against Franklin L. Cogley, 20, Oakland, was withdrawn, but only on the condition that the defendant completes 35 hours of community service with the town of Oakland. Cogley was found guilty in December, 1994, of petty theft after he stole parking meters and removed the coins.

Sylvia A. Rodeheaver, 45, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of assault, because the victim, Russell W. Rodeheaver, asserted his spousal privilege and refused to testify.

One count of harassment and one count of telephone abuse, filed against Kevin J. Lynch, 32, Manchester, N.J., were placed on the stet docket. The charges were filed on June 24, by Lynch's ex-wife, Barbara Lynch.

Scott E. Kahl, 23, Oakland, was found not guilty of one count of malicious destruction of property. The charge stemmed from a domestic dispute, reported July 21, by Lisa DeWitt, who claimed Kahl broke her bedroom door with his fist during a domestic dispute.

Jason M. Dove, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to one count of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). He was sentenced to 30 days in jail for the offense, but all of that sentence was suspended except for 48 hours. He was also placed on one year of supervised probation, ordered to have no contact with Dewey Sanders, and must finish high school. An additional charge of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

Dove was charged with the offenses on Dec. 30, 1994, after the Garrett County Drug Enforcement Division responded to information that the defendant was smoking marijuana. Dove admitted to having an eighth of an ounce of marijuana, but he had flushed it down the toilet as the officers arrived. Marijuana residue was found in the toilet, and smoking devices were also recovered from the residence.

During a sentence revision hearing for Robert W. Ingram, 40, Springfield, Va., the judge granted him probation before judgment on an earlier DUI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) and CDS conviction. He had been arrested on March 25 by a sheriff's deputy after he was observed driving right of center. He reportedly nearly struck another vehicle head-on as he traveled along Rt. 50, near the intersection with U.S. Rt. 219.

Jeffrey V. Corby, 27, Swanton, was not prosecuted on one count of malicious destruction of property at the request of the victim, Barbara Coleman. The charge was filed on Aug. 21, after an incident when Corby reportedly backed his vehicle into Coleman's vehicle, causing approximately $600 worth of damage.

Rodney L. Welch, 25, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of CDS possession. The judge sentenced him to 30 days in jail, but suspended all of that sentence except for 48 hours. The defendant was also given credit for four hours already served. He was also fined $150, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Welch was charged with the offense on April 28 after he was a passenger in a vehicle stopped by a sheriff's deputy for running a stop sign. When the vehicle was stopped, and a search initiated, the deputy found a smoking pipe with marijuana residue in Welch's pocket.

Transfer Of Credits Earned At GCC Transfer In Several Ways

Students who enroll at Garrett Community College with the goal of transferring to a four-year college or university now have a number of options available whereby their academic course work is guaranteed to transfer, according to Manning Smith, transfer counselor.

Garrett Community College now has articulated programs with Frostburg State University and West Virginia University that guarantee acceptance of all academic credits specified within the program. A tuition refund will be provided by GCC for any recommended course credits not accepted by the transfer institution.

Similar agreements can be made with other four-year institutions in Maryland or other states in accordance with GCC's University Parallel program, Smith said. Entering students must plan their schedule with their academic advisor or transfer counselor or in conjunction with the program requirements of their intended transfer institution. They will then receive an associate in arts degree from GCC in general studies and transfer to the four-year college or university without loss of credit.

Students who receive an associate in arts degree from GCC will now be automatically accepted as juniors at any four year public college or university in the state of Maryland, according to Smith. These institutions include University of Maryland College Park, Eastern Shore, Baltimore, and Baltimore County campuses, Bowie State University, Frostburg State University, Salisbury State University, Towson State University, and University of Baltimore.

In addition to these two-year transfer programs, articulated transfer agreements are in effect with Allegany Community College for the criminal justice program, nursing, and other allied health programs. For these programs students can take up to 31 credit hours at GCC before transferring.

Anyone desiring further information about transfer options at GCC may call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044.

GCCW Hopes

GCCW Chair Phyllis Trickett has continued to argue that the GCCW is eligible county funding.

Even after obtaining a written opinion on the issue from the office of Assistant Maryland Attorney General Richard E. Israel, Trickett and the commissioners have yet to see eye to eye on the matter. Trickett interprets the letter of opinion as supporting the GCCW's position, and, according to Braskey, Getty has found support for his position in the letter as well.

In the past, the county helped to pay the GCCW's operating expenses. However, the GCCW has not received county funds during this fiscal year, Trickett said. In late September, Trickett unsuccessfully asked the commissioners for $2,500 in operating funds to sustain the group until grant funding can be obtained.

Yet, Athey-Oxford remains optimistic for the future of the GCCW.

"The GCCW's goal to secure a shelter has been moving forward in a positive fashion, evidenced most recently with the submission of a housing grant," she remarked this week. "The shelter steering committee, comprised of representatives of state and county agencies and local businesses, is actively pursuing and planning in efforts to raise a local match to ready the shelter for occupancy."

According to Shelter Committee Chair Sue Sines, the group hopes to amass $30,000 by spring of 1996.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH in Accident will celebrate its centennial anniversary on Sunday, Nov. 5, with a 4 p.m. worship service. The church, pictured above as it appears today, has gone through few structural changes during the past 100 years. Below left, from left to right, are the church's past three pastors, William E. Carlson (March 1, 1949-June 30, 1984), Stephen Yelovich (May 25, 1985-Aug. 31, 1994), and Roland E. "Randy" Nairn III (Dec. 1, 1994-present). Above center, Pastor Nairn is shown with Emmert Miller, a stone mason and former member of St. Paul's congregation, who currently lives in Keymar. Miller reconditioned the original cornerstone, dated July 11, 1895. Above right is a view of the church building at the turn of the century. The original picket fence that surrounded the building, and hitching posts have long since been removed. Below right, the late Lillian Sincell, who was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, painted this portrait of Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane, which hung in the front of the sanctuary at St. Paul's for many years. The painting, slightly damaged by a fire in 1961 also damaged the altar, has been touched up and will be remounted in the sanctuary. (See related story)

Centennial Celebration Planned At St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident

St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident will celebrate its 100th year of existence with a worship and communion service on Sunday, Nov. 5, at 4 p.m. Bishop L. Alex Black of the Western Maryland/West Virginia ELCA will be the speaker.

The first Lutheran Church in Accident was established in 1842. The congregation later split, with one of those establishing what is known today as St. Paul's. Previously known as the English Evangelical Lutheran Church, St. Paul's was built on a quarter acre site bought for $100 from Eli and Catherine A. McMillen, and was dedicated in November 1895. Considered one of the most modern structures in Accident at the time, the cost of the building was $4,079.83. At the time of the dedication, the congregation had a membership of 100. The Accident charge in 1895 consisted of Cove (Loop), Accident, Bittinger (Forks), and Meadow Mountain.

A cornerstone was placed on the northeast corner of the church and was inscribed with the words: "Accident Evangelical English Lutheran Church, July 11, 1895." That cornerstone was removed on July 5 of this year to be reconditioned and highlighted for use in the 100th anniversary celebration of the church building. A small tin box that held a variety of publications and relics was found inside the cornerstone. Among these were two Lutheran periodicals dated 1895, a pocket-sized edition of the New Testament, a copy of the Augsburg Confession, a medallion from the 1893 World's Fair, and several historical notes that are as yet unreadable, according to the church's current pastor, Roland E. "Randy" Nairn III. The fragile artifacts from the original cornerstone were not put back, and are being carefully preserved.

"We have no idea who contributed these items," the Rev. Nairn said. "Perhaps individuals like ourselves who had hoped to preserve part of time that no longer exists." Present day items placed in the cornerstone include a list of recorded members after the 1895 church dedication, a list of the present membership, a list of current church council members and the anniversary committee, an article from the September 1995 Glades Star, a list of gifts and memorials given for stained glass windows in the church building, a list of items found in the original cornerstone, a list of pastors from 1895-1995, coins, several photographs, and a message from the Rev. Nairn.

"The past century has been an era of change, both in the life of the church and in the lives of its congregation," the Rev. Nairn said. "The permanence and continuity of our building has not only contributed to enriching our lives with Christ's values and His love, but has remained as a safe haven...a place where our prayers are heard and our faith in the Lord is strengthened so that we may continue to go forward in His glory and honor."

TREATED, RELEASED

Several persons were treated and released from local hospitals following unrelated accidents during the past week.

Richard E. Detrick, 40, Bruceton Mills, W.Va. was injured Friday afternoon at the intersection of Rt. 42 at the Interstate 68 interchange, state police said. Detrick's 1994 Chevy S-10 pickup was reportedly struck by a 1986 GMC truck, operated by 23-year-old Jason E. Appleby Schroyer, Friendsville.

Detrick's vehicle was stopped at the intersection, police said, and Schroyer was traveling south on Rt. 42, when Detrick pulled his vehicle into Schroyer's path, causing the vehicles to collide.

Detrick was charged with failure to yield right of way. Both drivers were reportedly wearing their seatbelts, police said.

Also responding to the 3:49 p.m. mishap were volunteers from the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, who transported Detrick to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and members of the Friendsville fire department.

A Terra Alta, W.Va., woman was injured Sunday morning after she lost control of her vehicle on Rt. 39, west of Oakland.

Kimberly A. Strawser, 21, told police that another vehicle crossed the center line, which caused her to run off the road and strike a guardrail. Her vehicle reportedly traveled back onto the road, and stopped in the center of the highway.

She, too, was transported to Garrett Memorial, where she was treated for her injuries, and released.

A two-vehicle accident Monday morning in Friendsville sent one woman to Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Shelly R. Lloyd, 33, Friendsville, was injured when her vehicle was struck by a 1988 Astro van operated by 18-year-old Steven L. Coddington, also of Friendsville. State police said Coddington was traveling west on Maple Street, at the intersection with Third Street, and failed to stop at a stop sign, causing his vehicle to travel into the path of Lloyd's vehicle.

Coddington was reportedly uninjured in the 8:06 a.m. accident. His passenger, Sarah J. Coddington, 16, also escaped injuries, as did Lloyd's passenger, 14-year-old Bobby R. Lloyd II.

Northern Garrett Rescue Squad transported the injured to the hospital.

A Salisbury, Pa., man was treated and released at Cumberland Memorial Hospital following a single-vehicle accident last Thursday afternoon on the I-68 ramp to Rt. 219, near Chestnut Ridge Road.

State police said 70-year-old William E. Gnagey was injured when the 1994 Buick Roadmaster he was a passenger in traveled off the road and struck a light pole. The vehicle's operator, Darlene E. Gnagey, 70, also of Salisbury, reportedly fell asleep at the wheel, causing the vehicle to miss a curve in the road, strike a culvert, and then the light pole.

Mrs. Gnagey was apparently uninjured in the 4:32 p.m. mishap.

IN THE BEGINNING

Sir Isaac Newton had a replica of our solar system made in miniature. In the center was the sun with its retinue of planets revolving around it. A scientist entered Newton's study one day, and exclaimed, "My! What an exquisite thing this is! Who made it?"

"Nobody!" replied Newton to the questioner who was an unbeliever.

"You must think I am a fool. Of course somebody made it, and he is a genius."

Laying his books aside, Newton arose and laid a hand on his friend's shoulder and said: "This thing is a puny imitation of a much grander system whose laws you and I know, and I am not able to convince you that this mere toy is without a designer and maker; yet you profess to believe that the great original from which the design is taken has come into being without either designer or maker. Now tell me, by what sort of reasoning do you reach such incongruous conclusions?"

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him; and without Him was not anything made that was made. John 1:1-3

For the invisible things of Him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even His eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse. Romans 1:20

Nutrition In Workplace Is Seminar Topic

A program titled Nutrition: Making a Difference in The Worksite was recently offered locally through the distance learning lab at Garrett Community College.

The Garrett County Health Department organized the event for representatives of area workplaces through the Public Health Television Network and in collaboration with the National Association of County and City Health Organizations (NACCHO) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

"A key concept discussed in the tele-conference is the importance environmental changes in the worksite can play," explained Ann Sherrard, site facilitator for the health department. "Decisions about snack and beverage machines, exercise breaks, or cafeteria food choices can have a real long-term impact on employee health. This conference gave participants an opportunity to think about the possibilities at their own workplace."

The "Elberon" Home To Be Part Of Tour

THE ELBERON

The Elberon, a Mountain Lake Park Chautauqua home, is scheduled to be part of this year's Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross Home for the Holidays house tours. The tours of several local homes will be held on Dec. 1 and 2 with the proceeds benefitting the local organization.

William H. Sheets in 1895 paid the Mountain Lake Park Association $1,000 for four town lots located on the corner of F and Oak streets. He built a three-story wood-frame house and lived there until 1920. The house was named The Elberon during the Chautauqua era, which spanned the end of the 1800's and into the 1900's.

Emma and Annie Hammil, who were boarding house proprietors during the summer months, bought the home in 1920. Miss Emma was also the principal of the Mountain Lake Park Grammar School.

The house was purchased in 1944 by John and Minnie Evans, who lived there for nearly 30 years. Tammy and Bill Ewing became the owners in 1976, purchasing the house from Tammy's grandmother. The Ewings have restored three floors of the home, maintaining its Victorian design.

The Elberon has six rooms on the first floor, four bedrooms and a bathroom on the second floor, and three rooms on the third floor. The Ewings reside there with their three sons, Christopher, Ryan, and Tyler. The boys are fifth generation Mountain Lake Park residents.

Tours will be held from 4 to 9 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 1, and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 2. Tickets are $5 each.

Rams' Season Ended By Indians

After dropping a regular season game to the Mount Savage Indians by a rather commanding 5-0 score less than two weeks ago, the Southern Rams went into Tuesday's Region 1A playoff game with the home-standing Indians as a definite underdog. However, Coach Tom Powers' squad surprised the Mount Savage team by dominating the first half of play, even though the Rams were unable to put any points on the board.

The Indians stepped it up in the second half and finally scored the first of their two goals with just over 11 minutes remaining in regulation time. They added an insurance goal about five minutes later to win the match, 2-0, and thus bring to an end the Rams' 1995 season.

The action took place in the Indians' half of the field almost the entire first half, as the Rams consistently beat the Indians to the ball and had numerous shots on goal, none of which quite found the mark, as Savage keeper Andy Brehm recorded his third straight shutout.

The Indians assumed the momentum midway through the second half and kept the Rams primarily in a defensive position in the end of the field that has no grass growing on it because it also serves as the infield for the Mount Savage baseball team. The Indians knew better than the Rams how the ball reacted on such a surface and finally took a 1-0 lead with just 11:06 left in the game, as Seth Bridges scored off a feed by Mike Brailer.

Brailer doubled the Indians' score about five minutes later off an assist by Bridges.

The Indians held a slight edge in total shots on goal and in corner kicks, although specific numbers were not received. Justin Helbig played well for the Rams in goal, while the defensive action on the field was led by Steve Pariseau, Matt Sincell, and Joel Getty.

The Rams also suffered a setback late in the first half when senior and team captain Kevin Andrews had to leave the game with a concussion and was unable to return in the second half.

The Rams concluded their third season under Coach Powers with a 3-9-1 record, while Mount Savage will go into the regional semifinals at Flintstone on Friday with an 8-5 mark.

Huskies Fall To Beall In Playoffs

While the Northern High varsity soccer team came close on several occasions this season to recording its first win in the past three seasons, the Huskies must wait another 10 months to resume that quest, as their 1995 season came to an end Tuesday evening at home with a 5-0 defeat by Beall in a regional 1A playoff match.

Marc Herron scored a pair of goals for the Mountaineers, while teammate Corey Walker finished with a goal and two assists, to lead Beall, currently rated number one in the area, to its ninth win in 13 matches and a spot in the West Region semifinals against defending region champion Williamsport later this week.

Chris Peterson put the first point on the board for Beall with a goal off an assist by Chris Young with 23:50 remaining in the first half.

Just over two minutes later, Young scored an unassisted goal, and Herron made it 3-0 at the 3:35 mark when he scored off a feed by Walker.

Walker upped the score to 4-0 with an unassisted goal at the 32:18 mark of the second half, and Herron wrapped up the scoring with his second goal of the night off another assist by Walker with 10:05 left.

The Mountaineers outshot the Huskies by a 38-19 margin, while Northern finished with a 5-4 edge in corner kicks. Matt Fritz was credited with 12 saves for Northern and teammate Matt Fletcher added six. Beall keeper Chris Malec stopped 15 shots on goal by the Huskies.

"Despite our record we have really been pleased with the level of our play this season," stated Tom Ables, Northern coach. "We are still a very young team, with mostly sophomores starting for us. So we'll have almost everyone back next year. Our time is coming."

Sustaining a leg injury in the contest and transported to the hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad was Beall's Larry Werner.

DNR Announces Wild Turkey Season Dates

This fall's wild turkey season will open on Saturday, Nov. 4, and close on Friday, Nov. 10.

"The fall turkey season is a popular hunting season for more than 9,000 turkey hunters," Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin said. "Last year's harvest was the second highest on record, and the outlook for this fall's harvest is as good or better than last year."

The harvest in 1994 was 559 turkeys, with Allegany County recording the highest harvest. Hunters are reminded that the fall turkey season is restricted to the part of Maryland west of Interstate 81 in Washington County.

Good mast crops throughout most of Western Maryland mean that wild turkeys will be scattered throughout the area, and will not be concentrating on limited food sources, Griffin said.

Broad surveys found that turkey production was similar to that in 1994, and that there are plenty of birds available to hunters.

Some of the more popular areas to hunt fall turkeys are Savage River State Forest in Garrett County, Green Ridge State Forest and Dans Mountain Wildlife Management Area (WMA) in Allegany County, and the Indian Springs WMA in Washington County.

Hunters are reminded to follow common hunting safety practices when pursuing turkeys:

Positively identify the target before shooting and insist on a good shot;

Respect other people's property and acquire written permission before hunting;

Obey all wildlife laws and report any violations; and

Avoid knowingly interfering with another hunter and respect the right of others to lawfully share the out-of-doors.

DNR Wildlife Division's wild turkey management programs are entirely funded by licenses purchases by hunters, Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration funds derived from taxes on hunting equipment, and private support. The contributions of the Maryland Chapters of the National Wild Turkey Federation have also played an important role in restoring this bird to its historic range in Maryland, Griffin said.

Newcomb Paces Rams Past Pocahontas County, 28-12

Admittedly it was not among the more exciting games of the season, but the Southern High Rams did what they needed to do to defeat visiting Pocahontas County last Friday night, 28-12, putting them back on the winning track after their first season loss the previous week to Fort Hill.

The victory not only upped the Rams' record to 7-1, but also kept them in a strong position to challenge this Friday for the Region 1A title when they face the Beall Mountaineers, also 7-1, in Frostburg.

Aaron Newcomb had an excellent offensive game for the Rams, as he recorded 189 yards of rushing on 20 carries and scored a pair of touchdowns. Howard Crosco gained an additional 74 yards on 14 carries, as Southern finished with a total of 339 yards on the ground.

The Rams took an early 6-0 lead after jumping on a Pocahontas fumble on the first offensive series of the game. Ram quarterback Andy Woods scored on a 25-yard run to cap a five-play drive. The run for the two-point conversion was no good.

Southern doubled its total later in the same quarter when Newcomb capped an 11-play drive with a one-yard touchdown carry. Woods' pass for the conversion was too high for tight end Dave Stephens.

A 29-yard touchdown run by Newcomb in the second quarter, followed by a successful conversion run by Crosco, gave the Rams a 20-0 advantage.

The Rams were in position to score again just before halftime, but Woods was blind-sided by a Pocahontas defender just as he was releasing the ball on a pass play. The aerial was picked off by Jimmy Holbert, who raced 75 yards untouched to score the visitors' first touchdown. The kick for the extra point was no good and the Rams led 20-6 at halftime.

P--Jason Hicks 20 run (run failed)

The third quarter was all defense. It was early in the fourth quarter that Crosco scored on a 20-yard run and Woods ran for the extra two points to conclude the Rams' scoring.

A 99-yard drive by Pocahontas against mostly Southern reserves followed and was capped with a 20-yard touchdown run by Jason Hicks. The run for the conversion was stopped short.

Hicks finished with 64 yards on 19 carries to lead Pocahontas (4-5), while Holbert recorded 53 yards on 11 attempts.

Spearheading Southern's defensive effort were Seth Tressler and Danny Compitello, who recorded eight and seven tackles, respectively.

Coach Tom Woods of Southern believed his team played somewhat flatly against the West Virginia team, primarily because the game was sandwiched between last week's emotion-filled contest with Fort Hill and this week's big game with Beall.

"It's a little hard to avoid some kind of letdown under the circumstances," Woods said, "but Pocahontas also has some very talented players, and some big, strong kids.

"For the most part we were really pleased with our play on both sides of the ball," he said. "We gained a lot of yards rushing and we threw the ball fairly well. The fact that it was another wet night again made things a little difficult."

Woods noted that he was pleased that everyone on his team got the opportunity to play during the fourth quarter.

The Rams will face another tough challenge this week when they travel to Frostburg to meet Beall, a team for which a victory means exactly the same opportunities for the Mountaineers: a huge step toward a regional championship and a number two seeding in the playoffs.

Much like Fort Hill, the Mountaineers are a senior-dominated team with many starters from last year's undefeated regular season squad back. They return seven offensive and seven defensive starters and, of all 22 starters, 18 are seniors. They are three-time defending regional champions.

"We are awfully impressed with Beall's offense," Woods said. "It's the only team in the area using the wish-bone this year, so it makes us nervous that it is the first time our defense has seen it.

"They also hide the ball well and run an unusually high number of plays; about 22 running plays and 15 passing plays," he said, "so you have to be ready defensively for just about everything."

That offense is led by senior quarterback Ryan Patterson (5-10, 175) and three outstanding backs in senior halfback Mike Yates (5-10, 185), senior halfback Tony Leasure (6-0, 175), and junior fullback Jeff Holsinger (5-11, 185).

"Patterson is an outstanding runner and probably the best faking quarterback in the area," Woods said. "Their three other backs are all good, strong runners, all of whom started last year."

Anchoring the offensive line of the Mountaineers are senior center Kevin Crowe (5-9, 210) and senior tackle Ben Harman (5-11, 230). The seventh returning starter from last year's team is senior tight end Will Aylor (5-11, 160).

"They like to run a lot of off-tackle power plays," Woods said, "and they run the option well. They really rely on your defensive mistakes, so your defense has to play very disciplined, assignment football."

The Mountaineers' 5-2 defense is led by Yates and sophomore Shawn Opel (5-7, 140) at linebacker spots, Leasure and Patterson in the secondary, and senior defensive end John Shaw (5-11, 140).

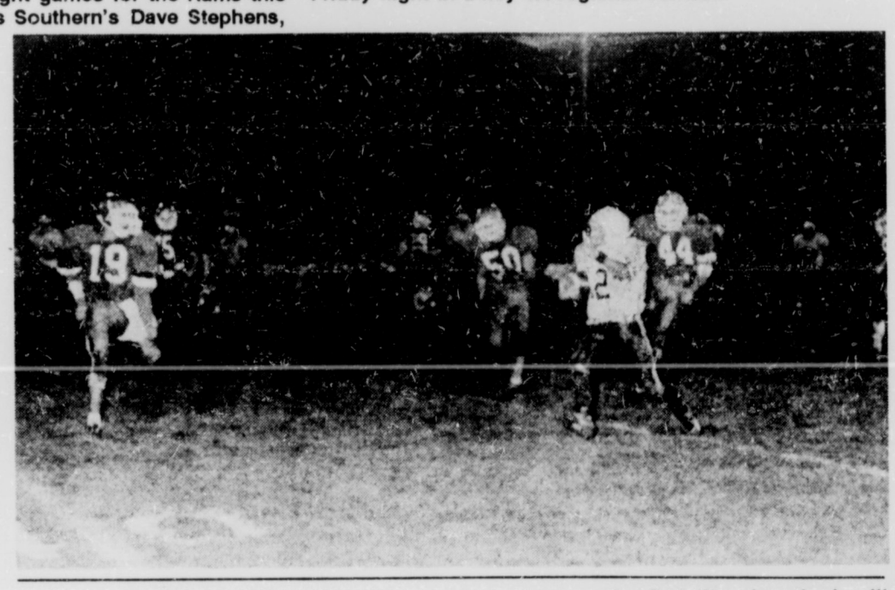
"They are a 'read and react' defense, much like us," Woods said, adding that he thought the team that plays the best defense will win this game.

Roy DeVore, coach of the Mountaineers, is a former member of the Southern coaching staff. "Roy knows a lot about our program," Woods said, "but of course we also know a lot about Roy's abilities."

Woods said that his team is "almost 100%" in terms of the health of the players, with the only exception being Seth Tressler who is still nursing an aggravating groin injury.

"It should be an outstanding, exciting game," Woods said, adding that he hoped a lot of Southern fans would make the trip to Frostburg and be there for the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

HAVING AN OUTSTANDING NIGHT for the Southern High Rams last Friday night until he had to leave the game with a mild concussion was #29 Aaron Newcomb, who rushed for 189 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Rams to a 28-12 victory over visiting Pocahontas County. It was the seventh win in eight games for the Rams this season. Also in the photo is Southern's Dave Stephens, #42. Leading the Pocahontas ground game was Jason Hicks, picking up good yardage in the photo below, as Ram defenders Andy Woods (#19), Shawn Strawser (#50), and Danny Compitello (#44) get ready to stop his progress. The Rams will meet Beall, another 7-1 team, this Friday night in a key 1A regional contest.



Ram Jayvees Top Northern

The junior varsity football team of Southern High School trailed cross-county rival Northern by a point at halftime last Thursday evening at the Cove, 13-12, but came back in the second half to dominate the Huskies and coast to a 34-13 victory.

Leading a 391-yard offensive effort was Tommy Gank, who rushed for 150 yards and a touchdown on 33 carries, while Brad Zimmerman gained another 84 yards and scored two touchdowns, plus a two-point conversion. Quarterback Chad Warnick rushed for a touchdown and passed for another, as he finished with 75 yards of passing for the evening.

Brad Hoover put the Huskies on the board first with a six-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. Jed Wilhelm's successful point-after kick gave Northern a 7-0 lead.

The Rams cut the margin to 7-6 when Zimmerman scored on a 23-yard run, also in the first period, but the two-point conversion attempt failed.

The Rams took their first lead in the game when Warnick scored on a 14-yard run in the second quarter. The conversion attempt failed, and the Rams led 12-7.

A one-yard touchdown run by Scott Sisler late in the second quarter, set up by a 40-yard pass to the one-yard line, gave the Huskies their 13-12 halftime lead.

The second half was all Southern's, as the Rams scored 16 points in the third period on a 40-yard touchdown pass from Warnick to John Harris, a 35-yard scoring run by Zimmerman, and successful two-point conversion runs by Gank and Zimmerman.

Gank tacked on an insurance touchdown in the fourth quarter on a two-yard run.

Defensively, Warnick had two interceptions for the Rams, while Josh Helbig was a leading tackler. Jimmy Green and Wilhelm led the Huskies with 13 tackles each.

Heslop, Defense Lead Huskies To Second Straight Victory

Another outstanding defensive performance, coupled with an excellent offensive effort by running back Brian Heslop, were the highlights of a 30-0 shutout of Victor Cullen Academy by the Northern Huskies last Friday evening at the Cove.

It was the second win in a row for Coach Tom Vent's squad and the second week in a row that his defensive unit has not allowed any points. Petersburg scored two points the previous week, but not with the Northern defensive unit on the field.

Heslop led Northern to 295 yards of total offense as he recorded 179 yards on 22 carries and scored three of the Huskies' four touchdowns on the evening. He also ran for two conversions, kicked one, and hauled in a pass for another.

N--Zach Leverenz 17 run (Heslop kick)

In similar fashion to the previous week against Petersburg, the Huskies wasted no time taking control of the game, as they scored 15 points in the first quarter. The first touchdown came on a 15-yard run by Heslop, after which he ran for the extra two points.

The next score was also Heslop's, this time on a 25-yard run, and he kicked the extra point.

Northern made it 22-0 in the second quarter when Zach Leverenz carried the ball 17 yards for a touchdown and Heslop again booted the extra point.

There were no points scored in the third period, but Heslop added an insurance touchdown for the Huskies in the fourth stanza, this time on a five-yard run. He concluded the night's scoring by completing the pass for the conversion from Tim Sines.

Spearheading the Northern defensive effort, which limited the Colts to just 89 yards of total offense, were Brandon Baumgardner, Tim Tusing, and Chad Montgomery. The Huskies also picked off two Victor Cullen aerials.

The score could have been further slanted in Northern's direction, but the Huskies turned the ball over four times via fumbles. Coach Vent also elected to play everyone on his team throughout much of the second half.

"We're really playing much better," said a pleased Coach Vent. "We're a lot more focused and starting to play with consistency. As a team, Victor Cullen has some problems, but they have some very fine athletes. We really controlled the game from the beginning, and it was great to have the opportunity to play all of our kids."

As a reward for his team's efforts, and because of the fact that the Huskies don't play again until Saturday, Vent and his staff elected to give the team a day off from practice on Monday.

"That seemed to be a good decision," Vent said. "Our kids really needed a rest, and they came back Tuesday with a lot of enthusiasm."

The Huskies will meet a tougher opponent this week when they travel to Bishop Walsh in Cumberland for a Saturday afternoon clash. The Spartans' record is not impressive (2-7), but they play one of the more difficult schedules in the area, and Vent knows that his team will have to play well to win the game.

"Bishop Walsh, frankly, has no respect for us," Vent said, "and that's because we have never beaten them. We tied them once, but we have never been able to beat them. So I think they always consider us a win when they look at their schedule."

Among the Spartans who most impress Vent on the Spartans' wing-T offense are junior fullback Justin DuVall (6-0, 186), senior halfback Greg Ruppenkamp (5-9, 159), and senior quarterback Danny Harper (6-1, 171).

Bishop Walsh's 6-2 defense is led by senior linebackers Joe Caporale (6-1, 180) and Todd Logan (6-2, 175).

"They are not a large team in terms of numbers, but they have a great group of seniors," Vent said, "and they are big up front."

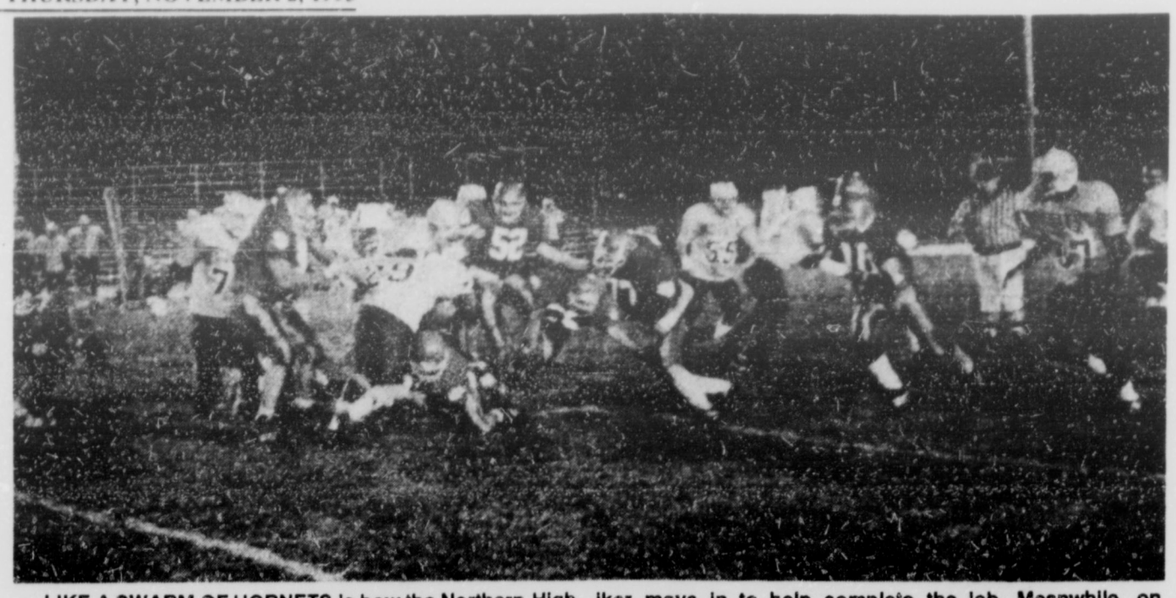
Vent said that he and his staff plan nothing out of the ordinary for the Spartans. "We're not going to change much," he said. "We've been making some adjustments and moving some people around lately, and it's really helped us. We are finally starting to get some leadership.

"We're going to treat the Bishop Walsh game as our playoff game," he said. "We have great aspirations for a .500 season, which would be a great accomplishment after finishing the first half of the season with a 1-4 record."

Vent says his team is in good health following the Victor Cullen game, with the exception of senior Todd Smith, who is still nursing a neck injury.

The Huskies will conclude their season at home next Friday night against Hancock.

Read. Then Recycle.



LIKE A SWARM OF HORNETS is how the Northern High School defensive unit has played the past two Friday nights in leading the team to two straight wins, the latest being a 30-0 victory over the Victor Cullen Academy Colts last Friday. Above, a Colt running back is hit both high and low, while Northern's #52 Doug Sines and #77 Jesse Denniker move in to help complete the job. Meanwhile, on offense, senior running back Brian Heslop, pictured below, weaved his way through the Colt defense for 179 yards of rushing and three touchdowns. The Huskies will play at Bishop Walsh this Saturday.

PRAYER OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never Known to Fail)
Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh star of the sea, help me and show me here you are my mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God. Queen of Heaven and Earth, I Humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3 times). Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days and then you must publish it and it will be granted to you. Grateful Thanks.

Heidi Frazee Ranks Among Top Skiers In State

Friendsville resident Heidi Frazee raced in the Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR (NAtional STAndard Race) during the 1994-95 season and placed fourth among all of Maryland's 10-12 year-old girls, making her one of the top ski racers in the state. Frazee was ranked against U.S. Ski Team member and 1994 Olympic gold medalist, Tommy Moe, along with approximately 110,000 other recreational ski racers participating in the 1994-95 Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR program.

NASTAR, a SKI Magazine program, is offered at 180 ski areas in 30 states and is open to recreational ski racers of every age and ability level. Racers are timed on a modified slalom course and given a score or "handicap." The handicap system allows racers to compare themselves to other NASTAR racers across the U.S. and to earn bronze, silver, or gold medals every day they race.

Frazee earned a season best handicap of 27 while skiing at Wisp Ski Area in McHenry. That score means she was just 27 percent behind NASTAR National Pacesetter, Tommy Moe, who held NASTAR's best handicap, a zero, during the 1994-95 ski season.

Heidi is the daughter of Brenda Frazee.

At the end of each season, Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR ranks the top recreational racers nationally and in all 50 states. Winners are listed on special rankings posters distributed nationwide. Bula Headwear, Dachstein, Kneissl, Revo, and Sport Obermeyer are sponsors of the NASTAR program.

Tennis Councils To Be Formed Throughout State

In an effort to expand its tennis programs throughout the State, the Maryland District of the United States Tennis Association is embarking on an ambitious program to create community advisory tennis councils in each of the 23 counties and the City of Baltimore. The councils, varying in size depending on the population, will consist of community representatives from various areas of each jurisdiction. The county delegate will act as chairman of the Community Advisory Tennis Council.

"It's the only way to develop tennis programs into each neighborhood," said Sal De Leva, president of the USTA/Maryland District, who envisions 150 to 200 communities to be part of this network.

Anyone interested in being considered for the community representative position in his/her area, is asked to contact the USTA-/Maryland District at 1 (800) MDT-USTA.

The USTA/Maryland District, with a membership of 7,500 individuals and over 100 organizations, is the sanctioning body of tennis tournaments in the state.

Ram Netters Drop 3-1 Match To Allegany

The Southern High varsity girls' volleyball team dropped a 3-1 match to Allegany Monday evening in Cumberland before falling to the Northern Huskies last night at the Cove (see separate story).

The Rams crushed the Campers in the first game, 15-0, but then dropped the next three games, 15-6, 15-11, and 15-12.

Michelle Prohonic led the Rams with 14 service points, while Sindy Niner finished with nine. Larisa Yelovich and Tiffany Adkins paced Alco with 13 and 11 points, respectively, Laura Helmstetter had six kills, and Sunhe Price and Beth Witt each had five kills.

It was the sixth win in 14 matches for Allegany, while the Rams dropped to 2-11.

Southern easily won the junior varsity contest, 15-3 and 15-3, with Alisha Dixon recording eight points for the Rams and Elizabeth Paesani scoring six.

The Rams will play at home Friday against Flintstone in a West Region 1A playoff match.

"WE ARE THE CHAMPIONS!" was shouted Sunday afternoon by this jubilant group of Under 12 division Mountaintop Youth Soccer League players sponsored by A&A Realty after edging the V&S Variety Cosmos on overtime penalty kicks in the championship game. The score was tied at 3-3 following regulation time and two overtime periods. The Cobras then connected on four of five penalty shots, while the Cosmos scored on three of five free shots. Pictured from left, kneeling, are: A.J. Bender, Jordan Swerbinsky, Brittany Naylor, Andrew Hill, Christopher Miller, and Christopher Lantz. In the second row are: Chris Remley, Laura Hollingsworth, Audry Shipe, Brian Fike, Jocelyn Wotring, Robert Burton, and Cody Lucas. In the back are head coach Dr. Dan Miller and assistant Paul Naylor. The Bausch & Lomb Blast, who will be pictured next week, won the Under 15 title on Tuesday by defeating Englander's Blazers in the title game, 6-0.

Oakland Jets Edge Steelers To Win Title

The Oakland Jets capped a perfect season Monday evening by defeating the Northern Steelers, 13-6, in the 1995 championship game of the Mountaintop Youth Football League. The contest, which was moved to Monday from Sunday because of muddy field conditions, was a typical Jet/Steeler match-up that wasn't decided until the last 30 seconds of the game.

The Steelers opened the game with a 65-yard, 10-play drive for a touchdown, with T.J. Snelling gaining all of the yards but one and scoring on a 12-yard scamper. The conversion attempt failed.

An interception of a Brant Green pass by Justin Liller set up the Jets' first scoring drive, which began at the Jet 15 after a penalty call. The drive was seemingly halted at the Jet 42, but a fake punt by Jordan Uphold yielded an 18-yard gain and a first down. The Jets scored on the 15th play of the drive on a five-yard run by Uphold. The conversion attempt failed and the score was tied 6-6 at halftime.

Most of the second half was a defensive struggle. A key play that set up the Jets' winning drive was an interception by Jet linebacker Jeremy Hayhurst that gave possession to the Jets on the Steeler 38.

A 10-yard pass from Liller to Josh Bosley put the ball on the Steeler five-yard line. After a penalty pushed the Jets back to the 10, and with just 30 seconds left in the game, Liller found Jason Rohrbaugh open in the Steeler secondary and connected with him for the go-ahead touchdown. Bosley then hauled in another Liller aerial for the conversion point.

Uphold sealed the Steelers' fate when he picked off a Green pass on the third play of the ensuing drive.

The Jet coaching staff praised the entire defensive unit for its play in the second half. "Our defense did a great job on Snelling in the second half," stated Jet coach, Vic Compitello. "After gaining 92 yards in the first half, he got only 16 more in the second half. Anytime you can shut down a back as talented as T.J., your defense has done a great job."

Uphold led the Jets in rushing with 109 yards on 23 carries, while Bosley finished with 53 yards on 14 attempts. Liller went three-for-six in passing for 29 yards.

"We thought the Steeler coaching staff put together a great game plan for their defense," stated Kevin Liller, Jet offensive coordinator. "We happened to get the key interception and our offense was able to capitalize on that mistake."

Defensive standouts for the Steelers were Snelling, Keith Artice, Nathan Resh, P.J. Workman, Taylor Glotfelty, Josh Resh, and Ryan Savage.

Steeler coach Ben Sisler noted his appreciation to the parents, cheerleaders, and players for "a total team effort throughout the season." He also thanked Northern High coach Tom Vent and his staff "for all the help they have given us."

The Steelers ended their season with a 5-3 record, with all three of their losses coming to the Jets. The Jets finished with a perfect 8-0 mark.

After dropping the first game in a best-of-three championship series to 135 Amoco, LAOC rallied to win the next two games and successfully defend its Mt. Top Softball League title.

The opening game was won by 135 Amoco by a 12-11 score, as Barry Brant rapped the game-winning hit with two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning. B.J. Shaffer, Jeff Meyers, and Bobby Horner each recorded three hits for 135, while Terry and Keith Chapman and Danny Bosley each had three for LAOC.

LAOC won the second game, 18-15, as Oren Yoder finished with four hits to lead the winners. Bill Roszell and the Chapman brothers each had three hits for LAOC, while Dave Terrant, Steve Rodeheaver, and Bill Ashby paced 135 Amoco's hitting.

LAOC used an eight-run second inning to take control of the third and deciding game, and held on to win, 17-13. Brett Rice, Yoder, and Keith Chapman each had four hits for LAOC, while Norm Minnink recorded three and James Bateman, Terrant, Meyers, and Shaffer each smacked three for 135.

A 10-9 win over Winters Homes put 135 Amoco into the finals, while LAOC topped Mt. Top Glass, 18-10, in the other semi-final.

LAOC finished the season with an overall record of 44-4 and has won the league title in three of the past four years.

Northern Netters Whip Rams In Finale; Jayvees Unbeaten

The girls' varsity volleyball team of Northern High School concluded its regular season last night with a 3-0 win over cross-county rival Southern. The Huskies dominated each game, winning by scores of 15-3, 15-5, and 15-3.

Lea Stanton had six straight service points in the first game and Chelsea Frickey had four, including two aces and the game point.

In the second game, Leslie Buckel opened with six straight points for the Huskies, followed by three by Nikki Elliott. Southern's Abby Hershman and Allison White combined for five points to narrow the Huskies' lead to 9-5, but the rest of the game was all Northern's, with Mindy McCarty serving the final three points for the win.

After the Rams held a brief 1-0 lead in the third game, Buckel responded with four points and, on her next serving opportunity, recorded seven more.

Buckel finished with 17 points, including five aces, to lead the Huskies' scoring. Stanton added eight points, seven spikes, and four kills. Buckel also had six spikes and two kills.

Michelle Prohonic and Hershman each scored three points for the Rams.

The Huskies concluded their regular season with a 10-4 record and will play at Mt. Savage on Monday at 7 p.m. in the second round of the West 1A regional playoffs. The Rams, who finished with a 2-12 mark, will host Flintstone Friday in an opening-round playoff game.

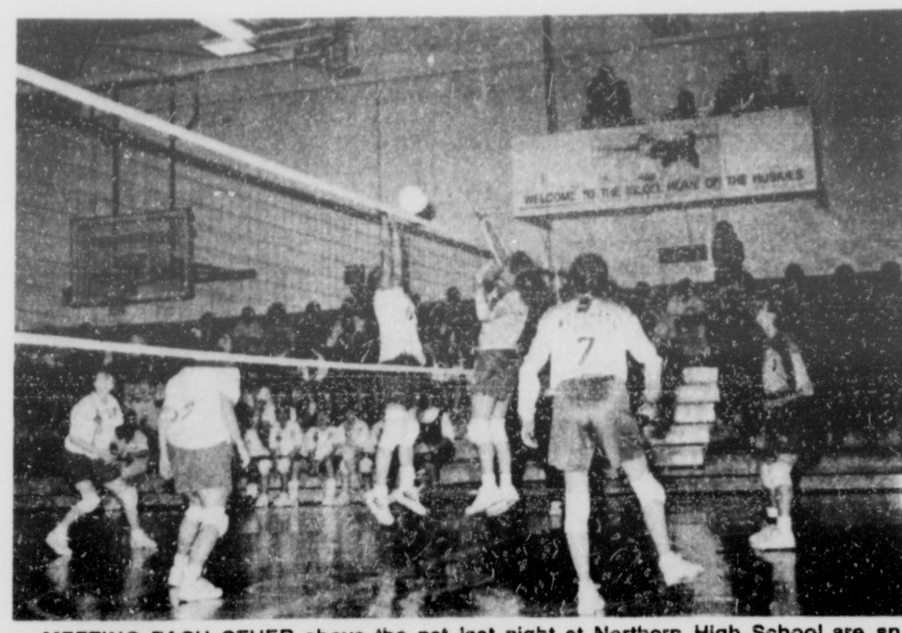
The Northern junior varsity concluded its season with a perfect 14-0 record by downing the Southern jayvees, 15-13 and 15-4.

The Rams jumped out to a 7-2 lead in the first game behind the serving of Alisha Dixon. Kristin Heslop and Tara Daniels put the Huskies on top, 9-8, before the Rams rallied to take a 10-9 lead on two service points by Meredith Martin. After a tie and another one-point Southern lead, Brooke Brenneman ran off four straight service points to give the Huskies a 14-13 edge. Amy Hinebaugh sealed the win with her game-point serve.

After a 4-1 lead by the Rams in the second game, the Huskies dominated the rest of the contest.

Heslop led the Huskies with 11 points, including seven aces, as Northern was perfect from the serving line in 42 attempts. Hinebaugh and Heslop each had two kills, while Kerri Sines recorded two spikes for the Huskies. Dixon led the Rams' scoring with eigh points.

This is the third time i four years that a Northern volleyball team has gone undefeated.



MEETING EACH OTHER above the net last night at Northern High School are an unidentified Husky and Ram during a match that was easily won by the Huskies. The match was the final regular-season contest for both teams, which will begin playoff competition this weekend. Identifiable in the photo for the Huskies are #7 Mindy McCarty and #4 Nikki Elliott. The Northern junior varsity was also victorious and concluded its season with a perfect 14-0 record. A photo of that team, plus the senior members of the Northern varsity, will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Lakers Finish Regular Slate With A Victory

The women's volleyball team of Garrett Community College wrapped up its regular season of competition with a 3-1 victory over visiting Catonsville CC on Sunday, and will take a 21-8 record into the Region XX Tournament, an event that will get underway this Friday at Hagerstown Junior College.

Nikki Meyers led Garrett with seven aces and 20 kills, as the Lakers won the first two games over Catonsville, 15-1 and 17-15, dropped the third game, 15-7, and won the fourth game, 15-13. Amanda Tikey finished with 20 service points, including four aces, and 15 kills for the Lakers, while Lynn Wiles recorded 11 points on 11 serves. Meyers' seven aces were registered in her 26-for-27 serving effort and her 20 kills came on a 28-for-31 performance in attacks.

Marlena Whitacre added 12 service points to the Lakers' total and Becky DeWitt was perfect in 11 serves.

The Lakers, who finished 9-2 in Region XX competition, are seeded third going into this weekend's Region XX Tournament at Hagerstown. They will play Catonsville at 10 a.m. on Saturday, meet Charles CC at 11 a.m., and Anne Arundel CC at 2 p.m.

With eight teams participating in the tournament, the format will be pool play. Seeding is based on each team's regular season record against the other teams in the tourney. Pool A consists of Hagerstown, seeded number one, number four seed Potomac State, number five seed Frederick, and number eight seed Essex. Garrett is in Pool B along with second seeded Anne Arundel, sixth seeded Catonsville, and seventh seeded Charles.

Two 15-point games are played against each team in the pool. The top two teams from each pool, based on the number of games won, will advance to the semi-finals, set for Sunday at noon. The championship match will be played at 2 p.m.

Garrett CC, with a full-time enrollment of 410, is the smallest school in the tournament and will be competing against schools with overall enrollments ranging from 1,200 to 10,500.

"Our squad has the potential to perform well in the Region XX Tournament," stated Laker coach Margaret Quinn. "Our student athletes have developed a cohesive team with the ability to perform competitively against much larger programs."

To the Editor:

The 1992 amendment to the federal law governing cable television, sponsored by Senator Jesse Helms provided that: (1) cable television operators are allowed to voluntarily ban indecent programs on leased channels; and (2) if they choose not to ban the programming, they must scramble them according to Federal Communication Commission regulations. The American Civil Liberties Union challenged the amendment in federal court in Washington alleging that the law was an attempt by the congress to block a particular kind of expression. In early 1993 a three judge panel in Washington agreed, striking down the law. In July the entire Court of Appeals re-heard the case and on a 7-4 vote reversed. The court said the government was not censoring programs, but merely allowing the cable operator to do so, and that the law did not violate the First Amendment of the Constitution's guarantee of free speech.

On September 20, Federal Judge Leonard B. Sand in Manhattan issued an order blocking Time Warner Inc. from scrambling sexually explicit programs on a local cable channel on the grounds that the plan was likely to be held unconstitutional. This marked a temporary victory for producers of the programs on the cable channel. For more than a decade the producers have put on shows featuring strippers and excerpts of pornographic movies late at night and are advertisements for phone sex and escort services.

The Supreme Court has yet to review the earlier decision. If the Manhattan Appeals Court upholds Judge Sand's ruling, the Supreme Court would in all likelihood accept the two cases to resolve the differences.

To the Editor:

It's fun to give candy to the kids for Halloween; but, couldn't trick or treat be scheduled for early afternoon? It would be warmer and daylight. It was a very cold night for the kids to be out. How about an earlier time for next year?

To the Editor:

In December of 1974, the U.S. Commissioners of Education Terrell H. Bell said that "Parents have the right to expect the school and their teaching approaches and selection of instructional material to support the values and standards children are taught at home. And if the school cannot support these values, they must at least avoid deliberate destruction of them." How things have changed that this should be a topic of such great debate in our county.

In part, this philosophy propelled a conservative pro-family majority to the school board last November. Recently, and unfortunately, there has been a systematic vilification of those same board members through the letters to the editor section of The Republican. It appears that many writers, unable to prevail in the arena of ideas, have resorted to a coordinated campaign of character assassination rather than a reasoned debate on the issues that they disagree with.

Many are now resorting to the irresponsible assignment of imaginary intentions and agendas to our board members. Fortunately, this only results in reducing the credibility of the accuser rather than the accused. Demagogues and those who accuse our school board of preposterous conduct may in fact be threatened by information which may expose their own weaknesses, or that of their agenda.

We live in a democratic form of representative government. We need an elected school board who will ask questions and carefully deliberate on issues, who will involve parents, and seek community input. There can really be no freedom if our elected officials cannot ask questions and have choices. This is an inherent part of American government.

The free flow of information is also an inherent part of good education, however, ironically, there are many who object to it flowing to our elected officials or to the citizenry. School systems are no more exempt from public scrutiny than are any other governmental function. It is the reluctance to respond to inquiry, and not the inquiry itself, that creates true suspicion.

The real issue is power and who will wield it. Will it continue to rest with the people through an elected citizen school board? Those who lost power and influence in the 1994 elections want it back. I predict that Garrett County will witness the following political strategy between now and the next election:

1. A liberal political coalition will surface that will attempt to alter public opinion of the Board by focusing on personalities rather than issues. As the dominant local media this campaign will be played out in our newspapers.

2. There will be a coordinated campaign to label conservative pro-family board members as religious radicals who are attempting to impose their religious ideas on the rest of us.

3. Board members will be accused of having an imaginary "stealth" agenda.

4. The Board's constituency will be portrayed as poor and uneducated, as uninformed, and unknowledgable about educational issues, and then guilt by association will be developed as a theme.

5. Question and inquiry will be portrayed as fomenting an atmosphere of mistrust.

6. Rumors will be "leaded" of impending impeachment or recall proceedings.

7. The back-to-basics philosophy will be attacked as being old fashioned and not reflective of modern educational philosophy. The Board's policies will be attacked as being too wordy, too expensive, and too time consuming. Candidates with "expertise" will be called for.

8. Finally, the coalition will begin to focus on the "strife" in the community and develop a slate of "messiah" candidates. In their campaigns the focus will be redirected away from pro-family or other issues that propelled the current board to victory.

Thank you,
Paul Durham

To the Editor:

If I may interject a few of my thoughts into the raging "wellness debate," I would appreciate it.

To start, let's stop the slander, the name calling, the politics, and the power plays! There is plenty of time for everybody, who wants to, to get on the ballot for Board of Ed.

I personally feel we must, as adults and parents, totally examine and evaluate all non-academic subjects to be introduced in our public schools.

I must ask, are we prepared to validate a student's negative astrological forecast or advisement as an excused absence from school or classes? By introducing astrological forecasting to the student in the school setting, we could be held by law to acknowledge and accept this student's excuse. (Ask an attorney.)

As far as massage goes, there is nothing wrong with the coach teaching the kids how to best massage out a muscle cramp; that is his job. However, body massage can be extremely seductive as most of you parents can probably attest to. Do we really want to introduce and encourage this type of physical contact between our teens? Parents, think about it and be honest with yourselves! Dads, think back to your teens! Please!

As for my feelings on the last subject of contention, herbs and acupuncture, I can almost guarantee that some students will try acupuncture on themselves, which seems pretty harmless, but, if an individual student attempts to self diagnose and treat themselves instead of securing sound medical advice and treatment from one of the fine doctors in this county, we have given a seriously detrimental misconception to one of our young and a disservice to our community as a whole.

To close, I must point out what I feel to be the most damaging effect from all of this. That is the disrespect for each other that we have placed on exhibition for our young people to witness! Many of you on both sides of this issue are dear friends to me and my family, and we thank God for all of you. Let's continue to share in dialogue our differences of opinions, but keep in mind, our opposition to each other is a small percentage compared to the great things we share in common. Thank you!

Respectfully to all,
Billy Hughes

Food For Thought

McCLIVE'S LAKEFRONT DINING

Easy flavor for salmon steaks: mayonnaise seasoned with ground cumin and oregano. Spread it on the fish before broiling--or enjoy it cold on plain cooked salmon.

The same plastic-bag technology that brought packaged salads to the produce section is now available for home use. Micro holes in sealable bags help keep vegetables fresh at home.

No-cook relish, great with grilled meat or chicken, starts with canned kidney or pinto beans (rinse and drain), thawed fresh corn and chopped tomatoes. A quarter-cup each chopped onion and basil add character, and garlicky vinaigrette holds it all together.

No cheesecloth on hand for draining plain yogurt? Line a colander or strainer with a basket-type paper coffee filter instead.

Nothing ordinary about ice cream topped with raspberries (fresh or frozen unsweetened) that have been simmered with a little sugar, Grand Marnier and brandy. Wow!

There's nothing ordinary about the food at McClive's. Just ask your friends why we're everyone's favorite restaurant.

For those who fought that we might be free...

It is hard to imagine what it would be like to live in a country without freedom...without the right to wave a flag...assemble peaceably or speak our minds. Thanks to our nation's veterans, our freedom has been protected, but not without a price.

When called to serve, they left home and family for remote and desolate places. They put their lives on the line to preserve our precious heritage and freedom, and the freedom of countless other nations.

American veterans are special.

On this Veterans Day, 1995, we join The American Legion in paying tribute to the men and women who have honored our nation with service, sacrifice, and allegiance.

...A Special Veterans Day Salute.

these projects is slated for this spring.

With the recent installation of the old Bausch & Lomb sewage treatment plant in Kitzmiller, the sewer system in that community is essentially complete, Beitzel added.

He also remarked that his agency may move to extend the Gorman water system up Backbone Mtn. and locate an in-state water source for that system. Currently, water for Gorman is purchased from West Virginia. Beitzel stated that a test well was recently drilled on Backbone Mtn. with excellent results.

PROMOTION COUNCIL

Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Deep Creek Lake/Garrett County Promotion Council, stated that Autumn Glory Festival events were well attended despite inclement weather.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage told the commissioners that work on the six-classroom addition at Northern High School is between 35 and 40 percent complete. He commented that work on the project is continuing and that the addition's roof will soon be installed so that work on the classrooms may continue thorough the winter months. The addition is slated for completion in March of 1996.

Ryscavage also reported that design work on the new southern area elementary school is nearing completion. The architect may present these plans at the November school board meeting, he added.

Ryscavage noted that representatives of the local school system recently met with state and city roads personnel to discuss winter transportation issues.

Parent-teacher conferences are slated for Nov. 6-10 in the county, and county schools will dismiss at noon on Wednesday, Nov. 22, for the Thanksgiving holiday. Classes will resume Wednesday, Nov. 29.

SHERIFF

Garrett County Sheriff Randy Sines reported to the commissioners that his office recorded 689 incident reports during the past month. A partial list of those incidents is as follows:

There were six reported incidents of child abuse, 10 reports of breaking and entering, 11 reports of assault and three reports of domestic assault, and two reports of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). Sheriff's deputies delivered 34 domestic violence protective orders and logged 13 reported disturbances, two reported incidents of driving while intoxicated (DWI), one reported hit-and-run, one reported fireworks violation, one reported case of forgery, and one reported incident of soliciting.

Deputies logged 29 traffic incidents, 27 motor vehicle accidents, 25 reported incidents of theft, and 73 other miscellaneous incidents. Deputies also served a total of 71 warrants and summons.

There are currently 47 prisoners lodged in the county jail.

On the subject of youth access to and use of tobacco, Sines commented that deputies have warned some local store owners that selling tobacco to minors is illegal. He added that his deputies have been advised to "take enforcement action" when youths are seen smoking.

EXTENSION OFFICE

Garrett County Extension Agent Alice Hevner commented that the Mountain Fresh Market, located in the town parking lot in Oakland, recently concluded its four-month operating season.

She also stated that 12 local farm families will soon participate in a computer course organized through the extension office.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

A representative of the Garrett County Health Department reported that department personnel administered 1,000 flu shots and 15 pneumococcal shots during recent clinics.

She noted that additional flu clinics will be held at the Oakland American Legion Hall on Nov. 3 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and at the Grantsville Health Center on Nov. 8 from 2 to 5 p.m.

GCC

President Steve Herman, Ph.D., of Garrett Community College (GCC) commented that the school logged a record enrollment of 730 students this year.

Commissioner Wayne Wilt then commented that all community colleges in Maryland except GCC have witnessed dwindling enrollment, and asked Herman to explain this phenomenon.

Herman replied that GCC offers computer applications courses while other schools offer only computer science, which is more abstract. He added that GCC's law enforcement and adventure sports majors are also draws.

Dr. Herman also remarked that the recent national forum on adventure sports attracted 163 participants from the U.S. and Canada. He added that advertisements for the college's adventure sports degree program have been circulated on the internet, and these ads have elicited 400 enquiries from the U.S. and abroad.

As of Sept. 1, the local version of the internet, the Garrett County Net, included 120 paid subscribers.

COUNTY ROADS

Director of the Garrett County Roads Department Robert Fousek informed the commissioners that his agency is concluding warm-weather construction projects and is making preparations for winter.

LIBRARY

Head Librarian Emily Ferren of the Ruth Enlow Library commented that the administrators of Maryland's public libraries recently gathered for a successful meeting in Garrett County. She thanked Commissioner Roger Glotfelty for attending the event.

Ferren also noted that her staff are continuing their education in library automation.

DONATION MADE - Ann Grant, treasurer of the Oakland Civic Club, is pictured presenting a donation to Dan Selb, executive director of the local Big Brothers/Big Sisters chapter. The Oakland Civic Club holds fund raising events and makes contributions to Garrett County charities each year.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters Make A Difference In Garrett County

by Rich Raesly

This past June, 10-year-old Vanessa became ill and was rushed to the hospital. Her big sister, Rosalee Finch, joined her in the emergency room. This might not seem unusual, except that Vanessa and Rosalee aren't related.

How is it possible that these sisters aren't related? In this case, they are both participating in a program called Big Brothers/Big Sisters. Rosalee is a volunteer who spends a few hours each month with Vanessa, who is living with her mother, Barbara, and her sister, Cassie, in Oakland. The time Vanessa and Rosalee share each month might include special outings - like going to the movies, but just as often, it may involve rather ordinary things like running errands together or taking a walk.

The main purpose of the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program is to provide our children with a mentor and role model - someone to talk to and someone with the time to listen. A big sister, like Rosalee, is not intended to act as a substitute for a parent.

The idea for Big Brothers/Big Sisters was conceived in 1904, when a clerk for the New York Children's Court asked for a volunteer from the courtroom to serve as a "big brother" to a boy that, if convicted, would have been sentenced to 18 months in a reformatory. A number of people present that day stepped forward, and a new program was born.

From this rather simple beginning, Big Brothers/Big Sisters has become a national organization with more than 500 local branches, including one in Garrett County which has been operating for five years. During that time, Rosalee and others like her have been "matched" with a little brother or little sister from our area. There are currently 15 successful matches in our county.

The match between Vanessa and Rosalee is just one success story. Since being matched sixteen months ago, they are closer than ever. But it hasn't always been easy. During the early stages of the match, Vanessa and her mother moved frequently, making it difficult for her and her big sister to keep in touch. However consistency in the match has enabled the match to grow.

The names and circumstances of the other matches in our area are different, but the results are nearly all the same - everyone wins!

But the number of children needing a big brother or a big sister, however, far exceeds the number of volunteers in the program. Although 15 matches represents an all-time-high for Garrett County, there are still a large number of children waiting for a big brother or big sister. In some cases, children have been waiting for more than three years.

Our community needs people to "give something back." One-on-one interaction with an adult has been shown to be extremely successful in helping kids during a difficult time in their lives. Study after study has shown that regular contact with a caring adult may benefit children in many ways, including better performance in school, higher self-esteem, and improved relationships with their friends. These are all important considerations in a county that has one of lowest high school completion rates in the state, and one of the highest percentages of children living in poverty.

For the most part, the children served by Big Brothers/Big Sisters are from lower-income, single-parent homes. In this regard, Garrett County isn't much different from the rest of the United States, where there are now about 15 million kids growing up in single-parent homes. Raising children is difficult enough under the best of circumstances, but time and other resources become limiting with only one parent balancing the demands of a job, taking care of the home, and spending time with their children. Big brothers and big sisters frequently provide valuable support for the parent as well as the child.

The requirements for becoming a big brother or a big sister are minimal: you have to be at least 18 years old, willing to spend at least three hours every other week with your "Little," and serve as a responsible role model as determined by agency screening. There are at least 13 children from your community who have been waiting for an adult to call.

Join Rosalee and your other neighbors that are Big Brothers and Big Sisters. Call BB/BS at 334-3591 for more information.

(Note: Rich Raesly, a Frostburg State University professor, serves on the board of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies and as a big brother.)

SISTERS IN SPIRIT - Rosalee Finch, right, is one of 15 adults serving in Garrett County as a part-time companion for a local youth through the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program. Finch and her little sister, Vanessa, left, spend a few hours of "quality time" together each month. See story.

RAFFLE WINNER - Barbara Couter, Cumberland, won a Wisp off-season ski pass in the recent Big Brothers/Big Sisters Autumn Glory raffle. Pictured, BB/BS representative Jack Fridinger presents Couter with her prize. Businesses assisting the Big Brothers/Big Sisters fund raising efforts during Autumn Glory season included Stewart Funeral Home, First United Bank and Trust, and Wisp resort.

CRIME SOLVERS

The theft of several all-terrain vehicles from Bill's Marine Service is the case of the week for the Garrett County Crime Solvers.

In the early morning hours of Oct. 3, unknown persons broke into the fenced storage lot at Bill's Marine Service, located on Rt. 219 at Deep Creek Lake. The thieves stole two new Polaris four-by-four ATV's. One is a 1995 Polaris model 400 Sportsman, olive green in color with a black seat. The second is a Polaris model 300, dark green with a tan seat.

Officials assume that the culprits would need a medium to heavy duty truck to remove the ATV's from the scene.

Thirteen days later, on Oct. 16, persons again broke into the business and took four more four-wheelers.

These are described as follows: a 1995 Polaris Magnum, a 1993 Polaris 350L two-by-four, a 1988 Polaris RES Trailboss 250, and a 1994 Polaris four-by-four 400 with plow harness and winch.

The loss in the case has been estimated at $14,700.

Persons who have information about these or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names, nor do they have to appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Former Resident Finds Success In Phone Business

Former Garrett County resident and 1965 Southern High School graduate Patricia (Croston) Rodeheaver, granddaughter of the late Wade and Ilene Bolyard, who lived in Oakland, was recently named "A Woman of Achievement" by U.S. Women magazine for her success as an entrepreneur.

Rodeheaver and her husband Huey formed Custom Designed Telephone Systems, Inc., in O'Fallon, Missouri, in 1982. Since then, the magazine reported, "Rodeheaver has built her business from two people to a 167 person, multi-million dollar, global company."

Pat Rodeheaver's business success as president of CDTS has also resulted in her being honored with the National Association of Women Business Owners Distinguished Woman Entrepreneur Award in 1993. Three years earlier she was named an Entrepreneur of the Year in the St. Louis Small Business Monthly.

According to U.S. Women, "Rodeheaver's company . . . designs, builds, and installs local and worldwide communications networks for voice and data. They serve small businesses, major corporations, and government agencies providing survey, engineering, design, and construction services; CAD systems for special applications; installation; database implementation testing; inspection; supervision; maintenance; material; and equipment aquisition for a worldwide market."

CDTS has been contracted to install an information network in the Missouri state capital, has worked on federal government projects, and has provided services for private companies. Rodeheaver's firm even helped to develop a phone system for the city of Lagos, Nigeria.

Mrs. Rodeheaver is the daughter of Doris J. Bowman and the sister of Judy Smith.

GCHD AmeriCorps Office Preparing For Second Year

Despite threats of federal budget cuts, a local offshoot of the AmeriCorps national service program is still active and making plans for the upcoming year.

Seven local AmeriCorps members, including two returnees from last year's program, are currently serving with the Garrett County Health Department. These members are part of the 29-member "A STAR! in Western Maryland" AmeriCorps division, based at Frostburg State University, which assigns AmeriCorps workers to serve Allegany and Garrett County agencies.

"There are over 20,000 members nationwide, working in service-related projects in the areas of public safety, human needs, the environment, and education," stated Natalie Messer, AmeriCorps program coordinator for the health department. "The local program is in the second of its third year, where team goals include encouraging responsibility, getting things done, strengthening communities, and expanding opportunities."

AmeriCorps member Rachael McMillican, who has worked in the past with Volunteer Maryland, Habitat for Humanity, and Head Start, commented, "I would like to know at the end of this commitment that I was able to help at least one individual."

Prior to moving to McHenry three years ago, AmeriCorps member Kerrie Kinnard was a volunteer firefighter in Virginia.

"I proved a lot to myself and to others in the community," stated Kinnard. "Now I'm going to continue working in the area of home safety through the AmeriCorps program."

Home safety, including radon and water testing, will also be the focus for returning member and Deer Park resident Lynda Weeks.

"We are currently calling on the communities to tell us what their needs are," explained Weeks, who added that she hopes to see AmeriCorps' projects become permanent fixtures within the health department and the county.

Permanent, long-term change is the goal of the AmeriCorps' Victory Gardens project headed by returning member Diana Doman, a Deer Park resident. Through this program, income-eligible residents are assisted in planting gardens in residential and community sites. Approximately 242 residents were reached through last year's project, which witnessed the creation of 27 gardens.

Working with Doman on the garden project, as well as on new initiatives in the continuing Exercise For A Healthier Tomorrow program, is Grantsville resident Gretchen Durst.

The county-wide exercise plan will focus on specific populations this year, including the handicapped and elderly.

AmeriCorps member Suzi Kyte, who relocated to Western Maryland from Oklahoma City when she received the position, will work on the development of a mentor program for young women.

"There are so many opportunities out there for these young women that I did not know existed when I was their age," explained Kyte.

The Garrett County Health Department's seven AmeriCorps members work out of an office on Alder Street, Oakland. For more information on their ongoing local projects, persons may call 334-0516 or 334-0578.

commissioners, Fousek will assume the position of county personnel/marketing director. In this position, Fousek would perform some of his former administrator duties. If the commissioners choose not to select one of the committee's candidates, Fousek may be appointed as full time roads director, Braskey explained.

Braskey added that he hopes to be able to name the new roads director before the end of November.

During the commissioners' September staff meeting, Braskey commented to the assembled office holders that the meeting would be the last monthly staff conference during which Fousek would serve as county administrator.

"I think he's done an outstanding job," commented Braskey, noting that Fousek had served as administrator throughout his 13-year tenure as commissioner.

While offering their monthly reports to the commissioners, some office holders also thanked Fousek for his service to the county.

"I'd like to express my appreciation for all the hard work Bob has done with us," commented Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage.

Sheriff Randy Sines also thanked Fousek.

"I would like to thank Bob for the help he's given me and my office," Sines stated.

Alice Hevner, 4-H extension agent for Garrett County, commented of Fousek: "He's kept us straight on our finances over the years."

Rodney Glotfelty, director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling, remarked, "I'd like to publicly thank Bob for the help he's given me." Glotfelty added that Fousek had assisted with recent improvements to the county solid waste system.

with intent to distribute. At that time, a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Last Thursday, Thayer sentenced Bircher to one year in the Garrett County Jail, with all but 30 days suspended. The defendant will be on two years of probation following his release.

Bircher incurred the charge after the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force searched his home in April and found marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Health Theater Gearing Up For Second Season

Pandora's Box, a group of teenagers which uses improvisational theater to dramatize lifestyle decisions faced by young adults, is beginning its second season of performances.

In response to data generated through local surveys and concerns outlined by county residents, the troupe was organized by the Garrett County Health Department's AmeriCorps staff as to help educate area youth about current health issues. The project is part of the health department's Healthier Year 2000 program.

"I'm hoping to create a program where the goal is to educate in an entertaining way," commented Nick Barberio, director/coordinator for Pandora's Box. "The theater is peer driven, with high school students learning about health issues as they educate other students and the community."

"This year's students have many exciting events planned," Barberio added. "The health theater group has been scheduled to perform at Broad Ford Elementary School on the subject of alcohol and tobacco abuse and has begun rehearsal for a community performance to be announced at a later date."

Rachael Millican, an Oakland native, will be working with Barberio on the health theater project.

Any teenager interested in participating in Pandora's Box may contact Barberio or Rachael Millican at 334-0516 or 334-0578. Rehearsals are held every Wednesday from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College. Performances of the teen health theater group can be scheduled through Kendra Todd calling 334-8122 or at the health department by 895-3111.

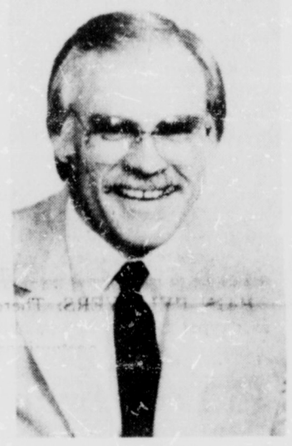
Mtn. Top Assembly To Host Vocalist "Big" John Hall



Vocalist "Big" John Hall will minister in song at the Mtn. Top Assembly of God Church on Saturday, Nov. 11, at 7 p.m.

Hall, who has been featured on most Christian television networks across the United States and Canada, was awarded the male vocalist of the year award in 1987, 1988, and 1989 for his gospel music. He is widely known on the gospel music circuit for his recording of Blow the Trumpet Zion.

"Big" John, along with Terry Blackwood, Larry Orrell, and Chuck Sullivan recently formed "Friends IV," a vocal group that "strives for excellence in musical harmony, and is currently making numerous appearances across the United States and in many conventions and concerts," said a spokesperson from John Hall Ministries, based in Fort Worth, Texas.

There is no charge for admission to the performance, but a love offering will be accepted. The church is located on Rt. 135, east of Mtn. Lake Park, next to the IGA store.

In Memory Of My Brother David Riggleman "Big Ole Dave"

Your building still stands
Between two trees
Although nothing's there
But scattered leaves

Sometimes I can look
And see my son
Doing the things
You once had done.

This time of year
I think of you the most
Washing your orange sleeping bag
And brown feathered coat.

There's not a day that goes by
I don't think of you, or mention your name.
You see, Big Dave, since you left
I've not been the same.

You were my brother, my friend
Almost my child.
But I know you're in heaven
Amoungst the clouds.

I look up at the sky
Every once in awhile.
Call out your name
And start to smile.

For I can see you there
In the fall colored leaves
And bright morning sun,
Standing "Tall and Straight"
By your four-wheeler
And holding your gun.

Always loved and forever missed,
Your Sis, Mona & Families

Home Tips

HANDY SALAD BAR — I always buy fresh veggies from the salad bar at my local grocery store because they are clean, chopped and ready to eat.

You can put as much of a vegetable as you want into individual containers, so if you live by yourself, you won't be stuck with a whole bag of stuff going bad.

I also save the plastic containers sometimes because if I open a can of beans and can't eat them all, presto, I have a storage container ready and waiting! Lisa O., Roanoke, Va.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING — With Christmas just around the corner, I'd like to share with your readers a helpful tip for finding that certain store in the mall. Every year in the fall, I stop at the mall information booths in each mall that I frequent and pick up a directory of the locations of the stores.

There have been many times when I just wanted to run in and grab an item, only to find that I had parked at the wrong end of the mall or, worse yet, to find out that the store I wanted was in a different mall entirely!

STORE MATERIAL SCRAPS — While trying to organize material scraps I saved over the years, I decided to put them in self-seal plastic bags — no more tangled material, plus I can see what is in each bag. Katherine W., Manassas, Va.

Q. I found a glass bottle marked "Acme." It has marks for ounces on the flat side. It doesn't stand up, but lies flat with the neck of the bottle at an upward slant. The cork for the bottle had a glass tube in it — it's broken off. What is it for?

A. You have an early nursing bottle. The first glass nursing bottle was patented in 1841. Its shape suggested that the bottle was held over the breast to try to fool the baby into thinking the milk came from the mother. That could be the reason your bottle lies down.

The glass tube in the cork was for the rubber nipple.

Bottles from that era sell for $35 to $40.

Q. How do you count the "fingers" on a Shaker box?

A. The Shaker religious sect is well-known for its simple designs for furniture and boxes. The Shaker box is oval. It was made with a flat piece of wood as the base. The side was another piece of thin wood wrapped around the oval and joined with long thin extensions, called "fingers."

The "two-finger" box was two of those pieces on the side. The lid also has a "finger." Larger boxes usually have more fingers.

Q. I have a large china pitcher marked on the bottom, "Copeland, Spode's Tower, England." Is this different from Spode China?

A. Spode porcelain and bone china have been made by the Stoke-on-Trent factory in England since 1770. The firm was known as "Copeland and Garrett" from 1833 to 1847; then "W.T. Copeland" or "W.T. Copeland & Sons" until 1976, when it became "Royal Worcester Spode Ltd."

The word "Spode" appears on many pieces made by the factory through the years. The Tower pattern appears in Spode- and Copeland-marked pieces through the 19th century.

A 6-quart Copeland Spode pitcher made in the Tower pattern sold for $380 last year.

Q. My silver meat fork has a grape design on the handle. The back is marked with a crossed knife, fork and spoon below a globe and the letters "Asco." It also says "1857, Pat. 44-10-06."

A. Your silver-plated fork was made by the American Silver Co. of Bristol, Conn. The company joined the International Silver company in 1935.

To store a dust mop, stand it up. Resting the mop head on the floor will mat it.

Dollars & Sense
by Bryon Elson

Operating a successful business often requires periodic infusions of capital. Your own assets are a logical source of financing. Depending on how much you need, you may want to borrow against your life insurance policies, home equity, retirement plans, bank certificates of deposit, and stocks and bonds to meet the cash requirements of your company.

Many businesses survive thanks to the confidence and generosity of relatives and friends. While lower interest rates, more flexible terms, and less paperwork may entice you, be sure to keep transactions with family and friends on a business level. You should avoid no-interest loans, loans without a due date, and vaguely defined equity arrangements by preparing a written agreement that documents the conditions of your loan.

Banks generate income by lending money to companies and individuals who repay it with interest. Remember, a bank's primary concern is your ability to repay the loan. To make that determination, many lenders use the "Five C's of Commercial Credit:"

Character: Are you an honest and trustworthy individual?

Capability to Manage the Business: Extensive business and managerial experience indicate that you can repay the loan.

Capacity to Repay the Loan: Lenders want to know where you will obtain the money needed to repay them.

Collateral: Collateral, such as business equipment, protects the bank's interest in the event you default on the loan.

Conditions of the Loan: The amount of the loan, how you will use it, and repayment terms all affect a lender's assessment of your creditworthiness.

Before giving you a loan, a potential lender will want to see your business plan. Your plan should include a description of your business and an overview of its past performance and/or future goals. It also should highlight your business experience and financial profile.

A market description, cash-flow analysis, financial statements, and a listing of available collateral are other important components of the business plan. In addition, you should include the amount and purpose of the loan, and how you plan to pay it back.

PAIN RELIEVERS: There are four types of over-the-counter pain relievers: aspirin, acetaminophen, ibuprofen, and naproxen sodium. They all work, but not all of them may be what you need. Here's a brief description of each:

Aspirin (acetylsalicylic acid). It works by suppressing hormone-like substances that regulate body temperature, induce uterine contractions, clot blood, and regulate blood vessel constriction. That's why it's usually helpful for fever, menstrual cramps, headache pain, muscle pains and minor arthritis. Aspirin is not recommended for people with gastrointestinal problems, ulcers, uncontrolled hypertension, liver or kidney disease or bleeding disorders.

Acetaminophen. Also relieves moderate pain and fever, probably by acting on nerve endings to suppress pain. It's an alternative for those who cannot tolerate aspirin.

Ibuprofen and naproxen sodium both work like aspirin, but are stronger. Anyone with the same problems that can be affected by aspirin, should avoid those two drugs as well.

Although these pain killers are sold over the counter, it's a good idea to keep intake to 10 days or less. If symptoms persist, see your doctor.

WHY I SAY NO: A reader sent me several clippings from another health writer who cites various books and products which, the reader says, could be helpful to people. She asks why she never sees these in my column. Let me explain.

I am approached by the same people who pitch all health writers on their products or publications. But I am a skeptic when it comes to matters of health: I have to be persuaded that when a publicist asks me to run something in the column, it can help my readers and not just their clients. Books on diet and health may or may not be worth the claims they make on their jackets. Even if the writer is a bona fide M.D., that doesn't make her or him an expert in nutrition. I check the writer's credentials and look for supporting statements from well-known authorities in the field before I cite it in this space. One publicist told me, his doctor/author client has had best-sellers for 20 years. All that means is that a lot of people bought his books because he seems to offer them what they want, but it may not be what they need.

Tonia J. Schroyer, Michael W. Frey United In Marriage During June Event

Tonia Jean Schroyer and Michael William Frey were united in holy matrimony at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on Saturday, June 3. The Rev. Gail Hixon performed the afternoon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Vernon L. Schroyer and Pamela S. Miller. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurel C. Frey.

The bride wore a traditional long, white, pearl and sequin-covered wedding gown with a full train, a v-neckline, and puffed sleeves. Her double-layered, long, white veil featured pearls and baby's breath.

The bridal bouquet featured cascading royal blue and white satin roses, baby's breath, pearls and ribbons.

Matron of honor was Angela Leigh Schroyer, sister of the bride. She wore a deep royal blue satin gown with an open back and blue lace on the front. Bridesmaids were Michelle Fridley, Heidi Michaels, and Kristen Michaels, all cousins of the bride. They wore lighter royal blue gowns similar to the matron of honor's. The attendants carried bouquets fashioned by the bride.

The flower girl was Katie McNamee, cousin of the bride. She wore a long, white satin dress with lace and ruffles at the bottom.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with long tails, a white satin vest, bow tie, and a white satin rose with a blue ribbon.

The best man was Tim Frey, brother of the groom. The groomsmen were Todd Michaels, Jeff Lipscomb, and Mark Weeks. They all wore silver tuxedos with tails, royal blue and black vests, and bow ties.

The ring bearer was Kameron Michaels, cousin of the bride. His tuxedo was similar to the groom's, and his vest was like that of the groomsmen.

The pianist for the ceremony was Matthew Paugh. Scripture was read by the bride's step-father, Larry Miller. Guest book attendant was Margaret Michaels

The building was decorated in royal blue and white, and featured a large metallic blue and white balloon archway at the altar.

The wedding cake, baked and decorated by Pattie Stiles, had four tiers with white and royal blue flowers, and a heart-shaped top with a bride and groom surrounded by blue netting.

The bride is a 1995 graduate of Hagerstown Junior College, where she obtained her associate of applied sciences degree in radiologic technology. She recently passed her national board exams, and is now a registered radiologic technologist.

The groom has been employed at Bausch & Lomb since 1987, and currently serves as captain of the company's Venom Competition Paintball Team.

The couple resides in Mtn. Lake Park.

inappropriateness of the three new seminar topics at this year's Northern High Wellness Day (astrology, massage therapy, and acupuncture).

In my opinion, these were not only garbage but a very big waste of tax dollars. We are warned about GIGO (Garbage In, Garbage Out) for computers, but this is also true and more dangerous for our minds.

I, along with 499 other Northern High parents, and the Northern administration, are to blame. We may have our lame excuses; but may God, the students, and the taxpayers of Garrett County forgive us.

I was deeply hurt by the disrespect shown our pastors and accusing tone directed to members; that were thinking only of what is best for students. Hopefully, next time, we parents will get our heads out of the sand and quit going along with everything that is tossed our way.

To the Editor:

I'm a Christian who believes and accepts God's Word for what it says; I find it upsetting that many so-called Christians could approve of their children taking part in astrology, etc. at Wellness Day. How can you Christians send your children to church to hear God's Word, yet allow them to partake in something against His Word? Yes, we're talking religion! Astrology, etc. is as much a part of pagan worship as the Lord's Supper is part of Christianity. No argument can prove otherwise, but as Paul said, "the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine;..." (2 Tim. 4:3), and that day is here!

Astrology, a false or pseudo-science (not to be confused with astronomy), teaches that the sun, moon, stars, etc., rule events and circumstances in people's lives and the earth. Practiced in ancient, pagan religions, it is associated with magic and the black arts. Partakers in astrology also partook in witchcraft, communication with evil spirits, and the dead, sorcery, etc. Many astrologers today communicate with a demon guide to find "prophecies" concerning one's future. Do you want to take a chance of your child becoming involved in these things? What does God's Word say? In Deuteronomy 18:9-14, God prohibits taking part in any of these heathen, religious practices; they're an abomination to Him, and"... the abominable... shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone..." (Rev. 21:8) Galatians 5:20-21 says those involved in witchcraft will not inherit God's kingdom. In chapter 2 of Daniel, we see Daniel proving astrology wrong: "Daniel answered in the presence of the king,... The secret which the king hath demanded cannot the wise men, the astrologers, the magicians, the soothsayers, shew unto the king; but there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and maketh known ... what shall be in the latter days," (2:27-28). Also read 2:19-23. God speaks with contempt toward these things"... Let now the astrologers, the star-gazers, the monthly prognosticators (today's horoscope readers), stand up, and save thee... Behold, they shall be as stubble; the fire shall burn them; they shall not deliver themselves frometh power of the flame..." (Isa. 47:13-14).

"Abstain from all appearance of evil" (1 Thess. 5:22). Astrology, etc. not only appears evil--it is evil and is associated with evil! Satan's games aren't to be played with; when his evilness is tampered with (seriously or for fun), he's usually on the winning side!

Astrology is just as harmful to your child's eternal future as drugs and alcohol--in God's eyes they all shall be condemned. Yes, religion, again! But it's time to talk true religion; we've removed Jesus Christ from the center of public education, and now it's as if a disease is spread when His Name is mentioned. When Christ isn't the center of your child's education, Satan will surely assume the vacant position! Remember, Christians, "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge; but fools despise wisdom and instruction." (Prov. 1:7).

For the glory of God,
Michele E. Morgan

To the Editor:

I would like to offer my response to the many letters that have been published in this newspaper column of late regarding the controversial Board of Education, "Special Meeting."

How many of you have read Deuteronomy 18:10-14? In doing so you will be quick to realize that a topic such as astrology is totally and completely contrary to the way a true Christian should behave. For those without a Bible, simply, it is not permitted.

I have heard this county on several occasions referred to as God's country. Well, I wonder what He thinks about that reference now? For the past three years I have thought that there is no single county in the United States that sported such a high percentage of Christians. Imagine my surprise when I sat and read letter after letter of professed Christians with such contempt for a pastor, a few select BOE members, and their scrutiny of subject matter such as this to be introduced into the class room.

I can not fathom how a group of concerned parents, teachers, and other prominent citizens could ridicule a member of the clergy. I thought this was the epitome of irreverence. But wait, that tragedy in and of itself was minuscule when another minister of a Christian denomination stood and openly heckled and jeered Pastor Bonser? Is this the kind of example that we are to set for our children? Where is the respect? Pastor Bonser was invited to speak at this "Special Meeting," not be eaten alive. For a community known for its hospitality, we do not treat our guests like that, so why can we not treat our neighbors in a like manner?

Finally, if these controversial topics were deemed simply entertainment, I am really concerned now! Each of us has a different idea as to what entertainment is, therefore, I guess I should not be too terribly surprised when the next Wellness Day our school system will entertain a possible seminar topic of say, pornography. After all, that is a form of entertainment to some. When and where will the line be drawn?

Is it not better to remain a little more conserve and preserve the quality of life and family values that Garrett County is known for? Our children are so malleable and a concentration of reading, writing, and arithmetic would benefit their careers so much more than all this crazy seminar stuff!

To the Editor:

I would like to address a few observations I have made over the debate concerning the recent Wellness Day Program at Northern High school.

First to the Editor: Your editorial, "Another Special Meeting," was truly an unprofessional attempt (again) to criticize the Board of Education members. I can say this because you passed your own judgement on them by using libel comments such as..."Holier-than-thou," "destructive ways," and "suspicious." Disagreeing with the Board's views is your right and privilege. Belittling them puts you in a category of a 10-year-old, who when disagreeing with some one or something resorts to nasty, rude comments.

Second to the parents: In the Webster Dictionary, College Edition, copyright 1968, it states this definition on the "Occult." Oc-cult (ok'ult). adj. [L. occultus, concealed,pp. of occulere. to cover over.] 1. hidden; concealed. 2. secret; esoteric. 3. beyond human understanding; mysterious. 4. designating or of certain mystic arts or studies, such as magic, alchemy, astrology, etc. Now, I realize this is an older publication of a Webster dictionary, but a definition is a definition. It scares me to think what a more recent (politically correct or new age) version might possibly be! Parents, astrology is occult in nature. Please explain to me why this was available to our children in school. Why no one before Mr. Riley ever questioned it. Are we truly to just completely trust everything that is being done? During the recent meeting, where the Board attempted to obtain information on such subjects, were harassed and insulted by some parents attending. How adult of you!

Third to the Board members: Thank you!

Possibly in the future, we will learn from this. All issues have two sides, both of which deserve respect from the other. I believe the Board was working on behalf of our children and were seeking answers from all sides. Unfortunately heated tempers took over, and nothing positive has come from this but bitter feelings. For our children, we must work together, it is their future at stake.

Thank you,
Brenda Thomas

To the Editor:

Last week's article on the recent purchase by the county of $175,000 worth of equipment known as voting machines did very little to make me feel any better about spending the money, and actually, in my opinion, raised more questions than it answered.

As for worrying about having to buy more and more machines to take care of each 400 new voters we can probably relax. With the way jobs that pay a "living wage" are leaving the area, I wouldn't look for any great increase in the voting population anytime soon.

Not one word was said about which tree this money was going to be shaken out of, and after what county departments were told during the last budget process there certainly didn't seem to be any extra cash hidden away for sudden purchases!

Also, doesn't it seem interesting that after what our local government has just been through, no one has asked more questions about the purchase itself. Did we shop around or take bids for this equipment? I didn't catch the supplier's name in the article. Is it a local company? The machines sure got here fast! The commissioners would certainly want to be sure that any equipment deal made from now on would not carry even the slightest suspicion of impropriety on their part, right?

You know, not long ago, some people would kind of chuckle about citizens asking questions about how their money was being spent and it seemed that it was taken for granted that things were either done in our best interests or would be "swept under the rug" anyway. It should be pretty plain by now that around here, at least, such is not the case.

At least I hope that lesson has been well learned by all those in county government.

To the Editor:

Since January 1, 1995, we have received numerous customer complaints of teenagers harassing, verbally abusing, and fearing their safety from speeding vehicles in the parking lots of our shopping complexes at Browning's Foodland and Mid-Towns Shopping Plaza. Along with the customer complaints the following damages have occurred since January 1st.

1. We have replaced four large pane glass store front windows.
2. Broken beer and pop bottles must be cleaned up daily.
3. Motor oil thrown over sides of buildings and over pop machines.
4. Pop bottles and rocks thrown on roof.
5. Large parking lot lights shot out.
6. Running vehicles on lawn next to road causing property damage.
7. Graffiti painted on buildings.
8. Buggies thrown behind store over bank in woods.

Due to the amount of customer complaints and cost of damages, we regret that the following action must be taken. As of November 3, 1995, we are going to be locking the parking lot at Mid-Towns Shopping Plaza after business hours from 10 p.m. on. We are asking the community to please understand that we are sensitive to the fact that our children do not have a good place to socialize and meet, however we can no longer afford to allow the safety of our customers to be jeopardized and the destruction and damage to continue. We realize that there may be only a handful of people that cause the problems for many; however, we are asking that our parking lots be used for customers only starting November 3.

In conjunction with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Maryland State Police, effective immediately, the following will occur.

1. Reminders given to people that the parking lot is for customers only.
2. Citations will be issued.

We regret that we are forced to take this action, but hope you will understand our situation.

Sincerely,
James R. Browning

First United Notes Earnings In Third Quarter

First United Corporation recently announced net income for the third quarter was $1.60 million, compared to net income of $1.52 million posted for the same quarter in 1994. The earnings per common share was $.26, the return on average equity was 10.13 percent, and the return on average assets was 1.14 percent.

Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, president, and chief executive officer for the corporation, commented, "We are pleased to report our third quarter earnings, which reflect a 5.12 percent increase over the same period a year ago. Year-to-date earnings, at $4.03 million were 13.98 percent lower than the same period in 1994. However, excluding $1.08 million in one-time charges to income for restructuring purposes, year-to-date income was $4.69 million while returns on average equity and average assets were 11.8 percent and 1.33 percent, respectively."

Stanton added, "The corporation's net interest margin as a percent of earnings also remained strong at 5.22 percent, essentially the same as the second quarter. First United continues to enjoy a strong demand for retail loans, which has aided in maintaining this ratio at favorable levels."

The company has experienced loan growth of $12.4 million during the quarter, making total loans of $360.0 million at quarter-end. At the same time deposits grew $10.2 million, to a level of $419.9 million. Strategic expansion into market areas as well as effective promotional efforts were cited as reasons for these increases.

"Non-interest income remains strong," Stanton said, "reflecting revenue of $3.01 million for the third quarter, up 4.9 percent over the same period a year ago. This fine performance was primarily driven by Trust Department income and service fees. Fee income from these areas, as well as fees earned through our PrimeVest Investment Center and Oakfirst Life Insurance Company, continue to play important roles in our efforts to develop more diversified sources of long-term revenue."

Stanton further explained that non-interest expense totaled $4.31 million during the third quarter of 1995, compared to $4.19 million during the third quarter of 1994. This category actually decreased when the final restructuring charge of $.27 million is excluded.

Measures of credit quality remain strong, he said. During the third quarter net charge-offs were at $.02 million. Non-performing loans as of quarter-end were $1.65 million, or .46 percent of net loans. As a result, no provision for credit losses was required.

Dividends per common share were $.12 during the third quarter. Additionally, a $.12 dividend, payable November 1, 1995, was declared by the First United Corporation Board of Directors.

Stanton concluded by outlining the company's progress during the recent quarter. He explained that in striving to meet First United's goal of consolidating the various entities into a single organization, the corporation recently merged First United Bank of West Virginia, N.A., into First United National Bank & Trust. The company continues its fourth quarter plans of consolidating Myersville Bank into First United National Bank & Trust. It is anticipated that by year-end 1995, the company will operate as a one-bank entity, known as First United National Bank & Trust. This will provide customers access to full-service banking in a network of 22 community offices, located in a seven-county market area throughout Western Maryland and West Virginia.

As of September 30, 1995, total assets of the corporation were at $482.4 million, a 5.1 percent increase over year-end 1994. Shareholders' equity grew to $53.8 million, or 11.2 percent of total assets. Shareholders' equity as a percent of risk-adjusted assets remained strong at 16.7 percent.

First United Corporation, headquartered in Oakland, is a multi-bank holding company having the following banking subsidiaries: First United National Bank & Trust and Myersville Bank. Average common shares outstanding for the third quarter of 1995 were 6,192,000.

WHAT REALLY IS DRUG ABUSE?

Although commonly used by authorities to describe the indiscriminate use of those drugs associated with "turning on," "kicks," and "trips," it also is the unwise use of any drug. Too much aspirin, constant use of a nose spray, excessive dependence on a cough syrup would all be good examples of drug abuse.

Actually, you abuse your body when you rely too much on over-the-counter, non-prescription medications when you are sick. Rely instead on the knowledge and experience of your family doctor.

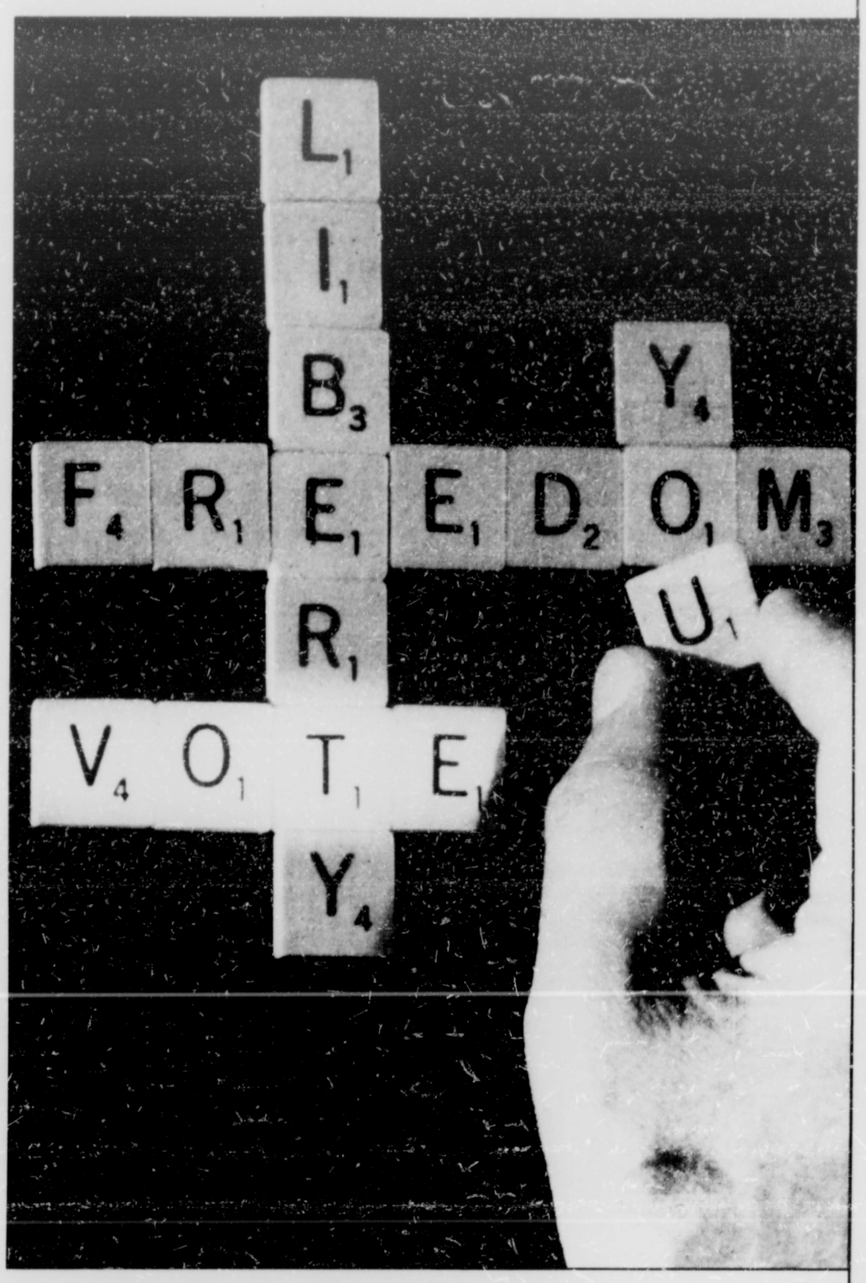
Election Day...

Election Day! What a day, and privilege. It is that sacred moment, standing alone in the voting booth, when you as an American exercises a most precious privilege. You are insuring that "government by the people, of the people, and for the people" shall not pass from this land.



The responsibility is as awesome as the privilege is sacred. Because, as someone put it, "Bad people are often elected by good people who don't vote."

The Apostle Paul, Christian to the core, was extremely proud of his Roman citizenship. Said he: "I am a citizen of no mean city" (Acts 21:39). Later he would use his Roman citizenship for protection (Acts 22:25).

When the Rev. Dr. Dwight L. Moody was chided for his involvement in politics he declared, "I am a citizen of two worlds. My home is heaven, but I vote in Cook County, Illinois!"

And God, speaking through his preacher Jeremiah, reminded the people: "Seed you the welfare of the city where I have sent you...and pray to the Lord on its behalf, for in its welfare you will find your welfare" (Jeremiah 29:7).

Vote this election day, November 7.

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

FAILURE OR SUCCESS?
November 5, 1995

Background Scripture:
Acts 13 through 14
Devotional Reading:
Acts 13:13-26

When I was younger–when, in fact, I knew everything–I thought I pretty well knew what was success and what was failure. Today, however, I realize that much that I thought was successful wasn't, and often what I thought was failure turned out to be something else. In fact, I seem to have learned that, not only is it difficult sometimes to tell the one from the other, but that neither is nearly so important as I once thought.

Vince Lombardi, the great football coaching immortal, is said to have remarked, "Whoever said, 'It doesn't matter whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game,' couldn't have been a coach." To a large degree, he was right: football coaches get hired to win victories and fired when they have too many defeats. As one who started his journalistic career as a sports writer, I know that school alumni and professional football clubs are not much concerned about how their teams play the game if they lose it!

PLUS AND MINUS

But that doesn't mean that living by that perspective makes for successful living. Some of the unhappiest people I have known are those who have been professionally and economically successful. Correspondingly, I have known lots of people who never achieved professional prominence or economic prosperity and yet in my eyes were very successful as human beings.

When I read Paul and Barnabas' report on their first missionary journey to the Christian congregation at Antioch, I was interested to see how they would report their experiences. In secular terms, the mission was not a resounding success. They had been driven out of Antioch of Pisidia (another Antioch); at Iconium they were soundly opposed and they fled for their lives; at Lystra they were initially wildly successful but eventually stoned and expelled from the city. In some of the cities they had caused deep divisions in the Jewish community itself, and sometimes between Jews and Gentiles. On the plus-side, there were many people who gladly heard and responded to their message; some churches were established.

Paul and Barnabas, standing up to report to the people of Antioch, the church that had sent them out, might have complained bitterly about the way they were treated on their journey, the hardships they had to endure, the fickleness of the populations. But, the writer of Acts says their report was definitely upbeat: "And when they arrived, they gathered the church together and declared all that God had done with them and how he had opened a door of faith to the Gentiles" (14:27,28).

OBSTACLES OR DOORS?

Note: not a word about whether they had succeeded or failed in their mission. The negative experiences they had along the way were interpreted, not as obstacles or defeats, but as a "door" opened to them by God. The way they "played the game" had actually been of more importance than whether someone decided that they had lost or won. The "way they played the game" was one of obedience to the task, even in the face of hostility and defeat.

Later, writing to the Corinthians, Paul saw his work from this perspective, not in terms of success or failure: "I planted, Apollos waters, but God gave the growth. So neither he who plants nor he who waters is anything, but only God who gives the growth" (1Cor. 3:6, 7). We do what we can and leave to God the questions of ultimate success or failure. Obedience, not success, is what we're called to.

COVER STORY

She Fought Alone deals with teen issue

BY AMY HIBBERT

Tiffani-Amber Thiessen

Sexual harassment and rape are alarmingly common problems among teens and young adults today.

NBC hopes to increase people's awareness of this growing plight with She Fought Alone, a new TV movie premiering Monday, Nov. 6.

The film, starring Tiffani-Amber Thiessen and Brian Austin Green (both of Beverly Hills, 90210), follows the story of a teen-ager and her struggle to deal with being raped and the resulting sexual harassment by her classmates afterward.

Thiessen portrays Caitlin Rose, a typical high-school student who wants to join the "in crowd." After passing initiation tests (including a blatant take-off of the movie Carrie), she is welcomed into the group.

Green stars as Ethan, captain of the football team and part of the popular group. Caitlin is attracted to him and goes to all extremes to get him to like her, including sleeping with him.

Ethan's good friend, Jace (David Lipper), is attracted to Caitlin and makes a few passes at her. But when she refuses his advances, Jace becomes enraged and rapes her.

Because of Caitlin's somewhat promiscuous background, no one really believes her. Instead, the group rallies around Jace, including Ethan.

Classmates tease Caitlin mercilessly, painting graffiti about her on the school walls and writing her telephone number in the boys' bathroom.

Because Jace is an important member of the football team, the sports-oriented school officials ignore Caitlin's problems.

Caitlin, helped by her mother (Isabella Hofmann, Homicide: Life on the Street), presents the school with a citation for failing to stop the abuse.

The movie's premise is an important one: Every five minutes, a rape is reported in the United States, with teens and young adults as the most vulnerable age group, according to a network press release. And many rapes may go unreported.

She Fought Alone does a fairly good job of confronting the issue of sexual harassment but little is done about the repercussions of rape.

The movie does deal with Caitlin's initial reaction – taking a long shower, missing school the next day and being examined by a doctor. But once this is over, the film turns its attention to the harassment activities of her classmates, and little time is spent on Caitlin's personal recovery.

Not much attention is given to the development of the victim's personality either. Thiessen is unable to define her character's identity, making it hard for viewers to feel sympathetic and easy to feel indifferent toward Caitlin.

Green doesn't have much to work with either, although he effectively conveys Ethan's dire need to escape the small-town life, an important aspect of this teen's character.

Hofmann, on the other hand, does give her character a feasible personality. The mother's own promiscuous past at first makes it hard for her to believe Caitlin's story. But she comes to believe her daughter, and their relationship deepens.

Despite the movie's weaknesses, it does put a serious issue in the spotlight.

TBS salutes Cousteau in My First 85 Years

BY JOHN CROOK

One of the century's most adventurous and well-known documentarians is saluted in Jacques-Yves Cousteau: My First 85 Years. The two-hour special premieres Sunday, Nov. 5, on TBS.

While millions of Americans have been delighted and engrossed by the filmmaker's revelatory films about marine life, many of them may not be aware Cousteau and his colleague, Emile Gagnan, pioneered the way for those films with their invention of the Aqua-Lung in the mid-1940s.

"I was a naval officer at Toulon (France) when I was introduced to the small goggles made in Japan for pearl divers," Cousteau recalls. "The first time I put them on and swam in the Mediterranean, very close to ... Toulon, I saw fish. I raised my head and saw a streetcar, then descended again and saw a jungle of fish.

"I had to bring back to the surface testimonies of the sea."

For 50 years, Cousteau has labored to open viewers' eyes to the wonders beneath the ocean's surface. The TBS special, which was unavailable for preview, includes never-before-seen footage.

The optimistic title of the show, which reflects the indefatigable spirit of the filmmaker, takes on additional significance in light of the fact that Cousteau suffered a near-fatal car accident at age 26.

"I thought I was going to die," he says. "I remember looking up at the stars and thinking, 'My God, how lucky I was to have seen so many things in my life.' That was at 26. Every morning, every night, I still wonder at how lucky I am to be alive and to have seen so many things."

A pioneering filmmaker is profiled in Jacques-Yves Cousteau: My First 85 Years Sunday on TBS. The two-hour special contains previously unseen footage.

SOAP TALK

Brown returns to B&B; Sabatino gets new role

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Kimberlin Brown

It's hard to keep a good woman down, especially when she is so great at being bad.

Fans were sure when Sheila (Kimberlin Brown) drank some poison on The Bold and the Beautiful it was the end of the evil woman's reign. But when a character like Sheila goes into a coma, there is always the possibility of a return.

Producers at B&B know a good thing when they see it, and they were not about to let Brown go. The actress helped the show rise from the bottom of the ratings pool to their current midrange standings.

Brown's character will become involved with yet another soap opera veteran, Kin Shriner (ex-Scott, General Hospital). The actor has signed on as Sheila's psychiatrist for the next few months.

Another familiar face returning to the soaps is Michael Sabatino (ex-Anthony, B&B, and ex-Lawrence, Days of Our Lives). Sabatino has taken over Bruce Thomas' role as Dr. Kinder on All My Children.

Dr. Kinder will be even more involved in Erica's fight with pill addiction and in her personal life. AMC is filmed in New York, which puts Sabatino near the woman in his own personal life, Crystal Chappell (Maggie, One Life to Live).

In other news: John Bolger, who played Alton Spader on Another World, has returned to the series in a new role as Gabe McNamara, a police captain for Bay City. Bolger also portrayed Phillip Spaulding on Guiding Light.

Dear Candace: I would like to know where GL has gone. The network advertised Reva was returning and would be on an Amish farm.

Now all of the sudden I can't even find the show. What happened? –Ann Krause, Armada, Mich.

Dear Reader: This past fall there were a lot of changes among the various networks and their affiliates, particularly with CBS, which airs GL.

Most likely if you can find CBS, you will find GL, though in some areas it has moved to an earlier time slot. Check your local listings, and if you cannot find the show anywhere, write or call your local CBS affiliate.

Here's an update: Reva has regained her memory, but she is still involved with Alan. She also plans to return to Springfield, which spells trouble.

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Before the show Charlie Grace, was Mark Harmon on a series called Flamingo Road? Was his wife played by Morgan Fairchild? –Kerry Babbitt, Clovis, N.M.

A: Yes. Harmon played Florida Sen. Fielding Carlyle and Fairchild played his spoiled wife, Constance. (Note: Grace has now stopped production.)

Q: I understand Jeremy Brett died in September, but did not see any information about it. What can you tell me? He was such a good Sherlock Holmes. –Madelyn Hurst, Nashua, N.H.

A: Brett died at age 59 in London of what was diagnosed as heart failure. While he was best known for his impeccable Holmes, he was also a classically trained stage actor with several West End theater credits. For a radical change of pace, rent the video of My Fair Lady: Brett played Eliza's hapless suitor, Freddy Eynsford-Hill.

Q: Will High Sierra Search and Rescue be on this season? –Gene Bell, Long Beach, Calif.

A: There are no plans at present to bring back the series, which drew very low ratings in its trial run.

Q: Will you please tell my husband that isn't Dinah Manoff playing Hope on Hope & Gloria? –A. Rodgers, Alexander, Maine.

A: Listen to your wife, Mr. Rodgers. That's Cynthia Stevenson playing Hope.

Q: After seeing a Biography episode on Gene Kelly, I wondered if there are any videos of him we might get. –Betty Nelson, Ann Arbor, Mich.

A: ARE there?! Kelly has more than 30 movies on video, far too many to list here.

Of particular note are Singin' in the Rain, An American in Paris, Anchors Aweigh, Les Girls, On the Town and Summer Stock. You can order them from any large video outlet.

Mark Harmon

Q: I saw The Lion in Winter and wondered what John Castle, who played Geoffrey, has been doing since that 1968 film. –J.T., Akron, Ohio.

A: Apart from Lion, Castle's movie and TV projects available on video include The Bretts, The Crucifer of Blood, Lillie, Man of La Mancha and Robocop 3.

Q: Are The Commish and NYPD Blue coming back, or were they canceled? –Sue Wood, Cambridge Springs, Pa.

A: The Emmy-winning NYPD Blue will be back in its Tuesday slot by the time you read this. ABC delayed its season premiere to give viewers a chance to sample Murder One before moving it to its death slot opposite ER. The Commish also is in production for future airings, but no dates are available at this time.

Several Students Complete Career Planning Classes

The New Horizons/New Dimensions Programs of Garrett Community College recently completed the second in the FY96 series of five-week, 10-session Career Planning classes taught by Mary Kirkland, intake/counselor specialist with the New Horizons Program of GCC. The class included learning about job hunt strategies, getting to know oneself, what self esteem means to a non-traditional student returning to classes or to the work world, ways to build self esteem, what stress is and how to handle it, combining working with family obligations, time and budget management, resume writing, and job interview techniques.

Several interest tests were administered to participants to determine their career interests. These tests included the Career Assessment Inventory (CAI), the Holland Code Self-Directed Search, and the GATB (General Aptitude Test Battery).

The recent group of students enrolled in the class included: Teresa Broadwater, Leona DeWitt, Elizabeth Gibbons, Ruth Hahn, Marsha House, Helen Lancaster, Dottie Mayle, Kathryn McNair, Wanda Shafer, Nancy Wilburn, and Lily Wright.

The next Career Planning Class is a five-week Friday class which will meet from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. scheduled to begin on Friday, November 3, at Garrett Community College, McHenry Campus. Anyone interested in enrolling in the Career Planning Class should call New Horizons weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 387-3071 or 387-3102 for complete information.

"The class is a great beginning for a support group and has proven beneficial for re-entry women to make career decisions and to enter training in their areas of interest," stated Barbara Frey, program director for New Horizons and New Dimensions.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the program through Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is 90% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,200, which is 10% of the total budget for New Horizons. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources, Community Services Administration, Women's Services Division, in the amount of $20,000.

New Dimensions Program Accepting New Participants

The New Dimensions Displaced Homemaker's Program of Garrett Community College is now accepting new program participants for FY96. New Dimensions is a displaced homemaker program designed to help the homemaker deal with immediate crisis, increase self-confidence, and develop the skills needed to support herself and her family.

To be eligible for the program, one must: be a Maryland resident over 30 years of age; have performed primarily as a homemaker; have depended for support on the income of a family member and lost that income because separation, divorce, death, or disability of that family member; be underemployed, not gainfully employed, or would have difficulty finding employment; and have depended on AFDC and no longer be eligible for AFDC or must currently be receiving AFDC and have been receiving AFDC for 24 months or longer.

New Dimensions can offer program participants the following services: individual and career counseling; Career Path class; career development workshops; assistance in obtaining education and training; monthly support groups, referral to community agencies.

New Dimensions can help program participants obtain a Graduation Equivalency Diploma (GED), explore and develop vocational interests and expand job options, identify work needs, motivation, and marketable skills, investigate and evaluate occupations, training programs, and sources of financial aid to attend college and review employment options.

New Dimensions can provide the following financial assistance for program participants who are income-eligible: tuition/books, child care/transportation, emergency car repairs, work uniforms, and other emergency expenses.

For information about the program or to determine eligibility, persons may call 387-3071 or 387-3103 weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The project is funded by the Department of Human Resources, Women's Services Program.

ARC Approves Computerized Mapping Project

It was announced last Thursday that the Appalachian Regional Commission has approved funding for Phase III of the Computerized Parcel Mapping Project. This initiative, a joint effort between the Maryland Office of Planning and the Maryland Department of Assessments and Taxation, entails the computerization of 419 property maps throughout the Western Maryland region of Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties.

While Phase I of the parcel project created the initial digitized, or scanned, parcel map files, Phase II went further in providing equipment and personnel to link parcel map reference points to existing parcel database information. The primary objective of Phase III is to update the parcel database for each county and to approach a 100 percent reference point match rate for each county between the parcel database and the maps.

The computerization of the region's 419 property and 113,400 individual parcel records into a digitized street map with parcel information can support a variety of geographic information system applications. Included among these are school district boundary alignments, 911 dispatching, bus and vehicle routing, and geographically referencing the location of clients and customers.

This effort will be coordinated with other ARC funded projects for computerized mapping at the local government level to insure the maximum utility for all levels of government serving Western Maryland.

Upon making the announcement, Ronald M. Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning, noted that the ARC award for Phase III is in the amount of $12,500. This is to be matched by a similar amount from the Office of Planning, for a total project cost of $25,000.

The Appalachian Regional Commission program in Maryland is directed through the Office of Governor Parris N. Glendening, and coordinated through the Maryland Office of Planning.

Aspinall Honored By '96 National Merit Program

Arthur Refosco, principal at Southern High School, has announced that Robert G. Aspinall has been named a commended student in the 1996 National Merit Scholarship Program.

About 35,000 commended students throughout the nation are being honored for their exceptional academic promise. They placed among the top five percent of more than a million students who entered the 1996 Merit Program by taking the 1994 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

A Merit Program spokesperson commented, "Recognition of academically promising students and of the key role played by schools in their development is essential to the pursuit of educational excellence in our nation. Our hope is that this recognition will encourage these able young people to develop their abilities to the fullest and, also, will enhance their opportunities and stimulate support for their higher education."

Robert, a senior at SHS, is the son of Bill and Donna Aspinall, Oakland.

Garrett County FSA Reps Attend State Convention

They then attended a House of Delegates meeting at the convention center, followed by several educational development sessions.

Others from Garrett County who attended the convention were Richard Buckingham, Jean Eberly, Lucille Glotfelty, and Beverly Frazee.

FINDING A WARM WELCOME in Garrett County recently were Jack Grochot, his two adopted wild mustangs named Magnum and Thirty-Eight, and his hound dog, Buddy, when they passed through the area on the initial leg of a cross-country trip. Grochot is pictured above with one of his steeds, while Pleasant Valley resident and host Melissa Johnson tends to the other one. Grochot, writer of this article, is a veteran newspaper reporter and author from Western Pennsylvania. He is pictured at left doing some needed shoe work, and below sharing a snack with one of his companions.

Cross Country Rider Finds Local Folks Both Helpful And Hospitable

Editor's note: Freelance writer Jack Grochot, a veteran newspaper reporter and co-author of the book Pittsburgh Characters, recently began a ride across the contiguous United States via horseback. He filed this article for The Republican during a stopover in Canaan Valley, describing his experience while riding through Garrett County.

Right off, she gave herself away - a soft touch, this one.

"Oooh, looks like you've hurt your foot. You're coming home with me this instant and we'll fix it," she said firmly.

She was talking to my hound dog, Buddy, and there was no room for argument. Worn out, he had just landed in the arms of a perfect stranger on the outskirts of a strange town, Oakland, Md., and, sore as he was, he relished every warm and cuddly moment of all this big fuss.

Melissa Johnson briefly turned her attention away from Buddy's gimpy hind paw. She spoke to my two other traveling companions!

"And where did you fellas come from? You're not from around here, that's for sure. Tired, aren't you? I can tell by your eyes."

She was quizzing my adopted wild Mustangs. The red roan Wyoming mountain horse between my thighs, Thirty-eight, and the desert-born sorrel Nevada pack horse, Magnum, carrying 200 pounds of trail gear, rubbed their itchy faces against one another while soaking up the affection.

"Where are you boys staying tonight?" Johnson asked, and then answered her own question. "Bet you don't have the foggiest idea, do you?"

Thirty-eight and Magnum put on the forlorn look, which works best to wrangle an invitation, while the nice lady stroked their fuzzy muzzles. "Do you want to go to my barn and have your fill of grain and hay? Of course you do. This man you're bringing to town - he's no ax murderer or highway robber, is he?"

I assured her I came with references - many, many kind folks up the line who had opened their hearts and their refrigerators, each surviving the intrusion to say goodbye with a handshake and, more often than not, an embrace.

Small world - on a journey across 48 connected states inhabited by 260 million humans, we had accidentally crossed paths once more with a good Samaritan just when we needed help.

This particular one, though, was legendary, we came to find out.

Rain was definitely on the way. Entirely out of food, we were aiming for the Agway store on Eighth Street minutes before it was supposed to close for the day. Shelter from the coming storm was a minor worry at that point.

We figured it was better to be wet than hungry and wet.

Johnson was parking her Garrett County, school bus for the night about a quarter mile from the feed store.

Driving is how Melissa Johnson has earned her bread and butter, but how she has earned her reputation is running a farm off Jasper Riley Road where lost, injured, abandoned or abused animals have been treated to temporary or long-term hospitality.

This October day, Melissa Johnson was unexpectedly on the verge of taking in four more strays, the four-legged and the two-legged variety alike.

Johnson promptly locked her bus and escorted Buddy to a blanket in the back seat of her car. She gave the saddle tramp directions to her place in Pleasant Valley, and left. Buddy, she reported later, dozed off before the engine revved up and he snored the whole way.

The trusting woman hardly had asked more one darn thing - not disinterested, mind you, but more concerned about taking care of the animals before palavering about how I happened upon Oakland. Then again, my aroma wasn't exactly appealing for prolonged conversations.

The horses clumped down the dirt lane to Johnson's spread a couple hours behind Buddy, after a stop at Agway and the Foodland supermarket. Buddy already was doctored and fed, lounging among the umpteen dogs, cats, horses and other cast-away critters Johnson has rescued and nursed into sound condition.

In the splendor of the brilliantly sunny autumn evening, while Canadian honkers flew low over the alfalfa and corn fields, Johnson learned we, too were angling south, wishing to keep the season's first snowfall at our backs.

Our adventure had begun three weeks earlier near Pittsburgh, through traffic-congested hostile suburbs, into once-thriving mill towns now a ghost of their former selves, then out into the picturesque Laurel Mountains, across the drought-ravaged desolate peaks, and down the other side into the lush agricultural landscapes of Maryland, where we were spoiled with genuine courtesy and generosity.

Some folks offered water without my mentioning a word about thirst, and some insisted we accepted lodging as long as necessary.

The very first encounter with an old-fashioned Maryland country welcome came by luck, too, similar to the chance meeting with Johnson.

Riding through Friendsville, a local gent pointed in the general vicinity of a hilltop farm belonging for generations to the Ross family, its roots dating to the Shawnee tribe that occupied the territory in the 1700s.

The pastures and woods are populated today by fat livestock and half-tame wildlife - each with a name - and the manicured crops are tended to by the children, grandchildren, and in-laws of Jim "Pappy" Ross and his wife, Laverne, whom he calls Flash. The matriarch of this large, harmonious clan seems always to be cooking or canning or blanching something - something plentiful, something delicious, something grown or raised within sight of the kitchen window. And she's forever chuckling about something else while stirring or flipping or turning or simmering.

Pappy's mind and hands are in perpetual motion. He's pushing 80 and he has multiple stories with tangents to tell for every year he's tilled the soil. While repairing machinery or harvesting the potato patch, he frets about the state of national affairs, the effects of the television on a technologically-dependent society, and the oppressive inclinations of a government that appears bent on abolishing family farm culture while the leaders preach family values.

"Nobody seems to know how to do things natural, how to be self-sufficient," he remarks. "What's worse, nobody seems to want to know. I hope the youngsters live through this."

Parent's Income - How does it count?
After certain income allowances, the assessment on parent's income increases from 22% to 47%. The principle is that when income increases beyond the amount needed to maintain a basic standard of living, the portion available for family contribution increases.
Available income is determined by adding taxable income and non-taxable income and subtracting the following allowances: U.S. income taxes paid, state & local tax allowance, social security taxes, income protection allowance (based on family size) and employment expense allowance.
Total Income less Total Allowances equals Available Income.

Insure Your Grandchildren's Future

As a grandparent, you want to provide your grandchildren with something more than toys they'll outgrow. Now, Woodmen has the answer.

You can give your grandchildren the security and protection of a Woodmen life insurance certificate. It is a gift that will keep giving. One that they will never outgrow.

The cash value of your grandchildren's certificates could help them pay for an education, make a down payment on a home or provide security for their future families.

While the cash value builds, your grandchildren, ages 8-15, can enjoy Ranger lodge activities, hours of fun at Woodmen summer camps and participate in community service activities.

If you are looking for a special gift your grandchildren can use long after they have outgrown their toys, ask your Woodmen representative about the Grandparent Gift.

Kyles Travel To "Heart" Of Europe; Visit 7 Countries

The Rev. and Mrs. Alvin (Betty) Kyle, Mountain Lake Park, recently traveled to Europe for a 17-day tour of the "heart" of that continent, via Image Tours, Inc.

The Kyles, along with 46 fellow passengers, departed from Pittsburgh International Airport, flew to Detroit, Mich., and then on to Europe, where they visited seven countries, traveling 7,000 miles by air, and 2,600 by tour bus.

The first stop was Amsterdam, Holland, where the group viewed the city's old buildings while aboard a canal boat. Traveling on to Antiwert, Belgium, they visited a United States World War II cemetery, where 8,000 American soldiers are buried.

In Germany, the travelers viewed a 600-year-old cathedral, and then continued on to Bonn, where they took a cruise on the Rhine River. In Rathenbury, the sightseers saw large, ornate 1,000-year-old buildings. The countryside, viewed from the bus, displayed mile after mile of mountains, covered with grapes that were ready for harvest, as the countrymen prepared to make wine. It was then on to Munich, and Bavaria, and an "Oktoberfest" celebration.

"We happily found a McDonald's (while in Germany)," said the Rev. Kyle, "and they even accepted American money!"

A two-night stay in the Innsbruck (Austria) Hotel, was followed by a layover in Switzerland. "When the weather cleared, we rode to the very top of the Alps, and had lunch in a restaurant there," said Mrs. Kyle. "It was beautiful!"

A gondola ride along the canals highlighted a visit to Italy, and in Paris (France), the "City of Lights," the tour climaxed as the American tour group saw a spectacular view of the city at night, including the Eiffel Tower, that "looked like lace of gold," according to the Kyles.

Maryland Forests Association To Meet Nov. 10, 11

"The History of America's Forests" will be the theme at the Maryland Forests Association's annual meeting to be held November 10 and 11 at the Tremont Plaza Hotel in Baltimore. The Association's members come from throughout the state and represent a diversity of interests and backgrounds. They include forest landowners, forest resource professionals, recreational groups, loggers and companies in the forest products industry.

The mission of the Association is "to promote the maintenance of a healthy and productive forest land base to enhance the economic, environmental, and social well-being of all who live in the state."

The two-day event will begin with a meeting of the Association's Board of Governors on Friday, which will be followed that evening by the annual banquet. Ray Owens, an award winning songwriter and entertainer, will present a show rich in frontier ballads, tall tales, and humorous stories in keeping with the meeting's theme.

Saturday's events will include updates on forestry issues of state and local concern by the Maryland Departments of Natural Resources, Agriculture, Environment, and Economic and Employment Development. John Heissenbuttel of the American Forests & Paper Association will provide an update on concerns of national interest. Douglas MacCleery of the US Forest Service will present a program entitled "American Forests: A History of Resiliency and Recovery". The Issue of Wildlands will be the focus of a discussion between panelists from the Maryland Conservation Council, the forest products industry and state government. Tom Horton, environmental columnist with The Baltimore Sun, will be the moderator for the discussion.

Neal Sampson of American Forests will be the luncheon speaker. His topic will be "The Historical Roots of Our Current Forest Health Problems." Following the luncheon the business meeting will resume and awards will be presented to many members for their service to the Association over the past year. Other awards to be presented will include the 1995 Logger of the Year Award and Master Logger awards to more than 50 loggers from throughout the state who have completed the newly developed Maryland Master Logger Program. Newly elected officers will be inducted and the president's challenge for 1996 will be presented.

Throughout the meeting will be an ongoing silent auction to raise funds for the Association. Various exhibits will be on display, including one with samples of a new line of MFA apparel. Membership in the Maryland Forests Association is open to all and nonmembers are welcome to attend the annual meeting.

For further information about the Association, or to register to attend the annual meeting, persons should call (301) 895-5369 or write to the Maryland Forests Association, P.O. Box 599, Grantsville, MD 21536.

Wayne Schrock Named Cooperator Of The Year At GSCD Dinner

The Garrett Soil Conservation District held its 10th annual cooperators dinner at the Bittinger Fire Hall on October 26 with over 100 people gathered to help honor the Wayne Schrock dairy farm family of Grantsville.

Each year the conservation district selects a landowner who has demonstrated an outstanding effort in voluntarily practicing proper land use and sound conservation principles.

The Schrock farm, known as Locker-Lane Holsteins, was selected because of the outstanding soil saving aspects of the farming operation. It is unique in that it is a total grass based operation. This means that no fields are plowed to raise corn or oats. Everything is planted in hay or pasture grasses. Usually a crop rotation is worked out to try to keep a field in grass three to five years. However, some of the fields Schrock farms have not been plowed for approximately 30 years.

The executive secretary of the Maryland State Soil Conservation Committee, Louise Lawrence, addressed the group and extended a "thank you" on behalf of the State Soil Conservation Committee and the Maryland Department of Agriculture to county landowners and users who are voluntarily practicing sound conservation measures.

Ms. Lawrence quoted statewide statistics showing remarkable progress in the amount of conservation work being done throughout the state. She also expressed appreciation to Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer for their efforts in supporting a voluntary incentive-driven approach of conservation programs.

DON'T BECOME A CHAIN SAW CASUALTY

What could be more inviting than a cozy fire in the hearth on a winter's day? But, if you plan to use a chain saw to harvest your firewood, Terry Wilkinson has a few words of advice.

"Think safety first," stresses Dr. Wilkinson, who is an agricultural and rural safety specialist for the West Virginia University Extension Service.

Last year, more than 44,000 people nationwide were treated in hospital emergency rooms for injuries caused by chain saw mishaps. Most of these injuries were the result of poor equipment maintenance, improper handling, or just plain carelessness.

One of the most hazardous aspects of using a chain saw is the reactive force caused by kickback of the saw. Kickback can be seven times faster than the human reaction and carries a force of more than 1,000 pounds.

"A dangerous situation occurs when the upper quadrant of the saw blade engages a solid object, causing the blade to rise up violently," Wilkinson warns. "Safety chains, anti-kickback devices, and safety tips can help minimize the possibility of injury."

The specialist offers these precautions to reduce the risk of injury:

* Don't just read the saw's owner manual--study it, and follow the safety precautions.
* Maintain your saw; keep the chain sharp and safety devices operational.
* Always maintain a firm two-handed grip on the saw.
* Wait until the saw has cooled down before refueling it; gasoline is flammable.
* Wear proper personal protective equipment, including sturdy work boots, hard hat, gloves, and eye and hearing protection. Chaps of ballistic nylon are also recommended to protect your legs.
* Never work alone; you may need someone to go for help.
* Make sure you're in top physical and mental condition; if you are tired or have something other than using the chain saw on your mind, don't begin the task.
* Don't operate a saw if you are taking medicine or if you have been drinking alcohol.
* If you want to cut a tree, make sure you follow proper techniques as outlined in the owner's manual.

"Adopt-A-Horse" Program To Bring Wild Horses To Bridgeport, W.Va.

Approximately 125 healthy, trainable horses will be offered for adoption at the 4 "T" Arena in Bridgeport, West Virginia, on November 18 and 19. These horses were recently rounded up from fragile western rangelands. This adoption event is sponsored by the Department of Interior, Bureau of Land Management. Since the Adopt-A-Horse Program began in 1973, over 145,000 animals have been adopted.

"The BLM has the legislative responsibility for managing and preserving the wild horse and burro as a 'living symbol' of the Old West," said District Manager Jim Dryden. "We periodically gather excess horses and burros off the western range and offer them for adoption. The Adopt-A-Horse Program is an excellent way to maintain an ecological balance between wild horses and burros, native wildlife and domestic animals grazing on the public lands," said Dryden.

Before being transported to satellite adoption centers in the east, all animals are vaccinated, blood tested and dewormed. Each animal is inspected by a qualified veterinarian and given a clean bill of health before being shipped.

To qualify to adopt up to four animals, applicants must have a sturdy corral at least six feet high, shelter, transportation, and means of caring for the animals. The adoption fee of $125 per horse is payable in cash or money order at the time of the adoption. The fee helps defray the federal government's cost of round-up, veterinary care, transportation and administrative expenses. After an animal has been adopted, BLM contract personnel will halter and load the animal for the adopter.

The horses will arrive at the 4 "T" Arena on Friday, November 17 with viewing hours from 1 - 5 p.m. The scheduled hours for the adoption will be from 7 a.m. - 5 p.m. on Saturday. If any horses are still available, they can be adopted on Sunday from 8 a.m. until all animals are adopted.

For applications and more information about this event, those interested should contact Art DiGrazia, Bureau of Land Management, P.O. Box 631, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, 53201-0631, or call toll free 1-800-293-1781 or FAX 414-297-4442. Applications received at the office by November 9 will be given a priority in choosing.

Maryland Crop Prospects Decline

According to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service, soybean production, forecast at 15.1 million bushels, will be down 23 percent from 1994 if expectations are realized.

Soybeans are expected to average 28 bushels per acre, and 540,000 acres are forecast for harvest statewide. Corn for grain in Maryland is expected to average 100 bushels per acre compared to the 118 bushels in 1994. If October 1 expectations are realized, farmers will harvest 380,000 acres of corn, and production will total 38.0 million bushels, 17 percent less than the 46.0 million bushels harvested in the state during 1994.

Maryland Small Grains: The 1995 winter wheat yield was a record high 64 bushels per acre, nine bushels per acre more than last year. Production, at 14.4 million bushels, was 19 percent higher than last year's production. Maryland farmers harvested 225,000 acres in 1995. Barley production was estimated at 5.0 million bushels in 1995, 20 percent more than 1994. A record yield of 81 bushels per acre and an increase in harvested acreage, to 62,000 acres, accounted for the increased production. Oat production for 1995 was 366,000 bushels, 36 percent more than last year's production. Harvested acreage held steady at 6,000 acres. The oat yield was 61 bushels per acre, 16 bushels per acre more than the 1994 yield. Rye production was 170,000 bushels, 21 percent more than a year ago. A yield decrease from 35 bushels to 34 bushels per acre was offset by an increase in harvested acreage, from 4,000 to 5,000 acres, to account for the increased production. Adequate soil moisture at planting and a moderate winter got small grains off to a good start. Weather during the spring months was favorable for small grain development. Harvest time also saw favorable conditions. Overall, it was generally a good weather year for small grain production.

DID YOU READ?

A week or so ago I read a short article in one of the farm newspapers titled "Milk Shortage," which I thought may be worth repeating in the Farm-O-Gram. The article went as follows: "According to a study of dairy farms in the Northeast, it cost $15.52 to produce 100 pounds of milk in 1994 on farms in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New York."

"Operating expenses, including about $1.75 for labor and 50 cents for utilities, totalled $13.07 per hundredweight. Depreciation, family living and debt service added another $2.45. Over the three states, milk sales averaged $13.60 per hundredweight."

"That's a bottom line few dairy farmers can live with."

SPECIAL DAIRY PROGRAM SCHEDULED

I would like for you to mark February 14 and 15 on your calendar. I am organizing an educational program that will attempt to address some of the problems that you, as an owner and manager of a dairy business, must cope with and be knowledgeable about. For the next few weeks I am going to touch upon some of the topics that may be addressed in the workshop.

It's a known fact that the single largest cost in the dairy business is feed. Sometimes I wonder if dairy managers devote an equal percentage of time managing the feeding program?" There are a lot of qualified nutritionist (and some not so hot) available to assist you in planning a feeding program. With all the modern technology available, I might even convince you that I am a capable nutritionist. I can provide you a text book feeding program that should do the job. But what happens after I leave your farm? Do you weight the feed proportions? Do the cows eat the volume indicated in the text book ration? Are you overfeeding the genetics of you herd? Is the forage to concentrate ration in the text book ration really being consumed by the cow? I could go on with several other questions, but in my opinion, dairy farmers are going to have to face up to the fact that survival may depend upon how effective the feeding program is managed. Yes, use competent nutritional help. But you had better understand exactly what's happening and be on top in calling the management shots.

BEEF WINNERS ANNOUNCED -- Winners in the annual 4-H Baby Beef fundraiser were recently announced. Bartlett Seeking Public Comments On Bosnia Issue

District VI Congressman Roscoe Bartlett will hold a town meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 7, at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, to discuss President Bill Clinton's commitment to send U.S. troops to serve as peace keepers in Bosnia if a peace treaty is reached.

Peace negotiations between the Croation, Bosnian Muslim government and Serbian forces were scheduled to begin in the U.S. at the end of October. If the negotiations produce a peace treaty between the warring parties in the former Yugoslavia, President Clinton has promised NATO that he would sent up to 25,000 U.S. troops to go to Bosnia for up to a year as part of a 60,000 man NATO peace-keeping force, a Bartlett spokesperson stated.

"If we have learned anything in the past 30 years, it is that our government, including our President, needs the informed support of the American people before we send our soldiers overseas into harm's way," commented Bartlett. "That's why I am holding this town meeting. I want to know what Western Marylanders think about the President's plan - before he orders U.S. troops to go to Bosnia."

The town meeting will be held in the college's new Knott Auditorium.

GRANTSVILLE

W.O.W. NEWS

Woodmen of the World, Grantsville Lodge 41, met Oct. 23 at the lodge hall. The roll call was answered by eight officers, one member, and three youth members.

Two hundred dollars was donated to the Woodmen of the World Hurricane Opal Relief Fund. A tractor trailer load of food, clothing, and furniture was taken from Hagerstown to Florida.

It was noted Kate Jenkins, fraternal co-ordinator from Hagerstown, has resigned from this position. Shawn Smith of LaVale has been chosen as the new fraternal co-ordinator.

Election of officers will be held in November, with installation in December.

A CERTIFICATE OF APPRECIATION was recently presented to Esther Benedict, left, for her years of volunteer service with the Red Cross bloodmobiles in Friendsville. Recruited in 1984 to become the Friendsville bloodmobile coordinator by Norma Hesen, then Garrett County chairman, Mrs. Benedict has since involved her granddaughter, two daughters-in-law, her daughter, and mother-in-law in running the bloodmobile held each year at the local fire hall. "When we first started," she said, "I had to carry my own wood in, and start the fire to heat the place. It was all open to the fire trucks and was very cold." Since then, she has coordinated approximately 41 bloodmobiles for the American Red Cross in Friendsville. Pictured presenting Mrs. Benedict with the certificate of appreciation is Sandi Buckalew, Garrett County American Red Cross executive director.

Historical Society Publishes Booklet About Co. Graves

The Garrett County Historical Society has recently completed a booklet titled Corrigendum to Maryland's Garrett County Graves, which is a compilation of information gathered over an eight-year period, that corrects and adds information to Maryland's Garrett County Graves, published in 1987 by the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR).

Because of a growing number of requests for help in family research, the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter had worked to compile the information for the first book. According to a chapter spokesperson, Garrett County had been part of the frontier during the American Revolution, and as the nation grew, much of the population moved west. Consequently, the records of many former residents were lost. With the resurgence of interest in genealogy, the need for resource material was resolved with the use of grave records, and Maryland's Garrett County Graves was published.

The historical society's current booklet may be purchased at a cost of $3.50, and is available at the museum in Oakland, or at any of the branches of the Ruth Enlow Library. It is also available by mail from Mrs. Martha Kahl, 877 Frick's Crossing Road, Deer Park, MD 21550. A $1 charge is added to cover the cost of postage and handling with all mail orders.

GIFT CERTIFICATE GIVEN - Northern High School cafeteria manager Mary Frantz is pictured left as she presents $50 gift certificates to Maria Groin and Janelle Bender, winners of the "lucky tray week" which was held in celebration of National Lunch Week. The certificates are from the Foot Locker and were donated by Parkway Foods.

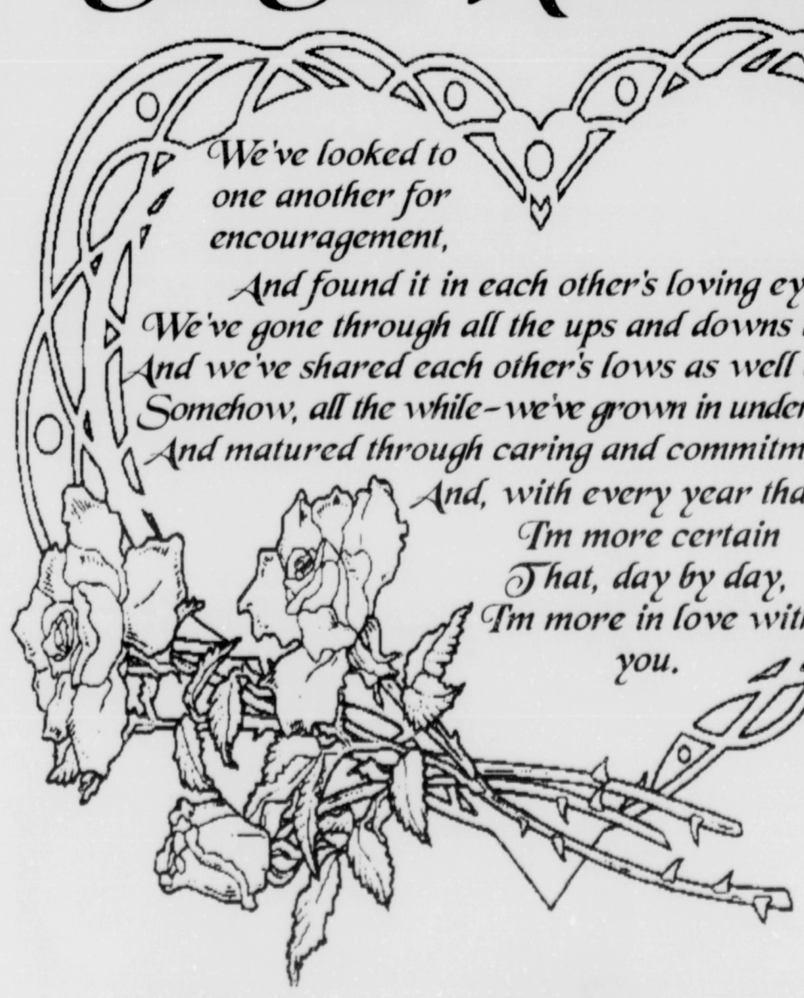
Doris,
With All My Love
On Our Anniversary

We've looked to one another for encouragement,
And found it in each other's loving eyes.
We've gone through all the ups and downs together,
And we've shared each other's lows as well as highs...
Somehow, all the while - we've grown in understanding,
And matured through caring and commitment, too.
And, with every year that passes, I'm more certain
That, day by day,
I'm more in love with you.



Happy Anniversary
I Love You, Marshall

Rider Finds

We rode up on this reflective man and his charitable wife after dark - pitch dark, it was. The cackling chickens and barking dogs let the couple know somebody was blowing in, but the Rosses were admittedly startled to see what had arrived.

Within a few blinks of an eye, though, the Mustangs were bedded down in knee-deep Timothy hay and drinking spring water from spare buckets along the barn's stone wall, centuries old. "Farmers always have more buckets than money," Pappy Ross let me know when I told him we could make do with just one. Before an hour went by, Buddy was munching on a fresh beef bone, and I was seated at that kitchen window with a steaming bowl of vegetable soup and an enormous roast beef sandwich. Precisely where I had settled in, an orphaned fawn the previous spring had been bottle-fed until it finally wandered off into the woods above the 150-year-old farmhouse.

Parting wasn't as easy as I thought, and perhaps not for Pappy Ross, either. He walked with me and the horses and Buddy for a long way. Finally we clasped all four of our hands together without saying much, but not before he detoured past his favorite spot - for thinking and for gathering herbs, Fox Rock.

The use of Fred Holtsneider's dairy barn along King's Run Road was another offer we couldn't refuse. His sister Linda's magnificent spaghetti in a jar - plus the French toast and hot shower in the morning at neighbor Jeff and Sara Bittner's - kept us lingering.

Beyond the immediate Oakland area and over the border into West Virginia, night fell without a hint of a place to bunk -- until we saw the full moon reflected on the silvery surface of a small body of water.

The shore was dotted with campers and cabins, and the sign told us the little slice of paradise was appropriately named, Silver Lake Campground. Hosts Floyd and Edith Cowger must have had a premonition because the coffee pot was full and there was a fenced-in paddock with grass as green as the pickings in the spring.

Good lord, there even was an apple tree in the corner right beside the pavilion equipped with a fireplace.

In the morning, the owners' son, Floyd Jr., and Edith's brother, Edgar Perkins, rounded up visitors and introduced them to the latest tourist attraction - two wild horses led by a dog and a saddle tramp who made himself right at home by sleeping on a picnic table way past sunup.

Afterward, Floyd Jr., an undiscovered but nonetheless talented singer and writer of country-Western tunes, provided the entertainment while Edith and her restaurant employees served up a breakfast feast for the hard trail ahead.

AN OLD-FASHIONED QUILTING BEE was experienced recently by fourth grade youngsters from Aurora School at the Aurora Community Building. The class had been working on patterning and tangrams in math and reading stories about life in the early 1900s, so this activity provided a fun way to bring the two subjects together. The students pieced the quilt with the help of parent Pat Dunkin and were involved in each step until its completion. Pictured around the quilt above, from left and moving clockwise, are: Rebecca Wiles, Zach Dunkin, Leah Strawser, Ryan Feather, Charlie Thayer, and Carl Pase. Parents and grandparents were present for this phase of the project and musical entertainment was provided by the local dulcimer group, Hammers and Strings.

Commissioners: "We Still Support Women's Shelter"

In the wake of recent funding disputes between the county board and the Garrett County Commission For Women, the Garrett County commissioners this week stressed that they still support local plans to construct a shelter for victims of domestic violence.

"It almost seems that this board is not in favor of the women's commission, and that could not be further from the truth," remarked Commissioner John Braskey, displaying the resolution which the county board passed on Sept. 26 earmarking two-thirds of each marriage license fee to fund local efforts to combat domestic violence.

"Twenty dollars of our license fees goes to domestic violence programs," Braskey stated. "Five dollars of that, as you see in the resolution, is guaranteed to go to the domestic violence shelter."

The commissioners voted in September to set the local marriage license fee at $30. At this time, the county board earmarked $15 of each fee to fund the domestic violence programs of the local Domestic Violence Sexual Assault Resource Center, Inc., and allocated an additional $5 of each fee to establish a

Also on hand for the evening's entertainment will be dance demonstrations, F.D.R.'s taped address to Congress on Dec. 8, 1941, and performances by local talent, including Leonard Eiswert, with music by Vaughn Monroe; Pegg Janney as Kate Smith; Tom Peterson singing God Bless the U.S.A.; and music by The Crosswinds. Taps will be played by Joe Ashby. Food for the evening will be provided by several area churches, and proceeds from the event will benefit the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross, which during WWII recruited more than 104,000 registered nurses to serve in military hospitals at home and overseas, collected 13.4 million units of blood for American servicemen, and spent 945,000 hours assembling 27 million food and medical packages for American and Allied prisoners of war.

100 Persons Discuss Black Bear Issues At DNR Meeting

Hunting, Compensation Considered

While recent cold weather may be sending local black bears scurrying for their dens to take long winter's naps, Western Maryland's human population is keeping warm debating the perceived virtues and vices of the species.

Concern over issues surrounding the local black bear population drew approximately 100 persons to the Northern High School auditorium last week. The crowd of farmers, hunters, and other interested persons came to hear and discuss the recommendations of a citizens' task force which was convened over the summer by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to develop possible solutions to bear nuisance problems.

The task force recommended, among other things, that the DNR monetarily compensate persons suffering bear damage to agricultural assets and that the department establish a limited, lottery-style bear hunting season in the state. While these recommendations were supported by the majority of the task force's 19 members, two minority opinions were also released after the task force concluded its meetings in September.

Even at last week's public meeting, while the majority of participants appeared to favor some type of bear hunting, the room was split on the issue of financial reimbursement for damage victims.

The proposed bear hunt, too, has been criticized because it will target bears in general instead of focusing on the individual nuisance bears causing the damage.

The task force's first recommendation - that the DNR maintain its current black bear depredation policy with increased emphasis on education, technical support, and advice - was endorsed unanimously by the task force, and found general support from last week's meeting crowd.

However, the task force's second and third recommendations, those dealing with a compensation program and bear hunting lottery, elicited more discussion from those assembled. These recommendations are as follows:

"2. The department should establish a black bear damage compensation program to reimburse for damage caused by black bears. The task force also recommends that the department follow the guide-

Goals For Public Schools To Be Issue At Next Week's BOE Meeting

As is customary with the Garrett County Board of Education, the elected members with the superintendent of schools review and occasionally re-write the goals for the board and the goals for the public schools, which are two separate lists of guidelines. Both lists of goals were adopted in July 1988 and have been revised in March 1991, Sept. 1993, and Aug. 1994. The goals have been a topic of discussion among the current board members for approximately three months, with board member Patrick Riley introducing new wording and direction with goals he wrote. The goals for public schools will be reviewed at next Tuesday's board of education meeting and are to be acted upon by the members.

Riley's mission statement and goals for the board were accepted at the September meeting, with board member Hannah Sincell voting against the adoption of the new guidelines. Riley introduced his own goals for the public schools at the October meeting and made a motion to accept them on that meeting date. Board member Dale Carpenter seconded the motion, but several parents, teachers, and administrators in the audience, as well as Sincell, expressed their reservations about Riley's goals. After a heated discussion, Carpenter withdrew his second. The board then decided to table the issue until this month's meeting, and Superintendent Jerome Ryscavage urged board members to allow administrators and teachers to help in the

Local Paintball Team Captures Eighth Place In World Event

The Venom Competition Paintball Team of Western Maryland was among 72 teams from 30 nations that competed in the five-man division of the 1995 National Professional Paintball League World Cup Paintball Tournament, held recently in Orlando, Fla.

The local team members captured an impressive eighth place in the tourney, as they defeated teams from Colorado, Florida, France, Japan, Australia, the Czech Republic, and Canada, with the Canadian team being the number two ranked team in the world.

All games were played center flag with a 15-minute time limit and a 60-point scoring system: three points for each elimination, 10 for the first flag pull, and 35 for a flag hang in the opponents' flag section.

Venom started off the first-round preliminary games with a 57-1 win over the professional team, Avalanche of Colorado. They crushed the Far East Dragons of Japan, 60-0, in their second encounter, but then lost to Outta Control from California in their third game, 60-6.

In the first game of the second round, Venom dominated Sharks-Praha from the Czech Republic, 60-6, then topped the Regulators from Australia by a 60-9 mark.

At this point Venom needed only 10 points to assure a spot in the semi-final round. In the final game of round two, the Venom members decided to just assure first flag pull worth 10 points, which they played against the Florida Bushmasters. Venom got the first flag pull plus one

Severe Wintery Storm Blamed For Two-Vehicle Fatal Accident

An early, severe wintery storm was apparently the cause of a two-vehicle accident early Wednesday morning that claimed the life of an Oakland woman.

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, said Alison K. Evans, 44, was killed in the 6:20 a.m. accident on Rt. 219 South, near the Gortner Road. The second vehicle, a 1986 Chevrolet C-30 truck, owned by Suburban Propane, was operated by David Lee McRobie, 44, also of Oakland. He was reportedly uninjured.

According to the police report, Evans was traveling north on Rt. 219 when she lost control of her 1988 Honda Civic on the icy, snow-covered roadway. Her car spun around and traveled backward across the center line, where it was struck by the southbound propane truck. The force of the impact reportedly propelled the Honda off the road, where it came to rest in a ditch. Evans was pronounced dead at the scene.

Evans, who was employed as a nurse at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, was born Feb. 17, 1951, in Rhode Island, the daughter of Charles P. "Chip" and Mary Evans, Oakland. She also leaves three children, Carolyn Geroski, Stacy Geroski, and Eric Geroski.

Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, is in charge of arrangements, which were incomplete at press time. The family is requesting expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

Local Santa Locates Owner Of $500 In Cashier Checks

Lou Stouffer, Terra Alta, W.Va., better known locally as Santa Claus, spends much of his year collecting toys, clothing, and numerous other items that he then delivers to hundreds of low-income families in the area who may not be able to afford Christmas gifts.

Stouffer, who was named one of President George Bush's 1,000 Points of Light for his many years of service as a "real" Santa Claus, often attends local auctions for this purpose, and it was at an auction in Oakland recently that he purchased an old suitcase that was full of mostly useless material, with the exception of $500 worth of cashier's checks. Instead of simply cashing the checks, however, he did just what everyone would expect of Santa Claus; he searched diligently until he found the original owner of the checks and returned them.

"I saw the name Reuschel on the checks, and the fella who was holding the auction said he bought a lot of stuff in Cumberland for his auction," Stouffer explained. "So I got the phone book out and started looking for that name in Cumberland. I finally reached a woman who told me that the man whose name was on the checks was her husband, but that he had died earlier this year."

Stouffer said that Evelyn Reuschel told him she knew her husband had had the checks, but that she had no idea where he had put them. She said that the suitcase was one he had used for travel, but after he died she had no further use

READY FOR BATTLE? The "artillery" at the Wisp Ski Area in McHenry went to work this past weekend as subfreezing temperatures allowed snowmaking to begin for the 1995-96 season. Thirty-four machines converted no less than four million gallons of water into 28 acre-feet of snow in just 40 hours of work, and have been operating on several occasions since then, including today. Some of the mounds, called "whalebacks" by skiers, are over 20 feet high and awaiting the slopes groomers. According to Bob Yaste, who directs the snowmaking operation at Wisp, the resort will open this Saturday. Persons may call 387-4911 for specific information.

Md. State Police Arrest Va. Man On CDS Charges

A Winchester, Va. man was arrested and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) Monday afternoon after a traffic stop on Interstate 68.

According to a report filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Douglas Reid Rankin, 48, was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, traveling 79.2 miles per hour in a 65 mph zone, and not wearing a seatbelt, following the 1:34 p.m. incident.

Rankin was initially stopped for the speeding violation, and the trooper noticed a faint odor of suspected marijuana coming from the vehicle. A consent to search revealed a corn cob pipe, and a clear plastic bag containing the suspected CDS, according to the report.

DWI ARRESTS

Three DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrests were logged at the local state police barrack during the past week.

Johnny Alan Wagner, 32, St. Louis, Ill., was arrested and charged with DWI on Nov. 5, after he reportedly failed to stop at a stop sign at the intersection of Rt. 219 and the Sand Flat Road. The arresting officer was Tfc. E.S. Derham.

Norman Andrew Fitzgerald, 29, Cresaptown, was charged with DWI on Nov. 5, after he was initially stopped for exceeding the speed limit as he traveled along Rt. 40, near the Old Frostburg Road. Tfc. Derham was the arresting officer.

Vicki Lynne Yoder, 25, Grantsville, was arrested and charged with DWI on Nov. 4, after she was stopped for exceeding the speed limit on Rt. 40, near the Lower New Germany Road. Officer Derham conducted the arrest.

B&E, THEFTS REPORTED

Investigations are continuing into two reported breaking, entering, and theft reports filed during the past week.

Thomas J. Yusko, Crofton, told police that sometime between Sept. 24 and Nov. 3, unknown persons broke into his rental unit at Deep Creek Village, Marsh Hill Road, McHenry, and stole numerous small items, including blankets, pillows, dishes, flatware, personal items, a Panasonic stereo with compact disc and cassette players and speakers; a G.E. four-head video cassette recorder. The total value of items taken, according to the report, is approximately $839.

Tfc. D.W. Broadwater is the investigating officer.

A breaking, entering, and theft also occurred at a summer cottage on Lake Shore Road, near Friendsville. The owner, Charles D. Leach, Brookville, Pa., told police that between Oct. 16 and 31, unknown persons broke a wooden door jamb, and damaged a steel door to gain entrance into the cottage. Once inside, they stole a black VCR with remote control. The total value of damaged and/or stolen items is approximately $550, according to the report.

Tfc. Broadwater is also investigating this incident.

SERVING IN AN ELECTED OFFICE, as we all know, can take a terrible toll on one's physical well-being, but we had no idea that Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey had "deteriorated" to such an extent because of the pressure of his job. We were relieved to find out, however, that this was a make-up job donned by Brasky in order to help the Grantsville Lioness Club operate its "haunted house" over Halloween, proceeds of which went into the Grantsville Community Park Playground Fund. Also in the photo are Jean Durst, left, former professional costumer and make-up artist, and Commissioner Braskey's wife, Pam. The Lioness Club will hold a benefit auction on November 18 at 7 p.m. at the Grantsville fire hall, and is presently collecting donated items for the auction. Persons with such items are asked to call 895-5454 or 895-5208 to arrange for pick-up of items, if necessary. Photo by C. Speicher.

"Standing Bear," "Dream Catcher" To Speak At GCC

Steve "Standing Bear" Lowery, a Native American, and his daughter, Natala Rose "Dream Catcher" Lowery, will appear in the Laker's Cafe of Garrett Community College on Friday, November 10 at 7 p.m.

Lowery, who is a registered active member of the Lumbee Tribe in North Carolina, bills himself as a "carver of stone, bone and wood, creator of beading and leather work, teller of legends, and presenter of traditional Native American dancing." He and his family have performed for pow-wows and festivals as well as in schools, churches, and organizations throughout the East.

Of his performances he states, "Walking the red road while living in the white world can be a challenge. It's like always trying to stay balanced. I'm just doing my part and whenever possible, I'll strive to keep the true Native American Culture alive."

Their performance will be sponsored by the Student Government Association with partial funding by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Admission is free.

PSI Ordered For Man Convicted On Drug Charge

A pre-sentence investigation (PSI) was ordered for an Oakland man who was found guilty of one count of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett, in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Jason P. Kelley, 21, will be sentenced following the completion of the investigation. A charge of DUI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) also brought a guilty verdict, and a charge of driving on an expired license was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

According to court records, Kelley was arrested on the above charges on July 2 by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy who reportedly saw a vehicle on Rt. 50 that appeared to have run off the road. Kelley told the deputy he had not run off the road, but was driving on a dirt path off the road. As the two talked, the deputy detected an odor of alcohol. He also noticed the defendant's eyes had a glassy appearance, and he seemed confused. A subsequent search of the vehicle's glove compartment revealed a small plastic bag containing cocaine.

In other district court news, two out-of-county men were sentenced in last week's proceedings, after being found guilty in April of malicious destruction of property. Each had pleaded not guilty to the offense.

Kurt H. Myer, 36, Annapolis, was handed a one-year suspended sentence, and his co-defendant, James T. Connor, 34, Ashton, was sentenced to six months in jail (also suspended). Each was also fined $350, placed on one year of supervised probation, and must make a $4,000 restitution to Paul Harris, Pasadena.

Charges had been filed against Myer and Connor after an Oct. 10, 1994, incident at a cabin on the Hoyes Run Road. State police investigated a complaint filed by Harris after he found his cabin had been broken into. The front door was cracked, several windows had been destroyed, and a sliding glass door had been shot out. It was later learned a newer cabin located nearby belonged to the defendants. They reportedly told another person that they shot at the cabin because "it was old and they wanted to see it fall."

During a sentence revision hearing for Daniel R. Seib II, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, he was granted probation before judgment on an earlier guilty verdict for possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). Conditions of his probation state he must complete 40 hours of community service, and all other terms remain as originally imposed. Seib had been arrested on April 23 after he, along with several other occupants in a vehicle, were found to be in possession of marijuana.

Larry G. Sines, 45, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support of a minor child. He was handed a six-month suspended sentence for the offense, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to pay $690 in late child support payments, and to make regular payments in the future.

Charges of battery, filed by Anna A. Donahue, 35, and Weldon K. Nicholas Jr., 36, both of Oakland, brought not guilty verdicts by the judge. In each case, the defendants took the 5th Amendment. Donahue and Nicholas filed the charges against each other after a July 25 domestic dispute at their home.

Charles D. Upole, 38, Oakland, was not prosecuted on two counts of battery at the request of the complainant. The charges, filed by Charles Martin McCrobie, 44, Oakland, stemmed from an Aug. 4 incident.

In a cross-complaint against McCrobie, filed by

McCLIVE'S LAKEFRONT DINING

Bake a bagful of cranberries--plus 1¼ cups sugar and 2 Tbs. thawed orange juice concentrate--about an hour at 325 degrees in a tightly covered dish. When juices form and the berries are very soft, add 2 Tbs. Grand Marnier. Chill covered.

"Recycle" the oil that marinated artichokes come in. Use it for the oil in salad dessing. Or saute vegetables in it.

Mashed potaotes, the ultimate comfort food, are even homier flavored with garlic. Cook halved garlic cloves together with the potatoes, then beat both potaotes and garlic with olive oil, milk, salt and pepper until fluffy.

The easiest way to cut brownies and bar cookies neatly and quickly is with a pizza cutter.

The best thing about turkey is the leftovers; make sure you buy enough. Plan on a least a pound per serving for a bird less than 21 pounds, 3/4 pound per with a bigger bird.

MARCHING CHAMPIONS - The Northern High School Marching Band, for the fifth consecutive year, came out on top in the Chapter 13 Tournament of Bands Championships on Saturday, held in Hedgesville, W.Va. Northern marchers competed in Group I against three other bands and placed first with a score of 82.5. Urbana followed in second with a score of 82.35, and Landsdowne came in third with 80.7. The local group was also awarded the specialty trophies for best marching and maneuvering and best drum major (Mindy Frazee), and tied with Urbana for best music. This win qualified the band to compete this Saturday in Scranton, Pa., in a contest that will determine the group's national placement. The band is under the direction of Bill Robinson, assisted by Von Mosser. See story.

Northern Garrett Band Again Takes First In Championships

The Northern High School Marching Band won the Group I, Chapter 13 Championships on Saturday, Nov. 4. The contest was held in Hedgesville, W.Va., and Northern placed first in Group I for the fifth consecutive year. This win enables the band to travel to Scranton, Pa., this Saturday to compete in the final championships which will determine the band's placement in the national standings.

On the way to their win, the Northern marchers outscored the following schools: Urbana, Musselman, Petersburg, Westmar, East Hardy, Catoctin, Cedar Crest, Francis Scott Key, Hancock, Lansdowne, Frankfort, North Carroll, Berkeley Springs, Westminister, Jefferson, Williamsport, and Thomas Jefferson.

The Northern band consists of 35 playing members and 10 guard members, and under the direction of Bill Robinson, assisted this year by Von Mosser. The brass instructor is John McLaughlin, and the guard is coordinated by Debbie Yommer with the assistance of Nancy Geisler.

This year the band is exploring music influenced by the Spanish/Latin culture. The show opens with a traditional call to the arena and presents arrangements of Malaguena by Lecuona, El Cumbanchero by Hernandez, Besome' Mucho (Kiss Me Much!) by Valazquez, and closes with an overlay of Malaguena and America from Bernstein's West Side Story.

The marching show again this year has been arranged solely by members of the band, including Mindy Frazee, Chas Yommer, Nathan Rawe, Emily Friend, Amy Wagner and Lisa Hutzel. The senior leaders are Erin Bray, Brandi Beitzel (guard captain), Emily Friend, Cindy Teats, Eli Theriot, Amy Wagner (pit captain), Chas Yommer (percussion captain) and Senior Drum Major Mindy Frazee.

Soloists for the 1995 show include Jeff Folk, Jeremy Robinson and Adam Yommer, mellophone; Eli Theriot, tuba; Avery Hamilton and Amy Wagner, keyboards; Nathan Rawe and Adam Yommer, trumpet; Crystal Merrbach, flute; and Josh Robinson, baritone sax.

SHS Band Ends Season With Good Showing

The Southern Garrett Marching Band ended its 1995 competition season with a good showing at the Tournament of Bands Chapter 13 Championships, held Saturday in Hedgesville, W.Va. In Group II, Southern took third place with a score of 84.45. While this was an impressive score for the group, it was not high enough to qualify the band for inclusion in the national competition in Scranton, Pa., next weekend.

In the championship contest Saturday, Southern competed against nine other bands in Group II. (The groupings are based on band size.) South Carroll came out on top with a score of 90.85, followed in second place by Walkersville with 88.20. Southern's score of 84.45 was a solid two points above the next competitor, Berkeley Springs. Westmar finished in fifth place with a score of 80.85, and the remaining five schools scored in the 70's.

Northern's marchers placed first in their division - Group I - with a score of 82.5, and will go on to compete this weekend in Scranton. See separate story and picture.

Southern's band is under the direction of Richard D. Clever, assisted by Marjorie Clever. The band's show this year featured the music and costumes of the Broadway musical Miss Saigon. The drill designer and show coordinator was Robert Thomas, and Meaghan Price was the marching instructor, assisted by Danielle Gaither and Katie Seville. Dennis Reaser arranged the music, and music instructors were Michael Cale and Mike Bonyak, assisted by Kendra Sweitzer.

The percussion arranger and coordinator for this season was Dave Campbell, and percussion instructors were Jason Barr and Carrie Clever. Denise Compitello and Renee Sherrad were the instructors for the color guard.

The field captains for the '95 season were Jennifer Barnard, drum major; Amanda Mountain and Abby Nichols, color guard captains; Scot Sines and Danny Murphy, drum captains; and Maggie Suess, pit captain. Soloists this year were Josh Elmlinger and Wesley Wilt on trumpet and Jennifer Shillingburg on baritone.

Local Uno's Restaurant Earns Award

At the recent Spirit of Hospitality Convention '95 held in New Orleans, La., Greig Johnson, owner of Pizzeria Uno, Deep Creek Lake, was presented the Franchise Pacesetter Award by Uno's Corporation.

The highest award given by Uno's Corp. to a franchisee, the Pacesetter Award is accorded to one restaurant each year. Award criteria include business development, service, sanitation, marketing, management, staff, and food quality, a spokesperson stated.

"We're particularly thrilled to receive the Franchise Pacesetter Award because our market if very different from other Uno restaurants," commented Owner/Manager Greig Johnson. "We are not in a major metro market. We're located in an area that requires combining a world class resort area with a year-round lake community. Our repeat business ratio is significant and because of our location, we must depend more on repeat business than any other one in the chain."

The original Uno's opened in Chicago in 1943 as a deep dish pizzeria. There are currently over 160 Uno's in the U.S. and Puerto Rico.

Johnson credited his staff and managers for bringing the award home to Garrett County.

"We have one of the friendliest and hardest working staffs that I have seen, and our management team is first rate," Johnson said. The management team includes General Manager Patrick Mitchell, Beverage and Facilities Manager Bill Ingram, Group Sales and Personnel Manager Greta Taylor, Kitchen Manager Chris Thrasher, and Joe Refosco, who handles guest relations. Depending on the time of year, Pizzeria Uno's staff can swell from 70 to 125 employees.

Johnson indicated that Uno's Corporation has given his franchise the leeway to experiment with and adopt new menu ideas. With special permission from the corporate office in Boston, Johnson added pastas, special chicken dishes, and grilled entrees to the standard Uno's menu.

As a result of his success, the Deep Creek Lake franchise now gets to test-market special dishes for the rest of the chain. The local restaurant is equipped with twice the grill and saute stations of other Uno restaurants. Immediate plans include introducing fresh pastas and increasing the number of low fat selections available.

Uno's Corp. has also permitted the Deep Creek restaurant to develop new marketing ideas, including the development of a special wine selection and a marketing plan to promote sporting events, colleges, and secondary school functions.

The local Uno's was also a forerunner in the corporation in developing corporate event and private party packages. The restaurant offers a down-stairs banquet room with seating for up to 150 persons as well as a big-screen television and video equipment for private and corporate events.

LOCAL UNO'S SETS THE PACE - Pizzeria Uno restaurant, Deep Creek Lake, was recently presented the Franchise Pacesetter Award by the Uno's Corporation, headquartered in Boston. The award, presented in recognition of accomplishments in the areas of business development, service scores, sanitation, marketing, management, staff, and food quality, is given to only one Uno restaurant franchise each year. Pictured left to right are Kitchen Manager Chris Thrasher; Joe Refosco, who handles guest relations; General Manager Patrick Mitchell; owner Greig Johnson holding the award; Group Sales and Personnel Manager Greta Taylor; and Beverage and Facilities Manager Bill Ingram.

Say No to Gambling...

A major debate, coupled with various "studies," has been going on for several months now throughout Maryland and particularly in neighboring Allegany County over the issue of whether or not casino gambling should be legalized in the state. The controversy is expected to be a hot item in the 1996 General Assembly after the 1995 assembly ordered a task force to examine the pros and cons.

A debate was held Tuesday evening in Frostburg, with Allegany County Commissioner Arthur Bond speaking in favor of casino gambling and former state senator and present mayor of Frostburg, John Bambacus, speaking against. Bond maintained that casino gambling would provide a tremendous economic boon to Allegany County, providing 2,000 direct jobs and other auxiliary jobs, while Bambacus talked about the social and moral decay that accompanies gambling.

We agree with Bambacus that casino gambling, despite its apparent positive economic impact, would be bad news for Maryland and Western Maryland. Gambling brings with it a host of undesirable activities that have a significant impact on the quality of life. It is precisely the high quality of life that makes Garrett County such a great place to live and to visit.

Secondly, according to a new organization called Marylanders Against Casinos (MAC), the economic impact of gambling is negative rather than positive. They say that a study done by the Abell Foundation shows that for every $40 generated by gambling, it costs the state $200 in services.

It is also a fact that casino gambling takes a terrific toll on restaurants, as casinos commonly use discounted meals and free drinks to keep patrons from leaving the building. Why would they go next door and spend $15 for a prime rib dinner when they can stay where they are and pay just $4.99?

Because there is such big money associated with gambling we can expect the intense lobbying efforts by gambling proponents to be at a feverish pitch throughout the General Assembly session, which will get underway in January. Thus it is important for those opposed to get organized and express their opinions.

Persons desiring more information about MAC may contact Marcia Harris, executive vice president of the Restaurant Association of Maryland, at 410-298-0011, or Senator Christopher McCabe (R-14) at 410-988-9818.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I have been hoping someone would challenge my views on our public education system. Since you are the only one, I will address this letter to you.

Since God's people are the only mouth He has, the only hands He has, and the only feet He has, it is high time someone speaks for God, not as God. The statements I have made in my letters have been taken from official statistics nationwide. I am sure there are many good teachers in Garrett County, but they are expected to do as they are instructed. Garrett County to me is a unique place to live, the cream of the world. Let us keep it that way.

To mention a few statistics, I quote from the 1995-96 resolution of the National Education Association. The following resolutions were adopted by delegates to the 1995 representative assembly: 1. Teachers declare October gay/lesbian History Month; 2. Homosexual and lesbian activists are extremely powerful factors in the N.E.A. They declared this an important milestone. The N.E.A. represents 2.2 million teachers throughout the U.S. and are leaders in educating our society about sexual orientation; 3. The N.E.A. recognizes the importance of raising the awareness and increasing the sensitivity of staff, students and parents, and community in our society. The association therefore supports the development of positive plans that lead to effective training programs.

Quote from Marlin Madox Radio Show--"New Age from the Underground: This documented exposé uncovers the extent of the New Age impacting music, New Age videos, New Age soul food, New Age astrology, and New Age religion. Without question the force behind the New Age Movement is demonic."

These are carryover rituals from the eastern religions that teach evolution, astrology, acupuncture and more. They teach that man continues to evolve until he becomes god, the same lie Satan deceived Eve with in the Garden of Eden. The true religion that made this country great is being put on the back shelf.

Quotes from a law firm--students suspended for distributing religious materials; North Carolina judge sued for praying for justice in court room; and girl's book report on the Bible called illegal.

From another law firm such things as: a student punished for saying silent grace for his meal, girl forbidden to read her Bible on the school bus. Space forbids telling the Age of Aquarius, contacting the dead, etc.

I was on the advisory committee when sex education was adopted in Garrett County. I have on my desk a teacher's suggested work book used in Allegany County called "Health Education," a curricular approach to optional health, Vol. I and Vol. II. This program was adopted in Garrett County. The titles are subtle downgrading and evil.

I have numerous reports, clippings, books, and topics by people who have studied and know the situations. Anyone is welcome to review them with me. Space prevents it here.

It is high time the people speak out for God (not as gods) while we have opportunity. Letters and editorials are mostly one person's opinion. These are true statistics.

Sincerely,
Homer Mellott

To the Editor:

Three cheers to the editor of The Republican for speaking out against narrow-mindedness, radicalism, and bigotry!

There are some of these adherents in every community of which ours and Oakland's is no exception.

These self-righteous, Bible-pounding bigots wrongly claim rights to the name of Christianity by their lack of being able to, or failing to completely read their Bibles.

In their self-righteousness, they do exactly what they were warned by Jesus not to do, unjustly judge others, being blind to their own sins and faults.

They call themselves "Christians," but have never truly become acquainted with the Holy Spirit, which is supposed to live within them, if they are truly Christian.

If radicalism and bigotry were not in their hearts, there would be no reason for factions of difference and lack of true understanding. Yet, in their ignorance, they continue to criticize and persecute others, being blind to the truth.

A lot of this fomentation comes from "talk radio" which pervades the ether from day to day, and on every wave band, long-wave and short wave. Some people spend more time listening to sermons that particularly tickle their fancy than they do getting out and doing good among their neighbors.

I sometimes wonder what these people expect to do in Heaven, if they get there? Do they expect to stand around for untold centuries (eternity) just praising and singing? God does not expect to be continually fawned upon, and clearly says so. Neither does He condone vain repetitions of prayer. I suspect Heaven, for those lucky enough to get there, will be found to be a busy place, but there will be no room for contentiousness, bigotry, or radicalism. That generation of vipers will not survive the resurrection.

To the Editor:

Graduating in the top ten of the claps of '84 from Southern High School and cum laude from West Virginia University with a bachelor of science in physical therapy in 1988, I, too, owe a great deal of credit to Garrett County schools for my education. I agree that Garrett County has many good teachers. From those teachers, I received praise for my efforts, and as early as fifth grade, instruction on classes I needed to prepare for college and what I had hoped to be a profession in physical therapy.

In response to your letter to Mr. Mellott (Nov. 2, 1995), I and others can name several teachers who have ridiculed the Bible and those of us as Christians. Sir, I know I graduated 11 years ago, but the teachers I refer to are still teaching, except two who have retired. Being directly involved in assisting in homework and tutoring over the years, others have been ridiculed, teased and condemned for their belief in Jesus Christ by the same teachers. I dare say that a few of those teachers if not all still hold their same belief as well.

Sir, in one of my classes at Southern I was introduced to an occult game. Sadly saying I did play that game a couple of times 'til my mother showed me the dangers of playing. In reference to the gay lifestyle, 11 years ago it was just starting to get promoted, and even then we were instructed to accept it as normal. One teacher even stated any girl who got pregnant should have an abortion rather than keeping the child, for it would ruin her life. (I'm thankful that several did not take that man's advise.)

One Christian friend whose family did not believe in girls wearing pants was teased and singled out by teachers in front of the entire class. Names such as "Preacher" and Bible Fanatic" were used by students as well as few teachers. One teacher stated, "Believing in Biblical creation is plain stupid, for God does not exist."

To say that all teachers are "perverting our children," would be ignorant, but to say that Garrett County does not have any teachers that promote gay lifestyle as normal, "safe" sex or "ridicule the Bible" is also ignorance.

Every Christian is to be the spokesman for "the only true and living God." The guidelines set forth in the Bible for morality were created out of God's love for us, and those guidelines are this nation's foundation. I am proud that Garrett County elected school board members are conscientiously attempting to uphold their duties. I commend those board members, for being ridiculed is never easy. I pray that you continue to serve God first and get my home county refocused on the founding principles of this country.

Sincerely,
Chris (Werdebaugh) Evans

To the Editor:

November 11 has been set aside to remember all the veterans in the great wars, both living and dead.

In every war our nation has stood together as one great team to mobilize and make ready the vast armada of ships, planes, equipment, and the finest of our young American men and women to stamp out aggression and maintain the principle upon which our great nation is founded.

We return from war as heros with parades and ticker tape, crowds, and great euphoria everywhere.

This was not apparent when our heros returned form Korea and Vietnam and many veterans were disenchanted and greatly discouraged.

I attend the service every Veterans' Day here in Oakland and I am saddened by the small and yearly dwindling crowds. How soon we forget the sacrifice our service men have made to ensure the freedom we all now enjoy. Let us not forget our local men who have given so much. These brave men include Sgt. Delmar C. Dilley, Distinguished Service Cross, WWII; Col. Robert E. Railey, Distinguished Flying Cross, Korea; Navy Lieutenant W.E. Bowen, Distinguished Flying Cross, WWII; Major Richard Condon Browning, Marines, Distinguished Flying Cross, Korea; Sergeant Paul Hoye, Silver Star WWII; Sergeant Charles P. Mersing, Silver Star, Korea; Spec. 4 Richard E. Friend, Distinguished Service Cross, Korea; Sergeant Orvilie Lee Kline, Distinguished Service Cross, WWI; Sergeant William T. Frickey, Sergeant Richard R. Gibson, Major Kenneth A. Sines, and Major Michael W. Malone, all Garrett County men awarded the Silver Star; and Lt. Carroll W. Casteel, Capt. John C. O'Donnell, Cmdr. Lee M. Ramsey, Sgt. Reed S. Wilburn, Sgt. Kenneth E. Wilburn, Tech Sgt. Leo E. Friend, Sgt. Peter P. Cardaro, Emroy M. Glotfelty, Tech Sgt. William J. Martin, all Garrett County men awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Remember these decorated veterans both living and dead and all the veterans and their families here and throughout our country who have sacrificed so much for freedom by attending the special Veterans' Day service at the county courthouse, Oakland, Nov. 11 at 11 a.m.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Sandy Major, of the Garrett Community College Continuing Education Division, requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Sandy:

The Small Business Program at Garrett Community College is a major asset to our community. The selection of courses is excellent. Each course imparts usable skills to owners and employees alike. My estimate is that half of our 14 percent gain this year is the direct result of more efficient information handling learned in the program.

Training in interpersonal communications also contributed to our gains. On the production line, between planning and operations, and with our customers, we obtain accurate information faster and communicate more efficiently than last year. Morale is higher than ever because of changes that make it easier for people to give and receive information.

The classes provide people with the proper words, the proper formats, and enough self-confidence to talk about and listen to new information and ideas without time loss due to posturing. We can get to the point faster today without offending others than we did last year.

It says a lot that your and your staff provided courses interesting enough that those from our shop keep the handouts to use at work. I think that seeing those handouts being used caused me to look at the numbers and conclude that at least half our production gains were due to improved information and communications efficiencies.

You, your department staff, and GCC are to be commended for providing cost effective tools for the small business community.

Thank you.

To the Editor:

New tougher drunken driving laws continue to be tested in the courts. Last month the Court of Appeals of Maryland, Maryland's highest court, unanimously upheld a drunken driving law allowing the curbside suspension of driver's licenses.

On October 25, the Virginia Court of appeals ruled that the state's tough, new drunken driving law which took effect January 1, is constitutional. In an 8 to 1 decision written by Chief Judge Norman K. Moon, the court said the power of police to seize the licenses of drivers who fail or refuse to take a breath test was "not to punish the offender but to remove from the highways an operator who is a potential danger to other users." The laws constitutionality had been challenged after judges across the state ruled that the suspension punished a driver twice for the same offense: once when the license is taken away and again if the driver is convicted of drunken driving. Charges against hundreds of drunk drivers were thrown out by the judges and in several jurisdictions police had been ordered to stop the curbside suspensions until the issue was decided by a higher court.

In Fairfax County, Commonwealth's Attorney Robert F. Horan Jr. said his office now intends to bring many cases which had been thrown out, back to court. "It's the serious drunk drivers, the ones with blood alcohol levels of .23 or higher--are accidents waiting to happen." Other attorneys in the state disagree. Taking a person's license cannot be considered anything other than punishment they maintain, and that the law constitutes

Apple Report

The first apples of this year's harvest were ready during that heat wave of July and August. Calvin is not a variety I have seen in any orchard other than my own. In 1989 it was offered by only one small, commercial supplier of fruitstock in Ball Ground, Georgia. "Fine dessert apple," the catalogue entry reads, "and good for cooking. Brought to Kentucky from Virginia over 100 years ago. Was used in making brandy."

I have had trouble getting this tree to set. It may be that not having been pruned hard enough, all its energy goes into blossoming. It is the prettiest of my trees at the beginning of May. This year I did get a few apples from it, though the first I picked too early.

By the first week of August, it had fulfilled the catalogue's promise, though we did not presume to make brandy -- a federal offense. Early next year I intend to prune it harder to see if that enables the tree to give us more fruit.

For the first time I got something like a crop from the Granny Smith tree which had never given me more than two or three apples though it has been growing at my place for a full decade now. A third cousin, once removed-- also a commercial orchardman-- advised me on this tree. Grannies have a propensity to reach for the sky. The trick is to get them to grow out, and not up.

After a few years of my amateurish efforts, I have finally gotten some bulk into the tree's shape, and taken some of the height out of it, apparently to good purpose. All the apples of my orchard were slightly small through the summer, presumably because of the drought. When the rains came, the Granny Smith apples swelled up. Not only tart and full of flavor, they were big too, and my son's favorites.

My wife and I continue to prefer the Roxbury Russets to all the other varieties we have. This flattish, dirty yellow apple, covered with brown russeting, would never win a beauty pageant. While not quite as good as we remember it from 1992 when it seemed to produce its best fruit, it still has been delicious this autumn.

Ripening in early to mid-October, it is crisp and juicy, well-balanced between sugar and acid. I believe it would make outstanding cider. This apple has a provenance in the 17th century, and has also been known as Putnam or Boston Russet. It is said to be a good keeper, but I have never found it so. If I were ever to expand my orchard, I would grow more Roxbury Russets for the prospect of quantities of cider from it. This a fine old variety for those who value flavor above looks.

Limbertwig is the other tree we have in production. It too has had a good year. For the first time in the decade since I began my orchard its apples are red. That makes me think it is truly a southern apple, and needs lots of heat to ripen well.

It is also a fabulous keeper, by virtue of its not really ripening until November, and even then wanting time to mellow before it it is at its eating best. The books say it is extra good for cider though it is hard for me to imagine getting much juice from this dry-fleshed apple. As pie timber, however, it is indisputably excellent.

Orcharding has not come naturally to me. Indeed, it has proven the most difficult agricultural activity to which I have put my hand. The reason, I think, is that it requires a higher degree of skill and management to achieve modest results when compared to growing garden vegetables or raising chickens or even pigs. When successful, my trees bless me with fruit, much of which I could not otherwise taste. As links to the past and as alternatives to the standardized varieties of today, they provide pleasure both for the mouth and the mind.

Individuals must be 30 years of age to run for the position of Mayor. Now is the time to consider running for public office. The next election will be held on March 11, 1996, and terms will expire for the following: Mayor -- Asa M. McCain; Councilperson -- Harold Cannon; Councilperson -- Margaret Jamison; Councilperson -- Mary Lou Stemple; and Treasurer -- Blair Glass.

Candidates elected would hold office for a two-year term. Anyone interested in filing for these positions may file at Oakland City Hall until March 1, 1996, at 4 p.m. Questions may be directed to Oakland City Hall.

Leaf Collection Continues - The Oakland Street Department is continuing the annual process of leaf collection. Residents are asked to rake their leaves to the curb or sidewalk for pick-up. This process will continue until November 16. Please do not rake apples and sticks in with your leaves. These items could cause harm to town employees, or damage to the equipment. After the Nov. 16th deadline, residents will be required to bag their leaves for pick-up or removal.

Oakland Cemetery Update - A review of our current cemetery records has revealed that there are still numerous lots available for sale. Persons interested in purchasing a lot may contact Oakland City Hall during normal business hours.

Pagenhardt Sworn In As County Clerk

New Garrett County Clerk R. Lamont Pagenhardt, Oakland, was officially sworn into office this week.

Pagenhardt, who was recently employed as director of human resources and personnel for Allegany County government, was hired to replace former Garrett County Administrator Robert Fousek in the offices of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners. Since Fousek's departure from this post Oct. 1, the commissioners' administrative secretary Pat Vetter has served as interim county clerk.

"I'm looking forward to working with Mr. Pagenhardt," remarked Commissioner John Braskey at this week's commissioner meeting. "I think we'll continue to be a good team and I think Mr. Pagenhardt will do the county an excellent job.

"Of course, we're going to miss Mr. Fousek as clerk, but I think Monty will serve the county well. I think he's enthusiastic about it, and we look forward to working with him," Braskey added.

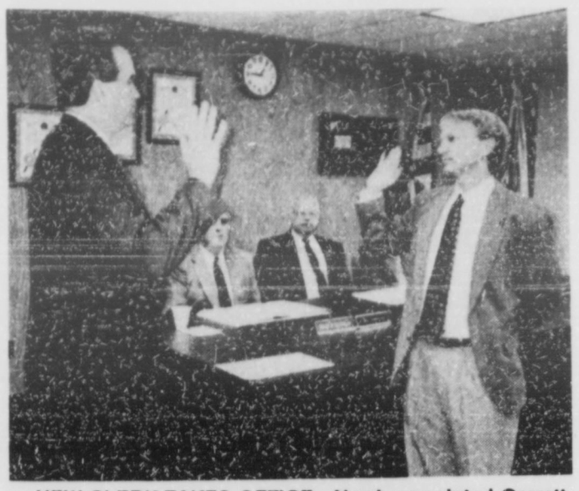
Fousek will work with Pagenhardt to familiarize him with his duties as county clerk, Braskey stated, adding that Fousek will continue as interim director of the Garrett County Roads Department until a full time roads director is hired.

A search committee has presented the commissioners with the names of three candidates for the position of county roads director, Braskey noted, and the board will conduct interviews this week. Braskey predicted that the new roads director will be named within two weeks.

If the commissioners select one of these candidates, Fousek will step into the post of county personnel/business affairs officer. As personnel officer, Fousek will perform some of his former administrator duties, and in his new role of business affairs officer, he will work to bring new businesses into the county.

The post of county administrator has been eliminated by the commissioners.

After taking his oath of office, Pagenhardt commented that he is looking forward to serving as clerk and working with the commissioners. Pagenhardt added that during his tenure with Allegany County government, he gained experience in budgeting.



NEW CLERK TAKES OFFICE - Newly appointed Garrett County Clerk R. Lamont Pagenhardt, Oakland, began his service to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week. Pagenhardt, right, was led in the oath of office on Tuesday by David Martin, left, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court, while Commissioners Roger Glotfelty and Wayne Wilt, center, looked on. Pagenhardt stated this week that in his former position with Allegany County government, he obtained budgeting experience. These skills may benefit the county board during next year's budgeting process, which Commissioner John Braskey has predicted will be difficult.

Topics Of Regular Education Board Meeting Noted

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 14, at the Oakland board office. Board members and Superintendent Jerome Ryscavage will address numerous issues, including administrative concerns, instructional concerns, and personnel matters. The public is invited to attend all or part of the public session.

The meeting will begin at 3 p.m. with the first of two opportunities for public comment. An executive session will follow, scheduled to conclude at 5 p.m., at which time the public session will begin.

Administrative concerns will be addressed first, beginning with revisions to a board policy concerning mandatory standards of conduct relating to drugs and alcohol. Information about school bus driver alcohol testing will be heard at 5:35, followed by a "request to be heard" by bus contractor and driver George Wassell.

Also included in administrative concerns will be information and action by the board regarding the construction drawings and specifications of the new elementary school in southern Garrett County. In addition, the board will discuss the local impact of proposed cuts to the federal education budget.

The second opportunity for public comment will occur at 7 p.m., followed by the remaining administrative concerns. These include recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Education, the draft of legislation regarding a student member of the education board, and the scheduling of a meeting with local legislators.

Instructional concerns are to be taken up at 7:45 p.m., beginning with a resolution for American Education Week. The goals for Garrett County Schools will be discussed and acted upon at approximately 7:50 p.m. (see related story).

Status reports on the "school-to-work" program as well as recommendations of the outcome-based education committee are to be given at approximately 8:20 p.m. The meeting is slated to end at approximately 8:30 p.m.

For a complete agenda of the board meeting, persons may contact the school board office at 334-8900.

Fike, Oakland. He apparently made the calls on Nov. 1 and 2, and was allegedly found on the phone with the complainant by a police officer who was responding to his home to inquire about the case.

An Oakland man was charged with DWI Saturday. Charles F. Stinson, 39, was stopped at the intersection of Rt. 219 and Foster Road by Dep. M. Bittinger. The arrest was effected at 11 p.m., according to the report.

Four persons were arrested on the strength of bench warrants. Those accused of failing to appear in court were William A. Wimer, 34, Pittsburgh, Pa., Shannon D. Ringer, 18, Mtn. Recently-Imposed Weight Restriction Lifted On Rt. 135

A 26,000-pound weight restriction, imposed early last week on trucks descending Backbone Mountain, was lifted Saturday morning, according to a spokesperson for the Maryland State Highway Administration (MSHA).

Initially intended to restrict truck traffic on the potentially dangerous four-mile grade that extends from Swanton to Luke on Rt. 135, the 13-ton stipulation was implemented after a mutual proposal by the SHA, state police, Garrett County Roads Department, and local communities and industry.

Officials had hailed the weight restriction as the first major step to improve highway safety for motorists and area residents. But calls from concerned truckers opposed to the weight restriction immediately flooded the SHA's District 6 office and pressured those officials to rescind the ban.

One concern, according to the trucking industry, was the unfairness of the regulations, since the weight restriction did not apply to trucks making local deliveries along Rt. 135 in Westernport and Luke. A truck could go down the mountain and deliver at Westvaco, but the next day if a delivery was destined for Cumberland, the driver would not be allowed to descend Rt. 135 as he had previously.

"The truckers let us know that they use the mountain every day," said an SHA spokesperson. "They know they run a risk anytime they go down that mountain, no matter how good their brakes are, and no matter how long they have traveled the mountain."

Despite the rescinded weight restriction, SHA officials are committed to making the highway safer. "In the interest of public safety, we have to find a way to get eastbound thru-truckers off the mountain," the spokesperson concluded.

GCHD's Archer Among National Health Scholars

Garrett County Health Officer Rex Archer, MD, has been selected to serve as a scholar in the fifth annual national Public Health Leadership Institute. He will join an elite group of 50 public health leaders in the institute's year-long program.

"Being chosen as an institute scholar is certainly a tremendous honor," commented Archer. "This is an opportunity to further the work of the Garrett County Health Department in addressing complex health challenges here in the local area, as well as nationwide."

Launched in 1991, the institute is funded by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention through a grant to the University of California, Los Angeles, School of Public Health. It is managed jointly and in partnership with the Western Consortium for Public Health.

The program is designed to allow the scholars to participate from their homes through a computer network and other self-study activities. The institute includes a one-week intensive training seminar slated for March, 1996, in California.

The purpose of the institute is to strengthen the United States' public health system by enhancing the leadership capacities of city, county, and state public health officials. The institute also provides participants with a forum in which to discuss current public health issues.

Archer completed his medical degree at the University of Kansas and a master's degree in public health at the University of Michigan. Since his start at the GCHD in 1990, the agency has received several regional and national awards, including the prestigious J. Howard Beard Achievement Award of 1995 for the local Working Together for a Healthier Tomorrow Project. The local health department also received the runner-up award for the local Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) Gateway Program in 1992.

In addition to his local responsibilities, Archer is currently serving as president of the Maryland Association of County Health Officers.

Glimpse of The Past . . .

THE STAMINA OF MAN, ANIMAL, AND MACHINE was tested as the growing communities of Garrett County were literally cut from the mountain forests during the last few hundred years. Pictured is Carlos Friend, who lived in Friendsville and, according to his nephew, Friendsville resident Robert W. Friend, "was as proud of his horse as he was of his car." Carlos cut timber for saw mills and for use as posts in coal mines. Dragging the fresh-cut logs from the forest was the horse's job. This photo was taken around the mid-1930's. The caption under last week's Glimpse of the Past photo contained an error, according to Fred Neff of Oakland. Neff, who was born and reared in Luke 76 years ago, informed us that the train in the photo at Bloomington was preparing to "chug up" the 17-Mile Grade, not down, as the cutline stated. Neff said that as a youngster he used to hop on moving freight trains to go fishing on the Savage River, and occasionally would ride all the way to Oakland. We thank him for the correction to last week's cutline.

Garrett Community College now has a presence in cyberspace, according to president Dr. Steve Herman who officially launched GCC's web "homepage" on the World-Wide Web (WWW) Internet. The "homepage" is accessible to over 40 million Internet users throughout the world providing information about the college and its academic programs.

In addition to a message from the president, the "homepage" highlights the signature programs in Adventuresports, Agricultural Management and Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology. Those having access to the World-Wide Web can reach GCC's "homepage" at http:\\gamttwgec.cc.md.us.

"This represents a significant step forward in utilizing the information super highway to promote and provide information on GCC and its programs throughout our area, state, the nation and the world," said Dr. Herman. "It should serve as an example of what other organizations and businesses throughout Garrett County can do to promote and market their products and services," he said.

This service is available through the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative. Individuals and organizations interested in World-Wide Web "homepage" development and operations may call the GCNET Help Desk at 387-3048 for further information.

My Best Christmas Ever

My name is Joey and I am 7 years old and I live in Grantsville. I like it when its time for Santa Claus to come to my house. My best Christmas happened when I was just a little boy. Mommy, Daddy and me went to Pap and Mam-ma's to wait for Santa to come. In a little bit Santa came through the sky and made big shoes in the snow and looked in Mam-Ma's window. He looked like my Pap-Pap only Pap doesn't have a furry beard thats white and his belly isn't as big. I closed my eyes so Santa would not see me then he left toys under the tree. I got the biggest wagon in the whole place. It was red and had wood on the sides like Pap makes things with. I pulled it all around then I got sleepy. I took a nap in my wagon until it wasn't dark outside anymore. It was my bestest Christmas ever.

National Radiologic Tech Week Being Observed At Hospital

by Dana Winters

Radiologic technologists at Garrett County Memorial Hospital are being honored by their colleagues locally and across the country this week as part of the nationally recognized National Radiologic Technology Week. The Observation commemorates the discovery of x-rays in 1895 by German physicist Wilhelm Conrad Roentgen. Technologists are celebrating the 100th anniversary of this important discovery.

The high-tech advances in medical imaging give today's physicians a multitude of tools, in addition to basic x-ray films, to look inside the body and diagnose disorders. Magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), sonography, computed tomography (CT) and basic x-ray let physicians view inner structures without surgical intervention. Radiation therapy gives doctors a different kind of scalpel to remove cancerous tumors.

At Garrett Memorial, state-of-the-art equipment such as a CT scanner, nuclear medicine camera, and a brand new mammography facility assist in providing area residents with a full range of radiology services.

These different technologies fall under the description of radiologic technology and/or medical imaging. The 200,000-plus U.S. technologists working in hospitals, doctors' offices, clinics, and imaging centers are key members of today's health care team. Thousands of these highly-educated technologists belong to the American Society of Radiologic Technologists (ASRT), as well as state and local technologist societies. These organizations work to improve educational standards and professional performance.

Decades ago, the popular term was "technician," but this gave way to "technologist" as higher educational standards promoted professionalism in the field.

In years past and even today in some unlicensed states, the secretary in a doctor's office operated the x-ray equipment. Fortunately several states, including Maryland, require that all radiologic technologists be licensed to practice radiologic technology.

Professional technologists of today frequently hold ad-vanced educational degrees and special certifications. In addition, registered technologists maintain their registration/licensure and high skill level through mandatory continuing education courses.

Few patients who enter today's health care system can progress very far before they come in contact with a radiologic technologist -- whether it's a mammogram checking for breast cancer in a 40-year old woman, or a simple x-ray of a broken arm of a child who has fallen off his bike. It may be a sonogram of an unborn baby or a CT scan to determine the size of an abdominal tumor in an elderly patient. A number of cases can be treated only with radiation therapy. In all these cases the technologist is vital to the procedure.

"It goes without saying that the radiologic technologists at Garrett Memorial play a vital role in patient care at our hospital," said Michael Reed, RT(R), director of radiology services at Garrett Memorial. "They are a group of hard-working, dedicated and caring individuals who deserve to be recognized during this special week."

Oakland Police Note DWI Arrest

One DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrest was logged at the Oakland City Police Department during the past week.

Roy Lee Friend, 24, Oakland, was arrested and charged with DWI by Sgt. Roger Lewis on Nov. 4.

According to the police report, Lewis received a call to check on a vehicle that was blocking the road on Mason Street, near Third Street. When the officer arrived, he found the vehicle, still in gear, and its intoxicated driver was passed out on the front seat. A can of beer was observed on the floor at Friend's feet.

After several minutes, the officer was able to awaken Friend, who reportedly was unable to stand without assistance.

Lewis transported Friend to the Garrett County Jail, following the 7:40 p.m. arrest, where he reportedly became disruptive, and was put into a padded cell. He has since been released.

Seventh Graders Study At Hickory Resident Programs

Nearly 150 local seventh grade students took part this fall in numerous programs and activities at Hickory Environmental Education Center as they participated in three-day resident programs at the Accident site. Among the topics and activities available to the students were soil profiles, tree diameters, river otters, weather instruments, fossils, Cove Run, bears in the forest, compasses, night hikes, predator/prey, trapping, rabies, nature games, soil erosion, and graphing.

According to Joseph L. Winters, coordinator, the intent of this program is to aid seventh grade students in meeting the Maryland School Performance Science Standards. An additional goal is to assist these students in demonstrating the acquisition and integration of some of the major concepts in the life science curriculum.

Instruction during the various sessions was provided by Sharon Hoover, instructional assistant at Hickory; Jolene Scofield, Linda Mosser, and Susan Hinebaugh, teachers at Northern and Southern Middle; as well as Winters.

Also providing learning experiences were resource personnel from Mt. Nebo, including Louise Upole, Donna Burton, Wade Dorsey, and Leslie Johnston of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Garry Morfoot, district soil conservationist, and Butch Miller provided a program during each session dealing with basic soil concepts, profiles, and wise land use.

Each session also had an afternoon program about hawks, owls, and reptiles, presented by the Department of Natural Resources. An evening program about bats was also presented by Liz McDowell.

Shawn Groves, Angela Teagarden, and Sharon Hoover were the adult night counselors, and Aaron Hordubay, a senior at Northern High School, assisted during each of the four fall sessions.

County Native Is Featured In Success Magazine

Rita Shrout Mosley, a native of Garrett County, was recently featured in Success magazine in a story about technology and entrepreneurial endeavors. Mosley and her business partner John Goodfriend have built a home-based business together, although Mosley lives in Kure Beach, N.C., and Goodfriend resides in Jeffersonville, N.Y.

Via a sophisticated "e-mail" program called The Coordinator from ON technology Corp. of Cambridge, Mass., the two have built what the magazine article described as a "booming network of computer training centers." Both entrepreneurs send and receive approximately 300 e-mail messages each day, communicating with managers and employees at 17 training centers.

The pair's company is called Lanop Corp. Through the World Wide Web, Mosley and her partner hope to soon expand internationally. Founded in 1992, Lanop Corp. has grown from a single unit to the 17 centers.

Success magazine is published by Success Holdings Company in New York City, and regularly features accomplished business entreprenuers.

In addition to her business career, Mosley is an accomplished pianist, having performed in New York City for several years before relocating with her husband, Bob Mosley, to North Carolina. She is the daughter of Marie Shrout, Oakland.

Also shown is Rotary Club President Jay Cross. Sixteen 50-pound bags of potatoes, 17 gallons of funnel cake mix, and 30 gallons of soft drinks were sold during the annual Autumn Glory parade, with 100 percent of the proceeds designated to be donated to the OVFD. An expression of appreciation was extended from the Rotary Club to everyone who helped with the project.

School Goals

formation of the goals.

Since that meeting, Albert Coviello, assistant superintendent, has been in contact with school administrators and teachers in an effort to find "common ground" with the goals. He said he has been in contact with Riley as the input has been received, and Riley has continued to correspond with Coviello.

The most heated topic of discussion at last month's meeting centered on Riley's fifth goal for the schools, which read as follows: "To provide intensive systematic phonetic-based reading and spelling instruction for all students, and to provide necessary materials and staff training to this end."

Sincell voiced her opposition to the "phonetic-based" phrase, arguing that some children require other methods of reading and spelling instruction. Riley contended that the "move away from phonetics" has caused a nationwide reading problem among students, although he was unable at the time to produce actual statistics or data to support his belief. Sincell continued to argue that a comprehensive method of teaching is required in order to serve all students in a classroom. Teachers in the audience asserted that phonetics is taught as the basic method, along with other approaches which serve some children more effectively. The reservation expressed by those in the audience was that Riley's goal was too narrow and did not leave enough of the decision-making up to the teacher in the classroom.

The other point of contention of the audience members, whom at times reacted strongly to the board's discussion, was that Riley had not discussed the goals for the schools with any administrators or teachers before presenting them for adoption. Riley stated that he felt "the public had spoken," and that the motion should be carried, but it was at that time Carpenter decided to withdraw his second and table the issue until this month.

Dr. Brenda McCartney, director of elementary education in Garrett County, implored Riley to allow administrators and teachers to take part in the formation of goals.

"We take these goals to heart, Mr. Riley, and we create our indicators based on them. They are important to us," she said. "We are professional educators and we care a great deal about the direction of our schools. Please respect us and our opinions."

Ryscavage recommended the tabling of the goals, telling Riley that "this is no way to establish board policy," and that Riley was going against his own recommendation of not voting on issues during the same meeting at which they are introduced. Riley maintained his stance, however, but his motion to adopt the goals died for lack of a second.

The mission statement of the Garrett County Schools as written by Riley, accepted in September, reads as follows: "The public schools in Garrett County were chartered to serve the public interest. That interest lies in the maintenance of an educated citizenry necessary for the survival of a free society. The Garrett County Board of Education exists to provide teaching and learning environments which will enable our students to maximize their God-given full potential. Young adults should emerge from our schools possessing a knowledge of the basics, including but not limited to: proficiency in reading, writing, and speaking English; knowledge and appreciation of American and world history, classical culture and literary traditions, and understanding and applying basic scientific and mathematical principles."

The mission statement rejected by the majority of the board (Sincell voting to keep it), which was written by Ryscavage and had been the statement since 1988 read as follows: "The Garrett County Board of Education exists to provide teaching and learning environments which will enable all children to maximize their God-given full potential. In providing such environs, young adults will emerge from our schools possessing a basic knowledge of the essential skills, an understanding of self, a sincere belief in and an ability to practice democratic principles and ideals, and finally, an ability to adapt to changes which will inevitably occur in the society in which they live their lives."

Goals for the board of education written by Riley and accepted by the majority of the board in September are as follows: 1. Determine, with the advice of the superintendent, the educational policies of the county school system. 2. Seek the input of our community and in so doing attempt to keep the community as well informed as is possible about the public schools. 3. Encourage parental involvement in our schools in order to promote the academic growth of children.

4. Respect the rights of parents to influence the education of their children; to direct their attitudes, values, and opinions; and to be the primary source of their socialization in the family, community, and the world. 5. Provide appropriate resources and staff development for all employees of the Board of Education. 6. Make wise use of available public resources in order to benefit the total student population by attempting to maximize these resources at the classroom level, recognizing the realities of the fiscal constraints existing. 7. Provide students with accurate, content--based curriculum, texts, and media materials consistent with community standards. 8. Regularly evaluate our progress in meeting both Board and school goals, and to make changes where necessary to enhance the teaching and learning environment.

Ryscavage's goals for the education board that were rejected by the majority of the members are as follows: 1. Seek the input of all the community at all times, and in so doing attempt to keep the community as well informed as is possible about the public schools. 2. Increase parental involvement, in particular, in our schools in order to promote the social, emotional, and academic growth of children. 3. Provide appropriate staff development activities for all employees of the Board of Education. 4. Make wise use of the available public resources in order to benefit the total student population. 5. Evaluate our progress in meeting both Board and school goals and to make changes where necessary to enhance the teacher and learning environment for our students, staff, and community. 6. Develop community and public awareness of the Board and school goals.

Ryscavage's goals for the public schools, currently being used by the board but up for discussion at Tuesday's meeting, are as follows: 1. To provide learning experiences which promote the acquisition of basic skills, the ability to think clearly, and to problem solve in any given situation. 2. To provide learning experiences which promote in students the development of positive self concepts and citizenship values. 3. To assist students in developing an understanding of, and a commitment to, their rights and concomitant responsibilities which are part of the democratic society in which we live. 4. To provide students with aesthetic, cultural, and recreational learning activities. 5. To impress upon students and the community that learning is a lifetime activity. 6. To allow individual schools and their staffs the full opportunity to determine how to best achieve the above goals.

Riley's goals for the public schools are as follows: 1. To provide safe, orderly and drug-free environments. 2. To provide learning experiences wherein all staff are provided the means to consistently apply discipline; hereby, promoting the acquisition of basic standards of courtesy, including respect for parents and others. 3. To provide all students with a rigorous and sequential course of study, delineating specific content and academic skills to be taught at each level. 4. All schools will move forward with basic academic skills, increasing the amount of instructional time devoted to reading, writing and mathematics. 5. To provide intensive systematic phonetic based reading and spelling instruction for all students, and to provide necessary materials and staff training to this end. 6. To hold all students to high expectations of academic excellence in all subjects; including the use of proper grammar, spelling and penmanship. 7. To enable every child to perform at or above grade level in all academic subjects. 8. To empower teachers, support staff, parents and community members the opportunity to determine how to best achieve the above goals.

In another development since the last meeting, the Garrett County Teachers Association has also prepared a list of goals and has asked the board to consider the Association's ideas as well.

New Fracture Table Purchased For Hospital By Foundation

Continued community support has provided funding for a new, upgraded, state-of-the-art fracture table for the surgical suite at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Funded through the hospital Foundation, this new table replaces a fracture table that was also purchased some years ago with a philanthropic gift.

This new operating room fracture table has been designed to accommodate a full range of surgical and casting procedures. "The fracture table is a critical link in the safe and efficient care of the orthopedic operative patient." stated Dr. Dona Alvarez, orthopedic surgeon and chief of surgery at Garrett Memorial.

Alvarez explained that an orthopedic surgical procedure can be as simple as a broken bone which must be casted to minimize movement and allow for the healing process or it can be a more serious fracture such as a fractured hip requiring a pin, total joint replacement or some other type of surgical intervention.

"The fracture table replaces a table that was purchased by the late Carl DelSignore, for my father, Dr. Joseph Alvarez, a well known surgeon in the county for many years" Dr. Dona Alvarez said. "The old table was not radiolucent (allows passage of x-ray) and was more time-consuming in preparation and set-up which translates into more operating room time. The new state-of-the-art piece of equipment will be used nearly every day and the decreased x-ray exposure and safe positioning are its greatest features. The benefit will be longlasting and is much appreciated."

Purchase of the new operating room fracture table was part of a $102,000 fund-raising goal established by the hospital Foundation earlier this year. In addition, five other pieces of equipment are slated for funding by the end of this calendar year. The hospital Foundation, comprised of about 50 volunteers, conducts a variety of fund-raising projects throughout the year to obtain funding to assist the hospital with its capital funding needs.

The costs associated with the rapidly changing technology of healthcare exceeds the funding that is available in the regulatory environment under which the hospital must operate, according to a GCMH spokesman. This regulatory environment dictates the amount of dollars which can be used to purchase new and upgraded equipment. "Through the generous gifts made to the foundation by individuals, businesses, and civic organizations, Garrett County Memorial Hospital has kept pace with technology. The foundation has provided over $1.2 million dollars in funding for equipment and capital projects at the hospital," the spokesman said.

Individuals interested in making a gift or wishing to obtain additional information about the foundation may contact the Foundation Office at (301) 334-2155.

for it and discarded it.

The checks had been endorsed by Mr. Reuschel and could have been cashed by Stouffer. "A banker told me they were perfectly good and that I could cash them," Stouffer said, "but I knew I had to try to find the rightful owner."

Mrs. Reuschel sent Stouffer a thank-you note, in which she said, "I was really surprised and I am grateful to you for sending them to me. I can really make use of them because I have a lot of bills and things to take care of."

Mrs. Reuschel included a cash reward with her letter and said, "Again, thank you very kindly for being so honest. I wish you good luck in the service you are doing for children."

Stouffer said that he was pleased that he was able to get the money back to Mrs. Reuschel. "The whole thing really made me feel good," he said.

Stouffer, who drives literally thousands of miles making his deliveries and has already begun his route for this year, continues to collect new and used clothing, toys, and other items for the 1995 holiday season. He also welcomes financial contributions to help defray gasoline expenses.

"As always, I really need items for teenagers, such as perfume, jewelry, books, tapes, and things like that" he said, "and there is always a real need for underclothing for children."

Items may be dropped off at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland (just inside the north side entrance along Center Street), or persons may contact Stouffer by telephone at 304-789-6743 to arrange for pick-up.

LAKERS RANKED 16TH PRE-SEASON - The Garrett Community College men's basketball team, ranked 16th in the nation in pre-season polls, will open its season this Friday in the Hagerstown Classic at Hagerstown Junior College. With only two returning starters from last season's winning team, Coach Dennis Gibson will be relying heavily on a strong group of new recruits, including several transfer students. Pictured above from left, sitting, are: Damian Cosby, Chad Reese, Brian Brehm, Antoine Stokes, Lance Loya, and Craig Jarvis. Standing are: Kanda Gray, Gunnell Hickman, Milton Hogue, Frank Winters, VaShawne Gross, and Aubray Gray.

Lakers To Open Season Friday Ranked 16th In The Nation

The Garrett Community College men's basketball team is ranked 16th in the nation according to the NJCAA Division II preseason poll. The Lakers posted an impressive 21-8 record for the 1994-95 season.

The Lakers will open their season this Friday in the Hagerstown Classic hosted by Hagerstown Junior College. On Friday, Nov. 10, Garrett is scheduled to play Howard Community College at 6 p.m. and on Saturday, Nov. 11, at 6 p.m. the Lakers will be taking on Central Florida. Howard and Central Florida are often nationally ranked in their respective divisions.

In 10 seasons under head coach Dennis Gibson, the Lakers have won 205 games and have 105 losses, making a winning percentage of .661. They have averaged 20.5 victories per season. During the 1994 campaign they captured the Maryland JUCO and Region XX (Division II) Tournament titles, and a sixth place national ranking.

The team consists of only two returnees, three transfer students, and the remaining are freshman recruits.

Returning from last year's 21-8 team are Gunnell Hickman and Kanda Gray. A graduate of Oak Hill, W.Va., High School, Hickman averaged 17 points and nine rebounds during his freshman year at Garrett. Gray, a graduate of Northern High in Owings, averaged five points and three rebounds per game.

Although Garrett as a young squad there are several recruits with college experience. Damian Cosby and Brian Brehm are transfers from Allegany Community College, and Aubray Gray is a transfer from Shepherd College.

Cosby, also a graduate of Northern High School in Owings, averaged 22 ppg and five steals. While at ACC he averaged 10 points per game, six rebounds, and nine assists per outing.

A graduate of Mount Savage, Brehm averaged 17.3 points, eight assists, and eight rebounds. He was named first team All-WMIL and second team All-Area. At Allegany he played backup behind Cosby at point guard.

Aubray Gray, a graduate of Martinsburg, W.Va. High School averaged 11.5 rebounds and 13.5 points per game. He was named to the All-Tournament Team for the regional and state playoffs. He is ineligible for action the fall semester because of transfer regulations.

Rounding out the team are newcomers VaShawne Gross, Antoine Stokes, Chad Reese, Frank Winters, Lance Loya, Craig Jarvis, and Milton Hogue.

A graduate of Calvert High School, Gross was named first team SMAC. and MVP runner-up. He averaged 15.9 points, eight rebounds, and five assists per game. VaShawne is the brother of former Garrett player Kenny Gross.

While at Crossland High School, Antoine Stokes was a member of the '94 Md. state semi-final team. He averaged 17.5 points, five assists, three steals, and three rebounds per game. He also was a member of the '93 AAU National Championship Team.

Chad Reese, a 6'3" guard, is from Preston High School where he holds the W.Va. State record for three-point shots, and was named All-State Honorable Mention. He averaged 20 points and three rebounds.

Frank Winters is a 6'7" center, from Northern Garrett High School were he averaged 17.5 points and 14 rebounds. Not only did he excel athletically, he was named Who's Who Among High School Students for his academic performance.

A graduate of Chestnut Ridge Pa. High School, Lance Loya holds the school record for the most assists and is ranked fourth in all-time scoring. He averaged 18.1 points, 5.4 rebounds, and 7.1 assists. He was the recipient of the Johnstown Tribune-Democrat Scholar Athlete and the U.S. Marine Corps Scholar Athlete awards.

Under the direction of Coach Merv Yoder at Turkeyfoot, Pa. High School, Craig Jarvis averaged 25 points, nine rebounds and five assists. He was named Somerset County League MVP and was a member of the District 5 Championship Team.

Milton Hogue, a 6'7" center, attended Anacostia Senior High School in Washington, D.C. where he averaged seven points and 10 rebounds per game.

"We basically have a small, quick team. Our strengths will have to be pressing, three-point shooting, and guard play," remarked Coach Gibson. "Our inside play will be bolstered with the addition of Aubray Gray in the second semester, but right now we are working with (6'4") Hickman and (6'5") Gross as post players. Hogue and Winter are projects, but if they work hard they can give us valuable minutes.

"Our guard rotation of Cosby, Brehm, Stokes, and Kanda Gray give us excellent defensive quickness as well as scoring at any position. Loya will fill the backup point guard position and Reese and Jarvis are deep threats that will keep defenses honest. "Overall, I can't make any predictions on wins or losses but I have really enjoyed working with this team. We don't have a lot of players back but the two we do are excellent players to work with. I also know that if being hard workers and dedicated to the team mean anything at all, then this team will be very successful," Gibson concluded.

Huskies Also Qualify

Runnin' Rams Capture Regional Title, Look Forward To State's

The undefeated Southern High School boys' cross country team went into last Thursday's 1A Regional Championships at Brunswick High School as the undisputed favorite, and they quickly earned that designation by crushing all of the opposition and capturing first place by a wide margin.

The top five Ram finishers were among the top 10 runners of the day and all seven Southern harriers placed among the top 21 finishers in the event, which featured 69 runners.

The Southern girls' team finished third in the event, just ahead of the Northern High girls, while the Northern boys' squad also qualified as a team for this Saturday's state championships by finishing fourth at the regionals.

Leading the Southern boys to its third straight regional title and a team score of 30 points was senior captain Todd Howard, who won the 3.1-mile race with a time of 16 minutes, 48 seconds. Nathan McBee finished fourth in 17:33, Dan Sincell placed seventh with a time of 17:43, Mike Bittinger was eighth in 17:54, and Kevin Andrews finished 10th in 17:59.9, just nine-tenths of a second behind Boonsboro's Doug Oates.

The other two members of the Southern team, Charlie Wesley and Matt Sincell, placed 18th (19:07) and 21st (19:17), respectively.

The Rams, coached by Carl Booth and in line to capture their third straight state championship this Saturday at Hereford High School, hold an incredible 67-0 record for the 1995 season.

Placing a distant second in the race was Boonsboro with 77 points, followed by Clear Spring with 89, Northern with 122, Williamsport with 140, Smithsburg with 145, Beall with 181, Brunswick with 207, Catoctin with 231, and Westmar with 258.

The Northern Huskies were paced by Mark Shawley, who placed 13th with a time of 18:36, and Joe Weimer, who finished 20th in 19:08.8. Aaron Hordubay was 22nd in 19:29.4, followed by Scott Bowser and Matt Kauffman in 33rd and 34th places, respectively, Jason Artice, 40th, and Matt Thomas, 56th.

The Southern girls, who finished with a team score of 88, were paced by Meghan Dabney, who placed ninth with a time of 21:17. Lauren Newcomb finished 11th in 21:37, followed by freshman Amy Snyder in 15th place (22:03), Andrea Devens in 17th (22:30), Katelyne McBee in 37th, Christy Hoalcraft in 39th, and Julie Caruso in 42nd.

Boonsboro won the title with a score of 58, followed by Smithsburg with 80 points. Northern placed fourth with 97 points, followed by Brunswick with 106, Catoctin with 131, Urbana with 171, Clear Spring with 194, Williamsport with 217, and Beall, Mount Savage, and Westmar with incomplete scores.

Leading the Northern Huskies, coached by Charlie Himmler, was sophomore Rachel Leverenz, who placed third overall with a time of 20:54. All-state runner Kendra Duckworth finished eighth in 21:11.7, Stacy Dolan was 21st in 22:59.8, Stefanie Dolan and Janel Hordubay were 33rd and 34th, respectively, Shanna Powell placed 44th, and Rachael Gosnell was 49th.

There were 66 girls in the competition. Elizabeth Lowery, of Urbana High School, was the overall winner with a time of 19:39, while Jennifer Hartnett of Clear Spring placed second in 20:07.

By virtue of their top-four finishes, all four Garrett County teams have qualified for this week's state championships.

"There are only four 1A schools in the entire state that have qualified both their boys' and girls' teams, and Northern and Southern are two of them," stated Coach Himmler. "That's really something for all Garrett County residents to be proud of."

The other two schools from which both teams will compete at the state meet are Boonsboro and Francis Scott Key.

The boys' 1A state championship race will begin at 2 p.m. on the extremely rigorous course at Hereford High School, and the girls' race will get underway at 3:30 p.m.

The teams from Southern and Northern will leave Friday morning for Hereford.

THANKS, COACH - The Southern High School soccer team, which recently wrapped up its season, met at Uno's Restaurant Tuesday evening for a party and specifically to recognize their assistant coach Dave Spirk, who will be leaving the area in the near future because of a new position with Bausch & Lomb. Spirk was instrumental in establishing soccer programs at both county high schools, has been an active member of the Mountaintop Youth Soccer Association, and is a certified soccer referee, besides serving as assistant coach of the Rams the past three seasons. He is pictured above receiving a jacket from senior players Christian Coviello, left, and Kevin Andrews, center. Also honored was Spirk's wife, Karen, for her involvement in local soccer, particularly as the coordinator of the past two soccer camps that were held in Garrett County.

Turnovers Lead To 30-20 Defeat Of Rams By Beall

Although the Southern High School Rams amassed an outstanding 434 yards of offense and had double the number of first downs, a win over region 1A rival Beall in Frostburg Friday night was not to be, as the Mountaineers capitalized on some crucial Southern errors and went on to record a 30-20 victory.

While both teams went into the contest with 7-1 records, the Beall win was considered by most to be an upset since the Rams play a considerably more difficult schedule. However, there is a good chance that the Rams will get another opportunity to challenge the Mountaineers, as the most likely West Region playoff picture will pit the two teams together a week from this Friday, again on Beall's field.

One positive highlight of Friday's contest was the setting of a new Southern High rushing record by junior back Aaron Newcomb, who carried the ball 21 times and eclipsed Paul Cornish's mark of 260 yards by two yards.

Newcomb and the Ram offense put the first points of the game on the board on their second possession, which began at their own five-yard line. After advancing the ball to the 35, Newcomb broke into the Beall secondary and raced 65 yards for a touchdown. Howard Crosco made it 8-0 by running successfully for the conversion.

The first major miscue that set up a Beall touchdown came in the second quarter, when Crosco fumbled and Tony Leasure recovered for the Mountaineers at the Rams' 32. The nine-play drive that followed featured runs of 23, 13, and seven yards by Leasure. It was on fourth down from the two-yard line that Ryan Patterson scored with just 29 seconds left in the half. A pass from Patterson to Ryan Railey for the conversion knotted the score.

Beall took its first lead of the game in the third quarter when Patterson, on an option play, raced 36 yards down the sideline for a touchdown. Nathan Bittner's point-after kick put the Mountaineers on top, 15-8.

The Rams responded with their second scoring drive of the evening, this time a 64-yard effort that was capped by a 43-yard touchdown run by Newcomb. The run for the conversion was stopped short, leaving Beall up by one, 15-14.

The Rams have been having problems all season long with special teams play, particularly on kickoffs, and Leasure took advantage of that situation by returning the ensuing kickoff 63 yards to the Ram 20. A personal foul penalty moved the ball down to the Southern 11, from which a four-play scoring drive began, concluding with a one-yard run into the end zone by Jeff Holsinger with 1:05 left in the third quarter. Bittner again booted the extra point to put Beall up 23-14.

The Rams rallied again in the fourth quarter with a 10-play, 87-yard march that was capped by a six-yard scoring run by Crosco. His run for the extra points failed, leaving the Mountaineers ahead by three with 8:16 left in the game.

The Southern defense did its job by stopping the Mountaineers on their next drive and giving the ball back to the Ram offense at their 36-yard line with almost five minutes remaining. Again Newcomb was the primary carrier of the ball, as the Rams pushed toward the Beall goal line. Then, with just under two minutes left in the game and with a first and 10 at the Beall 11-yard line, Newcomb was stripped of the ball and the Mountaineers recovered.

Then to seal the victory, Patterson found daylight around the right side and raced 90 yards for the insurance touchdown. Bittner followed with his third good PAT kick to conclude the scoring.

Patterson led the Mountaineers' rushing with 161 yards.

"We've had a problem all season long taking care of the football," stated Southern coach Tom Woods. "We have turned the ball over 19 times, so really we are lucky to be 7-2 right now.

"But to our kids' credit, most of the fumbles have been a result of running hard and giving that extra effort to pick up just another yard or two," he said, "which has really resulted in a lot of points for us, as well. You really can't fault the kids for their extra effort."

Woods said he and his staff were proud of the overall effort of the Rams against Beall. "Our only disappointment was the lack of discipline on our defense," he said. "In the first quarter, our defense literally played to perfection. I think Beall had negative yardage in that quarter. But as the game wore on, our defensive became less interested in sticking with their assignments and more interested in going for the ball, and that really hurt us."

Woods believes his offensive line played its best game of the season. "Anytime you pick up over 400 yards of rushing in a high school game, especially against a team the caliber of Beall, you know your offensive line has done an outstanding job," he said.

While the defeat took away the Rams' opportunity to host one or more playoff games, it certainly did not eliminate them from the playoffs. The next task will be to record a win over Bishop Walsh this Friday night at home.

The Spartans have struggled this season and have an unimpressive record of 3-7; however, they also play one of the area's most difficult schedules and they are flying somewhat higher this week after recording a mild upset win at home on Saturday against Northern.

"When we looked at our schedule in the pre-season, we told our kids that Bishop Walsh was probably the fourth best team we would face," Woods said. "They returned seven starters on offense and seven on defense, and they have some outstanding athletes. But things just haven't gone well for them. They've had a lot of key injuries, they're under a new coach, and several of their losses have been close. They only lost to Beall 20-14, and they played well against Allegany."

The Spartans' wing-T offense is led by senior halfback Greg Ruppenkamp (5-9, 159), senior quarterback Danny Harper (6-1, 170), their leading rusher Justin DuVall (jr., 6-0, 182), senior tight end Eric Bonner (6-2, 166), and senior tackle Jack Wickham (6-2, 220).

"They are primarily a running team like we are," Woods said. "They really like the fullback trap, and run the sweep very well with Harper and Rupenkamp," Woods said.

Defensively the Spartans run primarily 6-2 and 5-3 formations, with the leaders being All-Area senior linebacker Todd Logen (6-2, 175), senior linebacker Keith Pryor (5-8, 167), senior tackle Joe Caporale (6-1, 180), and senior defensive end Sean Kelly (6-1, 178).

"Bishop Walsh nearly upset us last year (17-15), so we plan to play just as hard against them as we have against the more successful teams in the area," Woods said, adding that a loss would most likely eliminate the Rams from the playoffs.

While Woods did not want to look past this week's game, he indicated he would be "anxious" to play Beall again the following week. "You learn a lot more lessons with a defeat than you do with a win, and we hope we get another opportunity to meet Beall," he said.

Beall must play a strong Westmar (7-1) team in Lonaconing this week.

Friday's kickoff with Bishop Walsh is set for 7:30 p.m.

CONCLUDES SUCCESSFUL SEASON - With the racing season coming to a close for 1995, Jeremy Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Murphy, finished second in final area point standings in only his second year of racing. The final race of the season was at the Augusta, W.Va., Motor Speedway, in which he finished third. He will receive his points trophy at a banquet in December in Augusta. Murphy noted his appreciation to all of his sponsors for the 1995 season.

SHS Freshmen Fall To Alco

The freshman football team of Southern High School dropped a 22-12 decision to visiting Allegany last Wednesday evening.

Chris Immler put Alco on the scoreboard first when he pulled in a three-yard scoring pass from Jeremy Strother. Lee Gilmore ran for the conversion to give Allegany an 8-0 lead.

The Rams came back in the second period to cut the lead to 8-6 when Eric Rexrode completed a 25-yard touchdown pass from Nick Dolan.

A 25-yard TD pass from Strother to Mac McClellan and John Beckman's conversion run in the third quarter gave Allegany a 16-6 lead.

Southern then responded with a 30-yard touchdown run by Jason Weaver, but again the conversion attempt failed and the score was 16-12.

Allegany tacked on an insurance score in the fourth period, as Beckman capped a drive with a two-yard touchdown run.

Tom Diehl paced the Ram defense with nine tackles. Beckman finished with 82 rushing yards to lead the Alco offense.

Ram Jayvees Hammered By Campers, 38-8

The Southern High junior varsity football team was hammered last Wednesday evening by visiting Allegany, 38-8, as Alco quarterback Mike Thomas led his team with a seven-for-nine passing effort for 156 yards and three touchdowns.

Thomas hit Chris Appel with two scoring strikes and Nick Gates with one in the first half to take control of the contest early.

The first touchdown was on a 20-yard pass to Appel, followed by a 30-yard TD toss to Gates, both in the first quarter. The run for the conversion on the second score was good, giving the Campers a 14-0 lead.

A 15-yard touchdown pass to Appel was recorded early in the second quarter, and Brad Lease gave the visitors a commanding 26-0 halftime lead with his 28-yard scoring run late in the period.

Gates made it 32-0 with a 20-yard touchdown run in the third period.

Tommy Gank finally put the Rams on the board early in the fourth period with his three-yard scoring run, and Brad Zimmerman ran successfully for the two-point conversion, but Allegany responded with another six-pointer on a two-yard run by Lease.

Ron Carr rushed for 81 yards on 11 carries for Allegany.

DWELL DEEP

"He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." Psalm 91:1

During the test of a submarine it remained submerged for many hours. When it had returned to the harbor, the commander was asked: "Well, how did the storm affect you last night"? The commmander looked at him in surprise and said, "Storm! We knew nothing of any storm". They had been far enough below the surface not to feel any effect of the storm.

Deep, deep. When doubts assail and stealthy shadows creep
Across your sky, and fill you with a sense of doom;
And thunders roar, and lightnings frighten with their glare;
And old foundations seem to crumble 'neath your feet.
Dwell deep and rest your soul amid eternal things.
Upon the surface stroms may rage and billows break
On every beach of life, and fling disaster far and wide;
But if your soul is dwelling quiet in the depths,
Naught can harm you evermore.
Therefore, Dwell deep, and rest your head
Upon the heart of God. -C. C.

Missed Opportunities, Poor Field Position Result In Husky Loss

The worst field position of the season was experienced all afternoon on Saturday by the Northern Huskies, and coupled with a missed scoring opportunity early in the game plus a fumble that set up a game-breaking Bishop Walsh touchdown, the Huskies went down to an 18-8 defeat at the hands of the host Spartans. It was the sixth loss in nine starts for Coach Tom Vent's frustrated squad, a team that was considered in the pre-season as one of the most talented teams in the area.

The missed opportunity for a score occurred just after the kickoff to the Spartans, as the home team promptly fumbled the ball away on the first play from scrimmage, giving the Huskies the ball deep in BW territory. However, after a third-down and six play action pass was dropped by the receiver, Northern running back and place kicker Brian Heslop missed on a 24-yard field goal attempt.

The Spartans assumed the momentum with that miss and quickly moved the ball downfield, as quarterback Brett Blanco connected with Eric Bonner on a 65-yard pass play that put the ball on the Huskies' 15-yard line. Justin DuVall scored four plays later on a one-yard carry to give the Spartans a 6-0 lead. The run for the two-point conversion failed.

The Huskies, starting on their own 10-yard line, seized the momentum back and marched 90 yards for a touchdown on 13 plays, including a fourth-and-12 play that featured a 20-yard pass from Nick Mitchell to Zach Leverenz. Quarterback John Snelling capped the drive with a seven-yard touchdown run and Tim Sines gave the Huskies an 8-6 lead with his successful conversion run.

The Huskies' lead, their only one of the game, would last only 35 seconds, however, as Greg Ruppenkamp returned the kickoff to the Spartan 42-yard line and, on the first play from scrimmage, Danny Harper broke loose for a 58-yard touchdown run. The pass for the extra two points was no good, but the Spartans would need no more points for the win.

After a scoreless second quarter, Bishop Walsh added their insurance points in the third period after a fumble by Heslop that was recovered by BW's Todd Logan at the Northern 13. The Husky defense rose to the occasion and held the Spartans on three downs, but on a fourth-and-two play from the five, Harper found room around the left side and scampered in for the touchdown. Another Blanco pass for the conversion fell incomplete.

Bishop Walsh had another golden opportunity to score in the fourth period after a fake punt attempt by the Huskies failed, giving the Spartans the ball on the Northern 15, first and 10. But Northern's Brandon Baumgardner picked off a halfback pass by Bonner with about five minutes left in the game.

Harper finished with 89 yards on just seven carries for the Spartans, while DuVall picked up 53 yards on 10 attempts. Heslop led the Huskies with 60 yards on 20 carries and Leverenz recorded 50 yards on 13 carries.

The win improved Bishop Walsh's record to 3-7.

"We just didn't play well," stated Coach Vent. "After we took the lead and they came back right away to score, we just sort of fell apart. Our defense actually played well with the exception of just a couple breakdowns, but our offense couldn't stay on track."

Vent noted the efforts of Leverenz and Snelling on his offense, however. "Zach really played very well and deserves a lot of credit that he doesn't usually get, and John is really working hard in his role as quarterback," he said. "It's tough for a sophomore to step up and be a leader, especially on a senior-dominant team."

The loss spoiled the Huskies' chances of finishing with a .500 record, however Vent and his staff plan to do all they can to conclude the 1995 campaign on a positive note by guiding the team to a victory this Friday night at home against Hancock.

Before last Friday night all area sports prognosticators would have rated the Huskies a two or three touchdown favorite over the 3-6 Panthers; however, that was before the Panthers upset playoff-bound Berkeley Springs with a 14-0 shutout. The Indians of Berkeley Springs defeated the Huskies earlier this season.

"Berkeley Springs was 7-2 and headed to the playoffs," Vent said. "A win over Hancock would have assured them a spot, and now their season is over.

"Hancock literally shut them down," he said. "Berkeley only had 44 yards of offense."

Like Bishop Walsh, Hancock uses the wing-T offense that features their fullback, Eric True, who carries the ball nearly three dozen times per game. Another standout is quarterback Jeremy Swain.

"They are primarily a running team with a couple of 300-pound linemen up front," Vent said.

"Defensively, they don't have great speed, but they are really big," he said. "They have some very good athletes.

"Obviously, since Berkeley Springs beat us, we are going to have to play very well to defeat Hancock."

Friday's kickoff at Husky stadium is slated for 7:30 p.m.

LAKERS ASSIST HABITAT - The members of the Garrett Community College baseball team recently lent many hands in assisting with the construction of a new house near Kitzmiller for Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, Inc. Former Mon Valley Coal, Lumber Land To Be Open For Deer Firearms Season

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has announced that the former Mon Valley Coal and Lumber Company land, just east of Oakland, will be open to the public for hunting during the deer firearms season, which begins Nov. 25. The 589-acre property along the Youghiogheny River in Garrett County was recently purchased by DNR with funding from DNR's Program Open Space.

"Hunting has been a traditional use of this property, and I'm pleased that it will be available for the firearms season later this month," Griffin said. "Our management of this property will be consistent with our goal of an integrated approach to expanding recreational opportunities on public lands."

Arrangements are being made to have the land managed by DNR Wildlife Division in cooperation with the State Forest and Park Service to permit public access and hunting.

Local forest and park staff will begin posting the boundaries of this parcel over the next several weeks. Since the boundaries may not be posted by the deer firearms season, hunters are being advised to respect adjoining private property boundaries and seek permission as appropriate.

Statewide hunting laws and regulations do apply on this property and will be enforced by DNR Rangers, Natural Resources Police, and other law officers.

For more information concerning hunting at this property, persons should contact the DNR Wildlife Division at 334-4255.

Aspirin Can Reduce Colon Cancer Risk

Aspirin continues to be one of our most useful medicines. While considered excellent to reduce pain, fever, and inflammation, aspirin has received much attention as a preventive agent against heart attacks. Now we have information that persons who take aspirin regularly for heart attack prevention may also be reducing their risk of colon cancer.

In a large study published in Annals of Internal Medicine, only one case of advanced colon cancer was reported at the six year mark among twice-a-week users of aspirin. Twenty cases in persons who did not take aspirin. Another large study reported in New England Journal of Medicine showed a 40 percent reduction in colon cancer risk in men and women who took aspirin regularly (16 or more times a month). An Australian study showed an even higher risk reduction. While the exact method of protection against colon cancer is not known, scientists believe aspirin's ability to inhibit the production of chemicals called prostaglandins may be part of the answer.

Studies indicate that irregular or infrequent use of aspirin is not associated with colon cancer risk reduction. Many researchers feel that the question of whether or not aspirin should be prescribed to prevent this cancer is best determined by a study to address this question.

Indians Oust Huskies From 1A Tournament

The varsity volleyball team of Northern High School saw its 1995 season come to an end Monday evening, as the Huskies dropped a 3-1 match to undefeated Mt. Savage in the 1A West Region playoffs on the Indians' court.

The 14-0 Indians won the first two games, 15-6, 15-7, before the Huskies came back to take the third game, 15-8. Mt. Savage then won the deciding game, 15-5, to advance to the regional semi-finals.

Heather Abucevicz led the Indians with nine service points and 15 kills, while Shannon DeHaven had 11 points, Amy Stafford recorded 22 kills, and April Lashley had 19 kills.

Leslie Buckel recorded 13 service points to pace the Huskies, who finish the season with a 10-5 record.

The Indians will host Flintstone this evening in a semi-final round.

Garrett Women Capture Second Place In Region XX Tourney

The women's volleyball team of Garrett Community College concluded its best season ever this past weekend by finishing second in the Region XX Tournament, held at Hagerstown Junior College.

Garrett, coached by Margaret Quinn, represented the smallest school in the tourney, but lost to only one of its opponents: host Hagerstown in the championship match. The Lakers recorded victories over Catonsville, Charles, and Anne Arundel community colleges on Saturday, and then defeated Potomac State College in the semi-finals on Sunday before falling to Hagerstown. They finished with an overall record of 25-9.

The 15-13, 15-7 win over Catonsville in the first match on Saturday featured a three-ace, 15-point effort by Amanda Tikey, who also had four kills, while Lynn Wiles finished with 11 points and Nikki Meyers recorded six kills.

Becky DeWitt finished with 11 service points, including one ace, and had 15 assists for the Lakers in their 15-6, 15-11 win over Charles CC in the second match. Wiles added 10 service points, Meyers recorded eight kills, and Tikey had seven kills.

The Lakers lost the first game against Anne Arundel, 15-12, but then came back to win the next two and the match in two close games, 16-14 and 15-13.

Meyers and DeWitt combined for 35 service points with seven aces, while Tikey had 18 points including two aces, plus 16 kills, and Klarissa Wiles contributed four solo blocks.

In the semi-final match against Potomac State, the Lakers won by scores of 15-10, 15-11, and 15-11, as Wyles led the Garrett team offensively with a perfect 25-for-25 serving effort. Meyers was also 16-for-16 at the line with three aces, made good on 24 of 34 attacks with nine kills, and converted two of five solo blocks for points.

DeWitt was 59-for-75 in sets with 26 assists, and Tikey had 10 points, 12 kills on 27 of 32 attacks, and went nine-for-nine in dinks with six resulting in points.

The Catamounts were led by Amanda Taylor with 10 points, and Rachel Pennington and Mary Ann Carter with eight points each. Pennington also had nine kills, while Erin Hockensmith finished with 10.

The Lakers lost to the Hagerstown Hawks in three straight games in the title match, 15-4, 15-7, and 15-8.

Marlena Whitacre finished with 11 service points, including an ace, for the Lakers, while Wiles and DeWitt added seven and six, respectively. Tikey led in attacks with a 25-for-30 effort, had nine service points, and was eight-for-eight in dinks with three resulting in points. Meyers went 16 for 23 with seven kills, and Crystal Wagner was six-for-12 in attacks.

Nicole Meyers was named to the All-Region XX first team, the Region XX All-Tournament first team, and is a Region XX All-American nominee, while Amanda Tikey was also named to the Region XX All-Tournament first team and the All-Region XX second team.

DNR Announces Special, One-Day Deer Season For Junior Hunters

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has announced that a one-day statewide deer season for junior hunters only will be held on Saturday, Nov. 18.

"Hunting is a time-honored tradition in Maryland, intrinsic to our heritage and culture," Griffin said. "Junior Hunter Day is designed to encourage young people to learn about and take part in hunting activities in a safe and enjoyable way."

Junior hunters who want to participate in the Nov. 18 special deer hunt must: 1) possess a Maryland resident junior hunting license; or 2) be younger than 16 years of age and be exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements; or 3) be younger than 16 years of age and possess a Maryland nonresident hunting license.

All junior hunters must be accompanied in the field by someone 21 years old or older who possesses a valid Maryland hunting license, or is exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements and is not afield with a firearm, bow, or any other hunting device. Hunters should refer to Maryland's Guide to Hunting and Trapping for all applicable deer hunting regulations.

DNR's Wildlife Division, in cooperation with the Chesapeake Chapter of the Safari Club International, will be sending a specially designed "Youth Deer Hunting" arm patch along with a certificate of appreciation to each junior hunter who is successful in killing a deer during this one-day special season.

"In recent years, the number of young people participating in hunting has dramatically decreased. In response, the DNR's Wildlife Division initiated a Junior Hunter Days prothe best ever in the school's history. They conclude the season with an overall record of 25-9.

"A Region XX Tournament second place finish is quite an honor for the smallest participating school in the region," stated Coach Quinn. "Volleyball, unlike the other sports, is at this point non-divisional, so we are competing against every school in the region for the championship and the opportunity to travel to the national tournament.

"Our squad overcame many obstacles to reach this point," she continued. "We lost a top recruit and had to deal with injury and illness, but still developed into a compatible, competitive team. I'm very proud of our student athletes' performance in the tournament. They fought hard to bring recognition to Garrett Community College."

gram several years ago to encourage the citizens of Maryland, especially our youth, to participate in hunting activities," Griffin said.

Junior Hunter Days are held across Maryland in cooperation with local conservation organizations to educate young hunters about wildlife management principles, hunting methods, conservation ethics, and firearm safety and marksmanship.

To further promote youth participation in hunting, the Maryland General Assembly recently passed a new law entitling all junior hunters who successfully completed Maryland's Hunter Safety and Education course after Aug. 1, 1995, to a one-year free hunting license.

Maryland mandatory Hunter Safety and Education Program has been recognized throughout the country as a benchmark in state hunter education efforts.

"Hunting provides the citizens of Maryland millions of pleasurable hours of wholesome outdoor recreation and nutritious table fare. Deer hunting has been shown to be an essential element of sound wildlife management, and the most efficient and effective means of maintaining deer populations in harmony with their environment," Griffin said.

Revenues derived from hunting licenses and federal excise taxes on hunting equipment provide for the scientific investigation, conservation, protection and management of wildlife, and for the training of hunters to be safe and ethical. Deer Hunting related activities contribute more than $200 million dollars annually to Maryland's economy, according to Griffin.

Bear Issues

lines set forth in House Bill 1396, which addressed this very issue.

"The task force recommends that the department compensate people for black bear damage to beehives, livestock, field crops, and managed tree areas. The task force also recommends that damages less than $200 not be eligible for payment, and that no more than $3,000 be paid to a person during a year.

"3. The department should allow for black bear population reduction by hunting of bears in areas where the black bear population has exceeded cultural carrying capacity. Cultural carrying capacity is defined as the number of bears that people will allow to coexist with local human populations.

"A lottery permit system should be established, with non-refundable application fees being charged. An additional hunting permit fee should also be charged. The monies generated from this lottery would fund the compensation program. Additional donation and contributions would also be accepted and utilized in the compensation program.

"The task force recommends that the hunting of bears be highly regulated, and that the department set strict criteria on the timing of the hunt. The task force also recommends that all monies generated from such a hunt be solely dedicated to the black bear compensation program."

While the majority of persons gathered at the NHS informational meeting favored some type of bear hunting, several persons suggested that land owners and farmers who suffer bear depredation should be permitted to obtain a special license to kill nuisance bears. Such an arrangement currently exists for farmers who suffer deer depredation. If adopted for bear control, such a program might also result in the elimination of identified nuisance bears rather than non-nuisance bears.

Although bear hunting has been prohibited in Maryland since 1953, and poaching bears carries a hefty $1,500 fine, natural resources law (SS 10-423) currently permits a person to kill or wound a bear in defense of the person's own life, the lives of other persons, or the lives of other animals on the person's property.

A widely expressed concern about the proposed compensation program was that farmers and others suffering deer depredation, which has been estimated to reach into the millions of dollars in Maryland, may seek similar compensation. Such a sentiment is expressed in the minority opinion of one of the task force participants, wildlife biologist D.J. Schubert of the Fund for Animals.

"If, as a result of the black bear damage compensation program, residents successfully force the Md. DNR to provide compensation for other forms of wildlife damage, the Md. DNR would be bankrupt in short order and the state of Maryland would be hard pressed to find the money to permit compensation," Schubert stated in his 21-page minority opinion.

The DNR's Black Bear Management Plan, drafted in 1991 by Md. Forest, Park, and Wildlife Service (FPWS), also includes such a warning. The plan states, in part, "The FPWS is concerned about the precedent that this [compensating landowners for bear damage] would set for all types of wildlife damage compensation."

Schubert and Linda Kramme of The Nature Conservancy also voiced opposition to the task force's majority support for bear hunting.

"The Md. DNR does not have the biological data necessary to justify the establishment of a bear hunting season," Schubert asserted. "With only 200 black bears - one of the slowest reproducing terrestrial mammal species in the country - estimated to exist in the state, any hunt or lethal control program must be carefully evaluated due to the potential to cause significant damage to the bear population.

"The hunt will not reduce the depredation incidents because it is not designed to target 'problem' animals, and may actually worsen the perceived bear damage problem as a result of the social disruption of a black bear population through the killing of individual animals."

Schubert went on to state, "A variety of effective, non-lethal techniques to reduce, eliminate, and/or prevent black bear damage are available and their use should be expanded."

The Fund for Animals' opinion paper also suggested that "A bias in the composition of the task force resulted in a preordained solution to the perceived bear depredation solution."

The paper went on to state, "The composition of the task force would appear to favor certain interest groups over others, and certainly is not reflective of the state's citizenry."

The citizen's task force included the following 19 persons: District I Senator John Hafer, District IA Delegate George Edwards, Garrett County Commissioner Roger Glotfelty, Md. State Beekeepers Association representative Harry Mallow, Garrett County sheep farmers Lee and Helen Shillingburg, Maryland Department of Agriculture veterinarian James Fearer, Allegany-Garrett Sportsmen Association representative Lee Osmansky, Garrett County Tree Farmer Marshall Stacy, Garrett County Farm Bureau member Gary Fratz, Nature Conservancy representative Linda Kramme, Fund for Animals representative D.J. Schubert, Garrett County farmer Roland Murphy, Frostburg State University personnel Barbara Hurd and Vance Davis, Garrett County landowner Bonnie Friend, Garrett County farmer Herbert Myers, Garrett County farmer Homer Reichenbecher, and Wildlife Advisory Commission member Bonnie Kelly.

Following last week's public meeting in Accident, a similar gathering was hosted by the DNR in Timonium on Monday. Two more public meetings on the task force's recommendations are slated for Nov. 14 and 16 in Easton and Annapolis, respectively.

According the Thomas Matthews, Md. Game Program Manager for the DNR, Wildlife Division, the department will review the task force's recommendations, the comments of persons at the four public meetings, and input from other sources before developing a new program to deal with bear depredation. Such a new program would possibly go into effect by spring of 1996, he said.

While bears originally roamed Maryland from the Western mountains to the Eastern Shore, hunting and human expansion reduced the population to only a dozen bears by 1956. The black bear was officially listed as an endangered species in the state in 1972.

As a result of increasing bear populations, the status of the black bear was changed in 1980 from an "endangered species" to a "non-game species of special concern," and in 1985 from non-game status to forest game status, thus creating the possibility of future bear hunting season. Today, the Maryland black bear population stands at approximately 200.

As the numbers of bears has increased, so have the cries of foul from farmers and beekeepers who have suffered bear damage. Some bears open man-made bee hives to extract the sweet honey. Nuisance bears have also devoured corn and reportedly killed sheep.

In 1987 and 1988, the DNR investigated only 16 bear damage complaints. The department recorded 34 nuisance complaints in 1990. Complaints peaked at 49 in 1992, and 45 complaints have been logged so far this year.

The DNR logged bear damage totalling an estimated $7,900 in value in 1992. Bears have wreaked some $4,830 in recorded damage so far this year.

In addition to complaining that bears sometimes raid garbage cans and bird feeders, some residents also admit that they are afraid of bears or are afraid for the safety of children or pets when bears are nearby.

According to literature from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Forest Service, black bears in North America kill fewer than one person per three years, on average.

However, the Md. DNR, Wildlife Division, has warned that persons not feed or approach any bear.

College. Between now and then county citizens who served at the home front or in military service during WWII are asked to write their memories of those days, come to GCC on Nov. 20, and to drop off or receive help in writing these memories. All submissions will be put into a book printed and distributed to all the county libraries for future generations to read. For additional information call Joan Crawford, 387-3046 at GCC.

Finally, Chairman Shogren reminds all those who think WWII is ancient history to look around and observe that there are many living survivors of that era. "If you want to learn more about WWII just ask anyone over 60," he said. They are the living texts of WWII. Ask and you might learn something about the most important event of the 20th century.

Playground Fund Benefit Auction Set For Nov. 18

An auction to benefit the Playground Fund of Grantsville Community Park will be held Saturday, Nov. 18, at 7 p.m. at the Grantsville fire hall. Business owners and individuals interested in donating to this event are asked to telephone Linda Towers at 895-5309 or Debbie Klotz at 895-5927. All donations for the auction are tax-deductible.

An event that raised nearly $1,300 for the fund was a "haunted house" sponsored by the Grantsville Lioness Club recently, as over 600 people participated. A hayride and refreshments were also available.

Businesses and individuals who wish to donate to the fund are asked to send their checks to Town of Grantsville, P.O. Box 296, Grantsville, MD 21536. December 1 is the target date for the fund drive to be completed, which will allow time for the equipment to be ordered and installed by May of next year.

THANK YOU!

I would like to extend my thanks and appreciation to family, friends, and colleagues who have aggressively supported me throughout my recent ordeal. Without such support and God's strength, I am not sure how I would continue to cope. Again, thank you all so very much!

Accident Elementary Students Study Life And Challenges Of Helen Keller

Fourth grade students at the Accident Elementary School recently finished reading a biography of Helen Keller by Margaret Davidson. While learning about this extraordinary American woman, the students were provided with several enrichment activities that helped to further develop not only their reading, writing, and spelling skills, but increase their knowledge of social studies and science. They also were provided with physical activities.

All of the students were required to write about what they had learned and experienced during this course of study, a school spokesperson explained.

The students were taken on a field trip to Zion Lutheran Church in Accident, where they observed volunteers from the community using a hand-operated printing press and braille templates to print a book of the Bible. These books will then be shipped to a central location for assembly and binding with books from other locations. The braille Bibles will then be made available to those who need them.

Another activity that was used to reinforce the lessons learned in the book involved the dissection of cow eyes that were donated by a local meat packing house. In this activity the students were able to see how eyes are constructed and how the various parts work together to form a single unit.

As a final activity, the students were taken to the gymnasium of the school and were blindfolded. They were then led through an obstacle course that allowed them to learn what it must feel like to be visually impaired. Another blindfold activity demonstrated to the students the difficulty that a visually impaired person has in simply trying to identify common household or classroom objects.

Pam Adams visited the class and showed the students a model of the ear and displayed the various parts. She also taught the students some simple sign language.

Some of the students have now begun to read the sequel to this book, Helen Keller's Teacher, the story of Annie Sullivan.

LEARNING ABOUT BLINDNESS - Fourth-graders from Accident Elementary School recently had the opportunity to learn what it may be like to be blind as the students studied the life of Helen Keller. While reading a biography of Keller by Margaret Davidson, the students took part in several enrichment activities to further the learning experience. A field trip to Zion Lutheran Church in Accident was taken and students watched as volunteers used a hand-operated printing press to make Braille templates of the Bible. Shown above is Owen Bach as he demonstrates how the press works. The students also dissected cow eyes donated by a local meat packing house, and took part in a blindfold experiment in the school gymnasium. See story. Students shown below behind the blindfolds are, in the front row left to right, Jeremy Fontaine, Torrey Poholsky, Travis Patton, Derek Workman, and Sonya Moore. In the second row, same order, are Stacey Muns (an assistant from Frostburg State University), Ben Hannibal, Robbie Glotfelty, Darsey Branthoover, Lydia Maust, Josh Fratz, Anna Karsten, and Jessica Moyers (also an FSU assistant).

ARC Approves RESA Funding

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has approved a $65,000 technical assistance grant to the Regional Education Service Agency of Appalachian Maryland (RESA). RESA provides direct technical assistance primarily to local educational institutions as well as numerous social service agencies and other nonprofit groups in Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties.

RESA also serves as the administrative unit for human resource programs that are developed through the public high schools, community colleges, Frostburg State University, county health departments, social service departments, and nonprofit organizations in the region.

"The ARC Technical Assistance Grant provides RESA with the resources we need to effectively support our members' institutions in serving the citizens of Western Maryland," stated Frank Peto, executive director of the Agency.

According to Ronald M. Kreitner, the governor's representative on the commission and the director of the Maryland Office of Planning, RESA is the "driving force" behind the telecommunications program in western Maryland. This organization is interconnected with the planning districts in West Virginia and Pennsylvania and is instrumental in the development of grant applications in both these states. This technical assistance grant will aid in administration of four to six new ARC projects in conjunction with their existing workload. Kreitner noted that total funding to RESA is $130,000.

The ARC grant of $65,000 will be matched with funds from the State of Maryland and in-kind contributions from the Board.

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) continues to assist in the long-term economic development of the Appalachian region. The ARC Program in Maryland is directed by the governor's office, and coordinated through the alternate's office, the Director of the Maryland Office of Planning. Thirteen states or portions thereof, comprise Appalachia, including the three Western Maryland counties of Allegany, Garrett, and Washington. All ARC investments in Maryland are developed and identified within the Appalachian Maryland Development Plan, which is updated on an annual basis.

College Aid Differs from School To School
(The Student may have nothing to do with it)

It pays to research the financial aid history of the college you want to apply to. For Example, in 1991 a small independent/religious school in Virginia had the following needs-based history: Comprehensive Fee $16,150 51% of freshmen applied for aid, 85% judged to have need, 99% were aided, average aid per student $11,570 (31% self-help,69% gift) Average % of need met 92%
Fee $16,150 less average aid of $11,570-family contribution is $4,580.

That same year, a small independent/religious school in Ohio had the following needs based history: Comprehensive fee 9,981 71% of freshmen applied for aid, 82% judged to have need, 93% were aided, average aid per student $2,784 (83% self-help, 17% gift) Average of need met 33%.
Fee $9,981 less average sid of $2,784 - family contribution is $7,197.

As you can see it really pays to check your school history. If average % of aid met is low, guess who makes up the difference.

Upole, the defendant was not prosecuted on one count of harassment and one count of disturbing the peace. Upole contended McCrobie harassed him and disturbed the peace over a several year period.

Charges of possession of CDS, filed against Warren A. McFadden, 34, District Heights, were placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision state that the defendant must complete 20 hours of community service within 90 days. He was charged with the offense on March 4, after a traffic stop on Interstate 68.

Gary Hardesty, 39, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of battery, at the request of the complainant, Lee R. Steyer. The charge stemmed from a July 10 incident when Steyer reportedly attempted to stop a fight between the defendant and another person.

Amy C. Dowden, 29, Mtn. Lake Park, was not prosecuted on one count of assault, one count of reckless driving, and one count of negligent driving, at the request of the complainant, Carol L. Marple. Marple filed the charges after an incident on Rt. 135, when the defendant reportedly drove her vehicle across the center line, causing the victim to swerve to avoid a possible collision.

John W. Pilkerton, 20, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of battery, at the request of the complainant, Crystal Shiflett. In the charging statement, the victim claimed that Pilkerton beat her several times over a period of time, and has threatened to kill her.

Teresa A. Hamilton, 29, Oakland, was not prosecuted in last week's district court proceedings on one count of trespassing. Court records indicate she refused to leave the property of Thomas E. Savage on the Mayhew Inn Road, after she was asked to do so. The incident occurred on July 30.

Larry W. Cooper, 53, Oakland, pleaded guilty to one count of battery. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $100, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He was also ordered to complete 20 hours of community service as part of his probation, and told to have no contact with the victim, Betty I. Emmart.

According to district court records, Emmart stated that on June 27, during an argument, Cooper asked her if she was going to Ohio during the 4th of July holiday. When she told him "no," he threw a blender at her, striking her on the leg. At one point during the argument, he also pushed her down.

One count of felony theft, filed against Betty Emmart, 38, Mtn. Lake Park, was placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision stated she must return the television set she took from Larry Cooper.

During a sentence revision hearing for Jeremy J. Smith, 19, Meyersdale, Pa., who was convicted in April of two counts of petty theft, the judge suspended the balance of the defendant's sentence except for time already served. He also waived Smith's supervision fee, and ordered him to pay $569.39 restitution to the owner of the Longstretch Market, Frostburg. The charges stemmed from Smith's involvement in a breaking, entering, and theft that occurred March 3.

Richard W. Wright, 38, Grantsville, was not prosecuted on one count of felony theft, one count of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, and driving on a revoked license, at the request of the complainant, Susan L. Durst. The charges were filed after a July 25 incident when Wright took Durst's car without her knowledge, and pulled the vehicle into her path as she drove along the road.

Charges of felony theft and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, filed by Durst against Randy L. Wiley, 31, Grantsville, were dismissed by the judge. In the charging statement, stemming from the same incident, Durst claimed Wiley refused to give her the car after she demanded it be returned.

Delores R. Sisler, 63, Grantsville, was not prosecuted on one count of detaining a child, at the request of the complainant, Glenna C. Crapper, Manassas, Va. Crapper filed the charge after she attempted to take her 2-year-old child with her for the weekend, and Sisler wouldn't let her have the child.

DNR CASES

James E. Welsch, 30, Pittsburgh, was not prosecuted in last week's district court proceedings on one count of possession/consumption of an intoxicating beverage in a non-designated area. He was charged with the offense at Swallow Falls State Park, July 30, by Ranger 1st Class M. Cooper.

Richard A. Skeweris, 40, Oakland, paid a $70 fine after he was found guilty of failing to display daylight fluorescent orange while hunting. He also paid a $120 fine for hunting on private property without permission from the owner. Skeweris was cited by Natural Resources Police Officer J. Clise, on Oct. 9.

DWI CASES

Several DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) cases were heard in recent district court proceedings.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Susan Degruyl, 41, W.Va., who failed to appear for her DWI court hearing. A new $500 cash bond was issued by the judge. Degruyl was charged with DWI on Dec. 5, 1994, by Maryland State Police.

Christopher Alan Ford, 20, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI. Sentencing was set for a later date. He was arrested for the offense on July 16 by sheriff's deputies.

Bradley Clinton Lewis, 27, Oakland, pleaded guilty to one count of DUI. He was fined $150, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Conditions of his probation state he must complete 30 hours of community service, attend a six-month alcohol treatment program with his local health department, and a one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. Lewis was charged with DWI on April 9 by sheriff's deputies.

Timothy Daniel McCauley, Mtn. Lake Park, was convicted on a charge of DUI. He was fined $300, sentenced to serve 48 hours of a 60-day jail term, and placed on 12 months of supervised probation for the offense. Additionally, he was ordered to complete 40 hours of community service, attend a six-month alcohol treatment program, and a one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. McCauley was arrested for DWI on July 30 by sheriff's deputies.

Gregory James Weinberger, 30, Baltimore, pleaded guilty to one count of DUI. He was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He must also complete 40 hours of community service, attend a six-month alcohol treatment program, and a one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. He was arrested on Aug. 5 by sheriff's deputies.

A guilty verdict for violation of probation was handed to Donald Chris Virts, 21, Md., for an earlier DWI conviction. Sentencing has been postponed until Dec. 6, according to district court records. Sheriff's deputies arrested Virts for DWI on July 31, 1994.

Linda Kay Rice, 34, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to DUI. She was sentenced to 30 days in jail (suspended), fined $150, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Additionally, she was ordered to complete 30 hours of community service as part of her probation, and attend an eight-week alcohol treatment program with the local health department. A one-year alcohol restriction was also placed on her driver's license. Rice was arrested for the offence on May 27 by state police.

A DUI charge filed against James Leonard Rice, 33, Grantsville, was placed on the stet docket, on the condition that he complete 25 hours of community service. He, too, was arrested for DWI on May 27 by state police.

"DRUG-FREE - THE HEALTHY CHOICE" was the motto at Broad Ford Elementary School during Red Ribbon Week, Oct. 23-27. Several activities were held during the week in celebration of the national drug prevention effort. Highlights for the students included a performance by Pandora's Box, a teenager theatre group from the Garrett County Health Department's Outreach Program. Students were also visited by Jamie Adams of the Department of Natural Resources, and Gloria Miller, the school nurse who conducted a special program for the first graders. The students decorated the school fence with the motto and the fifth grade Red Ribbon committee members composed a rap song for the school and scheduled days for students to wear red. Classes decorated their homerooms in a contest, and winning in the kindergarten-second grades was the joint effort of Dana McCauley's and Jane Britner's first grade classes. Winning for the third-fifth grades was the decoration by Lori Burdock's fourth grade class, which is pictured above. Students shown left to right are Tim Snyder, Roxanne Holcraft, Jessie Woods, Erica Miller, Robbie Stemple, Chris Miller, and Patrick Burns. Shown below left is the award-winning bulletin board in McCauley and Britner's class. Shown in front left to right are Adam Rexrode, Rachel Hanlin, David Wall, Zachary Vogel, Jade Klavuhn, and Andrew Robertson. Shown above right are students in the first grade classes who created and sang a drug-free song to the tune of "If I Only Had A Brain." Commissioners shelter for domestic violence victims.

The $5 sum, the resolution states, "shall be paid into a fund exclusively for a domestic violence shelter."

Founded in 1990, the DVSARC received funding revenue from marriage license fees prior to the commissioners' September resolution. In an interview yesterday, DVSARC Director Francis Callis stated she would need the consent of the resource center's board before she could reveal the amount of money currently in the shelter fund.

Until the end of the last fiscal year, the operating expenses of the GCCW - such as telephone, postage, and printing costs - were paid by the commissioners with money from the county's general fund. However, this avenue of funding was officially closed recently when the commissioners, reportedly on the advice of their legal council, stated that the county board lacks the legal authority to fund the GCCW.

Founded in 1993, the GCCW is chaired by Phyllis Trickett and is a separate organization from the DVSARC.

Braskey stated this week that the commissioners endorse the GCCW's current efforts to obtain Community Development Block Grant funding to help the DVSARC pay for the purchase and renovation of a local home to serve as a shelter for domestic violence victims and their children.

"I think where there's another misunderstanding [is that] there are two groups," Commissioner Wayne Wilt remarked. "The one listed there in the resolution [the DVSARC] is the one that is responsible for the shelter. The women's commission is not responsible for the shelter, and I think that a lot of people think that the women's commission is responsible for the shelter, and they are not. It is the agency that's listed in the resolution."

According to the resolution, the Family Law Article of the state code empowers the commissioners to divert any revenue from marriage license fees above and beyond the base fee of $10 per license to help fund local domestic violence programs. Currently, the first $10 of each local marriage license fee is split equally between the circuit court and the county.

ences five years ago. Soloists for the concert will be named at a later date.

Admission price for both offerings will be $7.50 for adults and $3.00 for children ages 12 and under. Advance tickets will be available after November 20 at Englander's Pharmacy and from all Choral Society members.

Both programs are made possible and funded in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and Maryland State Arts Council.

The Garrett Choral Society, founded in the early 1970s, has offered residents and visitors a wide variety of musical programs over the past two decades, ranging from sacred choral oratorios to Broadway musicals. Most recently the Society produced The Wizard of Oz and "Snapshots of Broadway." Handel's Messiah was performed to three sellout audiences during the holiday season last year.

The Choral Society is comprised of approximately 60 local residents who enjoy singing, and has been under the direction of Mrs. Learey since its inception.

In Memory of Your Birthday
Dearest Gina "Sissy"

Now that your birthday is near,
I reminisce about the many ways
That you were so dear. . .

I miss your sweet voice saying,
"Hi Mom, How are you today?"
You could always lift my spirits,
Even on a bad day.

I miss the touch of your hand,
As it gently clasped mine.
It made me feel that everything was fine.

You always gave much more than you received.
To put others first,
was what you believed.

I miss your hugs,
with that gentle pat on the back.
There was so much love,
in a hug like that.

I miss that twinkle
in your beautiful brown eyes,
At a family joke,
or a lovely surprise.

I miss your bubbling laughter,
when something amused you.
It made those who were close by,
feel happiness too.

I miss the cards and letters,
like those you sent over the years.
They were filled with much love, and shall always be held dear.

These are only a few of the many ways in which you are missed.
To have had you as my daughter,
I know I was truly blessed.

Although you are no longer here,
with your family and me,
We shall always hold you close,
in a loving memory.

All My Love,
Mom

In loving memory of my daughter, Gina Renai Humberson Freeman, who left this life May 9, 1994.

Health & Nutrition
by Judith Sheldon

IF THE SHOE FITS, wear it. Properly fitting shoes can be more than just comfortable; they may help you avoid serious foot problems including, for diabetics and others with circulation conditions, amputations of toes or feet. As a matter of fact, former Surgeon General C. Everett Koop says that if more people wore properly fitted shoes, we'd see a large drop in the number of diabetic amputations that occur far too often among the elderly, among others. Good fit also means fewer corns, calluses, bunions, hammertoes, or other painful foot deformities. We'd also see happier women since most of these painful problems afflict them because of their shoes, which may be too tight, too short, and too high.

The American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons cautions women not to wear heels higher than 2¼ inches. Heels higher than this can cause all the aforesaid foot problems, plus ankle problems. Also avoid pointed toe shoes, which force your toes into an unnatural position.

For children, the shoe should fit immediately. No child should be expected to grow into his or her shoes, or "break in" the shoes.

For toddlers, avoid heavy rubber soles that can stick to a surface and cause the child to fall. Also, have both your children's feet measured, since differences between feet are common.

Babies and crawling infants do not need shoes. Provide them, instead, with socks or booties to keep their feet warm.

Dollars & Sense
by Bryon Elson

When it comes to credit cards, "less is more." A wallet full of credit cards does not mean lenders view you as a good credit risk. In fact, having too many credit cards can work against you — even if you rarely use them. When some lenders review your credit application, they may add your credit limits, as well as your actual debts. A large available credit limit may cause a lender to think you are financially overextended and may result in the denial of a future loan request.

The best credit card is one that suits your individual spending and payment habits. If you regularly pay off your credit card balances each month, look for a card with no annual fee. The rate of interest is less important. If you carry a balance from month to month, however, get a card with the lowest interest rate possible.

A wise strategy is to have two credit cards — one no-fee card to use for those day-to-day purchases you plan to pay in full each month, and one low-interest-rate card for items you will repay over time.

Read the fine print in any new credit card agreement. In addition to rates and annual fees, find out how much the bank charges for late payments, bounced checks, and exceeding your credit limit. Also, determine the length of the grace period — the time during which no interest charges accrue on new purchases. Without a grace period, you may owe finance charges even if you pay in full each month.

A card with a 7.5-percent interest rate might seem like a winner, but that rate may rise by as much as 10 points after a relatively short introductory period. Cards that offer low rates for a limited period of time are best only if you plan to transfer a balance from another card on which you are paying higher interest AND have a strategy for paying off the debt while the lower interest rate is in effect.

Also, it is not a wise idea to let your credit card become an easy source of quick cash. The interest rate charged on enhancements like cash advances and convenience checks are almost always higher than the rate you pay on purchases.

The Dennett Road Elementary School Improvement Team (SIT) supports the educational goals as they are currently written. However, if a set of goals is to be presented, it is our position that a committee representative of the community be selected by Dr. Ryscavage, superintendent.

To the Editor:

This is in response to the B.O.E. meeting and everyone involved: Do us all a favor next time--go to your local library and research these or any other topics of "question" thoroughly before jumping the gun.

Astrology is a science that takes astronomy and mixes it with a mythological personality. I don't know anyone who lives by it or takes it seriously, but any subject can be distorted and taken to the extreme. At the Trenton, N.J. Museum and Planetarium Dome, astrology is a regular part of their astronomy program, taught as a science; not a cult. We use the sun, moon, and tides regularly to chart seasons, etc. (Guide planting cycles.)

Acupuncture and massage therapy are very appropriate subjects for the Wellness Day Program. They are both used as an alternative in medicine to relieve stress and pain without drugs. Massage is used in medical emergencies, trauma, coma, rehab., and geriatric patients; besides for minor home situations. There is no thing religious about it. Neither acupuncture (which should only be done by a certified individual) nor massage should be performed without proper knowledge as both could be harmful if done incorrectly.

Research what you don't understand and stop reading more into what's not there. Any deviant can take the extreme. The choice is yours to rise above it, keeping an open mind.

Wellness Day is only one day out of the school year devoted to mental and physical health care and prevention. It has nothing to do with "why Johnny can't read." Why bring religion into it at all? Legally, church and state are separate. Private schools are allowed religion; at present, however, public ones are not. Different religions, different beliefs, and standards, Riley's behavior and the parents' reaction demeaned our moral standards and intellect. This is a free country still, right? Remember the Salem witch trials?

As for Patty Ross Schmidt's letter: Halloween History comes from All Saints Day. They dressed up to scare away evil spirits, not worship them. Stop being fanatical, look it up under Druids, Welsh, Celts, etc. My family is no less Christian than yours. We do not worship Satan. Halloween is fun for children. Let God be our judge.

To the Editor:

In 1968 we ended the Game and Inland Fish Commission. The commission sold 290,195 hunting licenses. Since we went to a regulatory agency, we sold less than 120,000 licenses. That is a net loss of more than 170,000 licenses in this state.

The mission of wildlife management and conservation should be aimed at the conservationist and not the preservationist groups. We the sportsmen in this country have always funded conservation programs, and have wildlife and the environment at the level that it is today, not those preservation groups. We are the source of management and funding for those programs. The economy that the sportsmen gives to this state is approximately $135 million per year. We need the Game and Inland Fish Commission reinstated, in this state, to protect our hunting.

Consolidated hunting license is $24.50 per year for the use of state land; it is not permission to hunt on private property. Therefore, we see this task force as not being a well balanced task force, but a group that will produce a divided assessment of the problem, and because of that, the Wildlife Division will be able to set the agenda for the management of the black bear as a financial resource to benefit them and their much needed funding.

Our suggestion is that the hunters will be willing and able to solve the bear problem, by implementing a bear season that will eliminate the problem bears in areas that are having problems, at no additional charge to the hunters. We feel that paying additional fees for the managed hunts is double taxation and we are being penalized for a management problem that we can manage at no cost to the state. If the state charges us anything extra, then what are hunting licenses for?

We suggest that if you have a hunting license, and you wish to bear hunt, that you send in a copy of that license to the Wildlife Division and that will enter you in a lottery-type drawing. The only cost is time to write and 32 cents. That will prove us wrong that the problem is funding, and not the management, that the Wildlife Division feels it needs.

Post 214 Contributes To Projects; Plans Veterans' Day Dinner, Dance

At a recent meeting of Grantsville Post 214, American Legion, the membership in attendance approved a contribution of $5,000 to the Grantsville Lioness Club's new playground equipment for the Grantsville Community Park. The money was contributed as part of the post's child welfare program.

Also during the meeting, a $200 gift was approved for the Garrett County library system's efforts to obtain books and films relating to World War II.

Plans were made for Post 214's annual Veterans' Day celebration. A dinner and dance are planned for Saturday, Nov. 11, beginning at 6 p.m.

The program will be under the direction of Commander Jerry W. Fritz. Guest speaker will be Department of Maryland 2nd Vice-Commander William "Bill" Proctor of August J. Raveio Post 195, Baltimore. Included in the program will be the announcement of the post's Legionnaire of the Year. This recognition began in 1992, as part of the annual Veterans' Day program. Past recipients include Charles C. Bender, 1992; Roger C. Resh, 1993; and Paul L. Durst, 1994.

Program committee members Thomas L. Warne, chairman, William T. Frickey, Ralph Pritts Sr., Roger C. Resh, and Fritz also chose to honor all WWII veterans of Post 214 who have 49 or 50 years of continuous membership. Honorees include the following: 50 years - B. Robert Bender, Charles C. Bender, Edgar A. Bender, Woodrow W. Custer, N. Robert Davis Jr., Wayne H. Durst, Luther M. Huff, Ray G. Jenkins, Otis W. Kamp, Matthew E. Martin Jr., Ivan E. Miller, Arlie R. Rounds, and Darrell W. Stahl; and 49 years - Luther C. Beachy, Thomas O. Bender, Robert S. Glotfelty, William H. Layman, and Ira M. Stark. The post will also present 50-year honorariums to Phyllis Beachy and Betty Broadwater, whose husbands, the late W. Blaine Beachy and Alonzo W. Broadwater, were recently "transferred" to Post Everlasting.

The legion's dance will follow the dinner, and will feature music by Country Express.

GRANTSVILLE POST 214, AMERICAN LEGION, recently contributed to two local projects, including the Grantsville Lioness Club for its new playground equipment project at Grantsville Community Park, and the Garrett County library system's efforts to obtain books and films relating to World War II. Above, Commander Jerry W. Fritz presents a $5,000 check to Joan Holliday, Lioness president. Below, Jack Caruthers, immediate past president of the Friends of Ruth Enlow Library, pictured at right, accepts a $200 check from Fritz.

elimination for a 13-point total, but a 12-point hot gun penalty dropped the score to one point. All Venom could do was wait and hope that, out of the games remaining to be played, one of the four teams still in the running for the semi-finals would score low; which is what happened, and Venom squeaked into the semi-finals in the number 16 spot.

The biggest win of the tournament for Venom was in the first game of the semi-finals, when they defeated the number two ranked amateur team in the world, Personal Vendetta, of Canada, in a see-saw battle 50-16.

Venom then sustained a 60-6 defeat at the hands of another Maryland squad called Team Image. The final game put Venom against a strong French team, but the local squad demolished the Ton Ton Flingueurs in front of a large crowd of spectators, 60-3. Because of their loss to Team Image, however, that was as far as the local team could advance in the tournament.

The squad was awarded a team trophy, five cases of paintballs, and five paintball shirts.

Venom team captain Mike Frey noted his appreciation to the various sponsors of the team, including Smart Parts, Inc., of Latrobe, Pa.; Snapple Beverage Company; and Bausch & Lomb, Inc. He also thanked Brad Stewart of Oakland for his "continued support over the last few years" and to Mike Gilroy of Pennsylvania for his support. He also thanked all who supported the local team at the demonstration booths at the Garrett County Fair and Autumn Glory Festival.

Besides Frey, the team includes Scott Lohr, Todd Michaels, Danny Teats, Jeff Lipscomb, and for the NPPL World Cup, they welcomed Rafe Farmer from the United Kingdom, who according to Frey "shared many useful tips from overseas."

Frey said Venom is already preparing for the 1996 season, and plan to play in the 10-man divisions as well as some five-man divisions. They will participate in as many of the NPPL national circuit tournaments as financially possible. Local businesses and/or individuals interested in being sponsors for the team are asked to contact Frey at 334-6151.

"We're always looking for new players, whether experienced or not, who would be interested in playing competitive paintball," Frey said, noting that interested persons may contact him at the above number or Scott Lohr at 387-2337.

caped injury Monday evening when his car was struck by a CSX freight train at the Frick's Road crossing, near Deer Park.

State police said Gregory Dawson was attempting to cross the railroad tracks at Frick's Road when the front wheel of his 1988 Buick became stuck between the tracks. Minutes later, the caution gates near the track engaged as the train approached, and Dawson abandoned his vehicle.

According to the report, from approximately one-half mile away the engineer, R.C. Fazzalore, Keyser, W.Va., saw the vehicle on the tracks, and he activated the emergency brake. The train, pulling approximately 30 cars with miscellaneous freight, struck the car and pushed it approximately two feet before coming to a stop, police said.

No charges were filed in the 7:39 p.m. mishap, and damages to the vehicle were said to be minor. Dawson reportedly drove the car from the scene.

Also responding were volunteers from Southern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Deer Park fire department.

TREATED, RELEASED

Two county residents were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital during the past week, following separate accidents.

Terri J. Hutzel, 28, Friendsville, was slightly injured Nov. 1 after she lost control of her 1989 Chevrolet Beretta on the Friendsville-Addison Road, when a deer jumped onto the roadway. Hutzel reportedly swerved to avoid hitting the deer, causing the vehicle to travel off the road and strike a tree.

She was transported to the hospital by ambulance following the 12:48 p.m. mishap.

A McHenry woman was injured Tuesday afternoon in a two-vehicle accident on Rt. 219.

Shirley M. Friend, 42, was traveling north on Rt. 219 in a Chevrolet Beretta, when her car collided with a 1995 Pontiac Sunbird operated by Tammy R. Butt, 18, Oakland, who was attempting to pull onto Rt. 219 from the Mosser Road.

Butt was charged with failure to yield the right of way following the 2:40 p.m. accident. She was reportedly uninjured.

Volunteers from Northern Garrett Rescue Squad transported Friend to the hospital. Also responding were members of the Deep Creek Lake Volunteer Fire Department, and Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

Food For Thought
McCLIVE'S LAKEFRONT DINING

Bake a bagful of cranberries--plus 1¼ cups sugar and 2 Tbs. thawed orange juice concentrate--about an hour at 325 degrees in a tightly covered dish. When juices form and the berries are very soft, add 2 Tbs. Grand Marnier. Chill covered.

"Recycle" the oil that marinated artichokes come in. Use it for the oil in salad dessing. Or saute vegetables in it.

Mashed potaotes, the ultimate comfort food, are even homier flavored with garlic. Cook halved garlic cloves together with the potatoes, then beat both potaotes and garlic with olive oil, milk, salt and pepper until fluffy.

The easiest way to cut brownies and bar cookies neatly and quickly is with a pizza cutter.

The best thing about turkey is the leftovers; make sure you buy enough. Plan on a least a pound per serving for a bird less than 21 pounds, 3/4 pound per with a bigger bird.

The best thing about eating at McClives? The food? The atmosphere? The friendly service? Come in soon and decide for yourself.

Judge Thayer To Present Free Legal Workshop

The Honorable Fred A. Thayer, Chief Judge of the 4th Judicial Circuit, will present a workshop titled, "How Should the Legal System Work For You?" on Monday, Nov. 13, beginning at 1 p.m. in Room 307 of Garrett Community College's Continuing Education Building. The workshop is free and open to the public.

Included in the presentation will be ways to identify problem areas in family relationships, address those problems before relationships become broken, and deal with the results of broken relationships. Knowledge of these options can help one avoid feeling overwhelmed by the challenges of being parent, spouse of family member, and identify where to turn for help, according to Judge Thayer.

Assistance with identification of domestic problems, intervention and resolutions, separation, custody, and child support will also be discussed in the judge's presentation.

This workshop is sponsored by the New Dimensions Program, the New Horizons Program, and The Caring Connection grants of GCC under the direction of Barbara Frey. For additional information or to register, persons may contact Virginia Jeffrey, Intake/-Counselor Specialist for the New Dimensions and The Caring Connection programs at 387-3103.

MANY OLD TIMERS ARE STILL AROUND

New and powerful miracle drugs form the basis for most of the news we hear about advances in health care. But, there are still a great many medicines being prescribed that have withstood the passage of time. Penicillin, digitalis, sulfur and ephedrine are just a few that are frequently prescribed by physicians.

These drugs, day in and day out, are saving lives, curing illnesses, and alleviating pain. As long as they are considered effective they will continue to occupy a prominent place in our prescription laboratory.

"It's A Touchdown!"

"It's a real hot game on a cold night, folks! Those players are in rare form. Look at 'em go! It's going to be a touchdown for sure...it is a touchdown!"

Those of us who are football fans in the warmth of our living room or wrapped in blankets in the frosty stands, love to see the action and excitement. What we don't see is the inspiration behind the perspiration, so to speak...the coach. The coach is possibly the unsung hero, faithfully dispensing encouragement and advice. While marching bands provide entertainment on the field, drama continues in the locker room.

God seldom chooses the spotlight. Instead, as life goes on, God makes Himself available to each of us if we choose to heed His advice.

Commune with Him each Sabbath...then spread the Spirit. Score a touchdown in your life...and in the lives of others!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

RESOLVING CONFLICT
November 12, 1995

Background Scripture:
Acts 15:1-35
Devotional Reading:
Romans 3:21-31

Sooner or later in religion it comes down to this–or something similar: "But some men came down from Judea and were teaching the brethren, 'Unless you are circumcised according to the custom of Moses, you cannot be saved'" (Acts 15:1).

I don't mean that "sooner or later" circumcision becomes an issue, but that inevitable our bright spiritual horizons become clouded with human conflict over religious belief and practice. The problem is not with the various beliefs and practices that are meaningful to us, but our conviction that others must adopt these to be full-fledged followers of Jesus Christ.

I can respect the Christian commitment of both those who practice infant baptism and those who practice infant dedication. Or of those who prefer to take Communion in the pews instead of at the rail, of "trespassers" as well as "debtors," of those who observe only two sacraments as well as those who observe seven. I have little patience with those who, instead of living by the gospel as they perceive it, spend their efforts trying to get others to do so.

WHAT IS NECESSARY?

Ideally, Christians ought to have fewer conflicts than others, but I don't think it works out that way. Actually, the key is in the way we resolve them. Very often, if we resolve them constructively, we may grow in the process. This is what happened in the early church. When some insisted on circumcision and the laws of Moses as essential for all Christians, church leaders met the challenge in a straight-forward manner.

The deliberations were based not so much upon ideology, as upon testimony to what God had been doing in their midst. Peter reminded them that God had bestowed the Holy Spirit upon uncircumcised Gentiles as well as circumcised Jewish Christians. This experience had been in direct contradiction to what he believed. Paul and Barnabas testified to the "signs and wonders God had done through them among the Gentiles" (15:12). The appeal was to the church's experience, not its belief systems.

Peter also reminds them that none of them will be saved by circumcision or following the laws of Moses. "But we believe that we will be saved through the grace of the Lord jesus Christ, just as they will" (15:11). All of us, even those of us with the "right beliefs and practices" are solely dependent upon the grace of God.

ONLY GRACE!

So the leaders of the church resolved the conflict in a positive manner and, instead of thundering threats to the gentile Christians, in their letter to them spoke persuasively rather than commandingly. Three times, they say, "it seemed good to us..." (15:22, 25, 28), rather than setting forth dogmatic pronouncements.

We live today in a world where most conflicts are settled either by force or litigation, often unsatisfactorily in the long run. Unfortunately, instead of showing the world how conflicts can be resolved peacefully and constructively, the churches have often provided some of the most glaring examples of how not to solve conflict.

But the Jerusalem Conference gives us a good example, reminding us that we are saved, not by our clever ideologies and rituals, but by the same grace of God that is available to all. As Alan Paton writes, "The tragedy is not that things are broken. The tragedy is that they are not mended again."

COVER STORY

Hayley-Alison wedding stirs up Melrose ruckus

BY JOHN CROOK

A May-December marriage is setting off some major repercussions these days on Melrose Place, Fox's hit Monday night soap opera.

"Now Alison is Brooke's stepmother," laughs veteran actor Perry King, who plays Brooke's father, tycoon Hayley Armstrong.

Last week's wedding of Hayley and the much-put-upon Alison Parker (Courtney Thorne-Smith) has newlyweds Billy (Andrew Shue) and Brooke Armstrong Campbell (Kristin Davis) seeing red, and with good reason. Brooke broke up Alison's romance with Billy, then blackmailed Amanda Woodward (Heather Locklear) into making her Alison's boss.

"And it goes from there," says King, who has parlayed what amounted to a cameo role into a front-burner story line. "(Hayley and Alison are) off on their honeymoon. And it's very real. They're not doing it just to goad Brooke and Billy, although Brooke and Billy both see it that way. They're furious."

King credits his savvy manager, Neil Konigsberg, for alerting the actor to a role that didn't sound like much in the beginning.

"He saw, in his imagination, the idea of me on Melrose Place making it more of a part," King explains. "I think in a show like this, one of the things that gives the actors a lot of pleasure is that the writers write off what they see.

"If you can take something written on paper and really run with it and make it fly, they'll then take that and build off it and give you more to fly with. Marcia Cross (who plays Kimberly) is a good example of this. She's a very good actress who took what they first gave her and really ran with it. Now she's got to be one of the most interesting characters on the show."

Perry King

As Konigsberg predicted, Hayley Armstrong began to change from the enigmatic father figure he was in his early scenes.

"He started to evolve into a character who stood by himself, which was a man who has a much shakier financial standing than he implies by the way he lives, and a man who is on a personal edge, a bit desperate perhaps," King says pensively. "From there I think he evolved even further into someone that we see is really very lonely and kind of lost on his own. It's been very interesting watching this guy evolve, trying to feed the evolution."

He doesn't know exactly how long his Melrose gig will last, but King is having a ball on the soap where, along with the other cast members, he has to avoid slipping from melodrama into overt campiness.

"Everyone working on the show sees that side very much and tries to tread that line," King says. "It's not tempting to not go far enough – it's tempting to go too far. Particularly the people who have been around for a long time have to remind themselves that they owe it to the audience not to go too far. It's a balancing act. Someone will say, 'But in REAL life...,' and someone else will say, 'Yeah, but this is Melrose Place, it's not real life.' "

SOAP TALK

Signy Coleman bids farewell to Y&R

BY CANDACE HAVENS

She's in, she's out, she's in, she's out. No, this is not a conversation between a warring referee and coach. It is the life poor Signy Coleman has been living for the past few months.

After her last contract had expired, Coleman, who played Hope on The Young and the Restless, signed on for a new nine-month contract.

The writers were not sure what to do with her character, and Coleman had no idea what was going to happen. In the end the writers sent the character back to her farm in Kansas, where it looks as if Hope will stay.

Coleman has been auditioning for other shows, and it looks like she could be headed back East. But she is more than happy to have extra time to spend with her 5-year-old daughter, Siena.

Dear Candace: I have watched Days of Our Lives for many years. But everyone in the county where I live is tired of Sami (Alison Sweeney) and her manipulations to keep Austin (Austin Peck). Let the real father of her baby take over.

Also we are glad to see that Billie is out of the picture and now Bo and Hope can be together. –Mildred Manley, Canon, Ga.

Dear Reader: If we didn't have people like Sami to hate so much, we probably wouldn't watch. For such a young actress, Sweeney is doing a great job as the grand manipulator. Besides, Austin and Carrie were getting sickly sweet and it was time to shake things up a bit.

Signy Coleman

Dear Candace: I believe that John Valente, executive producer for As the World Turns, should have thought twice about making so many cast changes.

ATWT is my favorite soap opera, and I was terribly disappointed to see so many of my favorite characters leave. I wish he would reconsider his decisions. –Ruth Garrison, Dewey, Okla.

Dear Reader: Don't look for Valente to change his mind any time soon. It isn't pretty when new producers come in and change things.

Many times, and this is the case with ATWT, the show loses its continuity. There are too many new people coming in at once, and too many favorites leaving at the same time. It sometimes is difficult for fans to keep up.

PBS offers movie about two boys' NBA dreams

BY AMY HIBBERT

William Gates and Arthur Agee shared a dream: to play professional basketball. The story of their struggle to achieve their common goal is the focus of the award-winning documentary Hoop Dreams, which makes its TV premiere Wednesday, Nov. 15, on PBS (check local listings).

Hoop Dreams invites the audience to follow the two talented boys throughout their high-school years as they struggle for the athletic perfection that will reward them with scholarships, a chance to play college ball, and ultimately, a shot at playing in the NBA.

Over the course of five years, filmmakers Steve James, Frederick Marx and Peter Gilbert managed to capture about 250 hours of their lives on film. The result is a poignant look at the obstacles encountered and the problems endured, including a serious knee injury and a family breakup.

The emotional drama made its debut at the 1994 Sundance Film Festival and won the Audience Award for best documentary, the first of many accolades.

A Hoop Dreams Reunion, which follows the broadcast, takes a look at where Agee and Gates are now. The special features never-before-seen clips of the NBA hopefuls and interviews with the filmmakers.

Today, Agee and Gates travel around to schools where they share their experiences with a new generation of dreamers.

"People tell me, 'Man, I love that movie ... I love you. You are an inspiration to me,' " Agee says in a press release. "But the movie doesn't just represent mine and William's lives – it represents other people's lives and other families, too."

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Please settle an argument. A friend says David Duchovny of The X-Files is married to Yasmine Bleeth of Baywatch. I say, "No way!" –A reader in Marion, N.C.

A: As well you should. Duchovny is not married, but has been romantically involved with actress Perrey Reeves for the past two years or so.

Q: My wife and I are enjoying Night Stand, the satire of tabloid TV talk shows. How is this show doing, and can you give me some background on host Dick Dietrick? –Stephen V. Gilmore, Charlotte, N.C.

A: Dick Dietrick is actually character actor Timothy Stack, who is best known to date as the father on Parker Lewis Can't Lose. It's too early to evaluate ratings for this syndicated show, but it has gotten fair to good reviews.

Q: Has CBS really canceled Due South? Why? –M.Y., Salem, Ohio.

A: I never could get CBS to confirm this cancellation, so I took your question straight to David Marciano, who plays Detective Ray Vecchio on the series (which continues to air in Canada). He told me he believes that, because of sluggish ratings last year, the show is dead as a CBS series. He added that he plans to talk to CBS honcho Les Moonves about the possibility of doing two or three Due South TV movies for CBS each season.

Q: Imagine my shock to see a young Michael J. Fox in On Golden Pond under the name Doug McKeon! When did he change his name? –Harold V. Blackman, Montrose, Colo.

A: He/they didn't. Despite a striking resemblance, especially when they were younger, Fox and McKeon are two completely different actors.

David Duchovny

Q: I've been looking for the Shirley MacLaine movie What a Way to Go on video. Is it available? –Casey Kelly, Beaumont, Texas.

A: No, according to Leonard Maltin's 1996 Movie & Video Guide. Any video hunter should part with $8 or so for this paperback, which will tell you whether a movie is available on video, as well as giving you the name and address of mail-order companies.

VIDEO ALERT: Into the Woods, the most often-requested videotape in this column, finally has been released on VHS for mail order only.
